SENSATION AT ASSEMBLY.

Miss Jeanette Scharle Charged With Violation of Rules and Destruction of Property and Good Will.

Great sensation in beautiful Maxinkuckee park. One of Chicago's fairest young ladies under arrest. Tried on the very grounds for misdemeanor, where she had come to spend a pleasant and quiet outing. Conviction at last secured and punishment inflicted.

With a pack jury and perjured witnesses, Miss Jeanette Scharle, of Chicago was the unlucky young woman. She is a member of the Wenona Glee club and is a fascinating singer. Sheriff Orla Keener acting for the Assembly at the present time, made the arrest at about nine o'clock. The cause of the arrest was attempt to violate the rules and regulations of the Assembly hotel. She was arraigned on two charges; that of destruction of property and destroying the peace and good will of those who were trying to sleep. This occurrence took place on the second floor of the hotel between the hours of eleven and twelve o'clock p. m. The young lady accidentally tipped over a pitcher of water and knocked down a handful of nails on the floor both of which found exit through a knot-hole just over Mr. Taylor's room. The young man's new 49 cent hat that had only been worn six years was badly damaged and had to be hung out in the sunshine along with his bathing suit. He employed Dr. Snively, of St. Louis as his attorney. Court was called at ten o'clock by Assembly Clerk Goodacre. A panel of twelve female jurors were examined and passed upon to hear the case. Dr. Dorris, of Kentucky, was called upon to preside as judge. Mr. Hootman was called to the defense of the culprit. The four witnesses among which were Jerry Treeppopen, a stuttering mixture between a colored man and an Irishman almost broke up the sanctimonious procedure of the court by his stuttering attempt to make clear his testimony. Pinando Savanarola was second witness who made statements to some very destructive testimony against the defendant all of which was later proven to be a mere fabrication. The only witness of any account was the young man who lost the starch out of his hat and he declared it was a cloud burst. It is not known whether he had water on the brain or was dreaming. In closing the argument and testimony of the case after the plea set forth by the attorneys and the prosecution, the judge in making his charge to the jury spoke of the facts that were brought before them and said a verdict should be so returned in accordance with the criminal attempt of the perpetrator, which was to be a submerging into the lake of the prisoner by the sheriff not less than three or more than seven times in rapid succession. The jury brought in a verdict of guilty in the first degree. The audience seem to fully appreciate the gravity of the situation as at times it was utterly impossible for the court to proceed. Feeling that mob law would be brought into service unless the jury gave a very strong decision against the prisoner. While this has been only the beginning of a mock court, yet the large number who gathered to attend it in the tabernacle thought it one of the most enjoyable features of the Assembly.

Quite a number of new arrivals came Monday from Angola, Indianapolis and Terre Haute. C. S.

Medbury, of Angola, delivered his first address on Bible study which was followed by the address of Geo. L. Snively, of St. Louis, on Benevolent Association work. J. M. Elem, of Irvington is here to represent orphans and out casts home of St. Louis, Jacksonville and East Aurora, N. Y.

Monday evening's entertainment consisted of phonographic selections, readings by Emily Squires and Mr. Kattkemper, of Terre Haute, and a large number of most excellent stereopticon views closed the day.

The Assembly passed a resolution in favor of the physical culture and elocution departments of the Assembly showing that great physical benefit had been derived. ***

Obituary.

Frank O'Conner, son of Thomas and Delilah O'Conner, was born in Starke county, Indiana, Sept. 10, 1867. He was reared and lived in his father's home until he was of age. December 23rd 1893 he was united in marriage to Miss Ollie Klea, of Ontario, Canada. They made their home in Chicago, where their child was born and where Mr. O'Conner died. Mr. and Mrs. O'Conner were the parents of one child, Ellen Irene, who is now eight years old. Mr. O'Conner was a member of the Royal League an insurance order and the Teamster Union, a protective association. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, holding his membership in the Oakland Methodist church of Chicago. He was baptised and received into membership by the Rev. J. H. McDonald of the Rock River conference. He was ill about five months suffering from tuberculosis, which incurable and fatal disease ended his life. Some beautiful floral pieces were presented by the Royal League.

Frank O'Conner departed this life Aug. 19, 1903 aged 35 years 11 months and 9 days. The remains were brought home Saturday night. Interment at Zion at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. Rev. Streeter, of Culver, conducting the services.

Surprised.

Sunday, August 23rd, while Debolt Kline was at church his brothers and sister with their families gathered at his home, near Argos, to surprise him. When he came home from church his wife said he should tie the horse, come in and wait a few minutes until she was ready and they would go to Argos to dinner at John Nelsons. The unsuspecting husband walked quietly in to wait, but as he opened the door he found the room full of guests and the table set its fullest length. His surprise was genuine and he wondered how they could plan so much without his help and knowledge. A fine dinner was served, followed by watermelon and ice cream in the afternoon. The Kline families are used to enjoying themselves together and the day passed happily for all.

Misinformed.

In last week's Plymouth Democrat an editorial says that the banker here lost a number of depositors for his decided stand on the saloon question. The truth of the matter is that he lost but one account and has gained four or five. If the Democrat wishes to be known for its truth and veracity, they should not put down everything they hear as facts.

Miss Anna Keller has returned home after spending several months in Indianapolis where she has been employed in her brother, Frank's book store. She expects to return soon and resume her former position.

BODY FOUND.

Evidences of Murder Mystery Found South of Culver.

Special from North Bend Correspondent.

Last Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock as Oliver Jordan, Victor Folmar and others were leisurely walking along the banks of Tippecanoe river on the north side, about one and one-fourth miles east of Monterey, a dog belonging to Jordan chased a rabbit in some bushes and as he continued barking Jordan followed to investigate and was horrified by finding the corpse of a man lying in the bushes. He called to his companions and a hurried investigation was made. Word was then taken to Monterey and the coroner at Rochester notified, as the finding was in the north-west corner of Fulton county, and just a few rods east of the old Wm. Reed house now occupied by a family by the name of Weidner who moved into the house late last spring and who say they had noticed a very disagreeable odor about the place for some time but as the place had been greatly infested by rats, neighbors told them that this must be the cause. A family living just east of them about 20 rods had noticed the same disagreeableness but did not think of a dead man in the bush not but a few rods distant and between the public road and the river bank. At the point where the body was found the high water never reaches so the body could not have been carried there by high waters and parties say who found him, that the bush were so thick they were almost impenetrable. The supposition is that the man had been murdered and placed there. There were no articles of clothing missing. There were two suits of silk underwear, a suit of clothes of good material and a light or spring overcoat buttoned upon the body. A stiff hat was under the body. There was a break in the hat and one in the skull corresponding as though he had been struck with a weapon breaking hat and skull at the same stroke. There is no possible chance of recognition unless by the teeth, five of which were filled with gold, (when found the head was lying about four feet from the body) or by clothing or articles found in pockets of which there was an electric line ticket, a small day book which is so obliterated that nothing can be read, a pocket knife, silk handkerchief, an ordinary good gold watch, and two pocket books. A small one containing one dollar and sixty-one cents and the large one was empty and had the appearance of being hastily emptied and hurried or improperly closed and placed in his pocket. The body was taken charge of by Undertaker Wagner, of Monterey, and was interred in the Leiters Ford cemetery Tuesday.

Everything Quiet.

Although there was a large crowd in last Sunday no saloons were open. The decisive action of the town council of several weeks ago, was a sample of what they might expect in the future. A number of people expected to see the saloon that caused the trouble three weeks ago try to run but they did not attempt to open. The council is receiving the support and plaudits of the citizens for the stand they have taken.

Ice Cream Social.

There will be an ice cream social and box supper held at the K. of P. hall on Friday evening Sept. 4th. Proceeds for the benefit of G. A. R. and Women's Relief Corps. Every body cordially invited. All members of the Post requested to be present. All ladies requested to bring boxes.

SECOND CUP RACE

Of the Aub-see-naub-see Yacht Club Won by the Old Scout.

The second cup race of the Aub-see-naub-see Yacht club was sailed Friday afternoon. The wind blew very strong from the southwest and its strength was very uniform during the whole race. This race was the fastest ever sailed on the lake, all the boats making very good time.

The race was marred by a number of accidents. The Flip capsized, during the early part of the race, the Snark swamping when off the Indianapolis pier. These two boats withdrew from the race. The Uncas and Nautilus each broke a stay, but were not damaged to any extent. The Natty broke the jaws of her gaff, but sailed out the race.

Classes C and D were started at 1:15. The boats crossed the line very close together and remained close all the way round. The boats were within a quarter of a mile of each other all through the race. In class C Flip and Snark were disabled leaving the Indian to sail it out alone.

In Class D all three boats were close, the Natty's time being 1:46:36; Tadpole 1:48:17; Uncas 1:49:13. Tadpole having a three minute handicap won. Natty second and Uncas third. Class A and B started at 1:37 in the following order, Old Scout, Elenor, Diana, Nautilus, Katharine and Idlewild. Old Scout increased her lead every buoy and finished far ahead of the other boats. The Elenor followed three and a half minutes later. The Diana came in third three minutes later. The rest finished in the order named, Katharine, Nautilus and Idlewild. Old Scout won class A with Diana second.

In class B Elenor was first, Nautilus second, Katherine third and Idlewild fourth. Nautilus took second having a ten minute handicap. Hervey Bates and Morris Hunt acted as judges.

MOTHER SNAKE DEFENDS YOUNG

Attacks a Hunter Who Ventures Too Near Its Nest.

While Richard Higgins, who lives near Corneliuss, was hunting he was attacked by a large rattlesnake. The reptile jumped into the hunter's face and Higgins fired both barrels of his shotgun at it, but failed to kill the snake. Higgins started to run, but the snake followed him. His dog, hearing the report of the gun, came up and joined in the fight. The animal seized the snake by the back, when the rattler sank its fangs in the dog's flesh several times, the canine yelping from pain. Higgins finally killed the rattler with a club. The reptile was four feet long and had thirteen rattles and a button. The hunter found a nest of young rattlers near at hand, which accounted for the fight the old snake had made.

American college at Rome, and upon the elevation of Dr. McCloskey to the episcopate, Dr. Chatard succeeded him as rector of the college. During the ten years he presided over the college he established a reputation for his zeal in the advancement of the institution, and for his hospitality to visitors to Rome. His efforts during the Vatican council were recognized by Pius IX., who presented to him a gold medal of exquisite workmanship as a token of his appreciation.

Dr. Chatard visited this country in 1878 in the interest of the American college in Rome, and upon his return was notified of his appointment to the diocese of Vincennes, Ind., and he was consecrated bishop May 12 of that year.

Upon taking possession of his see, Bishop Chatard selected Indianapolis as his place of residence, as it was the capital of the state and had the largest number of churches and schools. So with the advent of the new bishop the title of the historic old diocese of Vincennes became obsolete.

The birth rate for Muncie during July was almost double the death rate and these conditions exist nearly every month in the year, the local health officer says.

Coming to Front With Improvements on the Highways.

Morgan county has been coming to the front with good roads in the last two years, and if it continues its plans it will be abreast of any county in the state. Last year several miles of rock road were constructed in Adams township and as many more of gravel are to be completed in Ashland township this year. N. H. Gilbert & Son of Brooklyn have obtained a contract for twelve miles and a half of gravel road in Gregg township. The county commissioners have appointed Jasper N. ## BREAKS ALL RECORDS

FROM ATLANTIC TO PACIFIC IN THREE DAYS' TIME.

Account of Most Remarkable Long Distance Run in History of Railroading.

All previous records for railroad time from Atlantic to Pacific coast were broken on Friday, August 7, when the H. P. Lowe special rolled into Los Angeles over the Santa Fe at 1:06 p. m.

Henry P. Lowe, of the Engineering Company of America, left New York Tuesday afternoon, August 4, at 2:45, immediately upon hearing of his daughter's fatal illness in the distant California city of Los Angeles. Catching the Twentieth Century Limited over the New York Central and Lake Shore Railroads, he raced westward to Chicago at an average speed of 48.8 miles per hour, arriving in Chicago on Wednesday forenoon. Hurrying from the Lake Shore to the Santa Fe depot in a cab which was being held in waiting for him, the anxious father boarded the special and was outward bound twenty-three minutes after reaching the "Windy City." Composed of coach and hotel-car "Rocket" and drawn by a powerful iron greyhound, with Engineer Dugan at the throttle, the Santa Fe special leaped into the race, with orders to make no stops except those to take water and coal and to change engines and crews.

Leaving Dearborn station, Chicago, the train struck out toward the Southwest, with a whirl and a rush. Swiftly rising to the level of the elevated roadbed, it was off on its way toward Joliet before the grief-stricken passenger had had time to settle down for his long ride. Indeed, it cannot be said that he settled down at all, for, in his anxiety to cover the ground in the shortest possible time, Mr. Lowe repeatedly urged that the speed be increased, and for a great share of the distance he rode in the engine cab, the rumble and roar of the merrily locomotive soothing, in a measure, his troubled mind.

Faster and faster the giant ten-wheeler flew. Faster and faster the local way stations whizzed by the windows in an indistinct blur. Crossing the State of Illinois in a space of time heretofore unequalled, the special rolled across the Mississippi at Fort Madison, clipped off a section of Iowa, traversed the northern part of the State of Missouri, bridged the broad Missouri river and steamed into Kansas City Union depot.

With scarcely a halt in its wild flight it was off over the rolling prairie land of Kansas and on toward Colorado, climbing the ever-increasing grade as the Rockies were approached. On and on it sped, not only maintaining the schedule laid out, but gaining with every mile it flew.

La Junta was reached at 9:10 a. m., August 6, and veering toward the southwest the special spl. the solitude of the Colorado and New Mexico wilderness, plunging into Albuquerque at 5:37 p. m. From Albuquerque straight west, crossing the desert of New Mexico and Arizona, surmounting the range of the Gila mountains, the train reached Seligman in western Arizona at 4 a. m., Aug. 7. Leaving here it climbed the Williams range and entered the Golden State across the Colorado river.

At 1:06 p. m. on Friday, August 7, the train rolled into Los Angeles ten hours ahead of the schedule as originally planned, the distance from Chicago to the Pacific coast (2,265 miles) having been covered at an average of 42.8 miles per hour, beating the time of the Santa Fe's California Limited by fifteen hours and sixteen minutes.

While he was still this side of the Rocky mountains, it was known that Mr. Lowe's daughter had passed away. Messages were hurried ahead of the special. As the wires were down, the sad word was not received by Mr. Lowe until he had reached Las Vegas, New Mexico.

In spite of his disappointment, however, Mr. Lowe expressed his gratitude to the Santa Fe officials who had tried to the utmost to assist him in his trouble.

"The time made by the Lowe special is an achievement of which we are justly proud," said Passenger Traffic Manager Nicholson of the Santa Fe. "Our only regret is that the extraordinary speed could not avail Mr. Lowe as he hoped it might."

This crossing of the American continent in seventy-three hours and twenty-one minutes establishes a record for the trans-continental trip that will not be surpassed for many days to come. When it is considered that the time was brought down to this remarkably low figure only by extraordinary speed on the level prairies and the broad table-lands, some idea of the tremendous strain may be gathered. For long distances a speed of considerably over a mile a minute was maintained. The route from the Mississippi to the Continental Divide is up-grade, with much steep mountain climbing in places.

In 1900 a remarkable run was made by the Peacock special from West to East, its average speed being 41.7 miles an hour between Los Angeles and Chicago. This train, however, had the advantage of the down-grade from the Rockies to the Mississippi valley.

The famous Nellie Bly special made the trip from San Francisco to Chicago in sixty-nine hours at an average speed of 37 1/3 miles an hour.

By a comparison of these schedules a fair idea may be gathered of the remarkable record of the Lowe special. This achievement will go down in red letters in the annals of railroading.

A LOVE STORY BY AMELIA E. BARR

(Copyright, 1900, by Amelia E. Barr)

"My dear father! How wise and kind you are!"

"It is my desire to be so, George. You cannot, after this unfortunate delay, go to Doctor Moran without the proofs of your ability to take care of his daughter's future."

"How soon can this business be accomplished?"

"In about three weeks, I should think. But wait your full time, and do not go without the credentials of your position. This three or four weeks is necessary to bring to perfection the waiting of two years."

"I will take your advice, sir. I thank you for your generosity."

"All that I have is yours, George. And you can write to this dear girl every day in the interim. Go now and tell her what I say. I had other dreams for you, as you know—they are over now—I have awakened."

"Dear Annie!" ejaculated George.

"Dear Annie!" replied the Earl with a sigh. "She is one of the daughters of God, I am not worthy to call her mine, but I have sat at her feet, and learned how to love, and how to forgive, and how to bear disappointment. I will tell you, that when Col. Saye insulted me last year and I felt for my sword and would have sent him a letter on its point—Annie stepped before him. 'Forget, and go on, dear uncle,' she said, and I did so with a proud, sore heart at first, but quite cheerfully in a week or two; and at the last Hunt dinner he came to me with open hand and we ate and drank together, and are now firm friends. Yet, but for Annie, one of us might be dead, and the other flying like Cain exiled and miserable. Think of these things, George. The good of being a son is to be able to profit from your father's mistakes."

They parted with a handclasp that went to both hearts and as Hyde passed his mother's room, he went in, and told her all that happened to him. She listened with a smile and a heartache. She knew now that the time had come to say "farewell" to the boy who had made her life for twenty-seven years. "He must marry like the rest of the world, and go away from her," and only mothers know what supreme self-sacrifice a pleasant acquiescence in this event implies. But she bravely put down all the clamoring selfishness of her long, sweet care and affection, and said cheerfully:

"Very much to my liking is Cornelia Moran. A loving wife and noble mother she will make, and if I must lose thee, my Joris, there is no girl in America that I like better to have thee."

"Never will you lose me, mother."

"Ah then! that is what all sons say. The common lot; I look for nothing better. But see now, I give thee up cheerfully. If God please, I shall see thy sons and daughters; and thy father has been anxious about the Hydies. He would not have a stranger here—nor would I. Our hope is in thee and thy sweet wife, and very glad am I that thy wife is to be Cornelia Moran."

And even after Joris had left her she smiled, though the tears dropped down upon her work. She thought of the presents she would send her daughter, and she told herself that Cornelia was an American, and that she had made for her, with her own hands and brain, a lovely home wherein her memory must always dwell. Indeed she let her thoughts go far forward to see, and to listen to the happy boys and girls who might run and shout gleefully through the fair lawns, and the sweet shady gardens her skill and taste had ordered and planted. Thus her generosity made her a partaker of her children's happiness, and who ever partakes of a pleasure has his share of it, and comes into contact—not only with the happiness—but with the other partakers of that happiness—a divine kind of interest for generous deeds, which we may all appropriate.

The next morning Mary Damer called. She knew that a letter from Cornelia was possible, and she knew also that it would really be as faithful to herself as to Hyde. If, as she suspected, it was Rem Van Ariens who had detained the misdirected letter, there was only one conceivable result as regarded herself. She, an upright, honorable English girl, loving truth with all her heart, and despising whatever was underhand and disloyal, had out one course to take—she must break off her engagement with a man so far below her standard of simple morality.

So she looked anxiously at Annie as she entered, and Annie would not keep her in suspense. "There was a letter from Miss Moran last night," she said. "She loves George yet. She re-wrote the unfortunate letter, and this time it found its owner. I think he has it next his heart at this very moment."

"I am glad of that, Annie. But who has the first letter?"

"I think you know, Mary."

"You mean Mr. Van Ariens?"

"Yes."

"Then there is no more to be said. I shall write to him as soon as possible."

"I am sorry—"

"No, no! Be content, Annie. The right must always come right. Neither you nor I could desire any other end, even to our own love story."

"But you must suffer."

"Not much. None of us weep if we lose what is of no value. And I have noticed that the happiness of any one is always conditioned by the unhappiness of some one else. Your cousin and Cornelia will be happy, but there are others that must suffer, that they may be so. I will go now, Annie, because until I have written to Mr. Van Ariens I shall not feel free. And also, I do not wish him to come here, and in his last letter he spoke of such an intention."

So the two letters—that of Hyde to Cornelia, and that of Mary Damer to Van Ariens, left England for America in the same packet.

The tone of the Manor House was now set to a key of the highest joy and expectation. Hyde unconsciously struck the note, for he was happily busy from morning to night about affairs relating either to his marriage or to his future as the head of a great household. All his old, extravagant liking for rich clothing returned to him. He had constant visits from his London tailor, who brought with him a profusion of rich cloth, silk and satin, and who firmly believed that the tailor made the man. There were also endless interviews with the family lawyer, endless readings of law papers, and endless consultations about rights and successions, which Hyde was glad and grateful to leave very much to his father's wisdom and generosity.

Some of the last days were occupied in selecting jewels for Cornelia, with webs of gold and silver tissues, and Spitalfields silks so rich and heavy, that no mortal woman might hope to outwear them. To these Annie added from her own store of lace, many very valuable pieces, and the happy bridegroom was proud to see that love was going to send him away with both arms full of the beloved.

The best gift, however, came last, and it was from the Earl. It was not gold or land, though he gave generously of both these, but one which Hyde felt made his way straight before him, and which he knew must have cost his father much self-abnegation. It was the following letter to Dr. John Moran:

"My Dear Sir:

"It seems then, that our dear children love each other so well, that it is beyond our right, even as parents, to forbid their marriage. I ask from you, for my son, who is an humble and ardent suitor for Miss Moran's hand, all the favor his sincere devotion to her deserves. We have both been young, we have both loved, accept then his affection as some atonement for any grievance or injustice you remember against myself. Had we known each other better, we should doubtless have loved each other better; but now that marriage will make us kin, I offer you my hand, with all its impurities of regret for the past, and of respect for the future. Your servant to command,

"RICHARD HYDE."

"It is the greatest proof of my love I can give you, George," said the Earl, when the letter had been read; "and it is Annie you must thank for it."

"Have you noticed, father, how small and fragile-looking she is? Can she really be slowly dying?"

"No, she is not dying; she is only going a little further away—a little further away, every hour. Some hour she will be called, and she will answer, and we shall see her no more—here. But I do not call that dying, and if it be dying, Annie will go as calmly and simply, as if she were fulfilling some religious rite or duty. She loves God, and she will go to Him."

The next morning Hyde left his father's home forever. It was impossible that such a parting should be happy. No hopes, no dreams of future joy, could make him forget the wealth of love he was leaving. Nor did he wish to forget. And woe to the man or woman who would buy composure and contentment by forgetting—by really forfeiting a portion of their existence—by being a suicide of their own moral nature.

The day was a black winter day, with a monotonous rain and a dark sky troubled by a ghostly wind. Inside the house the silence fell on the heart like a weight. The Earl and Countess watched their son's carriage turn from the door, and then looked silently into each other's face. The Earl's lips were firmly set, and his eyes full of tears; the Countess was weeping bitterly. He went with her to her room, and with all his old charm and tenderness comforted her.

At that moment Annie was forgotten, yet no one was suffering more than she was. Hyde had knelt by her sofa, and taken her in his arms, and covered her face with tears and kisses, and she had not been able to oppose a parting so heart-breaking and so final. The last tears she was ever to shed dropped from her closed eyes, as she listened to his departing steps; and the roll of the carriage carrying him away forever, seemed to roll over her shrinking heart. She cried out feebly—a pitiful little shrill cry, that she hushed with a sob still more full of anguish. Then she began to cast over her suffering soul the balm of prayer, and prostrate with closed eyes, and hands feebly hanging down, Doctor Roslyn found her. He did not need to ask a question, he had long known the brave self-sacrifice that was consecrating the child-heart suffering so sharply that day; and he said only—

"We are made perfect through suffering, Annie."

"This is the last sorrow that can come to me, father."

"And my dear Annie, you would have been a loser without it. Every grief has its meaning, and the web of life could not be better woven, if only love touched it."

"I have been praying, father."

"Nay, but God Himself prayed in you, while your soul waited in deep resignation. God gave you both the resignation and the answer."

"My heart failed me at the last—then I prayed as well as I could."

"And then, visited by the not yourself in you, your head was lifted up."

Hyde had knelt by her sofa.

Do not be frightened at what you want. Strive for it little by little. All that is bitter in outward things, or in interior things, all that befalls you in the course of a day, is your daily bread if you will take it from His hand."

Then she was silent and quite still, and he sat and watched the gradual lifting of the spirit's cloud—watched, until the pallor of her face grew luminous with the inner light, and her wide open eyes saw, as in a vision, things invisible to mortal sight; but open to the spirit on that dazzling line where mortal and immortal verge.

And as he went home, stepping slowly through the misty world, he himself hardly knew whether he was in the body or out of it. He felt not the dripping rain, he was not conscious of the encompassing earthly vapors, he had passed within the veil. And his feet stumbled not, nor was he aware of anything around, until the Earl met him at the park gates and touching him said reverently—

"Father, you are close to the highway. Have you seen Annie?"

"She is further from us than ever."

"Richard Hyde," he answered, "she is on her way to God, and she can rest nothing short of that."

TALES OF PRECIOUS STONES.

Diamonds Were Not Known to Us Until the Discovery of India.

Not until India was discovered were diamonds known to the Western world. The Indians called rock crystal an "unripe diamond," and up to the eighteenth century India was supposed to be the only country where that precious stone could be found. Yet as far back as 500 B. C. a "didactic history" of precious stones was written, and in Pliny's time the supply must have been plentiful, as he wrote: "We drink out of a mass of gems and our drinking vessels are formed of emeralds."

It is difficult to determine whence all the gems came, as discoverers took care to leave no record. The nations which traded in them were afraid of their whereabouts being known, and even the most ancient merchants would not disclose any definite locale.

"Diamond" was the name given to a youth who was turned into the hardest and most brilliant of substance to preserve him from "the ills that flesh is heir to." Amethyst was a beautiful nymph beloved by Bacchus, but saved from him by Diana, who changed Amethyst into a gem, whereupon Bacchus turned the gem into wine color and endowed the wearer with the gift of preservation from intoxication.

The pearl was thought to be a dew-drop the shell had opened to receive. Amber was said to be honey melted by the sun, dropped into the sea and congealed.

He Was Satisfied.

"Life," said the parson, "is made up of trials."

"Yes, and I'm glad of it," replied the lawyer.

Tailor Costumes.

There is no time of year when this class of dress is not a necessity in a woman's wardrobe; it must adapt itself to circumstances. To meet the needs of spring and summer the coat must either be discardable or suitable to wear indoors and out. Many are worn without a shirt or blouse or underbodice of any kind, only a vest at the throat, generally transparent, or a lace scarf daintily tied.

This sort of garment has rather extended its field and is being made, not only in glace sometimes, but very often in etamine, canvas, grenadine and even in voile and crepe de chine. So it happens that the tailor takes the dressmaker's place, and that the dressmaker is doing tailor's work and is even sending out serges, friezes or cloth suits.

The Short Skirt Suit.

A pretty way of making a short skirt suit is shown in a costume of heavy toile, in a white and black quadrille pattern. The skirt is trimmed on the sides by clusters of long tabs, growing broader toward the bottom, where they finish with a point and small gold buttons. The bolero has a collar making a point over the sleeve, and a stole in front that finishes at the bottom of the jacket with pointed ends. Buttons are also used here. There is a little inner vest of tomato red linen, trimmed with buttons. The costume is completed by a white linen skirt and a white leather belt.

Decorated Larkspur.

Larkspur is becoming popular for floral decoration and the new varieties of it are much handsomer than the old-time blossom with its deep blue petals. The modern flower is lighter in tone and much larger. Of these lighter varieties there are two distinct shades and they are more decidedly blue than the larkspur of our grandmother's day, for that suggested purple colorings.

Splendid Evening Gown. Evening gown of pale lemon-colored organdie hand-painted with Empire wreaths of varying sizes. Dark brown velvet ribbon is drawn through the slashes and tied in loops.

Tea Frock.

The young English girl of the period is responsible for a rather nice innovation, namely, the tea frock. The tea gown is being considered one of her prerogatives, she has looked around for something in the nature of a graceful indoor frock of simplified structure, and the tea frock is the upshot. Without being a princess robe, it is an all-in-one gown, and, while far from a negligee, it is intended to be worn without corsets. Voile de sole, crepe de chine and soft silks are developed into tea frocks, and lace is used in profusion, daintiness and elegance being desiderata. The fact that the tea frock dispenses with hooks, eyes, pins and all such weariness is a point in its favor.

To tell if a cantaloupe is ripe, dig your finger nail into the stem. If you can detect the melon odor on your finger tip the melon is ripe.

If you need to use plaster of paris for stopping cracks, mix it with vinegar. Vinegar prevents its setting too quickly and makes it easy of manipulation.

Put baby's bathtub on a box, instead of on the floor, and you can give the little one a bath in greater comfort to yourself, sit down to it, and have it the right height.

Chocolate lemonade is said to be a delicious drink by those fond of the brown confection. Make an ordinary plain lemonade, and to each glass when serving add a heaping teaspoonful of grated chocolate.

IN WOMAN'S INTEREST

GARDEN PARTY TOILETS.

The first gown is of white foulard, figured with green and black, and trimmed with white lace insertion or beading in which green velvet ribbon is run. The large cape-like shoulder collar is ornamented with disks of English embroidery and bordered with a ruffle of the same, forming festoons and headed by the insertion and velvet. The giraffe is green satin. The second gown is of green silk gauze, almost covered with white dots. The blouse is made with fine plaits at the top and is trimmed with wide bands of valenciennes lace insertion, which cross in front and in the back. The full sleeves are finished with cuffs composed of bands of narrower insertion and little frills of velvet of a darker shade of green. The full skirt is shirred and puffed at the bottom and trimmed with the insertion and velvet frills. The girdle is of silk matching the gown.—Chic Parisien.

THE WELL DRESSED WOMAN

Black mousseline with Cluny medallions makes a pretty matronly evening gown.

If you would be smart have the pocket flaps and collar lapels of your linen walking suit match the color of your hat.

Pale gray and white make a pretty, cool combination.

Lace with a short fringe of crocheted button-like pendants is one of the new garnitures.

White leather wrist bags are for the lass who goes all clad in white.

Charming and not overexpensive is a hat of fine black straw trimmed with a thick wreath of forget-me-nots about the crown and a few tucked under the brim.

Idea From France.

With his costumes tailleur, which are so near to tailor-made gowns as French dressmakers approach, a celebrated man milliner supplies very light slips of fine batiste incrustated all over with lace incrustations. They are designed to relieve the severity of the outer gown, as the popular lingere waistie relieves the plainness of the two-piece linen walking gowns.

Refrigerator hints:

Do not flood it with boiling water. Keep the ice compartment full of ice.

Do not put hot foods into the refrigerator.

The more the ice the greater the economy.

Ice-saving schemes are absurd, defeating the purpose of the refrigerator.

Overripe fruits and vegetables are a menace to the health if left in the refrigerator.

If much ice be used on the table and for other purposes an authority advises a storage box for this extra ice.

It is the food that is to be kept instead of the ice. Keeping ice in the sick-room or at a picnic is another matter.

A cellar or other damp place is no place for the refrigerator. On the other hand, it should not be put out of doors unprotected.

It should be sponged out often with warm water in which a little soda has been dissolved and the drain should not be neglected.

For Shrunken Flannel.

It is possible to wash flannels without shrinking them, but the average laundress does not know the process. Therefore it is worth while to know how to restore shrunken garments to their original size, or something like it. Try laying the article to be restored on the ironing board, and lay on it a piece of cheesecloth which has been wrung out of cold water. Press with a hot iron until the cheesecloth is perfectly dry. The garment will show a marked improvement.

Of Pale Blue Lavender.

A costume of pale blue trimmed in lavender and blue lace leaves. Lavender der floss is used in appliqueing the leaves to the blue foundation. The pale blue parasol is barred with helle trope.

Artistic Drapery.

Little really artistic draping of doors and windows is seen. For some reason most people seem satisfied with that which is trivial and without meaning. The beauty in artistic drapery lies in the gracefulness of its curves and the irregularity of its arrangements. A room may be made to look larger or smaller by the proper arrangements of its draperies. Color schemes, too, have a tendency to produce the same effect, but it requires a draper with more or less tact and experience to produce these desirable effects. The material used in the drapery illustrated herewith is 50-inch double-faced velour, which comes in solid color only. The over drape is in old rose and the straight hangings in Nile. The design is fringed in contrasting color.

A little thing sometimes results in death. Thus a mere scratch, insignificant cuts or puny boils have paid the death penalty. It is wise to have Bucklen's Arnica Salve ever handy. ### BREACH OF PROMISE.

Miss Pearl Spangler Said to Have Secured Money and Ring and Then Jilted Her Lover.

What is probably the first suit in St. Joseph county where a man seeks damages for breach of promise from his fiance, was filed last week in the circuit court when Edwin E. Smith, of 1323 South Main street, an employe of the Studebaker factory, filed breach of promise proceedings against Miss Pearl Spangler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Spangler, of 314 West Lawrence street, Mishawaka, through Attorney Dudley M. Shively, asking for $3,000.

The plaintiff alleges Miss Spangler agreed to marry him November 9, 1902 and the wedding was to have been solemnized on July 16 of the present year. He says the defendant refused to marry him on the day set for the event and wrote him a letter stating she would never marry him, but expected to marry another. Mr. Smith also avers Miss Spangler induced him to furnish her with a $50 diamond ring, money in the sum of $250 to pay bills she claimed were owing and clothing amounting to $25. He filed a separate suit for $500 damages alleging the ring and money were secured with fraudulent intent.

Mr. Smith is about 20 years older than Miss Spangler and has figured in matrimonial ventures once or twice before. He had a home in readiness for his bride-elect but she is said to have left the city on an extended visit before the wedding leaving her whereabouts unknown to him.—South Bend Tribune.

Battle of Chickamauga.

The fortieth anniversary of Gen. Wilder's brigade and reunion will be held at Chickamauga National park, Sept. 18, 19 and 20th. A good many of the old soldiers in this vicinity are contemplating the trip. A special train will leave Plymouth on Sept. 17th and the fare will be $11.25 for the round trip.

Southern Fruit and Vegetable Growing.

The fertile lands along the Louisville & Nashville R. R. in Alabama, West Florida and Mississippi are veritable bonanzas for the fruit grower and truck gardener. One man sold from one single acre, 100 barrels of radishes for $900 gross; another patch of 4 acres radishes yielded $1,463 net. In the spring of 1902, another truck grower sold 300 barrels of potatoes in Pittsburgh from 3 acres of ground for $1,548, and after paying all expenses, cleared $892 or $297.33 per acre. Within two weeks after selling his potatoes, corn was up and watermelon vines were running on the same land. He harvested his corn, sold his melons, and afterwards cut two crops of hay off of the same land, and on January 20, 1903, was planting it again in potatoes. Strawberries yield from $300 to $550 per acre; as high as 12,480 quarts of luscious berries have been grown on a single acre. Address

GEN. J. C. BLACK NEW CHIEF

Illinois Veteran Chosen Commander of the Grand Army of the Republic--Next Encampment in Boston.

Gen. John C. Black of Illinois, was elected commander in chief of the G. A. R., at the San Francisco encampment, and Boston was chosen as the place for the holding of the next encampment.

Gen. Black made a brief address of thanks to the convention, and of Pennsylvania; junior vice president, Mrs. James Smith of Ohio; treasurer, Mrs. S. M. Stewart of Gettysburg, Pa.; chaplain, Mary E. Lacey of New Jersey; guard, Mary F. Fox of New Jersey; conductor, Mrs. E. L. Chapman of Illinois.

In the executive session of the G.

GENERAL JOHN C. BLACK.

pledged himself to work for the good of the order.

Gen. Nelson A. Miles was called upon as soon as Boston was chosen as the next meeting place, as the selection was taken as a declaration that it meant the election of Miles to the chief office in his home city in 1904. Gen. Miles made a speech that was cordially received.

A proposition to admit sons of veterans into the Grand Army posts was strongly supported, but after an extended debate was defeated by a small majority.

The encampment adopted a resolution requesting congress to pass a bill pensioning all veterans who have reached the age of 62 years.

Roster of Officers.

The officers of the G. A. R., as elected, are: Commander in chief, Gen. John C. Black of Illinois; senior vice commander, Col. C. Mason Keene of California; junior vice commander, Col. Harry Kessler of Montana; sur-

A. R. all the outgoing officers read their reports. Commander in Chief Thomas J. Stewart in his report said that since the last meeting in California, seventeen years ago, the western boundary of the nation had been extended a long way across the Pacific. Regarding membership he said:

"The gains in membership the last year were, by muster, 8,183; transfer, 3,602; reinstatement, 11,672; the losses by death, 8,366; honorable discharge, 730; transfer, 2,990; suspension, 13,513; dishonorable discharge, 76; delinquent reports, 5,022; net loss, 7,245."

In regard to a general pension scheme, Gen. Stewart said: "I believe it would be wise to appoint a committee whose duty would be to frame a proper bill and present the same to congress, providing for a pension of not less than $12 per month for all honorably discharged soldiers, sailors or marines who may choose to apply."

Very Deadly.

"I see some professor is thinking of going into 'Darkest Africa' in an automobile."

"Good gracious! I thought there were enough man-killers in Africa already."

Southern Negroes Ride Wheels.

There are thousands of bicycles being sold this season through the Southern states, where the bicycle craze has struck the negroes, and the wheel has almost been abandoned by the whites.

At the Dime Museum.

"I'm more of an attraction than you," said the Circassian beauty.

"Oh, I don't know," rejoined the obese lady. "You may be all wool, but I'm a yard wide."

WAR DANCE ON AN "L" CAR.

Inquisitive Lobster the Cause of Much Trouble.

The woman had smuggled a pet Skye terrier into an "L" car, and slipped the animal under a cross seat, where it went asleep. Presently a man carrying a small basket came in and sat beside her. He also stowed his burden under the seat. Ten minutes later the woman began to wriggle. She shook out her skirts and said in an audible whisper, "Don't be rude, Fido." Presently she turned pale, and, jerking the chain by which she held the dog cried, "Lie down, Fido! Behave yourself, sir!" Then she jumped up and began a war dance, striking at her skirts all the time. The man stared in amazement until an idea struck him. Reaching under the seat for his basket, he looked inside it, and a great light of intelligence overspread his countenance.

"Madam," said he without moving an eyelash, "when you have quite finished with my lobster will you kindly return it to me?"

The jaws of the lobster were wrenched apart, while the woman blushed and the other passengers tittered.—New York Press.

A Marvelous Accomplishment.

A noted New York chef, in speaking on the subject a few days ago, said:

"Did you ever stop to think what it means to serve from fifty to 125 people a meal in a dining car? The necessarily small space in which the meal must be prepared, the rapid manner in which it must be served, the fact that all the time the train is running at a high rate of speed, and that the diners are moving in and out of the dining car, in the very limited space allotted for the waiters to serve the meal, all add materially to the difficulty of the situation."

"In looking over a dinner menu in use on the New York Central's Twentieth Century Limited, I was surprised to find that this dinner would cost, at any first class hotel in New York, between $4 and $5. Of course, all of the dishes on the menu would not likely be ordered by any one person, but the fact that each patron has the entire menu to order from is the foundation for my estimate of what the dinner would cost in New York."

"Among the dishes served on the day I examined the menu were green turtle soup, shad, fresh mushrooms, spring lamb, teal duck, fresh tomatoes, strawberry shortcake, etc., etc."—From the Brooklyn Standard Union.

A Moro Beauty.

The belle of Bongoa was a slave girl of 18, so graceful and lithe that her every attitude suggested a bird just alighted from a flight through space. Her dark eyes were fringed by the longest of black lashes, and even her stained teeth could not detract from the curves of her pretty mouth. She had a self-consciousness of her own attractions and was as imperious and overbearing as any American beauty, stamping her tiny foot in rage at the photographer's lack of haste in taking her picture, and once walking away from the camera with a disdainful toss of her head. When, after much persuasion, she was induced to return, it was only to scowl sullenly at everybody with the most bewitching ill-temper, poised so lightly that the very wind seemed to sway her slender figure back and forth like a flower on its stalk.—Everybody's Magazine.

May Arbitrate Their Disputes.

It is generally believed that England and France are on the point of reaching an agreement providing for the arbitration of differences independently of The Hague tribunal. Such an agreement would be no disparagement whatever to that court of arbitration, but rather an acknowledgement of its powerful influence in promoting the peace of the world. With The Hague court ready for business, the great nations will find it more difficult than ever to go to war.

Undoubtedly.

"The chronic kicker," mused the west side philosopher, "is a great benefactor."

"What's the answer?" queried the man who had wandered over from the north shore.

"He makes a man appreciate people who are good natured," explained the philosophy dispenser.

The Summer Bath.

Nothing is more refreshing or invigorating in summer than a daily bath. Use soft, tepid water and good soap. Ivory Soap is ideal for the bath; it is pure, lathers quickly and leaves the skin soft and white. The bath should be taken early in the morning or just before retiring at night. ELEANOR R. PARKER.

Facts and Figures.

Tom—"I had my fortune told the other day and my fiancée broke off the engagement."

Jack—"Why, is she a believer in such nonsense?"

Tom—"Nonsense nothing! It was told her by a mercantile agency."

Insist on Getting It.

Some grocers say they don't keep Defiance Starch. This is because they have stock on hand of other brands containing only 12 oz. in a package, which they won't be able to sell first, because Defiance contains 16 oz. for the same money.

Do you want 16 oz. instead of 12 oz. for same money? Then buy Defiance Starch. Requires no cooking.

A Tip on Stocks.

Hold on to your good stocks. This is sound counsel in windy weather. The man who has paid for his investments is not the one who is forced to sell when panic comes. It is a good time for men who have sand in their blood to show it.

St. Paul, Minn., special: George S. Brainerd, head of the G. S. Brainerd Lumber Company of Minneapolis, and with his brother, B. A. Brainerd, owner of the Farmers and Merchants' Bank at Montgomery, in this state, has been missing for several days under circumstances which are the cause of much anxiety and alarm among his friends.

The bank at Montgomery is closed, with B. S. Brainerd, who is cashier, out of the city, and it is feared that it will not be able to open again. The deposits have been running from $50,000 to $80,000, and the liabilities are estimated at $150,000.

Brother Receives Note.

Cashier Brainerd, who is also interested in the lumber company, is in Minneapolis assisting in the search for his missing brother, but the greatest energy upon the part of himself and others has failed to develop any important information.

Cashier Brainerd received a note from the missing man Wednesday, and this note contained the first intimation that there was anything wrong with the writer of the message. The note was rather incoherent, but it indicated quite plainly that Mr. Brainerd was in an excited state of mind. There was nothing definite about the note, except that there were intimations that its author was despondent and intended to do something desperate.

Worry Causes Crash.

The trouble appears to be the outgrowth of business worry in connection with some rather heavy deals. The latest was in connection with a bank which closed its doors. Mr. Brainerd recently met a deficit of $15,000, putting up his company's securities. Just what is wrong at the bank cannot be learned.

SCANT WHEAT SUPPLY CAUSES MILLS TO CLOSE

Incidentally the Shut-Down Interferes With Strike by Dissatisfied Oilers and Grubbers.

Minneapolis, Minn., dispatch: The Anchor and B mills of the Pillsbury-Washburn Flour Mills company and mills C, D, E and G of the Northwestern Consolidated Milling company, all of which have been running night and day, have closed. The closing has probably averted a strike, although the milling companies do not know it. The mills were closed because of the shortage of wheat. E. N. Fairchild of the Pillsbury company said that he did not think the Anchor and the B mills would be closed for any length of time. Everything depended on the wheat supply.

All the mill employees in the city, particularly those known as "oilers" and "grubbers," are dissatisfied with the present wage scale. A movement was on for the purpose of calling a meeting to formulate demands and if they were not granted to inaugurate a strike.

WANT DEMOCRATS AS GUESTS

Mayor Rose has had extensive correspondence on the subject and claims to have received assurances of support of a satisfactory character. An effort will be made to have the claims of this city presented to the national committee at the meeting of the executive committee in October. Failing any action, then a strong Milwaukee committee will go before the full committee later in Washington.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM A LION

Trainer at Kalamazoo Is Attacked by a Ferocious Beast.

Kalamazoo, Mich., special: Captain William Dyer, a lion tamer with the Gaskill-Mundy carnival company, had a narrow escape from death. One of the lions, called Paul, had been ugly all day. When Dyer went into the cage to feed the animals the beast became furious and sprang at him. He drove the lion back again and again with a heavy blacksnake whip and had reached the door of the cage when the lion sprang upon him and buried its claws in the trainer's left arm, ripping the flesh open to the bone. Keepers sprang to the rescue and drove the animal back enabling Dyer to escape from the cage.

TWO ARE DROWNED FROM BOAT

Girl Falls Into the Lake, Man Attempts Rescue and Both Perish.

Holland, Mich., special: John Van Dellen of Chicago, aged 20, and Miss Henrietta Winklers of Grand Rapids, aged 18, who were guests of Rev. H. Van Hoogan of this city, were drowned in Black lake here. The young people, in company with Miss Van Hoogan, were out rowing when the boat struck a log and during the excitement Miss Winklers fell into the water. Van Dellen jumped in to rescue her. Neither could swim and as they did not come to the surface the supposition is that they became entangled in the weeds.

COLOMBIA READY FOR NEW TREATY

Senate Likely to Reconsider Action and Modify the Constitution.

OLD PACT WAS NOT REJECTED

Members of Upper House at Bogota Merely Disapproved of Instrument, Being Sensitive Regarding Relinquishing Territorial Sovereignty.

Washington dispatch: A bill is ready authorizing the Colombian government to make a new canal treaty with the United States upon fixed bases and also providing for modifying the national constitution.

The Colombian house of representatives can do nothing in the matter of the canal treaty unless the senate reconsiders it. Numerous instances are on record of bills becoming law after having been twice rejected.

Unofficial advice has been received by Dr. Herran, the Colombian charge d'affaires at Washington, indicating an intention on the part of the Colombian senate to resume consideration of the subject of a Panama canal treaty in place of the one disapproved by that body on the 12th inst.

Herran is hopeful. This leads Dr. Herran to hope that a measure yet to be passed by congress which will form the basis for the ratification of a treaty between Colombia and the United States for the construction of the isthmian canal.

Dr. Herran's information is that on the 13th inst., the day after the disapproval of the treaty by the senate, that body voted to appoint a committee of three members to act jointly with a committee from the house of representatives in the formation of a law for the ratification of a treaty between the two countries by the executive of Colombia after the two houses of the Colombian congress had passed an enabling act outlining the terms and conditions on which a treaty should be drawn.

The president of Colombia by this act would have full power in the premises, and the treaty would not have to be afterward submitted to the Colombian congress.

Simply Disapproves. The idea contained in the proposition is not dissimilar to the Spooner act itself, as this act gave authority to the president to begin negotiations with the governments of Nicaragua and Costa Rica in the event that he was unable to reach a satisfactory agreement with Colombia for a right of way for the Panama canal.

The question of sovereignty having been the predominant one in the Colombian debates the presumption is that whatever measure is agreed on as a basis for a treaty would be along lines that will not offend Colombian sensitiveness in this regard.

A more careful reading of the dispatch which Dr. Herran received early in the week announcing the action of the senate on the treaty shows that what that body really did was to "disapprove" the instrument and not "reject" it, as has been heretofore stated.

INDIANS HONOR GREAT CHIEF

Chippewas, Sioux, Winnebagoes and Ottawas Gather Near Kenosha.

Kenosha, Wis., special: Forty Indians, representing the tribes of the Chippewas, Ottawas, Sioux and Winnebagoes gathered on the slopes of Grassy Lake, near the Kenosha county line, to commemorate the deeds of the great chief, Louis Riel. Hundreds of people came from many points to witness the spear dance and the annual sacrifice, which consists of the slaughter of a white dog by a living chief, and the scattering of the blood about the grave of the dead chief.

MOTH KILLERS A LOTTERY.

Our Grandmothers' Cedar Chests the Only Real Preventive.

"Long experience has taught me never to recommend a preventive for moths," said a Lexington avenue druggist who has a window full of all sorts of them. "I have grown gray from women coming around to me in the fall and berating me because moths had eaten their furs in spite of a moth killer that I had assured them was all right. I once took home to my wife a moth bag which I had reason to believe was proof against the pests. She put some treasured apparel away in it, and when she took the thing out it had more holes than a sieve. I had no domestic peace for a month. Now I keep all sorts of moth killers for sale, but I never recommend one. A woman may buy camphor, moth balls, sulphur, moth paper or anything else she pleases, for all I care. As Capt. Cuttle says, it depends on the application of it. But let me tell you, my boy, when you want a dead-sure thing for moths just think of grandmother's old cedar chest. Where to get them now? Aye, there's the rub!"—New York Press.

The Question Answered.

Estlin Springs, Tenn., Aug. 24th.—Many questions are being asked of Mr. C. D. Holt of this place in regard to his wonderful recovery. For over two years he has been down with his back. He was so very bad that he could not even lace his shoes, and from this condition he suddenly appeared well and strong as ever.

It is no wonder therefore that his friends are asking him "How did you do it?"

He tells them all: "Dodd's Kidney Pills did it," and adds "This remedy is a genuine good medicine and one that I can heartily recommend to everybody."

"Everyone around here knows how very bad I was. I was so weak in my back that I couldn't do anything that needed stooping or bending over, and three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills made me as you see, as well as ever I was."

"They certainly had a wonderful effect on my case."

The Best Short Sales.

James Stillman, president of the National City bank, is a man of few words, but he makes those few count. A famous tip that he is said to have given a friend two months ago has leaked out in Wall street.

The friend in question wrote to him asking for advice concerning the market. He had $500,000, and wanted to make it a million. Here is the reply of Mr. Stillman, written in lead pencil on a sheet of paper three by four:

"Polo ponies, stem yachts, and Newport villas are the best short sales in the world."—New York Times.

Lorenz is Snubbed.

A correspondent of the Vienna Zeit writes that, notwithstanding the honors heaped upon Prof. Adolf Lorenz in the United States, hardly any attention was paid to him in Mexico. He was not invited to demonstrate his method, and the local German as well as Mexican doctors kept aloof from him. The Austrian ambassador, Count Hohenwart, however, gave a dinner in his honor.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARMS FOR SALE AND TO RENT.

I have over 200 of the finest farms in the RED RIVER VALLEY of North Dakota and Minnesota, for sale or rent, of all sizes from 100 acres to 2,000 acres to each farm, with fine buildings. Most of these farms are located along streams, having all the way from 10 to 50 acres of fine timber. They are all near railroad towns. Most of them are located in Cass, Traill and Steele Counties, North Dakota, and Clay County, Minnesota. I do not sell any lands in the northern or western parts of the states, nor in Canada, where drought and frost happen so often. Farmers in those remote parts of North Dakota and Canada have to pay so much freight on farm products to make farming profitable. The farms that I have for sale are located from 25 to 30 miles from Duluth, which is as good a grain market as Chicago, on account of water transportation. You will save commission by coming to me direct, instead of buying your land through an agent. When you get here, I will show you fine farm buildings, fine level rich lands, no stone, alkali or sand, and also fine crops of all kinds, including as good corn crops as you have ever seen in the State of Illinois.

CIRCULAR TO EDUCATORS.

State Board of Educators Issue an Address in Behalf of Educational Display at the World's Fair.

Indianapolis, August 26.—The state board of education is going steadily ahead in the work it has undertaken at the request of the St. Louis World's fair commission of arranging the Indiana educational exhibit to be made at the coming exposition.

Senator Goodwine, J. N. Study, of Ft. Wayne and President Bryan of Indiana university who went to St. Louis, to make reservation of space for the exhibit, have returned and report that Indiana will be allowed 1,500 feet for the common school display. This does not include the reservation which will be made to exploit the work of the colleges, technical institutes and manual training schools. For the exhibits from these departments another reservation of 1,500 feet has been promised.

The members of the state educational board are taking a great interest in their new work. The display of the educational methods of Indiana which was made at the Philadelphia exposition of 1876 brought the state instant recognition as a leader along educational lines. Since that time Indiana has been acknowledged by all educators to stand in the front rank. The men who will arrange the 1904 exhibit are determined to maintain the reputation of the state.

As a "starter" the board has addressed a circular letter to every county and city superintendent, all college presidents and educators generally, outlining in a general way the kind of an exhibit that is proposed and bespeaking their co-operation in the work. The great progress made by the state in its educational work is pointed out. Continuing the circular says: "In 1876 Indiana had 7,227 pupils in high schools; in 1902 it had 36,139. In 1876 the enrollment in our institutions of college rank was insignificant; in 1902 it was 6,350. In 1876 our entire school population was 679,230; in 1902 it was 761,801. Our school architecture and sanitation have kept pace with our increase in numbers and methods of teaching. Standards of all kinds have advanced and the means for sustaining them, while the demand for disciplined mind and deft hand has made steady progress.

"From these considerations and such as these, there is ample reason why Indiana should make a full and worthy exhibit at the approaching exposition. Not city schools alone but all rural schools as well should exert themselves to make our education exhibit worthy of our great commonwealth. It certainly would be matter of great chagrin to us if any state carved out of the new purchase should lead us in an educational exhibit; and none of them can if all the teachers and school officers do their full duty."

About 1200 people, employees of the Pennsylvania railroad at Indianapolis and their families arrived here last Saturday for a days outing. It was a very orderly crowd and all seemed to enjoy themselves

Irene, the three months old daughter of Ollie Baker and wife died Monday. Funeral services conducted from the house on Tuesday at one o'clock by Rev. Streeter.

Dr. Wood, eye-sight specialist will be at Morris house Monday, Aug. 31st from 1 to 5 p. m. See him for glasses that fit.
