COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

Ends One of the Most Prosperous Years of the Plymouth High School.

A class of fourteen were graduated from the Plymouth High School Monday evening. The exercises were held in the auditorium of the high school building, which was beautifully decorated in the class colors, purple and white, which made a very pretty combination. The mottoes of the preceding classes were draped with their respective colors. Supt. Roscoe A. Chase presided and the exercises were without a mistake of any kind, showing the high efficiency of the Plymouth high schools. The music was furnished by Elbel's orchestra of South Bend and several vocal selections by a chorus and by Misses Neff, Wilson and Mr. Senior.

After prayer by Rev. W. W. Lineberry, Frank W. Lineberry delivered an oration on "Successful Reforms." In well chosen words he showed reform must be along business lines and at the right season. Miss Ruby J. Gay then presented the other side in "Unsuccessful Reforms." Daniel Senior in forceful language described "The Modern Man" and said he was the result of three things: the growth of science, the growth of popular government and the modern inventions. In "Child-Labor," Agnes Thomson gave of graphic description of the factor-child labor in Southworth in his oration on "Municipal Ownership" gave convincing arguments in its favor. Maude E. Koontz outlined the course of the gentler sex in "Woman in Industry" proving that the woman of today with her facilities for education in the various trades and professions is better fitted for life's battles than the woman of yesterday. The growth of Japan was ably shown by Elizabeth W. Gibson, in "America and Japan." Pansie H. Hess reviewed the causes and results of the Reformation in her oration on "Renaissance."

"The Evils of War" were described by Montus C. Snyder. The history and growth of the drama were portrayed in "The Theater" by Rosa B. Lauer. Ada L. Haag defended the "Higher Education for Girls." "Absolutism" was ably presented by James C. Stephens, and the marvelous possibilities of "Thought Power" were brought out by Eva B. Baker. Prof. D. Frank Redd in a few chosen words presented the class to the board and the diplomas were awarded by Dr. T. A. Borton, president of the board. The class song was then given and the awarding of honors followed; Montus C. Snyder won first honors and Ruby Jeanette Gay, honorable mention. After a short valedictory by Mr. Snyder the exercises closed, this ending one of the most prosperous years the Plymouth high school has known.

South Bends Merchants Coming.

On Tuesday June 23rd the South Bend merchants will close their stores and most of them will come to Maxinkuckee to enjoy their annual outing. We understand that a special train will be run for their convenience and undoubtedly a large crowd will be here. The merchants and people of Culver should do all in their power to make their visit pleasant.

Ice Cream Social.

There will be a lawn social Wednesday evening June 24th at Mrs. Marion Korps, given by class No. 1 of the Ladies Aid Society. Ice cream and cake will be served. All are invited to attend.

Around the Lake.

Judge Capron was down from Plymouth over Sunday.

R. S. Batchley, a son of the geologist, is at the Arlington.

Geo. Mueller and son, of Indianapolis, spent Sunday at the lake.

Miss Mary Foreman and party returned to Logansport last Friday.

Miss Jeanne Wheeler, of Indianapolis, opened the Shady Bluff last Thursday.

W. H. Fulton and family, of Indianapolis opened their cottage last Friday.

J. H. Vajen, who has been at the lake for the last ten days has returned home.

M. E. Daniels, an employee of the state geologist, was at the Arlington last week.

Mrs. A. R. Heller left Monday for Chicago to spend a few days with her son, Earl.

Charles Plank and family, of Rochester, have opened their cottage on Long Point for the season.

Mrs. Geroleman and Mrs. Green, of Logansport, have arrived at the Snider cottage for a few week's stay.

H. B. Heywood and family, of Indianapolis, arrived Monday and opened their cottage on the east side.

B. Vonnegut and family, of Indianapolis, arrived Thursday and opened their cottage on the east side.

A. F. Potts and family, of Indianapolis, arrived at the lake Friday and opened their cottage for the season.

Bruce Smith, of Battle Creek, Mich., has rented the Dr. Scovell cottage on Long Point and taken possession.

F. R. New, of Indianapolis, was at the lake Tuesday and while here placed a card on his cottage which reads "For Sale."

Mrs. W. H. Porter, of Culver, gave some of her lady friends a dinner at her cottage on the east side Thursday. Those present were Mesdames S. E. Medbourne, L. C. Wiseman, Mrs. Geo. Peeples and Dr. Wiseman.

A Surprise Party.

A surprise was given Samuel Greene last Saturday evening in honor of his 57th birthday. Ed. Horgeshimer lured Mr. Greene away from home long enough for the friends and relatives, to the number of twenty seven to assemble. A bountiful supper, including Greene & Medbourne's famous brand of pop was served. All present enjoyed a pleasant evening and after wishing Mr. Greene many such events departed for their respective homes.

Births.

Born—To Israel Zechiel and wife on the 14th inst.

Born—To Harvey McFeeley and wife, a bouncing boy on the 11th inst.

Born—To D. B. Younge and wife, twins, a boy and a girl, on the 12th inst.

Born—To Henry Stuck and wife, an eight pound girl on the 11th.

Entertained for Friend.

Sadie Korp entertained a number of her friends Monday evening in honor of Miss Clesta Easterday, of Warsaw. All report a most enjoyable evening.

We are glad to note that Alex. Dinsmore's little boy is much improved this week. His condition was so serious some time ago that the attending physician seriously contemplated sending him to a sanitarium.

THE STEAMER NEES-WAU-GEE.

Oliver Crook, Captain.

The launching of the new double deck steamer, Nees-wau-gee, into the beautiful Maxinkuckee lake on Thursday last, by Captain Crook, its owner, was an event of more than ordinary importance; first because it is the largest and finest boat of its kind which has ever yet been placed upon the lake; and second because it is to perpetuate the name of the good old Pottawattomie Indian chief, Nees-wau-gee. The boat is seventy feet long and fourteen feet wide, has two decks and has a carrying capacity for two hundred passengers. It is finely modeled, is substantially built, and glides along over the rippling waves like a thing of life. No pictures of the charming lake, "with its beauty and grandeur of headland, its etchings of forest and prairie," its hundreds of rowboats, launches, sail boats and steamers would be complete without the steamer, Nees-wau-gee. It is monarch of the lake, a veritable "thing of beauty and a joy forever."

Nees-wau-gee, for whom the boat was named, was a chief of the tribe of Pottawattomie Indians who inhabited the country bordering on the lake, and in fact at one time owned the entire region north of the Wabash river to Lake Michigan. Nees-wau-gee lived in a log cabin which stood on the hill east of the lake a few rods north of the present residence of Peter Spangler.

The government had given him two sections of land and built him a cabin, which was erected by the late M. H. Scott in 1828. An Indian village established there at that time contained a population of about 125 Pottawattomie Indians over whom Nees-wau-gee presided as chief. In 1835-36, White settlers then began to come in large numbers and the old chief concluded to cede his lands back to the government and go to a western reservation. The treaty was made in the early part of 1836, one stipulation being that the old chief and his band should remove within two years to a reservation provided by the government for the Pottawattomie Indians west of the Missouri river near Topeka, Kan. He and his little band were very friendly with the white settlers and became strongly attached to them during the two years they remained. When the time arrived for them to go, the good old chief sent for all the white people in the neighborhood to visit him at his village as he wished to bid them good bye. The invitation was accepted and when the people had assembled, the old chief, through an interpreter spoke substantially as follows:

"My WHITE FRIENDS:—I have invited you today to bid you farewell. According to the treaty which we have made, we agree to remove peaceably to a reservation provided for us by the government west of the Missouri river within two years from the treaty. The time is near at hand when we should go. All the white people have been good and kind to us, and in bidding you farewell, it seems like severing the ties of our own kindred and friends. Tomorrow morning at sunrise we take our leave for our new home in the far west, but wherever we may go, or wherever in life our lot may be cast, our memory will ever turn back to our acquaintance with you as the happiest period in our lives. Farewell."

The old chief was visibly affected, and after all had taken him by the hand and bade him farewell, there was a tear drop in the eyes of nearly all present. Promptly at sunrise the next morning, Nees-wau-gee and his little band, on foot and astride their Indian ponies, took up their line of march, single file, following the Indian trail, south on the east shore of the lake, thence southwest and as they went out of sight in the distance, the last of the Pottawattomie Indians, about the lake had disappeared forever.

Union Township Farmers' Institute.

The third annual session of the Farmers' Institute of Union township, was held in the Assembly Grounds in the south part of our city, on Saturday, June 13th, and the committee had prepared an excellent program. The attendance was somewhat limited on account of the weather, yet, notwithstanding, a fair and enthusiastic audience was present to take part in the day's deliberations. The able addresses by Messrs. Marks, Newman, Schlosser Bros., and others as well as the excellent papers by Mrs. Newman and Otto Zechiel, were enjoyable features of the day. But especially so were the declamations by a number of young people and the fine singing of the choir led by Henry Zechiel, also the solo sung by Prof. Stahl. A good day and a little more interest by the people of the township and these institutes could be made red letter days. It was decided to hold another institute at such time as the new officers and committee on arrangements might determine. The officers for the ensuing year are C. W. Mewman, president and L. C. Zechiel, secretary. Committee, D. W. Marks, Charity Stahl and Mrs. J. L. Mosher. A vote of thanks was tendered to the choir for the sprightly music and to Mrs. Davis for the use of the organ and so closed the sessions of the third annual institute.

C. D. Andres spent Sunday in Pierceton.

Well Known Boy Graduates.

The editor received, through the kindness of Dr. R. H. Rea, a program of, and an invitation to the 20th annual commencement of the Rush Medical college of Chicago. Dr. Rea is, as many know, a graduate of this well known institution this year. He has the B. S. degree from the University of Chicago, M. D., of Rush Medical, which, supplemented with the work he intends to take up in the Cook county hospital, will fit him to practice with the best of physicians. THE CITIZEN extend congratulations.

Prominent Man Dead.

Capt. James E. Houghton died at his home in Plymouth Saturday of Bright's disease. Capt. Houghton was well known and highly respected in his town and vicinity. He had held all the important positions in his local G. A. R. Post and his comrades delighted to honor him. The funeral was held Monday at the M. E. church. The services were conducted by Miles H. Tibbitts Post G. A. R. according to their beautiful ritual. Comrade Maxwell from Frankfort delivered the sermon.

Plymouth to Have a Glorious Fourth.

The business men of Plymouth have arranged for the greatest celebration of the Fourth, the town has ever known. Several speakers of note have been secured and music, games, fireworks and a great encampment of I. N. G., will afford amusement for all. Special trains on all roads.

Culver Naval School to Open Next Wednesday.

After Wednesday of next week the colors will again be floating over the tall flag staff at the academy grounds, and the beginning and close of the days will again be marked by the roar of the morning and evening gun. Blue coated cadets, however, will have replaced those in gray. And naval drills and naval customs will have replaced the military routine of the winter school.

Three times the number of cadets enrolled at this time last session have already applied to enter, and it looks as though the west barracks, as well the east, must be opened for summer school cadets.

CAPT. RICHMOND P. HOBSON, Who will visit Culver this summer.

Not only the neighboring states are included in the naval school roster, but Georgia, Florida, New Jersey, California, Texas and Old Mexico also contribute to this year's enrollment.

The best musicians of the winter school band, with several additions from outside, will furnish music for the summer school under Capt. Wilson's able direction. This will make a splendid band and will add considerably to the effectiveness of the various ceremonies. The band will give open air concerts once a week.

The summer school is expecting some distinguished visitors during the session. Among them will be Rear Admiral George Brown, who will talk to the cadets on the methods of training officers and enlisted men in the United States navy.

Capt. R. P. Hobson also will spend a couple of days in Culver, and will give the cadets some talks on the American navy. Hobson's interesting personality contributes not more to his popularity as a lecturer than does the original quality of the lectures themselves.

There are many other interesting features and altogether the Summer Naval School cadets will have a delightful time.

Rural Routes.

It will be to the best interest of our people to look well after the location of new postal routes. Other towns are working hard to cover all the territory possible. If no benefit can be derived from the favorable location of routes, why are our neighboring towns working so hard to cover all the territory? All we can ask is what justly belongs to us, that is the territory naturally tributary to Culver. We should place this matter before our congressman in such an emphatic way that he will give our demands the consideration they deserve. Many of the rural people are being asked to accept inferior service for no other reason than that it would enhance the personal aspirations of some one.

George Nearpass, editor of the Claypool Herald, was in town over Sunday. His family left for their new home Tuesday.

NEW MONARCH OUTLINES PLANS

Hopes to See Servia Prosper
Under Liberal Constitution of 1889.

DENIES COMPLICITY IN CRIME

Expresses His Deep Regret That It Was Thought Necessary to Shed Blood and Disapproves of Violent Measures Resorted To.

Geneva cablegram: Prince Peter Karageorgievitch, the newly proclaimed king of Servia, gave an interview in which he repeated his disclaimer of any complicity, direct or indirect, in the assassinations of King Alexander and Queen Draga. He expressed his detestation of the crime, and gave a brief outline of his own political tendencies. Replying to a series of direct questions, Prince Peter said:

New King Is Surprised.

"It is true my partisans have a complete organization in Servia with which I am in frequent communication. I know from other sources that the discontent of the Servian people had reached its height, but I could not possibly have foreseen the events of the other night. I in no way contributed to their preparation and I took no part, direct or indirect, in them. On the contrary, their perpetration surprised me.

to his children, especially to his son George. When the boys are in Geneva for the summer vacation their father takes them regularly to the Greek church and carefully watches over their studies. He frequently talked to their professors, insisting that they should make the boys study hard, especially George, as he might one day be King of Servia, but he never discussed the situation with George.

Burial of Royal Couple.

Belgrade cable: King Alexander and Queen Draga were buried at 1:30 o'clock Friday morning in the family vault of the Obrenovitchs in the chapel of the cemetery of St. Mark.

The strictest privacy was maintained in order to avoid hostile demonstrations. Two coffins were brought in by servants and carried up to the room where the bodies of the assassinated king and queen were lying. The corpses were then put in the coffins and the latter were placed in a hearse, which was hurriedly driven to the old cemetery, where the other members of the Obrenovitch family are interred. In addition to the attendants only two priests were present at the funeral. The metropolitan of Belgrade was absent. The whole ceremony lasted only a few minutes.

The autopsy held has proved that the late king received thirty shots wounds, many of them deadly. Queen Draga had numerous shot and saber wounds, and it is alleged that her body was torn in a barbaric fashion.

PREACHES WHILE HE SLEEPS

Rev. John Cauffman of the Amish Church Edifies Hearers.

THE OLD CUP SEES SOMETHING.

Ohio State Journal.

"I calmly await the trend of events. So long as no formal proposals reach me I have no reason to leave Geneva and I will remain here. No one has yet asked me to return to Servia. No one has yet offered me the crown. I am even without news of the members of my family who reside in Belgrade.

Regrets Bloodshed.

"My opinion of the execution of the King and Queen of Servia is this: I deeply regret that it has been thought necessary to shed streams of blood. I formally disapprove of the violent measures and I especially deplore that the army has had recourse to such measures—an army which has nobler tasks to accomplish than assassination. It would have sufficed to force King Alexander to sign his abdication. He could have been bound, as has been done in other circumstances. It is a horrible thing to shed blood.

"You ask what will be my attitude when I am in possession of the crown. We will assume that I am called to the throne—I shall not fail to take inspiration from the admirable institutions of Switzerland, which I have learned to appreciate highly. I am in favor of absolute liberty of press. I hope to see Servia prosper under the constitution of 1889, which is very liberal.

Favors Russia.

"Regarding foreign relations, it has been alleged that I am systematically hostile to Austria. That is false. Maybe I am in special sympathy with Russia, to which country I sent my boy in the hope that he would take service there."

Prince Karageorgievitch is devoted blen township, this county. Mr. Hamblen is an Amish preacher and he hails from Elkhart county. The remarkable thing about him is that he cannot preach unless he is sound asleep. Mr. Cauffman goes to the church at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and there, upon a cot, he will lie in a sound slumber until 7 o'clock, when he arises and enters the pulpit, the congregation meanwhile having filled the church. Then he delivers a sermon, expounding the scripture in well-chosen words and, to the edification and wonder of his hearers, often continuing his discourse for two and a half and even three hours. He uses both the English and German languages in his preaching.

MAY BE REICHLIN MURDERER

Man Arrested in Rochester, N. Y., Suspected of Lorain Crime.

Rochester, N. Britain Orders Inquiry.

London cable: The government has taken a hand in the expulsion of the London Times correspondent from St. Petersburg, and has instructed the British ambassador at the Russian capital to supply particulars of the incident.

Indiana Golf League.

Richmond, Ind., dispatch: The Indiana Golf league, composed of Marion, Muncie, Anderson and Richmond, has been formed. A series of twelve matches will be played, the season opening June 24 and closing Sept. 2.

Wins Interstate Shoot.

Sioux City, Ia., special: R. R. Barger of Pauline, Ia., won the interstate championship trophy in the Soo Gun club shoot to-day. Barger made seventeen straight in the shoot-off.

Indiana News

State Happenings Succinctly Told by Our Special Correspondents

TALLEST MAN RIDES THE GOAT

Reserved for the Initiation Degree of Pocahontas Meeting.

The district meeting, Degree of Pocahontas, held at Anderson, lasted until 2 a. m. Scalping knives were busy throughout the night, and one of the victims was Isaac Gunn, of Anderson, who is said to be the tallest man in Indiana, and who had to bow his head to pass through the seven-foot doorway into the lodge room. His initiation had been reserved for this special occasion. After adjournment the state officers went to Marion to attend another district meeting. They also visited Wabash, Peru and Muncie. The Anderson district includes seventeen councils. Five hundred members attend the meeting, coming from Muncie, Alexandria, Pendleton, Orestes, Fortville, Noblesville, Tipton, Yorktown and Middletown, with representation from Indianapolis.

FELL A HUGE SASSAFRAS TREE

Was Scene of a Remarkable Wheat-Craddling Contest.

One of the largest sassafras trees in southern Indiana was felled on the farm of William S. Walker, near Cold Springs. It was thirty inches in diameter, and thirty-one years old. It made twenty large fence posts and a cord of stove wood. It was under the shade of this tree that William Christy and Thos. Sherman rested after their memorable wheat "craddling" contest in 1880. A that time Dr. T. J. Lord of Milan and Dr. F. H. Sale of Dillsboro acted as timekeepers, and Messrs. Elsie Jones and John Mulford were judges. Sherman won the contest.

Boy Is Injured.

While boys were fishing in Pigeon creek, near Evansville, Edward Schwambach, 7 years old, after climbing to the top of the Illinois Central railway bridge, fell on the track below, breaking his arm and leg and receiving internal injuries. His young companions dragged him off in time to prevent a train from finishing the work.

Failure in Clothing.

S. M. Keltner has been appointed receiver for the High Art clothing store in Anderson. John Miller, owner and manager of the Park theater, is the principal stockholder in the clothing store. Accounts and books are said to be badly mixed, and this is assigned as the cause for appealing to the court to straighten out affairs.

Poison in Negro's Teeth.

G. W. Pohl, proprietor of the Sunlight Hotel at Cannelton, had difficulty with a negro, and struck him in the mouth, injuring his knuckles on his teeth. Blood poison developed and several days it was thought his right arm would have to be amputated. The chances now are somewhat more encouraging.

Apply for Bail.

Application has been made to the circuit court of Perry county for the admission of Mrs. Martha Dixon to bail, because of her failing health. Mrs. Dixon is under indictment for murder; her husband having died some time ago of strychnine poison, and under conditions suggesting foul play.

Violates Parole.

William Miller, arrested in East Chicago, was returned to Laporte to answer to a charge of forgery, and he was identified as a paroled prisoner from Michigan City, having been committed under an indeterminate sentence in 1900. As he had violated his parole he was returned to prison.

Bicycle Rider's Victim.

Miss Ella Irwin of Terre Haute was run down by an unknown bicyclist, breaking her collarbone and tearing loose the ligaments of her shoulder. The reckless rider escaped identification.

Victim of Cancerous Disease.

Benjamin Simmons, a well known citizen of Paoli, is dead of cancer. He leaves all professional men obituary leaves a wife and five children, who are all professional men of high standing.

Horse Kicks Children.

The children of Ward Propes of Bridgeport, Ill., while driving between Lawrenceville and Vincennes, were kicked by the horse and perhaps fatally hurt.

To Make Strawboard.

The Wabash plant of the strawboard trust is preparing to abandon the manufacture of manilla paper and devote its attention entirely to strawboard.

Family Reunion.

Over two hundred descendants of the Christian Wenger family, which found a footing in America in 1727, held a reunion at Island Park near Elkhart. They have a record of 843 families, numbering altogether, 4,243 persons.

Young Woman Dies.

Miss Maude Miller of Goshen was stricken with hemorrhage while preparing for a pleasure drive with her father, and died. She was 20 years old.

TOMATO ACREAGE INCREASES

First Plantings Are Killed by Frost and Season Is Late.

The contract acreage in Indiana for tomatoes this year is about 10 per cent larger than last year. The rank of tomato production by states showed Indiana to be fourth last year, the states in their order being California, Maryland, New Jersey, Indiana and Delaware. Indiana had previously held second place.

With favorable conditions, packers say Indiana may be higher in the list of producers this year.

It is too early in the season for packers to make reliable predictions concerning the tomato crop for the year. In Indiana many of the plants were killed by late frosts, and the season for setting them out in the fields was delayed for two or three weeks in many localities. That work has now been about completed and so far the plants are doing well.

Fool the Saloon Man.

William Ice made application for license to sell intoxicants at Otterbein, and a blanket remonstrance was filed. Thereupon Ice subpoenaed 166 of the remonstrants to go to Fowler and testify to the genuineness of their signatures. The remonstrators engaged carriages and wagons, making a procession half a mile long, and also took along a brass band of twenty-two pieces. The would-be saloon keeper dismissed his application.

Lawyers Banquet.

A notable event was the first annual banquet of the Allen County Bar association at Fort Wayne. Judge Allen Zollars was toastmaster, and there were responses to toasts by G. W. Vawter, William P. Breen, Col. R. S. Robertson, Judge O. N. Heaton, Henry, Colerich and Judge Robert S. Taylor.

Touches Trigger With Toe.

Frank Rihl of North Vernon, despondent because of ill health, killed himself with a bullet in his brain, using a rifle and touching the trigger with his toe. He lived with two brothers, one of whom, Josepa, is very ill of consumption.

Warns Saloonkeepers.

Edward Holmes, familiarly known as "Good Times," having pleaded guilty to intoxication more than three hundred times, the mayor of Muncie has proclaimed that whoever again sells him intoxicants will be prosecuted.

Oil Lease Accidents.

Two accidents are reported on the Reife oil lease near Fairmount. A plank dropped on the head of Arlie Reife, to his very serious hurt, and J. F. Frank was terribly burned by an explosion of gas in the furnace under a boiler.

Kindness Results in Death.

Frank McDade, a well known farmer, near Dutchtown, saw some little birds fall from their nest, and in putting them back he lost his footing, falling across a log. Internal injuries were received, which resulted fatally.

Mennonites Break Ground.

Ground has been broken in Goshen for the main building of the Mennonite institution, which is to be removed from Elkhart, and chartered cars brought students and college officials to take part in the exercises.

Partially Scalped.

James King, a contractor of Mishawaka, fell backward off a scaffold, dropping twelve feet. The cuticle of his neck caught on the rugged edge of the steel sheeting and he was partially scalped.

Daughter of Revolution Dies.

Mrs. S. Morrison, 99 years old, is dead at Morristown. Her father was a soldier under Washington, and her only son served under General Harrison in the civil war.

Section Men Strike.

Fifteen section men on the Lake Erie & Western railway, between Frankfort and Lafayette, are striking for an advance in wages from $1.35 to $1.50 per day.

Was Daughter of Pioneer.

Mrs. Rachel Hendricks Nesbitt, whose death occurred at Greensburg, was a daughter of the late Abram Hendricks, one of the first treasurers of Decatur county.

Aged Man Breaks Hip.

Calvin Compton of Newcastle, 73 years old, proves to be very seriously injured by an accidental fall several days ago, by which his hip was broken.

Accepts a Bonus.

Because of the scarcity of suitable timber, G. V. Griffith & Son will move their handle factory from Huntington to Albany, the latter city having offered a substantial bonus to secure the industry.

Lightning Shocks Two.

Lightning struck the home of William Wood, in Elwood, and Mrs. Wood and a neighbor were seriously prostrated. Several persons in the immediate neighborhood also suffered from the shock.

LARGE MAN IS A MENTAL PIGMY

Giant Wears a Big Hat, But Is Inmate of Insane Asylum.

Emory Stidham, living near Stone Head, Brown county, taken to Nashville by Sheriff Parks and posse, to be returned to the Central Indiana Insane Hospital, is a man of gigantic proportions. He is six feet four inches tall, weighs 250 pounds, and wears a shoe so large that it must be made to order. One of his hands weighs almost as much as the ham of a ninety-pound stout. His head is one of the largest that ever ornamented the shoulders of man, and his strength is prodigious. Stidham became insane some years ago and at that time he freed himself from the officers after stretching five men on the ground. He was afterward captured and tied with ropes, and thus held until his removal to the hospital. Later he was released but his dementia has again returned.

Suspect Is Vindicated.

James Clark of Converse, who served a term for manslaughter, growing out of the killing of "Jack the Jagger," narrowly escaped re-arrest for the supposed murder of Clinton Buchanan, field superintendent of the Logansport & Wabash Gas company, who disappeared about the same time with "Jack the Jagger." Timely communication from Buchanan, himself, prevented.

Kills Grandson.

The report is verified that Hiram Bocock, near Lawrenceport, while seated in his house, noticed a movement in the weeds outside which he thought indicated the presence of a groundhog, and he seized his rifle and fired, mistaking the brownish red hair of his grandson, Noble Beasley, three years old, for the groundhog, and shooting him through the brain. The child soon died.

Still Practice Polygamy.

Miss Glenn Webster of Columbia City, who has been serving as a missionary in the Mormon field, during an address in the First Baptist church, charge the Mormon church with still practicing polygamy, and said that it was impossible to secure conviction in the courts because of the church influence in preventing the submission of testimony calculated to establish guilt.

Big Family.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kaag, who recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at Madison, are the parents of twelve children, the Messdames Margaret Hiltz, Caroline Rausch, Louisa Naatz, May Quirin, Anna Berger, Mollie Schwartz, Catherine Keller, Arthur Arbuckle and J. Hensler. Miss Julia Kaag and the Messrs. Jacob and William Kaag.

To Lay Cornerstone.

The cornerstone of the new Presbyterian church at Marion will be laid on the 17th inst., with appropriate ceremonies. Among the things to be placed under the cornerstone will be a parchment on which the names of the congregation will be inscribed.

Runaway Accident.

As the result of a runaway accident, the horse becoming frightened at a passing train, Mrs. George Darr of Benton township was thrown out and perhaps fatally hurt. Her daughter was also severely injured. Mr. Darr, who was driving, escaped.

Farmer Is Drowned.

Elijah Simms, a farmer, while attempting to drive across a swollen stream east of Connersville, was thrown out by the current and drowned. His horse drifted against a barbed wire fence and had to be killed.

Mrs. Dixon Gives Bail.

Mrs. Martha Dixon of Tell City, indicted for poisoning her husband, Bonaparte Dixon, who was many years her senior, has been released; giving bond in $4,000. She will be tried during the August term.

Naval Officer on Furlough.

Capt. Royal Ingersoll, U. S. N., who commanded the New Orleans in Chinese waters for the last two years, is visiting his home at Laporte on a two months' leave of absence. He came direct from Yokohama.

Dog Tears Off Man's Nose.

George Rowley, son of James Rowley of Franklin township, was attacked by a dog and horribly bitten. His nose was torn off.

To Build Gravel Roads.

The gravel road proposition carried by a substantial majority, and $72,000 will be expended in good roads leading out from Delphi.

New Militia Company.

A. C. Williams is captain of the new military company organized at Salem as part of the Indiana militia, with Dr. W. J. Purkheiser and John E. Gresham as lieutenant. Seventy men have been mustered.

Sues for Personal Injury.

Newton Hostetter of Ladoga, who, while loading a freight car, was permanently injured by another car backing against him, has sued the Moon Railway company for $15,000 damages.

THE MAID of MAIDEN LANE

Sequel to "The Bow of Orange Ribbon."

A LOVE STORY BY AMELIA E. BARR

(Copyright, 1900, by Amelia E. Barr)

CHAPTER VI.—(Continued.)

"Well, then, who knows more on that subject than Joris Hyde? Was I not, last year, at Lady Betty Somers' splendid nuptials, and at Fanny Paget's, and the Countess of Carlisle's? Indeed, I maintain that in such a discussion I am an absolute necessity. And I wish to know Madame Jacobus."

"So? Well, then, here we are, at her very door. I know not what she will say—you must make your own excuses, sir."

As she was speaking, they ascended the white steps leading to a very handsome brick house on the west side of Broadway. The door was opened by a very dark man, who was dressed in a splendid and outlandish manner—a scarlet turban above his straight black hair, and gold-hooped earrings, and a long coat or tunic, heavily embroidered in strange devices.

As soon as the front door closed, Joris perceived that he was in an unusual house. The scents and odors of strange countries floated about it. Strange tables of wonderful mosaic work held ivory carvings of priceless worth, and porcelain from unknown lands. Gods and goddesses from the yellow Gehenna of China and the utterable idolatry of India looked out with brute cruelty, or semipiternal smiles from every odd corner, or gazed with a fascinating prescience from the high chimney-piece upon all who entered.

When the door opened and Madame Jacobus, with soft, gliding footsteps entered, Hyde understood how truly the soul, if given the wherewithal, builds the habitation it likes best. Once possessed of marvelous beauty, and yet extraordinarily interesting, she seemed the very genius of the room and its strange, suggestive belongings.

It was said that no man who came within his influence had been able to resist her power—no man, perhaps, but Capt. Jacobus, and he had not resisted, he had been content to exercise over her a power greater than her own. He had made her his wife; he had lavished on her for ten years the spoils of the four quarters of the world; and his worship of her had only been equalled by her passionate attachment to him. Ten years of love, and then parting and silence—unbroken silence. Yet she still insisted that he was alive and would certainly come back to her. She kept his fine house open, his room ready, and herself constantly adorned for his home-coming.

She came in now with a smile of welcome. She was always pleased that her fine home should be seen by those strange to it; and perhaps was particularly pleased that Gen. Hyde's son should be her visitor. And as Joris was determined to win her favor, there was an almost instantaneous birth of good will.

"Let me kiss your hand, madame," said the handsome young fellow, lifting the jeweled fingers in his own. "I have heard that my father had once that honor. Do not put me below him," and with his words he touched with his warm lips the long white fingers.

Her laugh rang merrily through the dim room, and she answered: "You are Dick Hyde's own son—nothing else. I see that. But where is Cornelia? I thought she would come with you."

Even as she spoke Cornelia entered. There was a little flush and hurry on her face; but oh, how innocent and joyous it was!

"Am I late, madame? Surely your clock is wrong."

"My clock is never wrong, Cornelline, that the little party sat listening, entranced, with sympathetic eyes drinking in his wonderful descriptions.

Madame Jacobus was the first to interrupt these pretty reminiscences. "All this is very fine," she said, "but the most of it is no good for us. The satin and the lace and even the gems, we can have; the music can be somehow managed, and we shall not make a bad show as to love and beauty. But castles and lords and military pomp, and old cathedrals hung with battle flags. Such things are not to be had here, and, in plain truth, they are not necessary for the wedding of a simple maid like our Arenta. Lieutenant, take Miss Moran and show her my garden. I tell you, it is worth walking through; and when you have seen the flowers, Arenta and I will give you a cup of tea."

With some hesitation, yet quite carried away by Hyde's personal longing and impulse, Cornelia went into the garden with her lover. Speechless with joy, Hyde clasped Cornelia's slender fingers, and they went together down the few broad steps which led them into the green shadows of the trees. Slowly, as they stepped, they came at length to a little summer house. They sat down there, and in a few moments the seal was broken and Hyde's heart found out all the sweetest words that love could speak. Cornelia trembled; she blushed, she smiled, she suffered herself to be drawn close to his side; and, at last, in some sweet, untranslatable way, she gave him the assurance of her love.

Arenta's voice, petulant and not pleasant, broke the charm. "Tea is waiting," she said, "and Rem is waiting, and my aunt is tired, and you two have forgotten that the clock moves." Then they laughed, and laughter is always fatal to feeling; the magical land of love was suddenly far away, and there was the sound of china, and the heavy tones of Rem's voice—dissatisfied, if not angry—and Arenta's lighter fret; and they stood once more among fetishes and forms so foreign, fabulous and fantastical, that it was difficult to pass from the land of love, and all its pure delights, into their atmosphere.

It would have been harder but for Madame Jacobus. Her smile—quick and short as a flash of the eyes—revealed to Hyde her intention of favor, and without one spoken word, these two knew themselves to be of the same mind. And, in parting, she held his hand while she talked, saying at last the very words he longed to hear—

"We shall expect you again on Thursday, Lieutenant."

He answered only, "Thank you, madame!" but he accompanied the words with a look which asked so much, and confessed so much, that Madame felt herself to be a silent confidante and a not unwilling accomplice.

As for Hyde, no thought that could mar the sweetness and joy of this fortunate hour came into his mind. Neither Rem's evident hatred, nor Arenta's disapproval, nor yet Cornelia's silence troubled him. Even the necessary parting from Cornelia was only a phase of this wonderful gladness; for Love never fails of his token, and, though Arenta's sharp eyes could not discover it, Hyde received the silent message that was meant for him, and for him only. That one thought made his heart bound and falter with its exquisite delight—for him only—for him only.

He was hardly responsible for his actions at this hour; for when a swift gallop brought him to the Van Heemskirk house, he quite unconsciously struck the door some rapid, forceful blows, with his riding whip. His grandfather opened it with an angry face.

"I thought it was thee," he said. "Now, then, in such lordly fashion, whom didst thou summon? dog or slave, was it?"

Joris flung himself from his horse and clasped his grandfather's hand. "I did wrong," he said warmly; "but I am beside myself with happiness; and I thought of nothing but telling you."

Lysbet divined the joy in her grandson's face; and she said softly as he seated himself at the open window where his grandfather's chair was placed—

"It is Cornelia?"

"Yes, it is Cornelia. She loves me! The most charming girl the sun ever shone upon loves me. It is incredible. It is amazing. What do you say?"

"I say that thou hast chosen a good girl for a wife. God bless thee," answered Lysbet with great emotion.

Van Heemskirk smiled, but was silent; and Hyde stooped forward, gently moved his long pipe away from his lips, and said: "Grandfather, speak. You know Cornelia Moran?"

"I have seen her. Thy grandmother says she is good. Well, then, the love of a good, beautiful girl, is something to be glad over. Not twice in a lifetime comes such great fortune. But make up thy mind to expect much opposition. Doctor John and thy father were ever unfriendly. Thy father has other plans for thee; Cornelia's father has doubtless other plans for her. I know not how the little Cornelia can dare to disobey him."

"She has said 'yes' to me; and, before heaven and earth, she will stand by it."

"Say that much. And of thyself, art thou sure?"

"I know not what you mean, sir," said Hyde, vaguely troubled by his grandfather's words.

"I think 'thou knowest well what I mean. Thy father has told thee that thy duty and thy honor are pledged to Annie Hyde."

"I never pledged! Never!"

"But, as in thy baptism thy father made vows for thee, so also for thy marriage he made promises. Noble birth has responsibility, as well as privilege. For thyself alone it is not permitted thee to live, from both the past and the future there are demands on thee."

"Grandfather, of one thing I am sure—I will marry Cornelia Moran, even if I run away with her to the ends of the earth."

"Run away with her. To be sure! That is in the blood; and the old man looked sternly back to the days when Hyde's father ran away with his own little daughter."

With some anger Lysbet answered his thoughts. "What are thou talking about? What art thou thinking of?"

Joris relit his pipe.

Many good men have run away with their wives. Remember one May night, when thou and I sat by the Collect in the moonlight, and thou gave me this ring. What did thou say to me that night?"

"Tis years ago, Lysbet, and if I have forgotten—"

"Forgotten! The words thou said that night have been singing in my heart for fifty years; and yet, if thou must be told, some of those words were about running away with thee;—for, at the first, my father liked thee not."

"Lysbet! My sweet Lysbet! I have not forgotten. For thy dear sake I will stand by Joris, though in doing so I am sure I shall make some unfriendly."

"Good, my husband. I take leave to say that thou art doing right."

"Well, then," said Hyde, "if my grandmother stand by me, and you also, I have no fear."

Then he rose, saying, "I must ride onward. My mother will not sleep until she sees me."

Then they walked with him to the door, and watched him leap to his saddle and ride into the twilight trembling over the misty meadows, tinkling with bells. And a great melancholy fell over them, and they could not resume the conversation. Joris relit his pipe, and Lysbet went softly and thoughtfully about her household duties. It was one of those hours in which Life distills for us her vague melancholy wine; and Joris and Lysbet drank deeply of it.

THE COURSE OF TRUE LOVE.

Another Instance Which Proves It Cannot Run Smooth.

"Darling," said Wilberforce Percy Poot as he reached out to clasp Mathild Pembroke's tailor-made form in the embrace of his silver fox overcoat to shield her from the icy blast, "have you tried real hard to love me, as I should be loved? Recollect, dearest, I have been coming up this same avenue for two sweet, delightful months. How joyous life has seemed to me during all that time! Mathild, Mathild, cannot you love me as I yearn to be loved?"

"I am trying hard, oh, so hard, Percy."

"Say it again, pet. Percy sounds so sweet to my ears from your lips. I am so glad my name is Percy."

"Percy, there are dark rings about my eyes every morning; I am trying so hard to love you. No one but a loving woman who tries to keep her loved one in mind knows the suffering I have gone through. I am growing thin trying to think about you all the time, Percy."

"And when your mind turns to Percy, your own Percy—what do you really think about, dream of my life, light of my soul?"

"Oh! Percy, I—I cannot think then; I seem to have nothing to think about when I think of you—" The tailor-made form reached out its arms with a deep sob. But the silver fox overcoat turned away, and its owner hid his pallid lips under the otter lined collar.

Percy, the broken-hearted, disappeared in the darkness.

Somewhat Different.

Diggsby—Hello there, Hardupp! Are you trying to raise a beard?

Hardupp—Not necessarily; I'm trying to raise the price of a shave.

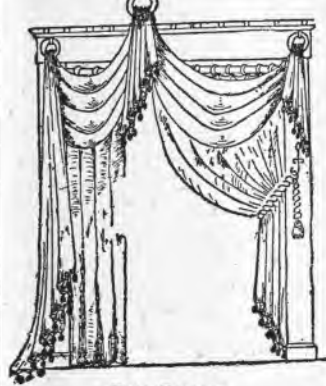

Frocks for Little Ones.

A noticeable feature of the new frocks for the little ones is the continued popularity of black and white. The liking for this combination of extremes has gained rather than lost with time. Frocks for almost every occasion are of soft white fabrics, trimmed with broad sashes with long loops and ends at the waist and with floating ribbons at cuffs and collar. Over this is worn the redingote of black velvet, silk, cloth or moire which has been in style so long, and a hat either of black or white.

Beautifying the Home.

The door drapery presented is also suitable for a window. The best effect may be obtained by the use of fifty-inch double-faced velour, which comes Door Drapery.

In solid colors only. If fringed in a contrasting color it is made doubly effective. The overdrapery, which is the main feature of this drapery, may also be arranged with one pair of portieres fifty inches wide and nine feet long, providing the space to be draped is five feet and does not exceed seven feet wide. This alone makes a complete drapery devoid the straight hangings at the sides. The overdrapery is arranged with the aid of three 4 1/2-inch brass or wood rings. The center ring should be placed about twelve inches above the door facing and rest on an 8-inch brass extension bracket. The other two rings are placed on the door facing as seen in the illustration.

Clean the steelwork of your kitchen range when discolored by rubbing with vinegar.

When making a cake, if you want it to slip easily out of the tin, grease the tin first and then sprinkle well with flour.

To clean tin or nickel kettles, rub first with turpentine or paraffin, and afterwards with a cloth, dipped in cry, prepared whiting or chalk.

Flatiron holders if lined with a layer of old soft leather, like the top of a boot, will protect your hand from heat far better than if made in the ordinary way.

French Women of Fashion.

The French woman of fashion is most careful that every detail of her costume should perfectly harmonize. Stockings, shoes, petticoat, gloves and handkerchiefs have long been chosen with this end in view, but this summer has added jewelry. Especially must the summer girl exercise care in the selection of the long chains of real or imitation stones which adorn her neck. She must either keep to a limited range of color in her gowns, or else have an unlimited supply of chains. These made from the imitation stones are quite as pretty as their more expensive prototypes, so that they will be widely worn. At the jewelry counters can be seen anxious women who are trying to match dress materials with the shimmering bead chains. It is not an easy task. As one shopper said, "I think that in the future I will buy my chains first and my dresses afterwards."

Novel Card Party.

At a recent card party the hostess puzzled her guests by providing beans as tallies, instead of paper stars and hearts. Five beans were awarded to the winners at the end of each game and one to the losers, each one being solemnly warned to keep his beans carefully in a little bag provided for the purpose. There was much conjecture during the games as to the ultimate use of the beans, but no hint was given until, as the tallies for the last game were being distributed, a maid brought in dainty bills of fare bearing the following astonishing information:

Sandwiches 5 beans
Coffee 3 beans
Almonds 5 beans
Olives 5 beans
Ices 10 beans
Cakes 5 beans
Immediately there was anxious diving into bags to count up accumulated gains, and more anxious calculations

Summer Muffs.

A few muffs have been made for weddings to match the parasols trimmed with fruit and grass, or made in pink chiffon with roses. They do very well for bridesmaids. There are a good many fantastic ideas for weddings just now, and one of these is a large basket, behind which the bride and bridegroom stand to receive their friends. The handle stands up over their heads, and the basket is filled with tiny bouquets, which are scattered among the guests when the bride and bridegroom have left, and confetti or silver horseshoes have been sufficiently well circulated by their friends as they wish them God-speed.

Pretty Afternoon Frock.

An afternoon frock of tan-colored satin crepe de chine, with lace cap of ecru. The tan parasol has a design in browns and greens, and the dark brown hat is trimmed in light brown, trimmed with green leaves.

Yellow and Black.

A popular combination in new millinery is that of yellow and black. A lovely hat is in black Neapolitan straw and pale yellow tulle. The crown is of fluted tulle, while the brim is of straw, faced with the tulle. Round the crown is a wreath of yellow and black roses and the same flowers trim the bandeau, which raises the hat from the hair on the left side.

Piano keys that have become discolored cover with a rather thick paste made of lemon juice and prepared chalk or whiting. Be careful not to let it get between the keys. Leave a few minutes, then wash off with a soft cloth, wrung out of warm water. Polish with the tiniest drop of sweet oil, and then rub with soft duster till every trace of oil is removed.

PRETTY COSTUMES FOR EARLY SUMMER.

French Voile and Nun's Veiling.

Two pretty gowns are shown here, one of French voile and the other of nun's veiling.

The voile gown has a coat to match, stylishly trimmed in a heavy Bulgarian lace. On each side of the skirt are three box plaits which throw a pretty flare into the bottom of the skirt. A pretty liberty silk bodice is worn with this coat with a full bishop sleeve, which is left exposed by the voile sleeve, being slit to the elbow, turned back and faced with lace. The hat is a fine white straw, with long black feather and velvet bow. The other is a champagne nun's veiling combined with ecru guipure. Ecru medallions and knotted silk cord ornament the front of the waist. It fastens to one side and has a yoke and collar of ecru guipure. The skirt is trimmed with circular strappings of the material. The toque is of shirred chiffon, with an aligrette and rhinestone buckle. In the back is a stiff bow of ecru velvet ribbon with two short ends which just touch the hair.

The assurance of her love.

nellie. Come, now, sit down, and let us talk of such follies as weddings and wedding gowns."

In this conversation Hyde triumphantly redeemed his promise of assistance. He could describe with a delightful accuracy—or inaccuracy—the lovely toilets and pretty accessories of the high English wedding feasts of the previous year. And in some subtle way he threw into these descriptions such a glamor of romance, such backgrounds of old castles and chiming bells, of noble dames glittering with gems, and village maids scattering roses, of martial heroes, and rejoicing lovers, all moving in an atmosphere of song and

ALFALFA—PART 2.

Its Adaption to Indiana.

A great many attempts have been made to grow alfalfa in Indiana, some successful, but more unsuccessful. The results of several year's trial on the Experiment Station farm at Lafayette, have on the whole, not been sufficiently successful to justify unqualified recommendation for this locality; although there is at present a plot of something like an acre of alfalfa on the station farm which is making a very good showing.

If the seed is good and the ground prepared, there is usually not much difficulty in getting a stand of alfalfa in this state; but the crop is sometime either outright the first winter or "heaved" out of the ground by freezing and thawing. It also frequently happens in this state, that alfalfa after growing fairly well for a year or two, will gradually lose its vigor and cease to be a profitable crop. This is usually due to exhaustion of the available nitrogen in the soil caused by the absence of the bacteria which enables the plant to take nitrogen directly from the air. If this is the case, the trouble can be remedied by inoculating the soil by sowing one or two hundred pounds per acre of bacteria containing soil from an old alfalfa field. It can also be remedied by fertilizing with nitrogenous fertilizers, but this is too expensive to be profitable, as alfalfa requires an extremely large amount of nitrogen in its growth. If the bacteria are present, small rounded tubercles or knots the size of grains of wheat or smaller, will be found on the roots, upon digging up the plants and examining same.

As alfalfa should be allowed to stand for several years to produce profitable returns, no pains should be spared in preparing the seed bed. The land selected should be as free as possible from weed seed. The seed should be sown in the spring, at the rate of 20 pounds per acre, and covered about half an inch with a light harrow or otherwise. The seed may be sown with a small amount of oats or barley, as a nurse crop, but this is unnecessary.

Alfalfa is more delicate than clover the first season and is liable to be choked out by weeds unless they are kept down by clipping, which should be done. As a rule, no hay will be secured the first season. The second season and thereafter, the alfalfa should cut each time when about one tenth of the heads are in bloom. In Indiana from three to four cuttings may be secured if the rainfall is sufficient and the season favorable. More cutting can be had in the southern than in the northern portion of the state. The hay is cut and cured the same as clover, which it resembles in being spoiled by very little rain. It should be thoroughly protected from the weather.

The fact that alfalfa has such a high value as a forage crop and that it has been grown successfully in a number of places in the state, would seem to warrant careful trials in its production by a large number of our farmers.

McCormick at Culver.

Mr. M. McCormick, of Knox, Ind., delivered an intensely earnest and patriotic address at Culver on Decoration day to a large and appreciative audience. He said in part:

"Our country, though yet in youth has witnessed the transformation of its hidden mineral and forest treasures into stately and magnificent edifices equal in extent if not in some instances superior to other nations of the earth whose age is dimmed by time. It has advanced from colonies, struggling for existence to a power whose magnificence the world is compelled to acknowledge." Then after comparing or rather contrasting the nations growth in literature wealth and every element that constitutes a powerful nation with the greatest world power in existence, he gave the greatest need of praise for the continuance of our growth in power, world influence in civilization and wealth, to the patriotism and the privations of the volunteers who offered their lives that the union might survive, and the nation thus be perpetuated. He said: "Had rebellion succeeded and the right for states to secede been established, instead of this great and powerful nation, would have been witnessed, numerous feeble antagonistic nationalities perhaps warring with each other for supremacy. When the war began statesmen of Europe asserted that they always regarded the union of states as a rope of sand easily broken. Young sprigs of royalty were being trained for kings and princes to reign over dependencies of European monarchies. Maxamillions position in Mexico was taken, backed up by French bayonets, for the favorable location to overcome the fragments of the dismembered union. While Great Britain on the north was already in a similar position, ready to take advantage of conditions it earnestly hoped and expected soon to occur. All these sad and destructive conditions were prevented by heroic battles, destructive to life and limb, long and toilsome marches, exposures to cold and storm, destructive to life and health. At the time of the war a sentiment existed, among those who opposed its prosecution, and there were many, that our volunteers went from mercenary motives for gain, to sever unpleasant ties, or expecting a grand picnic excursion, that no need of praise was due them, rather disdain and disgrace should be felt for their actions. This false proposition has continued down to the present time and been harped on, especially by those who were too cowardly to act, or whose sympathies were in favor of our destructive foes, although the false sentiments are rapidly disappearing and becoming extinct, we still hear its murmurs. Forty years after these stirring events the facts can and should be analyzed by a cool and careful consideration.

These volunteers were as a rule boys of intelligence and were well informed as to the hardships of other wars and the dangers of former battles, knew some of them by a first three months service of the hardships to be encountered. They left the embraces of mothers, sisters and sweethearts and the tears of fathers and brothers. No time in the history of America has there been so favorable a time for the accumulation of wealth and the opportunities to acquire a competency as in civil life during the period of the civil war, so rare as to be remarkable, was plundering done for gain. The unprejudiced pages of history has recorded that these volunteers, who were boys in age, sacrificed all their favorable prospects for the sake of patriotism and pure love of country. Who is there so degraded as to begrudge them the small pittance doled out in their old age, a mere cup of water, as it were, to their deserts. These enormities will be forgotten but their valor and heroism will ever brighten the pages of history.

A Barn Raising.

Levi Kreig, living two and one half miles southeast of Maxinkuckee, raised his barn last Tuesday. On Monday Mr. Kreig, invited his friends and neighbors to help raise his barn the following morning, but it began to rain about seven o'clock and appeared for a time as though all were to be disappointed but in a short time it began to clear off and about seventy gathered in, all rejoicing over the fact that a pleasant day was to be enjoyed. Mr. Spangler assisted by C. J. Loudon, appeared with a derrick, with which to raise the bents of the barn, which is a bank barn, 36x56 feet. The preparations were so carefully made and so well executed that every brace, plate and nail-tie fit exactly to its place. The derrick stood like a monument fastened with four large guy ropes which held it in place, from the top was suspended a block and tackle which was fastened with a large chain to the bents and drawn up by a capstan run by five men, while the rest look on and said "Oh how nice." At 12 o'clock dinner was called and a very excellent meal was prepared of which all partook heartily. During the afternoon the work proceeded nicely, not a single mistake had been made by the carpenters, Messrs. Warner and Scheuerman. They have built five barns this season and have contracts for the building of two houses and the Washington school house. The boys are hustlers and their work gives the best of satisfaction.

SERVIA TURNS TO NEW KING; WORK OF MURDERERS INDORSED

Rumors that Karageorgevitch Is Not Satisfied with the Situation—Authentic Story of the Assassination Told by One of the Soldiers Who Took Part in the Affair.

The conference of senators and deputies, held at Belgrade, resolved unanimously, that the constitution of 1888 should be put in force, and that Prince Peter Karageorgevitch should be elected king.

It is not certain that Karageorgevitch will accept the crown. The most sensational rumors have been received from Geneva. One is to the effect that the prince demands that before he enters Belgrade all officers concerned in the murders shall have left it, requires an increase in his civil list, and insists that his election must be unanimous.

It is believed that the terms laid down by the prince will be granted, that the assassins will be banished, and that amnesty will be extended to them later.

Prince Karageorgevitch, although little is known of him among the people of Serbia generally seems to have caught the public fancy, and his election will be a popular one.

King and Queen Buried.

The bodies of the murdered king and queen were spurned and spit upon by hundreds as they lay in rude coffins awaiting burial. They were buried body was torn in a barbaric fashion. The appearance of the royal apartments is indescribable. The doors and floors are shattered and the ruins drenched with blood.

A new element in the situation is a feeling among the intelligent classes in favor of the abolition of a Serbian monarchy altogether, and the creation of a republic, but it is certain that Austria and Russia would not countenance the creation of a republic.

The government has laid claim to the possessions of the late monarch. It is not known whether he left a fortune, but it is supposed that he had considerable savings, having lived economically during the last decade. It is reported that the greater part of his money was deposited in England, but it is questionable whether the capital would be delivered to the Serbian government. The opinion at Belgrade is that all belongs to the state, even including the king's foreign investments. It is possible that ex-Queen Natalie may also appear as an heiress. Queen Draga was in receipt of 30,000 gulden monthly, and also had great savings, which will be handed over to her three sisters.

NEW KING DENIES COMPLICITY.

Says the Killing Was to Him a Shocking Surprise.

Prince Peter Karageorgevitch, the pretender to the Serbian throne, gave an interview at Geneva, Switzerland, in which he repeated his disclaimer of any complicity, direct or indirect, in the assassination of King Alexander and Queen Draga. He expressed his detestation of the crime, and gave a brief outline of his own political tendencies.

Replying to a series of direct questions, Prince Peter said:

"It is true my partisans have a complete organization in Serbia, with which I am in frequent communication. I know from other sources that the discontent of the Serbian people had reached its height, but I could not possibly have foreseen the events of the other night. I in no way contributed to their preparation, and I took no part, direct or indirect, in them. On the contrary, their perpetration surprised me.

"My opinion of the executions of the king and queen of Serbia is this: I deeply regret that it has been thought necessary to shed streams of blood. I formally disapprove of the violent measures, and I especially deplore that the army has had recourse to such measures—an army which has nobler tasks to accomplish than assassination. It would have sufficed to force King Alexander to sign his abdication.

Ever a Soldier of Fortune.

Since Prince Peter Karageorgevitch has been spoken of for King of Serbia, those who have known for a long time the members of his family and who some years ago knew him as an interesting figure in Paris, are recalling various phases of his adventurous and checkered career. His life has been filled with dare-devil escapades and the ups and downs of a royal pretender and a soldier of fortune. He has been constantly engaged in intrigue, plots, and counterplots for the realization of his royal demands.

The prince received in Belgrade the early education of a prince, but when a boy of 12 he saw the rule of his family terminated and he and his relatives were driven into exile. He entered the lycee of Sainte Barbe, and there qualified himself for the military school of St. Cyr, from which he was graduated a sublieutenant. Later he entered the military staff college, and, graduating therefrom just before the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian war, he eagerly plunged into this conflict as an officer of the foreign legion, which was largely made up of scions of noble houses and adventurous foreigners.

He was in the hardest fighting of the war and took part in the battle of Orleans, where his cousin, Nicolaievich, was killed. He there attracted the attention of Gen. Billot, who made and feeling their way, the revolutionaries climbed the stairs and got into the dark anteroom to the king's apartment. Here they found candles and lit them.

"This seemingly slight circumstance was decisive to the whole action. Without light they could not have found the victims, who fled from their sleeping apartment through corridors and numerous rooms, and might have escaped, but some of the officers with burning candles and others with pistols commenced to search for the royal couple.

"In breathless haste the conspirators ran through the rooms, opened wardrobes, and looked behind curtains, in vain. In the anteroom connecting with the corridor between the old and new palace the sergeant of him a member of his personal staff. His conspicuous bravery in the battle of Villersexel brought him the badge of the legion of honor. On the conclusion of the war he turned his attention to Herzegovina's struggle for liberty and took a prominent part in the rising which was the starting point of the Russo-Turkish war. He spent the great part of his fortune in aiding the insurgents.

ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER.

Royal Couple Long Evaded Their Determined Pursuers.

The following is a narrative of the revolution given by men who took an active part in it.

"Army officers to the number of ninety having formed a project of a

Where Cabinet Ministers Were Killed, revolt, among them being delegates from almost every garrison in Serbia and the majority of the officers of the Sixth regiment. Lieut. Col. Mitschitsch invited his comrades to meet in the Kalmagden garden at 11 o'clock on the night of the murder, and there the immediate carrying out of the intended deed was organized.

"At 1:40 a. m. the officers in eight groups went to the royal palace. Each had special directions regarding his part in the revolution. In the palace itself the revolutionaries had two important partisans in the king's bodyguard—Col. Alexander Maschin, Queen Draga's cousin, not brother-in-law, and the king's personal adjutant, Lieut. Naumovitch.

"Two officers of the high military academy appeared at the appointed hour, 2 a. m., at the gate of the palace, where the king's adjutant, Panajotovic, who was in the conspiracy, handed them the keys to the garden gate, which is always kept locked. First, stepping before the guard at the palace, one of the two officers called, 'Throw down your arms.' A fight ensued, with shots from both sides, in which several persons were wounded.

"The revolutionaries then entered the front garden without hindrance and reached the courtyard of the old palace, where Lieut. Naumovitch was waiting. He opened the lock of the iron door leading to the front room on the first floor. By this it was seen that the palace was carefully closed and that danger was suspected. Hurrying up stairs to the first floor, the revolutionaries attracted the attention of the palace attendants and the royal couple by the noise of the shooting. Lieut. Lavar Petrovitch, alarmed by the unwonted hubbub, hurried forward with a drawn revolver in one hand and in the other a sword.

"What do you want?" he cried.

"Show us where the king and queen are," came the reply.

"Back!" cried Petrovitch, and at the same moment a bullet stretched him on the ground. The revolutionaries pressed forward, when suddenly the electric light gave out. All stood in darkness. In the greatest excitement the gendarmes was sleeping. Awakening, he stepped before the revolutionaries, who felled him.

"At last Queen Draga's servant was found. He wounded Capt. Dimitrevic severely, but was spared because he was needed in finding the fleeing couple. Indeed, this servant showed the officers where King Alexander and Queen Draga had gone to secrete themselves. When he told them this he was shot.

"Col. Maschin now joined the revolutionists and led them back to the sleeping apartment, where the king's adjutant tried to hinder the search. He shot at Lieut. Naumovitch, who fell dead. The others then killed the adjutant.

After a long search a small door leading into an alcove was discovered, but it was found locked. It was broken in with an ax, and here the royal couple were found in undress.

"The older officers first intended forcing the king to abdicate, but the young officers were in no mood to be held back and shot at the royal couple. Nobody knows in the excitement who shot first, but it is generally said it was Lieut. Kistic.

"After the murder King Alexander's body was found entirely covered with blood. That of Queen Draga was badly torn by bullets. The report that the bodies were thrown out of the window into the garden is untrue. The young officers intended to do so, but Col. Maschin prevented it, exclaiming, 'that would be barbarous.'

"All the servants of the royal couple fled when the first shots were heard, with the exception of Queen Draga's servant, who was found dead. At 2:12 o'clock all was over. Col. Maschin issued from the gate of the palace, around which great crowds had collected, and made a speech saying:

"We have now destroyed the dynasty of the Obrenovitches, and have got rid of the dishonorable woman who was the king's evil spirit. Long live Serbia."

"The people responded: 'Long live the army!'

Almost simultaneously with the butchery in the palace the troops endeavored to arrest all the relatives of the queen and those ministers whom the conspirators disliked. Two brothers of the queen, Lieut. Col. Nikola and Nikodem Lunjevics, were seized and escorted by a detachment of troops from their dwelling to the guardroom of the divisional commander. They were evidently not suspicious of their doom, and were lighting cigarettes when they were shot dead by eight soldiers.

LAST OF THE BOW IN BATTLE.

With the English Civil War Its Usefulness Died Out.

Archery, which for centuries bore so prominent a part in military history, ceased to be practiced, so far as its use in warfare was concerned, before the reign of Charles II, though it found high favor in his time as a healthful outdoor exercise and pastime.

Charles I, himself skilled in the use of the long bow, appointed two special commissions to enforce the practice of archery; but with the civil war the art died out.

In that terrible struggle bows and arrows, weapons that had won so many fields, took no part, except to a small extent in the guerilla warfare carried on against Cromwell in the Scottish highlands, where they were carried by fighting archers for the last time.

The use of the bow in battle had continued long after the invention of gunpowder in 1320. It is recorded, for instance, that in 1572 Queen Elizabeth offered to place 3000 archers at the disposal of Charles IX of France.

A Maryland Wonder.

Upper Cross Roads, Md., June 15th.—Never in the history of medicine in this state has anything created such a sensation by its marvelous cures of the most extreme cases as Dodd's Kidney Pills.

This wonderful medicine seems to know no limit in its wonder working power. Long-standing cases that have defied the most expert medical treatment seem to yield easily to this new conqueror of disease.

Hundreds have testified to the virtue of Dodd's Kidney Pills. They tell of severe cases of Rheumatism, Lumbago, Backache, Female Trouble, Nervous Diseases and even Dropsy, Diabetes and Bright's Disease cured by this medicine.

Among those who have been benefited may be mentioned Mrs. John Cooney of this place.

Mrs. Cooney says:

"I believe Dodd's Kidney Pills the best remedy ever known for Kidney Trouble and weak back.

"They are without exception the best medicine I have ever used.

"I will always praise them highly, for I know that they are good."

Mrs. Cooney is only one of many who say of Dodd's Kidney Pills:

"The most wonderful remedy we ever heard of."

His Trouble.

"Literature may be a great thing," said the sad looking man, "but if I hadn't been a man of letters I would have had less trouble."

"Indeed?" queried the casual acquaintance.

"Yes, I wouldn't have been mixed up in a breach of promise suit."

Mrs. Laura L. Barnes, Washington, D. C., Ladies Auxiliary to Burnside Post, No. 4, G. A. R., recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"In diseases that come to women only, as a rule, the doctor is called in, sometimes several doctors, but still matters go from bad to worse; but I have never known of a case of female weakness which was not helped when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was used faithfully. For young women who are subject to headaches, backache, irregular or painful periods, and nervous attacks due to the severe strain on the system by some organic trouble, and for women of advanced years in the most trying time of life, it serves to correct every trouble and restore a healthy action of all organs of the body.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a household reliance in my home, and I would not be without it. In all my experience with this medicine, which covers years, I have found nothing to equal it and always recommend it."—Mrs. LAURA L. BARNES, 607 Second St., N. E., Washington, D. C.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands without a peer as a remedy for all the distressing ills of women.

after midnight, secretly and without ceremony, with not a single friend at their grave side.

The remains were interred in a vault in the cemetery chapel. Two wooden crosses alone denoted the spot, marked "Alexander Obrenovics" and "Draginja Obrenovics." The other bodies lie outside in the cemetery in rough graves.

Lieut. Naumovitch was not buried with the other victims, but in response to the wishes of the public was buried in daylight, with full military honors, and is now generally styled "a patriot who died for his country."

The sisters and nieces of the late queen, who had been arrested by the military authorities, were expelled from the country. Her sisters were permitted to take a farewell look at the dead queen's remains. They were subsequently conveyed by the police on board a Serbian ship, which took them out of the country. They were lucky to escape with their lives.

The autopsy held has proved that the late king received thirty shot wounds, many of them deadly. Queen Draga had numerous shot and saber wounds, and it is alleged that her

A Good Thing.

Every issue of The Four-Track News makes it easier for ticket agents and ticket sellers to secure passengers for distant parts of the country, for the reason that every article and every illustration in The Four-Track News is an inducement for readers to travel and see what a marvelous variety of scenery and climate our own country possesses. The more these facts are impressed upon the average person, the more certain he or she is to have a desire to travel. Therefore, The Four-Track News is not only in the interest of all the transportation lines and hotels, it also bears out the legend of its title page of "An Illustrated Magazine of Travel and Education."—From the Buffalo Commercial.

Looking Forward.

The momentous question, "What shall we make of little Micky?" was being discussed in the O'Connor family.
 "Sure," said Mrs. O'Connor, "the boy has a wonderful ear for music. It's meself that thinks he should be taught to play an instrument."
 "Good for ye," said Mr. O'Connor; "let him learn to play the clarinet."
 "The clarinet! Sure, the y'llin' wud be more useful to the boy, and its swatter music livery way."
 "So it may be," said O'Connor sagaciously; "it's not meself that wud be denyin' it. But, ye see, Bridget, avick, a clarinet will be much handier for Micky in a scrimmage."

OUT OF TENTS AND BLANKETS

State Arsenal Is Emptied for the Benefit of Sufferers From Flood.

APPEALS TO WAR DEPARTMENT

Acting Governor Northcott Asks Federal Authorities to Render Aid to the People of East St. Louis—Kansas City Needs Help.

Springfield, Ill., dispatch: Illinois has exhausted its resources in furnishing tents and blankets for the relief of the refugees from flood at East St. Louis and neighboring points and Acting Gov. Northcott has appealed to the war department of the United States for assistance and has requested 2,000 tents. In his message the acting governor requested that the tents be sent direct to East St. Louis at the earliest possible moment if the request be allowed.

Two hundred tents and 300 blankets were sent by express to East St. Louis and additional tents were sent to Chester. This practically clears the state arsenal of all available tents and blankets.

A message was received from Col. J. S. Culver, commander of the Fifth regiment and in charge of the military forces at East St. Louis, asking that tents and blankets be sent to Al Keechler, chairman of the relief committee in East St. Louis.

Mayor Asks for Rifles. A telegram was received at the executive office from J. W. Scott, the mayor of Venice, requesting that twenty rifles be sent to Granite City, for use by the patrol guard in protecting property from river pirates. The arms were immediately started to that place.

It is reported from Chester that the waters have reached the walls of the southern state penitentiary at that place and fear is entertained that a portion of the walls of the prison may be undermined by the flood.

Adj. Gen. Smith expects that troops will be needed at East St. Louis at least ten days longer. They will be kept there until their presence is no longer necessary for protection of property or life.

Kansas City Needs Aid. Kansas City, Kas., June 15.—Mayor Gilbert has sent the following telegram to E. F. Ware, commissioner of pensions, at Washington: "The relief committee invites you to come to Kansas City, Kas., and see if you were correct in the statement that Kansas needs no aid. Four thousand families—20,000 people—homeless here. Is it right for us who are not in need to let our pride prevent charity coming to those who are really suffering when we cannot furnish it?"

Ware Explains. Washington, June 15.—Commissioner Ware of the pension office made the following explanation of his order discontinuing the soliciting of funds for Kansas flood sufferers in the pension bureau:

"I have not the slightest objections to Kansans contributing all they want to the fund, nor do I object to their being asked to give the money in this office, but they must leave the people of other states and the popular subscription idea alone. Kansas can take care of herself. If there is suffering and want the state has millions of dollars in bank to draw on."

Mr. Ware added that he had sent his check for $500 for those who are in need of help. His letter accompanying the check stated that if more money were needed he would duplicate his original subscription.

His One Joke—But a Good One.

Robertus Love, secretary-treasurer of the American Press Humorists, has gone home to St. Louis, so it's safe to tell things on him. Love never sprung, orally, more than one spontaneous joke in his life, according to his own modest confession.

One time, years and years ago, he was on a train passing through Baltimore. Some one in the car looked out at the scattered houses that lay on either side the railroad track, and asked:

"Is this the outskirts of Baltimore?" Just then the train whisked into a tunnel like a rabbit into its burrow, and Mr. Love shouted out gleefully in the darkness:

"No, it's the undershirts."—Baltimore American.

WHERE IS MORGAN'S TREASURE?

Buccaneer's Wealth Buried Somewhere in Jamaica.

According to tradition, there is an immense private treasure buried in a cave somewhere in the recesses of Gun hill, in the parish of Trelawny, Jamaica.

It is the hoard collected by Sir Henry Morgan, the most famous of the West Indian buccaneers, who sacked Puerto Cabello, Maracaibo, Panama, and all the richest towns of the Indies and the Spanish main, beside taking plate ships galore. No other rover was half so successful as he; none collected anything like so much booty.

Morgan was a canny Welshman, who always contrived, by fair means or foul, to get most of the plunder for himself. He was a good judge of diamonds and precious stones, and used to buy up for a mere song those which fell to the lot of his men.

After the sack of Panama he was knighted by Charles II. and made vice governor of Jamaica. What became of his vast wealth never transpired, but he is supposed to have buried it in Trelawny.

When he became a respectable member of society he turned against his former associates, and hanged many a pirate. He must have stood in fear of their vengeance, and buried his treasure lest they should make a sudden raid on Jamaica.

It is said that this treasure, like Capt. Kidd's more famous hoard, is guarded by "Old Nick" himself, hoofs, horns, tail, pitchfork and all.—Chambers' Journal.

CANCER CURED without the knife, by our new safe and sure method; also other diseases. Reasonable prices. "T. S. T." 1932 North Albany Ave., Chicago.

DOCTOR ADVOCATED OPERATION--- PE-RU-NA MADE KNIFE UNNECESSARY.

CATARRH is a very frequent cause of that class of diseases known as female weakness.

Catarrh of the pelvic organs produces such a variety of disagreeable and irritating symptoms that many people—in fact, the majority of people—have no idea that they are caused by catarrh.

If all the women who are suffering with any form of female weakness would write to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio, and give him a complete description of their troubles, and the peculiarities of their troubles, he will immediately reply with complete directions for treatment, free of charge.

Mrs. Eva Bartho, 133 East 12th street, N. Y. City, N. Y., writes: "I suffered for three years with leucorrhoea and ulceration of the womb. The doctor advocated an operation which I dreaded very much, and strongly objected to go under it. Now I am a changed woman. Peruna cured me; it took nine bottles, but I felt so much improved I kept taking it, as I dreaded an operation so much. I am today in perfect health and have not felt so well for fifteen years."—Mrs. Eva Bartho.

Miss Maud Steinbach, 1399 12th Street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

"Last winter I felt sick most of the time, was irregular and suffered from nervous exhaustion and severe bearing down pains. I had so frequently heard of Peruna and what wonderful cures it performed so I sent for a bottle and in four weeks my health and strength were entirely restored to me."—Miss Maud Steinbach.

Everywhere the women are using Peruna and praising it. Peruna is not a palliative simply; it cures by removing the cause of female disease.

Dr. Hartman has probably cured more women of female ailments than any other living physician. He makes these cures simply by using and recommending Peruna.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

BABY'S FUTURE

Something for Mothers to Think About

Lives of Suffering and Sorrow Averted

And Happiness and Prosperity Assured by

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills

When All Else Fails.

Every child born into the world with an inherited or early developed tendency to distressing, disfiguring humors of the skin, scalp and blood, becomes an object of the most tender solicitude, not only because of its suffering, but because of the dreadful fear that the disfigurement is to be lifelong and mar its future happiness and prosperity. Hence, it becomes the duty of mothers of such afflicted children to acquaint themselves with the best, the purest and most effective treatment available, viz., The Cuticura Treatment.

Warm baths with Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the skin and scalp of crusts and scales, gentle applications of Cuticura Ointment, to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and mild doses of Cuticura Resolvent, to cool the blood in the severer cases, are all that can be desired for the speedy relief and permanent cure of skin troubles of infants and children, and the comfort of worn-out parents.

Millions of women use Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair and hands, for annoying irritations and weaknesses, and for many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves.
