A bid was presented from Easterday-Construction Company for the roofing of the Town Hall. The Board voted to accept the bid.

A weed complaint from a resident on Hawkins Court was registered. The property in question is railroad property and the Board said they would contact the railroad company to see if this problem could be corrected.

Fire Chief David Burns was present to request replacement of some uniform equipment for several firemen. The Board acknowledged his request, stating that they would have to check to see if funds were available.

Culver Eagles Donate $784.62 To M-S Center

A check for $784.52 was handed to Hayden Patz, president of the Marshall - Starke Development Center, Inc. Aug. 11, by Jesse Overmyer, president of the Eagles Lodge No. 3221 of Culver.

The money represented a "lot of hard work" by the member and their wives, Overmyer said, and is the fourth consecutive year the Lodge has made a substantial donation to the Center.

The M-S board members were guests of the Lodge on Rt. 17 for a combined potluck supper and meeting.

The board voted to make a joint agreement with Pulaski county for a work activity program for mentally retarded adults and day classes for children.

Classrooms for Pulaski will be in the First Christian Church at Winamac; and work centers for the three counties will be both at the M-S Center on Old Route 30 west of Plymouth and at the Pulaski County Rehabilitation Center at Winamac.

A joint steering committee, will be responsible for this co-operative program. Patz appointed Mrs. Dorothy Bollini and Lowell Barker, both of North Judson, and Mrs. Don Shuppert of Plymouth to this steering committee representing M-S. ## Local School Teachers Wind Up Economics Study Culver Community Schools teacher, Latham L. Lawson, right, is shown at DePauw University after receiving a special concentrated dose of economics education. The six-week program for high school teachers studied several economics problems and their ramifications. The course work, under the direction of DePauw's senior economics faculty, included a number of field trips, a project thesis, a lesson presentation for educational television, and several seminars and lectures. The aim of the program was to help the teachers bring up high school students' understanding of economic and its critical role of the economic system in society. The 30 teachers in the institute were chosen competitively on the basis of talent, enthusiasm, and the potential to teach with competence. Pictured left to right are DePauw University economist Dr. David Maloney and Lawson.

NAME OMITTED

Last week's Citizen carried a story concerning this summer's Little League baseball program. A coach's name was inadvertently omitted and since credit should be given all those who gave up their time, we wish to add James Kalinke's name to the list of coaches. Kalinke helped coach the McGill M'g team, along with Roy Shepard and Larry Starkweather.

School Board Contemplates New Offices

The School Administrative office of the Culver Community Schools Corporation may in the near future occupy new quarters, according to plans now being developed and approved by the Board of School Trustees.

Plans are being activated to move administration offices from their present location at 110 South Main Street to the former Culver Clinic, 242 North Ohio Street.

The land site, owned by Mrs. Esther (Power) Wampler, will be purchased, using funds which have been saved from approved equipment appropriations. The original appropriation was approved by the State Tax Commission for equipment in July, 1968. The transaction will not involve tax levy or appropriation.

The present offices providing approximately 750 square feet, rented from Frank Amond, have served the school administration since the early days of the re-organized district in 1963. The new office center will provide more than 2500 square feet on one floor.

The added room will permit centralizing school administrative functions and school records.

W. E. Smith Gives Prized Horseshoe Set To Park

Talk about the power of the press! The Town Park now possesses a set of horseshoes via a plea for such an item in the Citizen a couple weeks ago.

W. E. Smith, a West Shore resident who is 94 years young, donated a set to the park when he heard they were in need of equipment for this old time popular sport.

The horseshoes are over 50 years old and are in the original box with the original set of instructions. Mr. Smith stated that he always took good care of them by wiping the horseshoes off after each use and storing them in the box.

Mr. Smith has pitched horseshoes all his life with good and bad scores but always with enjoyment. He hopes that those who will use the horseshoes will get as much pleasure as he has from this sport.

ObeY The Traffic Laws

THE 1969 BASEBALL SEASON is drawing to the home stretch and two fine races remain to be settled. We are not conceding the other two only a miracle would have to happen to keep the Baltimore Orioles out of the playoffs and a collapse of the Cubs would be all that could give either the Cardinals or Mets a chance to catch the Northsiders of Chicago.

THE WESTERN DIVISION of the National League is the red hot race. Five teams still have a good shot at this race. Los Angeles is depending on pitching and with the recent retirement of Don Drysdale, the Dodgers have managed to pick up an old timer with a lot of savvy and a heck of a strong arm in Jim Bunning. But the bulk of their chances ride on the arm of Singer, Sutton and Osteen Bunning will have to have more success than he had in the last two seasons to replace Drysdale. Bunning has a good fast ball and fine curve plus a good head, but has a tendency to give up a lot of home runs and the Dodgers strong fort is winning the lower scoring games.

CINCINNATI HAS A LOT of power, but their pitching has been very spotty. They have the hurlers that will give you a low run game one time out and get bombed the next. However, the way the Reds can score run, they are seldom out of a game until late in the contest. Houston has really been kicking up their heels lately, moving as high as a second place tie before suffering a few hard to take losses to Eastern Division teams. The Astros, under Harry Walker, have really started to collect base hits and in their previous years were another club that depended more on pitching. They won't knock the fence down, but are collecting a lot of hits and in the Astrodome, are a very hard club to beat.

ATLANTA HAS THE ABILITY to hit and receive good pitching also, but the Braves play in streaks. A good hot streak with Hank Aaron paving the way, could really make their chances look better. Aaron is having another fine year as he is just some kind of a hitter. San Francisco still needs more mound help. They have in Juan Marchial, one of the finest hurlers in the game and maybe the one you would pick for that one big game. However, it takes more than one hurler to put a team in first place.

THE EASTERN DIVISION just might yet end in a good race. So far, the Cub just haven't cracked and their ability to pull games out late in the contest makes them sort of the type ball club Detroit won with last year. Giving up is not the Cub's way of playing ball and with Ferguson Jenkins, Bill Hands and Ken Holtzman to pace the hurling, they don't appear to be the type that would fold for any length of time. The Cubs have something else in their favor, that being the schedule. They played a lot of games early and at one time had as many as seven to ten games more than most of the other teams. Now, double headers are a rare thing and their pitching staff should not be overworked in the stretch. They have often gotten along with just the three starters and a day off here and there.

THE METS, ALTHOUGH A good improved second place ball club for the first two thirds of the season, don't appear to have enough to catch the Cubs. Their play this year has been a very good thing for baseball, but they don't appear to be capable of overtaking the Chicago team. St. Louis might, but that is a big might at this point. They have been the hot team recently, but will have to continue very well and get the bulk of the job done in the remaining games they have with the Cubs. They meet six more times and even if the Cards could take four of the six they have only gained two games. They need more of a gain in the head-to-head competition than that.

BALTIMORE JUST CONTINUES to roll along. Their pitching, hitting and defense is all clicking at the same time and the 15 or 6 game lead is almost a sure thing. Detroit can't put enough of a winning streak together even if the Orioles should fold a little. This makes their entry into the playoff of the two divisions a sure thing. In the Western half however, it is something else. Minnesota and Oakland have a team race going and this could be a dandy right down to the wire. On paper Minnesota seems to have the edge, but games are won on the field and not on paper. Oakland has a team that can hit and score runs, plus they have some real good young pitchers who can prove mighty tough to beat.

BASEBALL, IN THEIR first year of division ball, is enjoying another fine attendance year with several clubs pushing their all-time attendance marks. Of course their are four more teams to help draw the crowds, but the increases of over 2 million at this time is caused by more than the four new team. Some clubs naturally are not drawing as well depending on how they are doing in the respective pennant races. The most miserable showing will be the White Sox as this club continues to drop and drop in attendance. They are very possibly going to lose around $1 million in their efforts this year as attendance continues to lag and lag. Much of this will be made up by their TV contract, but the actual paying customers, concession sales, advertising from radio and other factors will find them considerably short of their last year's revenue.

BASEBALL IS STILL A very popular game. There is much talk that professional football is the sport and certainly the attendance records and television appeal cannot be disputed, but put 162 games on their schedules and see what they would draw. The two cannot be compared, but still to fill a stadium all the time, a team in either sport needs a winner. This is true in any sport, even hockey, who boasts percentage wise the best record of attendance in the top leagues.

Police officer: "Why did you break into the same store three nights in a row?"

Thief: "I stole a dress for my wife and had to exchange it twice."

RED CROSS EMERGENCY TRAINING

Inflation hasn't left its mark on everything. You can still get a 10-hour first aid course — complete with textbook and teacher — for just 75c and a couple practice bandages. And you don't have to wait for Christmas. Just call your county Red Cross Chapter.

Here's what you get for that 75c tuition charge: Five 2 hour sessions, each consisting of lecture, discussion period, followed by aety skills and mock accidents. Each lesson teaches the student to analyze how the accident happened, how it could have been prevented, and how to treat the injured.

Briefly, here is what the lessons cover:

Lesson I: What to do at the accident scene, recognition of common types of wounds, how to prevent infection, control bleeding, and how to dress wounds.

Lesson II: Recognition and treatment of shock, what happens when breathing fails, effects of electrocution, gas poisoning, and drowning, methods of artificial respiration.

Lesson III: Prevention and treatment of poisoning, treatment of fractures, head injuries, sprains, strains and dislocation.

Lesson IV: Fire hazards, prevention and treatment of thermal burns, chemical burns, and sunburn, plus effects and treatment of heat exhaustion, heat stroke, heat cramps, frostbite and prolonged exposure to cold

Lesson V: Transportation of the injured, plus a few involved mock accidents.

Once you've graduated, you may want to start more training in these life saving techniques: The Red Cross Advanced First Aid Course I, much more interesting.

Red Cross has still another bargain: It will, train, free of charge, any number who would like to become qualified first aid instructors.

As the ship was sinking and the lifeboats were being lowered, the captain shouted: "Women and children and those on the 'go now, pay later plan,' first."

Breezy Menu To Beat The Heat

During the heat of the summer, most homemakers keep two things uppermost in their minds when planning meals: to beat the heat and to hold that line—the waist-line!

Cool as a breeze flowing direct from a blizzard is a luncheon plate of chilled madrilene accompanied by fruit salad on a skewer. Pretty as a picture, too, when made with summer's bountiful variety of fruits.

Choose fruit such as peach, watermelon and cantaloupe pieces, banana and whole strawberries. Let them marinate in a combination of lemon juice and Fresca—that frosty, bold citrus flavored beverage—so refreshing at any time but especially on hot days.

The quick jellied madrilene can be made the day in advance and when served, add a dollop of sour cream. Offer a selection of crackers and for a beverage, an icy glass of Fresca.

It's such a satisfying meal, that one finds it hard to believe the calories are so negligible—well within 225 of them. Even a little low-cal sherbet may be added, if desired.

QUICK JELLIED MADRILENE

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1 beef bouillon cube
- 1 chicken bouillon cube
- 1 cup hot water
- 1 (8-oz.) can tomato sauce
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/4 cup sour cream
- 1/4 cup chopped cooked green beans or parsley

Soften gelatin in cold water. Dissolve beef and chicken bouillon cubes in hot water; add to softened gelatin, and stir until dissolved. Stir in tomato sauce and lemon juice. Pour into shallow pan; chill until firm.

To serve, cut into cubes, or spoon into soup cup. Combine sour cream and beans or parsley. Spoon on top of each serving. 4 servings.

FRUIT CABOBS

- 2 whole fresh peaches
- 1 large banana
- 4 large watermelon balls
- 4 large cantaloupe balls
- 4 large strawberries
- 1/2 cup Fresca
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

Peel and halve peach, cut banana into four pieces crosswise. Combine lemon juice and Fresca; add peaches, bananas and melon balls, marinate 30 min. To serve, skewer a peach half, piece of banana, melon balls and strawberry. 4 servings.

Fruits may be served with any desired low calorie dressing or an additional amount of fresh lemon juice.

Junior Fleet Of MYC Sails On O. W. Fowler

By Joe C. Schaub

Frank E and Beverly Suverkrup's home was the scene for the annual Junior Fleet weiner roast, last Friday evening.

In addition to Rupert Esser's Sailfish and Skylark skippers as well as their crews and guests, major D. Trone provided 18 sailors from the Woodcraft Camp. There wre hot dogs oven an open fire and swimming was supervised by Major Trone.

A cruise on the O. W. Fowler, was provided by E. Allen Becker and Gerald R. Thomas, instructor of sailing at C.M.A. Everyone enjoyed this special treat and Ruth Esser commented, "I've been on this lake for 31 years and this is my first trip on the Fowler. It's great." Others echoed the same sentiment. The young sailors occupied themselves by scamping up the three masts. Phillip Schmoll was the first to reach the top and then asked his mother if he could dive in.

It was a wonderful picnic at Suverkrup's, followed by an exciting cruise.

THE GREAT RIVER RACE

It is hard to believe that the gentle 10-foot stream flowing from northern Minnesota is the same river as the swift current that sometimes becomes 8 miles wide and 60 feet deep before it pours into the Gulf. But they are both the mighty Mississippi.

Its majestic waters are fed by more than 250 rivers and its history, by even more powerful currents: the great cities on its banks, a language and a music all its own, the tales of Mark Twain, and the men who plied its fast waters in mighty boats.

One of the river's most legendary stories, according to the famous marine archives of The Atlantic Mutual Insurance Company, is the fabled race of the "Natchez" and the "Rob't E. Lee."

Two of the old river's most fabulous characters were Captain Thomas P. Leathers, whose "Natchez" steamboats had been for years the glory of New Orleans, and Captain John Cannon who built the gaudy and speedy "Rob't E. Lee."

The two proud competitors tried for weeks to out-dazzle each other. Finally, they agreed to a race up the river to St. Louis. The news quickly flashed out to the world and excited bets were placed as far away as London and Paris.

On the evening of June 30,

1870, the "Natchez" and the "Rob't E. Lee" pulled out. Foam soon flew from the bows. Passengers and crews yelled themselves hoarse. Multitudes waved and shouted from the levee.

The "Natchez" and the "Lee" coursed the Mississippi through fog, whirlpools and treacherous waters. Steam plumed from their escape pipes and black smoke billowed behind them as the two boats strained forward until their every timber shook.

As reported in Atlantic's Marine Library, the "Lee" was ahead from the start, but the "Natchez" hung on. They passed Memphis 63 minutes apart. At Cairo, the "Lee" was leading by 70 minutes, but then the "Natchez" ran into fog — and engine trouble.

On the morning of July 4 the "Rob't E. Lee" steamed into St. Louis, only 3 days, 18 hours and 14 minutes out of New Orleans, a record that has to this day never been equaled. Six and a half hours later the "Natchez" churned in, a puffing but glorious loser.

Today, the Mississippi is still a great artery of commerce, and if you travel it at night, they say you can still hear the thrashing paddles of the "Natchez" and the "Lee."

Flights Of Fancy

It seems to us time to give careful thought to our country's future activities in outer space. Without at all meaning to dismiss the importance of the landing on the moon, we question the cost of subsequent missions in the space program, particularly manned flights. Are we going to get our money's worth out of such projects?

On the basis of currently known facts, there is little to suggest the merit of landing on Mars. And yet there is a large and vocal faction which is for stepped-up activity there and elsewhere in the far reaches of space.

It has never been made adequately clear just how much money the space program costs the nation. This may be by design, or just coincidence, but the coincidence, but the larger number of citizens are completely uninstructed on the enormous outlays of money required to carry on NASA.

This is probably not the most seemly time to raise the point, what with the excitement and pride in our Astronauts and their accomplishments. But sooner or later, surely we must ask ourselves how much it's worth to us to buy an infusion of lifted morale.

There is no question but that the moon landing helped pull Americans out of what appeared to have been a genuinely low emotional state. Our tragedies at home and abroad, relentlessly gathering in intensity, contributed to a malaise which dropped our self-esteem to a point of real concern.

Well, that's over now. We, as Americans, have a right to feel proud again and to bask in the glory by the Astronauts. But it's also appropriate to get the full facts on the fiscal side of NASA operations.

It is our opinion that the Federal Government owes the citizenry a reasoned presentation of the realities — and by "realities", we mean justification of the several billion dollars that are being drained off in support of NASA projects, with little or no effort to explain their net value to the nation.

We suggest that a letter from you to your Congressman, seeking these facts, is one means by which you can get a clearer picture of what is happening to a lot of your tax money.

CULVER COLUMN

By Mrs. C. C.

This first segment will be an answer to "Culver Merchant's" letter that appeared last week. The rest of you readers can skip it if you want.

Let me assure you, Mr. Merchant, that I do not intend to encourage any "morons". Isn't it quite possible that you attach this label to anyone not agreeing with your way of thinking?

Culver has the same population it did 30 years ago. (Actually we have gained 2 or 3.) It seems to me that by ranting and raging at our young people it is you and people like you who encourage the younger set to leave.

Maybe you didn't have a horn to toot or tires to squeal in your day. What did you do for kicks? Push over outhouse? Well — 23 skidoo, kiddo!

Then you went on to accuse me of needing the Lake Patrol without a thread of evidence! I can promise you that I have never been arrested in my entire life. I did get a stiff warning once because I sneezed in the middle of Main Street (something about air pollution).

My closest squeak with the law came when I overheard two of our boys in blue assure their leader "We'll get that guy before the night's over." I laughed so hard that they couldn't hear the message over the police radio, which turned out to be an order for a hamburger deluxe with a side of fries. I got off with another stern warning.

Culver has more police per capita than any other community its size — so why do we need outside "help"?

Sew I needle them — a stitch in time...

Congratulations are in order to the Culver Little League team that was sponsored by McGills Mfg. Co. In spite of the fact that only 6 members of the team showed up, the building ball players were victorious in their last game of the season. Wish I had been there to see that all-out effort.

HOT DOG — I suppose most of you have read that hot dogs were included in the Apollo 11 menu. The Secretary of the Sausage Council has declared that from now on July be designated as "Interstellar Hot Dog" month. If this idea should catch on we might be in for this sort of thing in the future. Smedley P. Garlick of the Salsami Stuffers Union announced at his weekly press conference that a two-foot long salami will be on board the first manned flight to Mars. Mission Control is now awaiting offers from Listerine, Air-Wick and Pepto Bismal.

Have you all noticed the knee high corn growing on the roof of Nellie Wynn's front porch? Howcum, Nellie? Did you put your back yard in the soil bank program? At any rate we'll all be waiting to see how you intend to harvest your crop.

It has come to my attention that Ruth Mackey is getting the "blame" for writing this column. It is only natural that people speculate on something like this but in this instance you have guessed incorrectly.

Mrs. Mackey asked me to try my hand at a column since a large number of you said you wanted in the Citizen.

For awhile I prefer to remain unknown but you will be informed in due time.

Please continue to give her your thoughts and wishes concerning this column but don't blame her for writing it.

"I would like to marry your daughter", said the young clerk to the bank president. "You do have one, don't you?"

FIRST STATE FAIR HAM SHOW SCHEDULED

Commercial packers and producers will have the opportunity to compare their wares in the new ham show scheduled for the first time this year at the Indiana State Fair Aug 22 through Labor Day, Sept. 1.

The exhibit is reported to be the first show of its type at any state fair in a major hog-producing state.

Classes break down as follows: Commercial-style hams, mildly cured, with or without tenderization. These will be mostly pumped hams which may or may not require refrigeration. ("Water added" and "imitation" hams are not eligible.)

Country-style ham, fully cured and aged at least 30 days.

Pork producers' hams from live weighing from 190 to 240 pounds delivered for slaughter to Producers' Marketing Association at the Indianapolis Stockyards

The animals will be collected at 9 a.m. July 18 for slaughter that day. Hams will be cured and smoked by the cooperation plant.

One ham from each animal will be placed in competition.

The animals will be purchased at the time of entry by Red's Market which will buy the carcass less the ham to be delivered to the fair.

The top five hams in each class will be put on display in the glass-walked coolers in the Agriculture-Horticulture Building throughout the fair, Aug 22 through Sept. 1.

Donald W. Brown of Battle

Ground, board member in charge of the Swine Department, said the new show has these objectives:

To help the general consuming public appreciate the fine quality of lean pork now being produced by Indiana farmers and packers.

To help hog producers understand the quality of meat wanted by packers and consumers.

To allow meat processors to gauge their own progress in creating quality products.

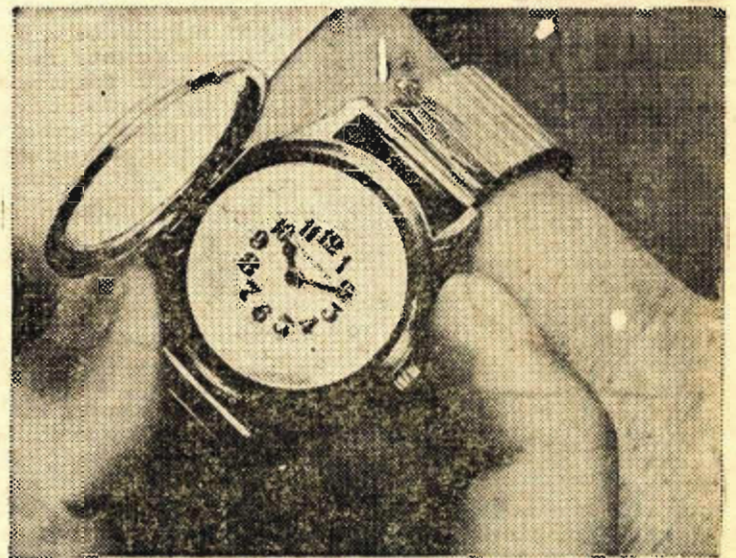

Dr. Richard C. Waldman of Park Forest, Ill. will judge the hams. Judging should be completed by Thursday evening, Aug. 21.

The ham show committee is comprised of Dr. John C. Forrest, chairman, and Dr. Max D. Judge, Dr. E. D. Aberle and Haven B. Hendricks, all of Purdue University, and John Halstead of the Indiana Pork Producers' Association.

Couple United In Garden Ceremony

United in marriage during an afternoon ceremony in the garden of the bride's parents were Miss Sherrill Louise Edgington and Thomas Minoru Fujimura. Rev. Joseph Lenk, pastor of the St. Mary's of the Lake Catholic Church officiated and Rev. E. Sharp, pastor of the Culver Wesley United Methodist Church offered prayers, blessings and benediction.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Edgington, South Shore Drive, Culver and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jitsuo Fujimura of Haleiwa, Hawaii.

Traditional wedding music and music from the islands was played by Mrs. Judson Dillion on the organ. She accompanied James Brock, vocalist, in both traditional and Hawaiian wedding songs.

Evergreens topped with spears of variegated gladioli and sprinkled with tiny yellow and magenta plumeria formed the screen behind the altar. Vases of white Anthurium were on the altar while red Anthurium, red ginger and birds of paradise were on the organ.

The bride was attired in a full-length white, Oriental, brocade gown accented neckline and long fitted sleeves accented by matching buttons. Her chapel-length veil of illusion was edged with a band of satin and was held by a white satin bow which also caught the deep face-veil. The lei which she wore, and which she placed around the groom's neck, was of pikake blossoms; she carried an arrangement of white Anthurium centered by yellow and white orchids.

Bridemaids Mrs. James Brock of Seymour, Mrs. Dwight Newman of Culver and Miss Sue Dinkel of Terre Haute, passed through an archway of tropical blossoms and gladioli. Their full-length sleeveless white gowns of silk linen featured high, beaded collars and an accent of tiny buttons down the center front. Their small headpieces were of white lace and flowerlets tipping short streamers. They carried fan arrangements of red Anthurium and wore leis of Vanda orchids.

The groom and all the men in the wedding party were attired in white shirts and trousers accented by wide, red satin sashes and wore ropes of maile vine around their necks.

Best man was Carl Takamura of Honolulu, Hawaii. Groomsmen and ushers were Morris Morihiro of Maui, Wailuku, Hawaii, and Phil Edgington, Culver, brother of the bride. The ring bearer was the groom's nephew, Guy Komori from Wahiawa, Oahu, Hawaii.

The couple greeted approximately 150 guests on the lake-side lawn of the Edgington home. Mrs. Charles Edgington, sister-in-law of the bride, was in charge of the guest book. Serving were Mrs. Victor Fields of Bedford, Mrs. Rodney Edgington, Culver, Mrs. David Gjesvold, Greencastle and Mrs. James Myers, Detroit. Helping with gifts was Miss Anne Boyer of Terre Haute. In charge of rice bags were Mrs. Larry Linsley, Martinsville, and Miss Janice Neidlinger, Culver.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Fujimura will be home in Hollywood, Fla., where they will teach this year. Both are graduates of Indiana State University, Terre Haute.

The bride is a graduate of Culver High School and I.S.U. with a major in elementary education. She will teach at the Driftwood Elementary school, Hollywood, Fla.

The groom graduated from Wailua High School and received his bachelor of education at the University of Hawaii, and his M.S. at I.S.U. in 1967. He served with the Army in Heidelberg, Germany. He will teach business education at So. Broward High School, Hollywood, Fla.

Guests from Ohio, Illinois, Florida, Maryland, Iowa and Hawaii were present for the wedding.

The flowers for the wedding were brought from Hawaii.

KNOW YOUR INDIANA LAW

By John J. Dillon
Attorney at Law

(This is a public service article explaining in general terms a provision of Indiana law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their private legal affairs should consult a private attorney.)

DEBT POOLING

You have undoubtedly had your television set on late at night and have appear before you a very convincing person with a very strupy voice who assures you that he can relieve you of all your financial worries being pressed upon you by your creditors. He will then be followed by several persons who will give testimonials that they took their credit problems to his company and immediately all of their financial problems were solved.

What you have heard is an advertisement from a debt pooling or debt pro-rating company. That is, this is a company that is not formed to loan money but to work out a program whereby the debtor pays on a specific time schedule a certain amount of money to each of his creditors. For this service the debt pooling company charges a percentage of the money it handles as a fee. This fee may range from ten to twenty-five per cent of the money handled by the debt pooler. Some debt poolers require that their fee be paid first before any of the money paid in by the debtor is applied to the accounts of the creditors.

Many persons feel that an honestly operated debt pooling company can perform a genuine service for persons who are simply unable to manage their own business affairs. However, in many areas the debt poolers have not aided the debtor but simply compounded his troubles by using large amounts of the money paid in as fees for the debt pooler rather than to satisfy creditors.

In Indiana, it should be pointed out that the debt pooler can only try to restructure the debtor's payments so that the creditors will be kept satisfied to the extent that they will not enforce their legal remedies, such as garnishment proceedings. It should be pointed out, however, that the creditor is not required to delay or stop garnishment proceedings even if a person goes to a debt pooler and tries to make new arrangements to pay his debt. If the creditor wants to proceed with the garnishment proceedings he can still do so. Thus, the sole service of the debt pooler is to do a better job of managing the debtor's money. As a result of this, in many states, debt poolers are stringently regulated and in Indiana legislation has been presented to regulate debt poolers. Particularly, these laws require that debt poolers be bonded and make stringent provisions for the turning over of the money given to them to the creditors.

Since the essence of the debt pooling business is that the debtor turn over each pay day some portion of his pay to be applied to his debts, the debt pooler merely does what the debtor should be able to do for himself. For this reason the proponents of outlawing debt pooling will probably present their case most strongly to the next Legislature and debt pooling will either be outlawed or strictly regulated.

"CAN YOU PROVE HOW OLD YOU ARE?"

Sometimes we like to forget how old we are, and sometimes some of us pretend a little. But it may become suddenly important to establish our exact age. When an application for social security retirement benefits is made, the applicant must furnish proof that he has reached the proper age. When a wife tries to collect on her deceased husband's insurance policy, she may be required by company rules to prove his exact birth date. Many of our local schools require that a child's age be established before he may enroll in school for the first time.

Fortunately, any person born in the State of Indiana on or after October 1, 1907, should have the date and place of his birth recorded. Births are reported by the person attending the birth to the local health officer, who reports to the State Board of Health.

If your birth has been recorded with the State, you may obtain your birth certificate free from the State Board of Health, 1330 West Michigan Street, Indianapolis, Indiana. You can also obtain your birth certificate from your local health officer, who may charge a small sum, up to $1.00. Some local records in Indiana, which are incomplete, do include births as long ago as 1882, and you may be fortunate enough to be included among those who can obtain a birth certificate from your local health officer even though you were born of your birth in other ways.

One way is to apply through the local health officer of the county of your birth for a "delayed birth certificate." Evidence considered acceptable includes entering school records, employment or military records and marriage applications.

Another way is a simple proceeding in the circuit or superior court of your county. You will need two persons who own real property in the county where you live, or in the county where you were born, to testify that they know of your birth, or have reason to believe that you were born when and where you state that you were born. The judge hears the testimony, and enters a decree which is considered a delayed certificate of birth. The court costs will not exceed $3.00, and may be less.

GRAIN STORAGE STOCKS

State-federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University report these stocks of grain in storage in Indiana as of July 1:

Corn — Stocks totaled 123 million bushels, down 26 per cent from the July 1, 1968, total. Off-farm stocks of 40 million bushels were five per cent smaller than a year earlier.

Wheat — Old crop stocks were slightly more than two million bushels, down eight per cent from last year. Off-farm stocks amounted to 1.7 million bushels, up nine per cent from July 1, 1968.

Soybeans — Stocks totaled 20.5 million bushels, 60 per cent larger than a year earlier. Off-farm stocks at 13.7 million bushels were 54 per cent larger than on July 1, 1968.

Oats — Old crop stocks amounted to 4.4 million bushels, up 88 per cent from the July 1, 1968, total. Off-farm stocks of 1.4 million bushels were more than double those of a year earlier.

Barley — Old crop stocks totaled 49,000 bushels, up 22 per cent from last year. Off-farm stocks of 4,000 bushels were down 60 per cent from July 1, 1968.

Rye — Old crop stocks were 81,000 bushels, more than three times larger than stocks of a year ago. Off-farm stocks of 57,000 bushels were more than four times as large as those of July 1, 1968.

Grain sorghums — Stocks totaled 119,000 bushels, up 34 per cent from a year earlier. Off-farm stocks amounted to 46,000 bushels, compared with 17,000 bushels on July 1, 1968.

A bluff never holds out long unless it has good backing.

MONEY FACTS AND FANCIES

Did you know that a heavy purse makes a light heart? We are indebted to money for several everyday expressions such as "getting your money's worth," "the root of all evil," "filthy lucre," "money talks," "putting your money where your mouth is," and "putting your two cents in."

What is more, there are local sayings relating to money in different countries with differing monetary units. American counterparts of these terms include "penny pincher" and "dollars to doughnuts."

To coin an expression, banks have become "money-splendorous things," but few depositors realize how much banking has changed. In the ancient world, instead of receiving interest on your savings, you'd have had to pay a bank to keep your money safe for you.

Perhaps the earliest American "bankers" were goldsmiths and silversmiths. They would accept coins for safe-keeping, and lend them to qualified borrowers, and sometimes exchange one kind of currency for another. That was it—no other services were available.

In 1781, when a man named Robert Morris tried to organize the first modern bank in America, he tried to sell $400,000 worth of stock in the company. All he could raise was $70,000—17.5¢ for each dollar he needed—but he borrowed what he needed from France, and made such a name for himself that almost any banker you visit today will know his name.

He really started something. Today there are nearly 14,000 commercial banks in the U.S. They have deposits of $432 billion—over 40 times as much as all the gold in Fort Knox—and people owe them 264 billion (including, probably, whatever you still owe on the car). A large commercial bank processes well over a million different checks every day, yet banking may still be in its infancy because of a new trend in the industry—the formation of one-bank holding companies.

A one-bank holding company's main business is banking, but also owns other companies that provide financial services related to banking. For example, they may lease heavy equipment, sell insurance, provide family budgeting advice, tax assistance and charge services for family purchases.

The companies have been formed because antiquated laws have prevented banks from providing new services that their customers need. Not surprisingly, competitors who are not regulated by banking laws have opposed the entry of banks into areas they'd like to keep for themselves.

What one-bank holding companies provide is the kind of one-stop financial shopping that modern supermarkets offer housewives for their food and household needs. In other words, they are money supermarkets where customers can get car money, education money and house money as well as help with their budget, taxes and investment and insurance needs.

In the U.S., everyone "knows" that the government keeps "all the gold" at Fort Knox, but actually, while there is $10.8 billion in bullion at Fort Knox, more than $13 billion in gold is stored in New York City, where the Federal Reserve Bank stores it in a vault with walls of steel and concrete ten feet thick. (Free tours can be arranged by writing Dr. Dave Friedman, Federal Reserve Bank of New York, 33 Liberty Street, New York, N.Y. 10045. On the tour, you get a chance to see some of the gold.)

But the New York gold doesn't belong to us. America's is at Fort Knox. The New York gold belongs to 120 different foreign countries.

You can't find this kind of money growing on trees, but another kind of money once did! In 13th century China, when under the rule of Kublai Khan, the Chinese produced the world's first paper currency, printed on paper made from the bark of the mulberry tree.

In the South Pacific, island tribes have used the teeth of porpoises, whales and tigers as money. On the Isle of Yap, huge coin-shaped stones with a hole in the middle—far too heavy for one man to lift—serve as currency. ("I'm sunk," a Yapper might have to say if he tried moving his money by canoe.)

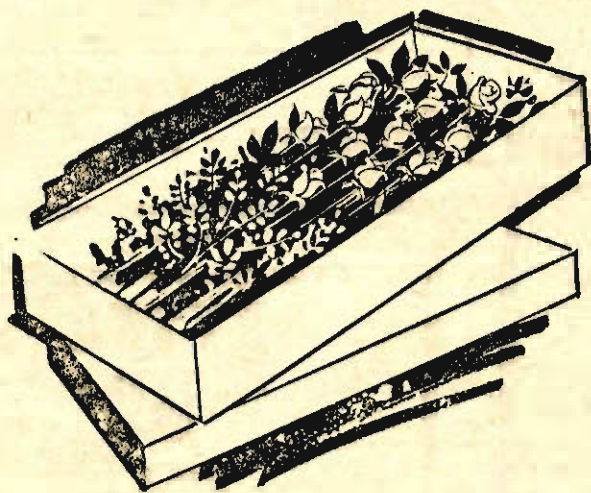

But few people know how an expression still used today began with an unusual form of payment in America's Wild West. Then, many a man would carry currency in the form of a bag of gold dust. He'd pay for things by allowing the seller to pick out one or more pinches of dust. And this is how we get the expression, "How much can you raise in a pinch?"

Crossroads Center To Open On September 15

The Children's Development program, sponsored by Crossroads Rehabilitation Center, Indianapolis, will open September 15, according to an announcement made today by Dr. Roy E.
Patton, Executive Director.

The program is designed for children with learning disabilities from Marshall county.
Children, three through twelve years old, will be accepted for the program, upon referral of their physician.

Mrs. Jimmy Sullivan, a special education teacher, has been named director of the program.

She will be assisted by two licensed teachers, speech therapist, occupational therapists, social workers, four teacher aids, and eighteen volunteers on a daily basis.

Upon admission to the program, each child will be evaluated by the Crossroads' professional staff and an individualized program will be established for him. Group activities and individual exercises will teach each child to maximize his strengths and minimize or overcome his difficulties. A home program will also be developed for each child.

Each child will be assigned to a teacher who will make certain that he receives the proper class activities. The child will have the opportunity for a one-to-one relationship with the staff, an opportunity for participation in groups of three to four, and in larger groups. If the children need additional therapy, the speech therapists, occupational therapists and physical therapists are available for this service. The staff psychologist, who is a specialist with learning disabilities in children, is available for consultation and evaluation.
Video tape equipment will be employed to demonstrate children's problems and evaluations to the parents. Crossroads is the largest comprehensive rehabilitation facility in the nation and offers every service needed for children with learning disabilities.

Parents wishing to enroll children in the program should contact the Crossroads' social service department, 3242 Sutherland, Avenue, Indianapolis, area code 317-924-3251.

FRESH MARKET VEGETABLE OUTLOOK

Production and acreage of fresh market vegetables as estimated Aug. 1 by state-federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University:

Cabbage — Production is forecast at 260,000 hundredweight, 18 per cent larger than last year. Yield at 260 hundred-weight per acre is 60 more than in 1968. Acreage is estimated at 1,000 acres, 100 fewer than last year.

Cantaloupes — A crop of 250, 000 hundredweight, a one per cent drop from 1968. The 2,000 acres for harvest are 200 fewer than last year, but yield of 125 hundredweight per acre is 10 hundredweight larger than in 1968.

Onions — Production of 270, 000 hundredweight is three per cent below 1968, with acreage — 900 acres — same as last year.
Yield of 300 hundred per acre is 10 hundredweight below that of 1968.

Tomatoes — A crop of 185,000 hundredweight is down nine per cent from last year. Acreage for harvest at 2,400 acres is the same as in 1968, but yield forecast of 77 hundredweight per acre is eight smaller than last year.

Watermelons — Production of 700,000 hundredweight, two per cent above the 1968 level. Acreage is 500 more than last year, but yield at 125 hundredweight per acre is 10 hundredweight smaller than in 1968.

Two veteran soldiers were bragging about their respective outfits. "When we presented arms," said one, "all you could hear was slap, slap, click."

"Pretty fair," replied the other.
"With us, it was slap, slap, click, jingle."

"Jingle? What was that?"

"Our medals."

The teacher asked her class how Noah spent his time on the Ark. Seeing no response, she added: "Do you suppose he did a lot of fishing?" "What?" replied a little boy, "with only two worms?"

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary to V.F.W. 6919 highlighted their meeting Monday night at the Past Home with a miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Wendell Ames, who was recently married. Mrs. Ames received many beautiful and useful gifts to complement her new home near Niles, Michigan.

Preceding the festivities, the members held their regularly stated meeting, with president, Mrs. George Lemar presiding. Following the opening ceremony, installation of Mrs. Jamie Tolly, Senior Vice President; Mrs. Kenneth Tosch, Flag Bearer; and Mrs. Roger Wise, Color Bearer; was performed by Past Auxiliary President Mrs. Clyde Hickman.

Properly Maintain Diverted Acres

Farmers participating in the feed grain and wheat programs of the U.S. Department of Agriculture were reminded today by Chairman Darwin Roahrig of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee that diverted acreage should be properly maintained throughout the remainder of the year.

Proper care and use of the land diverted is a requirement for earning diversion and price-support payments and for establishing eligibility for price-support loans, the ASC Chairman said.

Diverted acres must be land of average or better productivity that would normally be devoted to such crops this year if there were no programs, the Chairman pointed out. The diverted land must be kept in a good state of cultivation or weed control maintained. Noxious weeds should not be allowed to mature on diverted acreage. In addition, no crop may be harvested and the land may not be grazed between March 31, and September 1, 1969, the Chairman said.

The purpose of diverting acreage according to the ASC Committee Chairman, is to help prevent excess production of these crops. At the same time, the Department of Agriculture is concerned that use of diverted acreage not add to excess production of other crops and also that the land be properly conserved to prevent soil erosion and water situation, Mr. Roahrig explained.

Mr. Roahrig emphasized that failure to maintain diverted acreage can result in loss of all part of any payments otherwise earned.

MOST BRITISH DOCTORS

GENERAL PRACTITIONERS

WHILE THE GENERAL PRACTITIONER is diminishing in American medical practice, he still occupies a front-line role in Great Britain's health system, says the chief medical officer of the British Ministry of Health. About nine out of ten young American doctors enter specialized practice, he said, but, Great Britain's physicians are almost equally divided between general practice and the specialties, and if senior physicians only counted, the general practitioners outnumber the specialists two to one.

A WHIFF of oxygen in the furnaces of a Colombian steel mill is enabling it to make more products for that country's emerging metalworking industries. The company, the first in Colombia to use an oxygen injection system to make steel in an electric furnace, has increased production about 20 per cent by using the gas. The oxygen is transported in 18 12-foot-long tubes to the mill on special trailers, piped to the furnaces and injected into each heat of steel to oxidize carbon and other impurities. The gas is produced at the nearby plant of Gases Industriales de Colombia, S. A., the first industrial gas producer in Colombia to offer such bulk delivery service.

A FRESH WATER SHORTAGE problem in coastal communities may be closer to solution because of research by Louisiana State University petroleum engineers. Through experiments with laboratory models they have come up with information indicating that surplus fresh water can be successfully stored underground for several months despite the presence of salt water. The secret of the water storage idea lies in the fact that fresh and salt water do not readily mix in underground sediments.

AN ATTEMPT to recover from the bottom of the sea valuable sedimentary material dating back 225 million years will be made by Princeton University geologists. They will drill for samples in the Northwest Pacific, believed to have the oldest ocean floor in existence. They said that if they can penetrate the sediment on the bottom, they may be able to gain information about the origin and that a shallow cooled crustal layer encases a molten core. However, most geologists now believe that natural radioactivity, present in small amounts in all rocks, has gradually heated our planet and that heat is still being produced.

DONORS OF KIDNEYS

BOOST SELF-ESTEEM

IT MAY WELL BE MORE

BLESSED to give than to receive, say two University of Wisconsin psychiatrists who have studied the honors of kidneys in transplant operations. They found "impressive increases in self-esteem and changes in way of life" in interviews with 12 kidney donors. "When the subjects were asked to compare the act of having donated a kidney to any other act in their lives of equal importance or consequence, most of them could not do so," the psychiatrists reported.

AN INTERNATIONAL REGISTRY to collect information on the progress of all heart transplant patients has been advocated by a University of Chicago cardiologist. He pointed out that although nearly 100 operations have been performed, almost no information is available on the progress of patients following the initial surgical period. "It is time," he said, "for a scientific appraisal of the success of such surgery to determine if it is worthwhile from the patient's point of view."

EARTHQUAKES of large magnitude do not necessarily cause the most intense surface effects, reports the U.S. Geological. The effect in a given region depends to a large degree on local surface and subsurface geologic condition. An area underlain by unstable ground — sand, clay, or other unconsolidated materials — is likely to experience much more noticeable effects than an area equally distant from an earthquake's epicenter but underlain by firm ground such as granite.

A METAL SHAFT covered with short spines is the difference between smooth, creamy white shortening and cold bacon grease. It's an integral part of a continuous process from Votator, Louisville, that chills and texturizes animal and vegetable fat shortenings.

A HOMING PIGEON at the Institute for Biomedical Research occasionally wears a contact lens, not because of impaired vision, but for research on its visual system. The contact lens prevents the pigeon's eye from drying up during visual experiments while light patterns are directed into the bird's eye. The lens keeps the eyelids pulled back and prevents the cornea from drying during the tests. Findings on the bird's-eye view are expected to be completed in several months.

INDIANA CALF, LAMB

CROPS SMALLER

Indiana's 1969 calf and lamb crops are smaller than those of last year, according to state-federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University.

The calf crop is expected to total 612,000 head; this is down four per cent from 1968 and seven per cent fewer than in 1967.

Number of cows and heifers two years old or older on Indiana farms last Jan. 1 was 680,000 — five per cent smaller than the Jan. 1, 1968, total and eight per cent below the total of Jan. 1, 1967.

The state's 1969 lamb crop at 217,000 head was six per cent smaller than the 1968 crop and eight per cent below the level of 1967.

Breeding ewes a year old and over on Indiana farms at the beginning of this year totaled 197,000, down six per cent from the Jan. 1, 1968, total. Number of lambs saved per 100 ewes a year old at 93 compares with 94 per 100 in 1968.

A 14-Year-Old Can Legally Drive Through U.S. From Border To Border

The trouble with the 14-year-old is that he's half man, half boy.

One minute he's a sober, sensible adult, next he's a defiant, irresponsible child.

A child who'll do things in a car that can send chills up your spine.

Things that can turn him into a killer.

In fact, too many already are. Young people get into more crack-ups than any other age group.

Yet in the face of this murderous evidence, some states still license 14-year-olds. And according to safety experts at The Continental Insurance Companies, many states that don't license them will let them drive through.

So many, in fact, that you never know where you'll run into one. Or when one will run into you.

But for once, time is on our side. Time changes boys into men. Only they'll never make it if we let them drive too soon.

What age isn't too soon? Let the states get together and figure that out.

But it certainly isn't too soon, safety authorities say, for us to write our local legislator and ask him to do what he can so that we give youngsters a chance to grow up.
