THE GRIM REAPER.

Two of Our Oldest Citizens Called to Their Reward Beyond.

WERE REARED IN THIS COMMUNITY.

Death Called Mr. McFarland on Sunday and Tuesday His Widow Followed.

The death of J. S. McFarland Sunday night and the death of his wife Tuesday morning has cast a gloom over this entire community. Mr. McFarland has been in very poor health for a year. He lost the sight of his right eye some time ago and his sufferings were intense. Several months ago, what is supposed to be cancer of the liver appeared, since which time he has failed very rapidly, till his death at 8:30 p. m. Sunday, July 5th.

Mrs. McFarland has been in her usual health, her death resulting from heart disease of which she has been afflicted for some time. Her death was sudden—about 4 o'clock Tuesday morning, when she arose for the day, she fell prostrate and was dead before a physician could reach her.

They have built a splendid new residence this summer, it having been almost completed at the time of their death. The funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the U. B. church and interment in the McElrath cemetery.

Jacob Speck McFarland, son of Robert and Eleanor McFarland, was born April 15, 1853, in Marshall county, Indiana, Union township. The home of his birth was situated just east of Lake Maxinkuckee, in what is known as the Washington neighborhood. Jacob was the third of five children, Theodore, John, Jacob Speck, Mrs. Adelia McFarland Jones and Robert Clayton McFarland. Jacob S. is the first one of the children to join the deceased parents in the spirit land. John, who lives in Dakota, will not be present to join with Theodore, Adelia and Robert in mourning the departure of the first of this family of children.

Jacob was reared in a Methodist christian home. His father was a minister of the gospel, in the denomination known as the Methodist Protestant church. The boy was educated in the common school and lived in his father's home until his marriage, engaging his time proportionately between the school and the farm.

Mr. McFarland was united in marriage to Miss Mary Jane McElrath, April 1875. After a period of more than twenty-eight years these happy bonds of matrimony are broken; but the years have been beautiful because of fidelity and unbroken regard.

Mary Jane McElrath, daughter of James and Orpha Thankful McElrath, was born February 5, 1850, in Marshall county near the city of Plymouth. She was the fifth of seven children. Six of these seven children are on the other shore. Mrs. Kate Sophronia Mosher is the sole survivor, living in Colorado, she will not be present to witness the laying to rest of all her father's family but herself. A lonely day will come to her when she receives the news of the double death in the McFarland home.

Mr. and Mrs. McFarland were the parents of ten children, the three eldest having died in infancy. The remaining seven in the order of their births are as follows: Orpha L., residing in Chicago; Robert T., Chauncy, Edwina, Scott, Eugenia and Mary Eleanor.

Charles Houghton, a nephew, but a son and heir by family adoption, from infancy, is to be named among the children of the McFarland home.

These doubly bereaved and orphan children have the warmest sympathy of this entire community. It is seldom that the stroke of death falls so suddenly and with such far reaching consequences. But these mourning children have many things in love and memory, to comfort, and assuage their grief, as we all have to admire and regret the lives of this couple so lately fallen in their own home.

Not a more comforting fact than this: These children bear a name that has been honored by several generations, but never more by those who have borne it than by their own father, who has made the McFarland name the synonym of integrity and whose father love, care and native gentility of character was the governing and moulding principle of all in the home in which they have been reared with especial care for manhood and womanhood and splendid citizenship.

Mr. McFarland had been an invalid for about two years, improving somewhat last fall, but this spring again falling into the power of the disease that finally ended his mortal life, he gradually sank until the end came. The heroism with which he bore the most intense sufferings and the imminent present of death, is a mark of the stronger characteristics of the man. His cheerfulness and happy disposition could not be over come by these adverse circumstances. He was himself to the very last, thoughtful of the comfort of the dear ones he was about to leave, but especially of his wife that she might survive the shock of their separation, and when hand and tongue were still he breathed out the anxious solicitude of his sympathetic soul.

Mrs. McFarland has for a number of years been quite out health. The seeds of death were sown in her mortal frame. The fears of her children were sadly realized when they baptised mothers face with their tears and laid the lifeless form of mother by father, who waited the last sad rites of the sepulcher.

In many respects Mr. McFarland was a remarkable man. These honoring respects, we are confident that all who had the privilege of knowing him will readily acknowledge. He was an honest man, "the noblest work of God." This goes for the saying because he was Jacob S. McFarland, and that is the end of all controversy. He was a friendly man and as such, justly and universally acknowledged, he had friends in number as his acquaintance was wide. He was friendly to every man and every man was a friend to him. No higher encomium than this can be paid to any man living or dead. This confidence and general esteem, in which he was held, was evinced in the position given him in the social, political and business affairs of the township in which he lived.

Mrs. McFarland was a woman of sterling ability in the realm of home and mother life. Her entire life was one of generous self sacrifice and the toil of love to those of her heart and life. With the care of her children came the care, also, of her aged mother, who so recently preceded her daughter into the hush of eternity. But she shall have the reward of the noble mother, her children will rise up and call her blessed.

It is now just twenty-eight years, two months and nineteen days since these two souls stood at the hymeneal altar and pledged their mutual lives. They are not separated in death. Together they will be laid beneath the roses where they laid their three little ones in the years ago.

A BIG BLAZE.

Four Barns and a Blacksmith Shop Totally Destroyed By Fire at Leiters Ford.

Special Correspondent from Leiters Ford.

What threatened to be one of the most destructive fires ever known to Leiters Ford, occurred Sunday afternoon. A blaze was seen in the barn belonging to John Engle. A number of men hurried to the scene and found that the flames had caught in the hay and the barn was hastily being consumed. The horses were becoming frantic but their halters were soon cut and they were given their freedom. The stock and vehicles were then hastily taken from the three adjoining barns and every effort made to save them but all of no avail.

The flames soon totally destroyed the barns owned by F. E. Rouch, Wm. Wilson and Chas. Troutman, then changed its course to the blacksmith shop of Chas. Troutman and it, too, was soon totally destroyed in spite of the efforts of the crowds of people to save the buildings. The shop was full of implements, which were nearly all taken out except a few stationary tools and a binder and a drill. The streets were filled with implements of all kinds, pigs were turned loose in the gardens, and horses in the streets, which were also thronged with people. The fire was so hot on all sides that it seemed impossible to check its fury.

During the excitement it was noted that Durr's livery barn had caught fire from the sparks, also a barn directly opposite it. All attention was then turned to it and men were soon on the roof dashing water on the flames, which soon succumbed to the heroic efforts of the volunteer firemen. But little damage was done to the barn, the horses and other contents having been removed when the fire was first seen.

The origin of the fire is not known but it is a supposition that the fire was started by some small boys near the barns. It was a total loss to the owners as none were insured, two policies having run out recently. Mr. Troutman's loss is most severe it being probably $500 and the others $200 in all.

A New Boat.

Capt. Morris has been at work on a new sail boat for the last six months and it was just completed and launched last week. It is a new departure in the sail boat line on Lake Maxinkuckee, being known as a knock-about. It is sloop rigged, 7 1/2 foot beam, 21 feet over all and 15 feet 5 inches on the water line. It carries 380 square feet of canvas and can beat anything of her class that is on the lake. It will be named the "Katheryne" and Mr. Allen Williams has chartered her for the season. Her approximate cost was $600.

The Elevator Opens.

Farmers can now bring their grain to Culver and receive the highest market price for it. Dillon & Castleman have opened the Thayer elevator and are paying seventy cents per bushel for No. 2 wheat, thirty-three cents for oats and forty-five cents for rye. They have just received a car load of corn and will always keep a big supply on hand. See market reports in another column.

CULVER BOYS VICTORIOUS

In an Exciting and Interesting Contest with R. N. U. Boys.

The Culver boys add another scalp to their belt by defeating the lads from the Rochester Normal University at Leiter's Ford the Fourth. Dillon's pitching proved a puzzler to the University nine.

The day was an ideal base ball day, one that makes good playing possible and the Greens went in with the determination of showing their skill as ball tossers. At 2:15 when Manager Byrd led his team on the field he was met with a vast throng of enthusiastic rooters who gave one mighty cheer for the winners. This was responded to by the faint hearted Rochester bunch. The Greens won the toss and chose their outs. Rochester at bat went out on the one, two, three order. Culver came in with two runs in their half.

At no time during the game did the Rochester boys look dangerous. The following will show "what was doing."

Score by innings.
	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Rochester.....	0	2	1	3	0	1	0	1	1	9
Culver.....	2	2	0	5	0	0	0	2	3	11

Struck out by Dillon. 15; by Henderson 8. Hit by pitched ball Henderson 2. Game called 2:30. Umpire "Doc" Hiet.

NOTES.

Ferrier made a great hit on the bench.

The Greens won the long end of the purse.

Rea got all "that was comin' to him."

"Hiko" played a fine game at center.

The umpire's decisions in the 4th inning were the feature of the game.

SUBMIT NEGROES TO TORTURE

Stories of the Abuse Heaped on the Convicts Are Shocking—Peons Are Beaten With Straps and Suspended
by the Thumbs.

Montgomery, Ala., special: Several more arrests have been made in the peonage and conspiracy cases. Among them were those of L. A. Grogan, deputy sheriff of Coosa, charged with "assisting in carrying Emma Paerson to condition of peonage," which means that he used his badge and his office to delude this an dother negroes into thinking they had really been arrested for something, and of J. Wilburn Harrison, against whom there are five indictments for conspiracy to injure and oppress.

False Charges.
Harrison is to be tried for being one of the "affidavit men," whose particular part was to fake and trump up accusations against friendly negroes it was desired to place or to continue in bondage. Grogan protests that he did nothing that he recognized as wrong, and that if he did, all the white people of Coosa county are in the same box with him.

But there are indications that the men involved in the conspiracies knew well enough that they were to assist in getting prisoners fined without a trial, then to dispose of them at an advance on the amount of the fine, and to withhold from the county treasury the money so collected. This could hardly appear to any officer of the law as right.

Weird Stories.
Some idea of the grave abuses committed by quarry owners, landlords, constables, magistrates and guards involved "depriving citizens of African descent" of their liberty, and which the federal courts are undertaking to end, can be had from the sworn testimony of blacks, often corroborated by whites—testimony on which the grand jury unanimously found ninety-nine indictments, and wanted to find more.

If any man entertains doubts as to the cruelties practiced he has but to read the following story of a negro woman tortured to death:

Torture Negroes.
A negro in good health was beaten so much and subjected to such awful tortures from 8 o'clock until 2 o'clock that she died an hour later—3 o'clock. After being beaten until her back was blistered and bloody, she was strung up by her wrists, her feet being tied together. She was hoisted till her toes barely touched ground. In this situation she was kept from 10 o'clock in the morning till the dinner bell rang at 12, when she was ordered cut down. She was still alive, and went behind a log, on the brow of a hill, to lie down.

Guard Is Brutal.

A pone of bread made of corn meal was ordered thrown up to her by the guard. She either could not or would not eat. The guard thereupon ordered the bread thrown to the dogs. When the dinner hour was over, the guard went up to where she lay and ordered her back to work. He mistook her inability to work for stubbornness; he struck her on the head with his pistol. Then "he jumped upon her stomach."

The guard then returned to the place where the other peons were at work and sent word back after a while by one of the peons ordering her to "come on down to work." It was then about 3 o'clock. The peon-

Tacoma, Wash., special: A mighty host of army worms in a solid column 150 yards wide and nearly three miles long, is marching through Walla Walla county. His horse and wagon crushed thousands, but had no effect on the remainder.

returned. He said: "Boss, she can't come to work. She's dead."

Men Prepare Corpses.

The body was ordered taken to a nearby house, where it was washed and dressed by two negro men. The coffin was built at this house. Next morning a guard took two negroes over to Eagle church, about 8 o'clock, and dug a grave. The body arrived, unattended by friends, and without any ceremonials was immediately buried.

The grand jury of that county under took an investigation of this death. Witnesses were marched to the court house at daybreak under guard. They walked while the guards rode, a distance of six or seven miles. The two negroes who had been made to hold the dead woman when she was being whipped were not called to testify.

Fear to Testify.
At the trial the witnesses did not tell anything because, as they said, "We did not want to be thrown in the river, and feared we would be killed. The proprietor told us we had better not tell anything."

Some forty negroes and negroesses have been found whose grievances as to whippings have not been outlawed by the statute of limitation (three years). The details are distressing and do not vary much.

Dogs Chase Fugitive.

There is testimony that one negro was killed with a spade by the son of the proprietor; that a negro who ran away was chased by dogs, "torn about the stomach," whipped when she got back, and kept three months more in servitude. Another negroess is mentioned whose uncle says she was killed by the son of the proprietor, who was acting as overseer.

One of three negroes who was "bought for $50," was whipped, witnesses testified, about every other day for four months, lying face down, one man on his head and one man sitting on his legs. Another was whipped with hickory sticks with empty cartridges on the end. Another was whipped twice; once his hands were tied under his knees, and the guard told him to "count the licks" he was giving him on the bare back. After counting to fifteen the negro could not count any more.

Straps With Tacks.

Another, working out a debt of $6.16 with seven months' labor, was whipped every day with plow lines, and cut on the nose once with a hoe. The guards on one man's place had a strap, "the handle about eighteen inches long, the handle about the same—the strap is about as broad as three fingers;" with this Joe Patterson, who worked a year for a $1 debt, was whipped.

A boy of 18 was whipped two or three times a day. One tells of being "licked" with a stick as big as a broom handle; a negroess shows scars on her back from a buggy trace; a 16-year-old girl was whipped once in her twelve months' service—they placed her over a bench, pulled up her clothes, and struck her "fifteen or twenty times with a strap that was doubled four times and was fastened at the end with tacks."

BIG SURPLUS IN TREASURY

Government Receipts Show
Increase Despite Repeal of War Taxes.

VAULTS ARE FULL OF GOLD

United States Has More of the Yellow
Metal on Hand Than Any Other
Nation—Whisky Pays Over $9,000,
000 More in Revenue.

Washington dispatch: There was a surplus of $32,710,590 in the treasury at the end of the fiscal year which closed June 30, notwithstanding the repeal of the war taxes. The United States government now has in its vaults more gold than any other nation on earth.

The receipts for the year were $558,887,526, and the disbursements $506,176,590. The amount of gold in the treasury is $631,639,898, including that against which gold certificates have been issued and the $150,000,000 of gold reserve fund.

Surplus Surprises.

The large amount of the surplus was unexpected. At the beginning of the fiscal year it was anticipated that the reduction of internal revenue taxes by the repealing of the war taxes would be $75,000,000, whereas the actual loss was only $41,764,866. Owing to the enormous importation of partly manufactured goods the customs receipts were greater than those of last year by $29,434,791.

There was increase of $9,311,697 in taxes paid on whisky, and the receipts from miscellaneous sources were $8,727,148 greater than last year, the increase being due to phenomenal sales of public lands in the West.

The sources of the receipts were: Customs, $283,891,719; internal revenue, $230,115,256, and miscellaneous, $44,880,551.

The items of expenditure were: Civil and miscellaneous, $125,016,512; increase, $11,546,988.

War (including river and harbors), $118,549,638; increase, $6,277,468.

Navy, $82,696,803; increase, $14,893,674.

Indians, $12,921,556; increase, $2,881,971.

Pensions, $138,425,618; decrease, $62,942.

Interest, $28,556,618; decrease, $551,427.

Total, $506,176,590; increase, $34,985,722.

Work of the Mints.

During the fiscal year just ended the mints of the United States coined 205,891,462 pieces, of which 19,182,824 were pesos and various denominations of centavos for the Philippines; 750,000 were for the government of Venezuela, and 1,360,000 for Columbia. The total value of American coins coined was $74,203,000, against $94,526,678 in the previous year.

There was a decrease of $16,278,800 in the value of gold coined, and a slight increase in minor coinage. Deposits of gold with the mints and assay offices during the year, however, increased $1,722,279 over those of the previous year, the total being $134,303,108.

Recalls Naval Officers.

Berlin cable: The commander of the German squadron in American waters, Commodore Scheder, and Admiral Count Von Bandissin, second in command of the east Asiatic squadron, have been recalled.

Urbana, O., special: Two men who were driving from St. Paris were instantly killed by the Pan Handle express. The remains were brought here, mangled beyond recognition.

Bank Circulation.

The circulation of the national banks at the close of business June 30 aggregated $413,670,650, being an increase of $56,998,559 over the previous year. Five hundred and thirty-seven new banks began business in the twelve months just closed, being an increase of more than 100 over those for the previous year. The number of national banks which failed during the year was five, and seventy-two went into voluntary liquidation. A majority of those which went into liquidation, however, were merely consolidations with other banks.

More Gold Certificates.

The total money in circulation in the United States is $2,375,943,237, being an increase during the last year of $126,532,786. Gold certificates alone furnished $72,957,780 of this increase, the total amount of these notes outstanding being $409,109,869.

The amount of treasury notes issued under the law of 1890 has been decreased from $30,000,000 on June 30 last to $19,243,000, this withdrawal being due to the coinage of silver bullion into standard dollars and subsidiary coins.

The amount of public money deposited with the national banks is $151,724,432, being an increase of $27,741,365 during the last twelve months. The number of depositories increased from 574 to 710.

A LOVE STORY BY AMELIA E. BARR

(Copyright, 1900, by Amelia E. Barr)

CHAPTER VIII.—(Continued.)

Without a pause, without an erasure, this letter had transcribed itself from Cornelia's heart to the small gilt-edged note paper, but she found it much more difficult thing to answer the request of Rem Van Ariens. She was hurt and agitated and withal a little sorry for Rem, and she was also in a hurry, for the letter for Joris was waiting, as she wished to send both by the same messenger. Finally she wrote the following words, not noticing at the time, but remembering afterwards what a singular soul reluctance she experienced; how some uncertain presentiment, vague and dark and drear, stifled her thoughts and tried to make her understand, or at least pause:

"My Dear and Honored Friend:

"Your letter has given me very great sorrow. You must have known for many weeks, even months, that marriage between us was impossible. It has always been so, it always will be so. I grieve at your going away; I pray that your absence may bring you some consolation. Do not, I beg you, attempt to call on my father. Without explanations, I tell you very sincerely, such a call will cause me great trouble, for you know well a girl must trust somewhat to others' judgment in her disposal. Please to consider your letter as never written. With a sad sense of the pain my words must cause you, I remain for all time your faithful friend and obedient servant, Cornelia Moran."

Then she rang for a lighted candle, and while waiting for its arrival neatly folded her letters. Her white wax and seal were at hand, and she delayed the servant until she had closed and addressed them.

"You will take Lieut. Hyde's letter first," she said. "Mr. Van Ariens' note you can deliver as you return."

As soon as this business was quite out of her hands, she sank with a happy sigh into a large comfortable chair; let her arms drop gently, and closed her eyes to think over what she had done. She was quite satisfied. She was sure that no length of reflection could have made her decide differently. She had Hyde's letter in her bosom, and she pressed her hand against it, and vowed to her heart that he was worthy of her love, and that he only should have it. "Oh, there is nothing I would alter in him, even at the cost of a wish! Joris! Joris!" and she let the dear name sweeten her lips, while the light of love brightened and lengthened her eyes, and spread over her lovely face a blushing glow.

The tea tray was brought in at five o'clock, but Dr. Moran had not returned, and there was in both women's hearts a little sense of disappointment. Mrs. Moran was wondering at his unusual delay. Cornelia feared he would be too weary and perhaps too much interested in other matters to permit her lover to speak. "But even so," she thought, "Joris can come again. To-night is not the only opportunity."

When the doctor came Cornelia was so thoughtful for the weary man's comfort, so attentive and so amusing, that he found it easy to respond to the happy atmosphere surrounding him. So an hour passed and Cornelia began to listen for the sound of Hyde's step upon the flagged walk. With her work in her hand—making laborious stitches by a drawn thread—she sat listening with all her being.

Half-past eight! She looked up and caught her mother's eyes, and the trouble and question in them, and the needle going through the fine muslin, seemed to go through her Began to listen for Hyde's step. heart. At nine the watching became unbearable. She said softly, "I must go to bed. I am tired. Her movement in the room roused the doctor thoroughly. He stood up, stretched his arms, walked to the window and looking out said: "It is a lovely night, but the moon looks like storm. Oh!"—and he turned quickly with the exclamation—"I forgot to tell you that I heard to-day that Gen. Hyde returned on the Mary Pell this morning, bringing with him a child."

"A child!" said Mrs. Moran. "A girl, then, a little mite of a creature. Mrs. Davy told me the Captain carried her in his arms to the carriage which took them to Hyde Manor."

Then Cornelia said a hasty "good-night" and went to her room. She was sick at heart; she trembled, something in her life had lost its foothold and a sudden bewildering terror—she knew not how to explain—took possession of her.

She buried her face in her pillow and wept bitterly. Alas! Alas! Love wounds as cruelly when he falls, as when he strikes.

CHAPTER IX.

Misdirected Letters.

The night so unhappy to Cornelia was very much more unhappy to Hyde. He had sent his letter to her before eleven in the morning, and if Fortune were kind to him, he expected an answer soon after leaving Madame Jacobus. When noon passed and one o'clock struck, he rang for some refreshments.

At 3 there was a knock at his door and he went hastily to answer it. Balthazar stood there with the longed-for letter in his hand. He felt that he must be quite alone with it. So he turned the key and then stood a moment to examine the outside. He kissed the superscription and kissed the white seal, and sank into his chair with a sigh of delight to read it.

In a few moments a change beyond all expression came over his face—perplexity, anger, despair cruelly assailed him. It was evident that some irreparable thing had ruined all his hopes. He was for some moments dumb. This trance of grief was followed by passionate imprecations and reproaches, wearing themselves away to an utter amazement and incredulity. He had hung the letter to the floor, but he lifted it again and went over the cruel words, forcing himself to read them slowly and aloud.

"Your letter has given me very great sorrow; let me die if that is not what she says; 'very great sorrow. You must have known for weeks, even months, that marriage between us was impossible'; am I perfectly in my senses? 'It always has been and always will be'; why, 'tis heart treason of the worst kind! Oh, Cornelia! Cornelia! And she 'grieves at my going away,' and bids me on 'no account call on her father'—and takes pains to tell me the 'No is absolute'—and I am not to 'blame her! Oh this is the vilest treachery! It is Rem Van Ariens who is at the bottom of it. May the devil take the fellow! I shall need some heavenly power to keep my hands off him. I will never wonder again at anything a woman does—Was ever a lover so betrayed?"

Thus his passionate grief and anger tortured him until midnight. Then he threw himself upon his bed, and his craving, suffering heart at length found rest in sleep from the terrible egotism of its sorrow. Never for one instant did he imagine this sorrow to be a mistaken and quite unnecessary one. Not taking Rem Van Ariens seriously into his consideration, and not fearing his rival in any way, it was beyond all his suspicions that Rem should write to Cornelia in the same hour, and for the same purpose as himself. And that she should be forced by circumstances to answer both Rem and himself in the same hour, and in the very stress and hurry of her great love and anxiety should misdirect the letters, were likelihoods outside his consciousness.

It was far otherwise with Rem. The moment he opened the letter brought him by Cornelia's messenger, in that very moment he knew that it was not his letter. He understood at once the position, and perceived that he held in his hand an instrument, which if affairs went as he desired, was likely to make trouble he could perchance turn to his own advantage. These thoughts sprang at once into his reflections, but were barely entertained before nobler ones displaced them. As a Christian gentleman he knew what he ought to do without cavil and without delay, and he rose to follow the benignant justice of his conscience. Into this obedience, however, there entered an hesitation of a second of time, and that infinitesimal period was sufficient for his evil genius.

"Why will you meddle?" it asked. "It will be far wiser to let Hyde take the first step. If the letter he has received is so worded that he knows it is your letter, it is his place to make the transfer—and he will be sure to do it."

And he hesitated and then sat down, and as there is wickedness even in hesitating about a wicked act, Rem easily drifted from the negative to the positive of the crime contemplated.

"I had better keep it," he mused, "and see what will come of the keeping."

He suffered in this decision, suffered in his own way quite as much as Hyde did. He saw clearly that Cornelia had never loved him, that his hopes had always been vain, and he experienced all the bitterness of being slighted and humbled for an enemy.

He felt a sudden haste to escape himself, and seizing his hat walked rapidly to his father's office. Peter looked up as he entered, and the question in his eyes hardly needed the simple interrogatory—"Well, then?"

"It is 'No.' I shall go to Boston early in the morning."

"I have just heard that Gen. Hyde came back this morning. He is now the Right Honorable the Earl of Hyde, and his son is, as you know, Lord George Hyde. Has this made a difference?"

"It has not. Let us count up what is owing to us. After all there is a certain good in gold."

"That is the truth. In any adversity gold can find friends."

Then the two men spent several hours in going over their accounts, and during this time no one called on Rem and he received no message. When he returned home he found affairs just as he had left them. "So far so good," he thought, "I will let sleeping dogs lie. Why should I set them baying about my affairs? I will not do it"—and with this determination in his heart he fell asleep.

But Rem's sleep was the sleep of tired flesh and blood and heavy as lead. And the waking from such sleep—if there is trouble to meet—is like being awakened with a blow. He leaped to his feet, and the thought Reached Van Heemskirk's house. of his loss and the shame of it, and the horror of the dishonorable thing he had done, assailed him with a brutal force and swiftness. He was stunned by the suddenness and the inexorable character of his trouble. And he told himself it was "best to run away from what he could not fight." As soon as he was well on the road to Boston, he even began to assume that Hyde, full of the glory of his new position, would doubtless be well disposed to let all old affairs drop quietly "and if so," he mused, "Cornelia will not be so dainty, and I may get 'Yes' where I got 'No.'"

Hyde spent a miserable night, and a sense of almost intolerable desertion and injury awoke with him. "I must get into the fresh air," he said. "I am faint and weak. I must see my mother."

He rode rapidly through the city and when he reached his Grandfather Van Heemskirk's house, he saw him leaning over the half-door smoking his pipe. He drew rein then, and the old gentleman came to his side: "Why art thou here?" he asked. "Is thy father, or Lady Annie sick?"

"My father at home!" "That is the truth. Where wert thou, not to know this?"

"I came to town yesterday morning. I had a great trouble. I was sick and kept my room."

"And sick thou art now, I can see that," said Madame Van Heemskirk coming forward. "What is the matter with thee, my Joris?" "Cornelia has refused me. I know now how it is, that no woman will love me. Am I so very disagreeable?"

"Thou art as handsome and as charming as can be; and it is not Cornelia that has said 'no' to thee, it is her father. Now he will be sorry, for thy uncle is dead and thy father is Earl Hyde, and thou thyself art a lord."

PUT LINCOLN IN OFFICE.

Only Two Survivors of the Illinois Electors.

As the Hon. William Pitt Kellogg, former senator from Louisiana, and Judge Lawrence Weldon of the Court of Claims, gave each other cordial greeting in the lobby of the Shoreham yesterday, the interesting fact was recalled that these two men are the only survivors of the Illinois electors, who in 1860 were chosen to cast the vote of that state for Abraham Lincoln and Hannibal Hamlin.

"Yes," said Gov. Kellogg. "Judge Weldon and I alone are left of the eleven, who in that historic campaign delivered the vote of Illinois to Lincoln. The full list of electors from our state was: Leonard Swett, John M. Palmer, Allen C. Fuller, William B. Plato, Lawrence Weldon, William P. Kellogg, James Stark, James C. Conklin, H. P. H. Bromwell, Thomas G. Allen and John Olney. Several of these, notably John M. Palmer and Leonard Swett, became famed afterward throughout the nation.

"Gen. Palmer won fame in the war, and led the Fourteenth corps in the Atlanta campaign. He was also governor of Illinois from 1869 to 1873, United States senator in 1892, and in 1896 was the candidate of the gold Democrats for president.

PROSPERITY FOLLOWS STRIKE

Bedford Merchants Reap Harvest When Men Return to Quarries.

With the resumption of operations in the stone industry, which has been idle for eight weeks because of a strike, comes an unprecedented wave of prosperity at Bedford. Business had become almost paralyzed by the shutdown in quarries and stone mills, and their resumption has shown that the industry makes up most of the business life of the city. Hundreds of stone workers who were thrown out of employment have returned to take their old places. After the strike was settled the sidewalks about the business section were crowded with people who were patronizing business houses, which had an immense trade. The strike brought a benefit to the Midland Portland Cement company, which was able to gather up 200 idle men from the quarries to work on the new plant. The company is hurrying the work of completing its enterprise.

Fight With Mad Dog.

Edgar Deckard, a small boy, had a terrible fight with a mad dog near Smithville. The dog attacked a cow in a lot and the boy tried to drive it away. The dog turned upon him and the boy fought for his life, crying lustily for help. The boy was bitten and lacerated in seven places. He is a son of George Deckard, a well-to-do farmer.

Joint Fraternal Meet.

A big meeting, under the auspices of the Flat Rock Knights of Pythias and Red Men, will be held at Flat Rock Aug. 6 and 7. The lodges of Franklin, Edinburg, Columbus, Rushville, Shelbyville and several other surrounding cities will be invited. Dr. C. A. Robinson of Greenfield will deliver an address.

Runs Into Rattler.

Harrison Pitman left Corydon for Kansas, where he had bought a large tract of land. Word came to Mrs. Pitman that he had been bitten by a rattlesnake while going over his Western farm, and was in a precarious condition. Mrs. Pitman left for Kansas at once.

Horse Severs Man's Finger.

While Charles Brown, a Pan-Handle engineer, was watching the lassoing of some wild horses at Logansport, one of the horses made a wild dash and took up all the slack in the rope and caught Brown's finger in it, completely severing it.

Thieves Work Hard.

Thieves had a busy time at Vincennes doing much work for which they received small reward. They broke into five stores in one business block and all the plunder they secured was $4 in money and a revolver.

Five New Gas Wells.

The Muncie Gas, Light and Fuel company, which supplies two-thirds of the Muncie homes with natural gas, has completed five new gas wells, which have an average daily capacity of 1,000,000 cubic feet each.

Strike Coal and Lead.

Well drillers struck a seven-foot vein of coal at a depth of eighty feet, while drilling for gas or oil, two miles south of Wycliffe, near the Orange county line. Considerable lead ore was also found.

Glass Tank Breaks.

A tank containing fifty tons of molten glass broke in the plant of the Skillen-Goodin Glass company, in Yorktown, and caused a heavy loss. The factory has been closed until repairs can be made.

Deadly Cannon Cracker.

William Hays, 18 years old, employed in a drug store at North Judson, had his left hand blown off by a cannon firecracker, the fuse of which was lighted when he did not know it.

Wire Mill Is Idle.

The rod department of the American Steel and Wire company mills at Anderson has shut down and the mill mills are to close. Improvements which will cost about $200,000 will be made.

Church Is Dedicated.

The First Christian church, completed at a cost of $20,000, has been dedicated at Muncie. The services were conducted by the Rev. J. F. Burnett, pastor of the church.

New I. O. F. of A. Lodge.

Chief Ranger Hall has organized a lodge of I. O. F. of A. at Whiting, with fifty members. The order now has 2,000 members in Indiana.

Dedication Date.

The date for the dedication of Muncie's $50,000 Carnegie library has been unofficially set for Sept. 15. Andrew Carnegie will be invited to the dedication, notwithstanding the opposition of organized labor.

City Loses Revenue.

The deputy city comptroller, William Bogardus, estimates that 1,000 dogs have been poisoned in Indianapolis in the last year, and the city has lost $1,000 license revenue as a result.

DITCH NOTICE

In the matter of the ditch petition of William G. Zechiel, et al., in Union township, Marshall county; North Bend township, Starke county; and Tippecanoe township, Pulaski county.

Notice is hereby given that the above named ditch was at the May term of the Marshall circuit court, of Indiana, duly established and the undersigned duly appointed commissioner to construct the same. That for the purpose of constructing said ditch and the payment of the costs he is authorized to collect the assessments of benefits adjudged by the court. Therefore persons whose lands are assessed with benefits will, on or before the tenth day of August, 1903, pay to the Plymouth State bank at Plymouth, Indiana, eight and one-third per cent. of all their said assessments for benefits and eight and one-third per cent. of all their said assessments for benefits every thirty days thereafter until seventy-five (75) per cent. of the whole of said assessments are paid. The said ditch commissioner giving such further notice as to additional payments as the circumstances may require.

Dated at Plymouth, Indiana, this 30th day of June, 1903.

John W. Parks, Attorney for Petitioners.
HARRY E. GRUBE,
Ditch Commissioner.

Two horses, four young cattle and a lot of machinery were lost. The barn was one of the best in that section of the country and as there was but 700 dollars insurance the loss will be considerable. We are informed that a barn that stood on the same site, was struck by lightning and burned in 1880.

More Cutters for C. S. N. S.

Immediately after the opening of C. S. N. S. with numbers so far in excess of what had been expected, application was made to the Navy Department for an additional man-o-war cutter. The department, appreciating the real effort being made by the school to give sure-enough naval instruction, gave two instead of only the one asked for, so now we have six, just six times as many as any other school except Annapolis.

Sad News.

Major Gignilliat received a telegram Thursday from his brother, Lient. Com. Gignilliat, the naval instructor, announcing the death of his stepson, Mr. F. Sanborn, by whose illness he had been detained at his home in Savannah, and who had expected to enter the school this summer. All members of the school extend their sincere sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Gignilliat in their sorrow.

The Fourth at the School.

No recitations were held Saturday in honor of July 4th and a cannon was fired—the national salute—each half hour until twenty-one guns had been fired. Mr. Culver made a generous donation to be expended in fire works and the band gave another of its entertaining concerts.

No Pity Shown.

"For years fate was after me continuously," writes F. A. Gullledge, Verbena, Ala. "I had a terrible case of piles causing 24 tumors. When all failed Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured me." Equally good for burns and all aches and pains. Only 25c at T. E. Slattery's drug store.

Remember Dr. Durr's dental office is open every Friday and Saturday. Office opposite postoffice.

Impressing it on His Mind.

A merchant's wife recently gave him a sealed letter, begging him not to open it till he got to his place of business. When he did so, he read: "I am forced to tell you something that I know will trouble you, but it is my duty to do so. I am determined you shall know it, let the result be what it may. I have known for a week that it was coming, but kept it to myself until today, when it has reached a crisis and I can keep it no longer. You must not censure me too harshly for you must reap the results as well as myself. I do hope it won't crush you." Here he turned a page, his hair slowly rising. "The flour is out. Please send me some this afternoon. I thought that by this method you would not forget it." G. W. G.

Brutally Tortured.

A case came to light that for persistent and unmerciful torture has perhaps never been equaled. Joe Golobick, of Colusa, Calif., writes, "For 15 years I endured insufferable pain from rheumatism and nothing relieved me though I tried everything known. I came across Electric Bitters and its the greatest medicine on earth for that trouble." Just as good for liver and kidney troubles and general debility. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by T. E. Slattery, the druggist.

FROCKS AND FRILLS FOR THE FAIR

Blouse With Broad Collar.

Broad collars are becoming to the greater number of womankind and are exceedingly effective on the dainty blouses now in vogue. The very pretty waist illustrated shows one of a novel sort and is made of pale blue louisine silk with trimming of serre lace.

The blouse is made with a fitted foundation and consists of a plain back and fronts that are tucked at their upper portions and joined to a round yoke. The big collar lies flat and is cut in wedge-shaped pieces at its inner edge, the points of which are attached to the shield and under which the ribbon is passed. The shield and stock are separate and are attached to the waist beneath the collar. When desired they can be omitted and the waist worn with an open neck.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is 4 1/2 yards 21 inches wide, 4 yards 27 inches wide, 4 yards 32 inches wide, or 2 yards 44 inches wide, with 1/2 yard of tucking for shield, collar and cuffs.

Embroidered Gowns.

The fad for embroidered gowns brings many pretty fancies to the fore, and a woman who has an artistic sense and is clever with her needle can beautify her cotton gowns in any number of effective ways.

Here, for instance, is a suggestion for a wash cambric that is simple, and yet has a wonderfully pretty effect:

Make a shirt waist costume of white linen cambric, plaiting both the waist and skirt, and then over the plaits around the neck, across the bust, and just below the hips place three garlands of colored flowers. Make them in this way:

Take wash gingham of the colors required—say a pale green and pale pink—cut five petaled flowers of the latter and heart shaped leaves of the former; then, apart from the dress, buttonhole stitch the edges with coarse wash silk. This will make a substantial trimming which may then be sewed on the material in the way suggested, connecting stems and tendrils can be put in a running stitch afterward with the green embroidery silk.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS

When a window is difficult to open rub the sash cords with soft soap and the difficulty will cease.

When polishing grates add a little powdered alum to the black lead and you will find it does its work better.

Before polishing knives warm the board by the fire, for knives polish much better on a warm board than on a cold one.

When cleaning windows don't forget to add a few drops of ammonia to the water. It will make your work easier and the effect will be better.

Tarnished stair rods are easily cleaned. Wash them with soap and water and then polish with a slightly oiled cloth dusted over with finely powdered rotten stone.

Never tolerate a dirty sink. To insure cleanliness dissolve a little soda every night in hot water and pour it down the sink. This will remove any grease, etc., which may adhere to the waste pipe and thus prevent its getting clogged.

Every mother knows that overalls for her small boy or girl are an economical investment. For playing about on the beach, as well as romping in general, they are invaluable. Cotton rep is an excellent material to use for overalls. A good quality of denim or duck will also stand much hard wear.

A Hint From the Cleaner.

A cleaner gave away enough of his secret for renovating materials to prove very valuable to one woman. If gasoline, naphtha, or benzine is the cleaning fluid the amateur cleaner finds often that the last state of the cloth is worse than the first. Around the spot will be a ring of discoloration that marks the stain more thoroughly than did the original spot. To prevent this the fabric should be cleaned with a piece of the same goods, the cloth rubbed lengthwise and with the weave. Continue rubbing until the material is perfectly dry. If these directions are carefully followed, it is safe to clean the most delicate materials.

Some simple facts concerning color will be useful to many when deciding how to dress if having their photographs taken. Dark brown, dark green and plain black materials, without gloss, will take a rich black color. Dark drab, dark orange, crimson and slate will take a very rich drab color. Violet, purple, pink and magenta will come out very light, while pale blue will look white, and should be avoided.

White Chip Hat.

This broad-brimmed white chip hat is raised from the collar by a band of pink velvet, and the wreath is of green leaves and sprays of shaded pink flowers.

Beaten Biscuit.

Into a quart of sifted flour rub a tablespoonful of lard, add a little salt and wet to a very stiff dough with a gill of water and one of milk. Put through a biscuit-beating machine, putting it in again and again until you have worked it for about ten or fifteen minutes, then cut into biscuit, having the dough about one-quarter inch thick. Bake for fifteen minutes in a floured tin, after pricking each biscuit with a fork. Some persons add one-quarter teaspoonful of baking powder to the dry flour. It improves the biscuit.

Cleaning Wash Silk Waists.

The most satisfactory way to clean a wash silk waist is to wash it in a suds made of benzine or gasoline and white soap. Afterward it should be rinsed in fresh benzine, and, if it is wrinkled, it may be pressed with a warm flatiron after it is dry. A hot iron could not, of course, be used on a garment wet with benzine or gasoline. The rinsing fluid may be poured from the sediment which will collect at the bottom and saved for another occasion.

Boy's Costume.

Little boys are always attractive dressed in sailor fashion. The very pretty little costume illustrated combines the blouse that slips over the head, in Peter Thompson style, with a box plaited skirt, and is exceedingly becoming to little tots. As shown, it is made of white serge, with bands of blue and is stitched with blue corticelli silk, but blue serge could be substituted for white, flannel is desirable and various washable fabrics are correct. The costume consists of the body lining, which is faced to form the shield, the skirt and the blouse. The skirt is box plaited and attached to the body. The blouse is separate and without an opening, being drawn on over the head. It is faced to form a deep yoke and at the neck is a sailor collar. The quantity of material required for a child of 4 years is 4 1/2 yards 27 inches wide, or 2 1/2 yards 44 inches wide.

Veils for the Country.

Veils of white chiffon set off with a narrow border of black chiffon are among the novelties. The veils are wide enough to cover the entire face and descend below the chin. This is necessary to prevent the "branded look," which a soiled black veil border produces when the line passes across the mouth or chin, a positive disfigurement to the wearer. These affairs are styled "Broadwalk Veils," but they may be worn at country villages and at "springs" and mountain resorts far from the coast.

Pearls Are in Style.

Evidently the fashion in pearls dates from time so remote that history cannot fix the period, but it is said they were never more popular than at present. Every real pearl, it is said, differs from every other pearl, and it takes years to select the pearls for a single necklace. Imitation pearls can easily be turned out round and all alike.

Sashes are all important for evening gowns this season.

Coaching parasols of blue taffeta, polka dotted in white, are edged with a piping of white velvet.

An accompaniment for grass linen gowns are fobs to match with charms of self material on the end.

In every form the stole is the preferred shoulder wrap, and is equally popular in ostrich, marabout and lace. Among the imported novelties are plaid veils, some in tones of green and blue, others in delicate pastel shadings.

Advices from Paris state that macrame fringe is being used in that city as edging for collars and flounces on linen gowns.

HORTICULTURE

Hand Pollinating.

The Almighty created the vegetable kingdom, but he gave its dominion to man. To what extent this dominion has been given to him man himself has not yet realized. It is evident that he has the power of molding the vegetables of this kingdom to a most remarkable extent. Take for instance the sugar beet, which man found containing 5 per cent of sugar, and has molded it till it contains 15 per cent, sometimes 20 per cent. It may be even possible to do better than that. In our modern cabbage, the cauliflower and various kinds of turnips we find it almost impossible to recognize the original wild forms, so much have they been changed. As yet the work of man has been with a few plants. What about the thousands that his hand has not yet attempted to mold?

There is much hope to be placed in the cross pollination of fruits—especially in the pollination that is done by hand, for in that way definite results are attained. The possibilities of this work are very great. Hardy and high quality fruits may be combined, even though it may take years to get results that will be a fair reward for the labor and time expended in obtaining them.

In hand-pollinating, the flowers must be well understood. The amateur will soon learn that the ovary is the receptacle in which the seed is formed, that the pistil is the central cylindrical portion, the female organ of the flower, that the stamens are the male organs of the flower, bearing knob-like bodies on their tops, in which is the pollen that is to fructify the ovary through the pistil. The petals and the sepals are of no consequence to the pollinator, as they are only for the protection of the organs of germination.

The pollinator selects a bud that is about to open, opens it with instruments and removes the stamens. This is to prevent the stamens fructifying the ovary. If taken before the flower is open none of the pollen will have escaped from the stamens, nor will the ovary have received pollen from any other source. It requires a little practice to remove the stamens without harming the pistil and ovary, especially if the flower is small, but it can be done. The petals are also frequently removed with the stamens, as they are of no particular value except to attract insects to assist in the work of pollination.

To get the pollen from another blossom is an easy task. A blossom should be selected that would open in a day or two. It is cut open and the anthers on top of the stamens removed. These are damp and are full of pollen. They should be spread on a paper and laid in the sun. When they are dry they will burst open and let out the pollen. This is applied to the other blossom by means of a fine brush, the pollen of course being placed in the stigma, which is the entrance to the ovary.

A sack of considerable size should then be placed over the fertilized blossom to prevent any other pollen getting into it. The sack should be removed after the fruit has set, and a bag of mosquito netting substituted. These will catch the fruit if it starts to drop and will be a means of identifying the crossed fruit at harvest time. A tag should be put with each pollinated fruit, giving the names of the varieties crossed.

The Strawberry Patch.

In locating a spot for a strawberry patch, bear in mind that the strawberry is a surface feeder, and, consequently, easily injured or killed by a surfeit of water or during severe drouth. The land should be well drained and one that has been previously planted to hoed crops, so that weeds will give as little trouble as possible. Plow the ground in the fall and again the spring, while in the meantime a liberal coat of barnyard manure should be given. After having plowed the plot it should be thoroughly cultivated and then rolled. It is then ready for marking out, which may be done in various ways, with whatever the planter has convenient for this purpose. The rows are usually placed about three and a half to four feet apart, and the plants 15 to 24 inches apart in the rows, according to the thriftiness of the variety or varieties grown. The choice of varieties is often a very perplexing question, and can only be decided by actual test. Varieties that succeed well in some localities are entire failures in others. In fact, varieties will thus fluctuate on a single farm, according to the variation of the soil. If the intending grower has had no experience in selecting varieties, his only safe course is to choose those succeeding best with his neighbors, or such standard varieties as have a wide-spread reputation. Begin planting as early in the spring as possible, so as to get the benefit of the early rains, and thus give the plants a vigorous start. The plants should be well trimmed; all large or dead leaves removed, together with the tips of the roots, which will then branch out and take a firmer hold of the soil. Commence cultivation immediately after planting and continue it throughout the season, thereby keeping all weeds in check, conserving moisture in the soil, and confining the plants to their allotted space in the rows. All blossoms should be removed the first season, and also any runners that may make their appearance before the plants are in a vigorous condition to support them.—Arthur Peer.

TRENTON FALLS, N. Y.

For a great many years Trenton Falls has been known as a summer resort with more than usual attractions. At this point the West Canada Creek, which drains a large area of the Southern Adirondacks, descends about 300 feet through a picturesque gorge, forming a series of wonderfully beautiful falls and cascades, called by the Indians Kauya-hoo-ra "Leaping Water." For several years the surroundings have been undergoing extensive improvements; an electric plant has been installed, and the falls, gorge and woods are illuminated by night, presenting a picture of rare beauty. Trenton Falls is 18 miles north of Utica, N. Y., and is reached via The New York Central. You may read all about it in the New York Central's "Four-Track series" No. 6, entitled "In the Adirondack Mountains." Sent free, on receipt of a 2-cent stamp by Geo. H. Daniels, General Passenger Agent, Grand Central Station, New York.

Filament of New Lamp.

The filament of the Nernst lamp is composed of a mixture of metallic oxides, which might be expected to become quickly reduced in strong heat, yet the passage of high continuous currents for hundreds of hours seems to cause no deterioration. An investigation by Dr. E. Bose explains numerous peculiarities of these filaments. He finds that the metal is reduced at the cathode, but is constantly being oxidized at the anode, the process being aided by the surrounding air, and in a vacuum the filament soon becomes metal and the light is extinguished.

Interests everyone. Makes Fortune in Celery.

There is a merchant in New York who has made a fortune by the sale of celery. For twenty years he has handled nothing else. In season he buys it in carload lots. Out of season he keeps large quantities frozen on ice, for which he obtains big prices. The celery comes out as brittle as glass.

"Great Heliotropes! One hundred dollars for a straw basket?"
"Yes; it was originally her husband's Panama hat."

To the housewife who has not yet become acquainted with the new things of everyday use in the market and who is reasonably satisfied with the old, we would suggest that a trial of Defiance Cold Water Starch be made at once. Not alone because it is guaranteed by the manufacturers to be superior to any other brand, but because each 10c package contains 16 ozs., while all the other kinds contain but 12 ozs. It is safe to say that the lady who once uses Defiance Starch will use no other. Quality and quantity must win.

If all the misfortunes of mankind were cast into a public stock, on order to be equally distributed among the whole species, those who now think themselves the most unhappy would prefer the share they are already possessed of before that which would fall to them by such a division.—Socrates.

Mr. B.—There, I've let my cigar go out. Do you know it spoils a cigar, no matter how good it is, if you allow it to go out?

Mrs. B.—Yes; a cigar is a good deal like a man in that respect.

An Irishman who wore a ragged coat was asked of what it was made. "Why," said he, "I think there's more fresh air in it than anything else."

Superior quality and extra quantity must win. This is why Defiance Starch is taking the place of all others.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

A Bargain.

Fred—Kitty didn't marry that millionaire duffer after all, did she?

Jack—No; he backed out and she sued him for breach of promise.

Fred—What damages?

Jack—Twenty-five thousand, and she got it.

Fred—Clear case of $25,000 off for cash, wasn't it? I didn't think Kitty was so sharp at driving a bargain.—Comfort.

Clever Scheme.

Objected to the Eating.

"That new neighbor of mine told an acquaintance that I was a jabbering idiot," said Meeker, "so I started out to make him eat his word." "Good for you," said Naggsby. "And did you succeed?" "No," replied Meeker in tones redolent with sadness. He proved to be one of those strenuous chaps who would rather fight than eat."

Crafty.

Mrs. Testy—I don't know how it is, Bridget, but it looks as though you took pleasure in breaking dishes that cannot be duplicated.

Bridget—It's not pleasure, mum, but common sense. If a dish can't be duplicated, as you call it, of course you can't expect me to replace it when I have broken it.

Mrs. Saphead—That may be true, but is has exceptions. There's my husband, for instance; he's gray at 35, and he never had any brains to work with.

Not So Bad as It Might Be.

NEVER SAW A NIGHTSHIRT.

Veteran Soldier Resented What He Considered an Innovation.

The attitude of the soldier who fought for the north against the south in the civil war toward the men who served Uncle Sam in the fight against Spain, both in Cuba and the Philippines, was well expressed recently by one of the veterans in the national soldiers' home here. Joe McManus, a soldier who had returned from the Philippines, invalidated, went into the hospital at the national home, as he had a right to do, being a regular. The next morning he overheard two codgers in a dialogue evidently intended for his ears. It ran as follows:

"This place is going to blazes; they are lettin' children in now. Soon they'll be asking us what we're here for."

"Yes, I think so. What do ye suppose I seen last night? I seen a fellow just come in here wearin' a night-shirt. Think of that. I was all through the fuss with the boys forty years ago and I never saw a night-shirt and I ain't seen one since till they brought in here some of them children that thought they were fightin' in the Philippines. What kind of a fighter kin a man be that wears a night-shirt?"—Milwaukee Sentinel.

ALLISON WRITES TARIFF PLANK

Iowa Republicans Adopt Draft Submitted by Veteran Senator.

CUMMINS HEADS STATE TICKET

Governor Is Renominated by Acclamation After the "Shelter to Monopoly" Feature Is Eliminated From Platform—Still Stands by His Views.

Governor A. B. Cummins of Des Moines Lieutenant Governor John Harriott of Stuart Supreme Judge Charles A. Bishop of Des Moines Railroad Commissioner David J. Palmer of Washington State Superintendent F. J. Riggs of Sigourney

Des Moines special: Harmony prevailed in the Republican convention to all outward appearances. The platform declaration on the tariff was adopted as written by Senator Allison, after conferences with W. J. Blythe, Gov. Cummins, George Perkins and numerous other leaders inside and outside of Iowa. The "shelter to monopoly plant," which has been the bone of contention for the last two years, is entirely eliminated. This is the plank which has been attacked by the "stand patters" and defended by the Cummins people. The result is regarded by the opponents of tariff revision, as related to the trust question, as a great victory.

Tariff and Trusts.

Tariff and trusts are treated in two separate planks and this substantially disposes of the proposition that the two are in any way related.

Absolute harmony really did not exist in the convention. The tariff plank was agreed to, but here the harmony stopped. Gov. Cummins and his friends demanded a majority of the committee on resolutions in order that they might say that the committee was controlled by them and the platform was their own handiwork. Gov. Cummins represented to Senator Allison that he had come down from his position, but would like to come down before the convention, with the assistance of his friends and not his enemies.

Senator Allison was disposed to agree to this, but as soon as the agreement became known there was trouble, which resulted in open breaks.

Control of Committee.

When the committee on resolutions met it organized by electing Blythe chairman and J. H. Trewin secretary. The meeting was entirely harmonious, for the plank regarding the tariff had been agreed upon.

When Blythe appeared to make his report, the convention gasped for breath. It had been heralded abroad that the Cummins men would control the committee on resolutions, but there was the leader of the opposition standing before the convention and reading the resolutions, which showed nothing of the "shelter to monopoly" plank, the core of the "Iowa idea." He was greeted with great applause.

Cummins Speaks.

After the resolutions had been adopted Gov. Cummins was called for. He declared that he had not departed one iota from his stand on the tariff, and he expected to work for its adoption as a principle of national Republicanism. Cousins and Leary enlabeled the Dingley law, and practically took issue with the governor. If it had not been called a harmony convention it would have been called a bitter fight over the "Iowa idea." Allison and Dolliver urged harmony in their speeches.

The significant feature of the convention is that the fight has now commenced for the control of the delegation to the next national Republican convention. Cummins has practically announced himself as a candidate to head the delegation to the next national convention and the fight will be a bitter one. At a meeting of the state committee R. H. Spence, an anti-Cummins man, was re-elected chairman.

When it came to nomination all the candidates were renominated by acclamation with the exception of the state superintendent, for which office Mr. Riggs was nominated on the third ballot, his opponents being the present superintendent, R. C. Barrett of Osage and H. L. Adams of West Union.

"Buddelized" Milk.
A Swedish pamphlet describes a process of "Buddelizing" milk, which process tends to sterilize and conserve the milk so that it can be kept fresh for any length of time. The inventor is a certain Mr. Buddel; hence the name. The pamphlet says that he has proven that the enzymes in the milk, together with the heat, not exceeding 55 degrees Centigrade, nor less than 48 degrees Centigrade, have the power of decomposing hydric dioxide into water and oxygen, and that at the generation of oxygen microbes and spores are entirely destroyed.

CUTICURA OINTMENT

Purest of Emollients and Greatest of Skin Cures.

The Most Wonderful Curative of All Time

For Torturing, Disfiguring Skin Humours

And Purest and Sweetest of Toilet Emollients.

Cuticura Ointment is beyond question the most successful curative for torturing, disfiguring humours of the skin and scalp, including loss of hair, ever compounded, in proof of which a single anointing preceded by a hot bath with Cuticura Soap, and followed in the severer cases, by a dose of Cuticura Resolvent, is often sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing forms of itching, burning and scaly humours, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy cure when all other remedies fail. It is especially so in the treatment of infants and children, cleansing, soothing and healing the most distressing of infantile humours, and preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, scalp and hair.

Cuticura Ointment possesses, at the same time, the charm of satisfying the simple wants of the toilet, in caring for the skin, scalp, hair, hands and feet, from infancy to age, far more effectually, agreeably and economically than the most expensive of toilet emollients. Its "Instant relief for skin-tortured babies," or "Sanative, antiseptic cleansing," or "One-night treatment of the hands or feet," or "Single treatment of the hair," or "Use after athletics," cycling, golf, tennis, riding, sparring, or any sport, each in connection with the use of Cuticura Soap, is sufficient evidence of this.

Sold throughout the world. Cuticura Resolvent, 50c. (in form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per box of 50). Ointment, 50c. Soap, 25c. Deposits: London, 27, Chancery Lane; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Boston, 107 Columbus Ave.; Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., New York City. 125 Bond for "The Cuticura Skin Book."
