Daniel Trexler Found Alive,

The many friends of Daniel Traxler, the Fort Wayne traveling salesman, who disappeared from Argos more than two weeks ago, were greatly rejoiced to learn last Friday that he had been found, and found alive. The hopes of his relatives had been shattered by the rumor that his dead body had been found in the Tippecanoe river, but later a letter was received by Mrs. Traxler from her brother, of Grand Island, Nebraska, stating that the missing man had arrived there, suffering from a severe illness and remembering nothing of his experience of the past few weeks. He was in wretched health and most of the time appeared to suffer from a mental ailment. He declined to talk and was oblivious to the past, but still in a condition that encourages the belief that he will recover.

Mr. Traxler had for many years been employed as a traveling salesman for Bursley & Co., and was one of their trusted men. All over this county where for years he made regular trips, he was well liked and quite popular. Here in Culver the merchants whom he visited enjoyed his friendship and confidence and ever since his disappearance have been greatly interested in his case. He had made his home for the past seven years while here at Mrs. Morris', and was always a welcome guest.

WAS A GOOD GAME

Armour Institute Gave Culver Her First Football Scare.

PUT UP A VERY STIFF FIGHT

But the Soldiers Won Out By a Score of 6 to 5.

Culver had her hands full a plenty when the husky Institute eleven got to doing business and there was a game worth seeing. The visitors were big, as big as Culver and they knew how to play foot ball.

The tale runs somewhat as follows: Culver won toss and chose to kick. Institute to defend the west goal. Culver kicked short and there was a battle royal, Institute taking the ball steadily down the field in very short gains only making the distance on third down until the fifteen yard line was reached. Culver had stiffened up on defense continually and at this point held for downs and secured the ball. Heaton left tackle, three yards. Hunter left end for ten but Culver got a penalty for holding. Campbell was sent but the distance was too great and he was downed and the ball stolen at the fifteen yard line. It would have gone over at any rate.

Culver drew five yards penalty at first down. Institute tried the line three times and the soldiers held, securing the ball at the six yard line. It was interesting—some. Saalfeld made the distance first down, Campbell and Barrett Heaton was called but Sheppard slipped through and got him for loss. Campbell got around right end and sprinted thirty yards. Institute stiffened up and forced a punt. The run back was slight and it was downed in the middle of the field. Culver got the ball on a fumble second down. Third down Campbell made ten yards but Institute got the ball on the third down following. Institute was soon forced to punt and then something awful happened. The ball was sailing over Barrett's head and he shot up into the air slapping it with his hand. The ball fell near the goal post and to spectators it seemed that Barrett smashed his head up against the post. Whatever happened, Institute was on side and Barrett laid out. They got the ball and a touch down. Goal missed.

Institute kicked to the five yard line and Buckingham ran back thirty. Culver started down the field nicely but the visitors' defense was becoming stronger every down and they finally held. Institute was forced to punt third down and recovered the ball on a fumble. It looked as if the maroon and white was in for a beating. Culver held again and Institute punted and recovered again. It seemed as if Culver just couldn't hold that ball. Time was up with the ball dangerously near the line.

SECOND HALF.

Institute kicked to the ten yard line and there was twenty return. Culver was forced to punt and the ball was blocked and Institute's ball on the fifteen yard line. Culver was holding nicely and Institute tried for a field goal but missed. The ball was kicked out from the twenty-five yard line and went into play at the center of the field. The visitors punted third down. Culver had the ball a few downs and punted. The visitors punted and the punt was blocked by Barrett and he got the ball on the visitors' five yard line. The visitors held and the ball went over.

First down Institute punted. The ball went high and was held. Six downs gave the ball to Armour and they very promptly punted. Culver punted third down and the visitors punted. Hastings recovered the ball. And now how Culver did hit that line. Campbell did some pretty hurdling. Barrett smashed through the line and Heaton made it at the end and so it went, just far enough to keep the ball and Barrett touched down. Score, 5-5. Sohl took a week to kick that goal and sailed the ball exactly between the posts and Culver maintained loud and long that he was alright and they were right. Culver had all the better of the gains the rest of the half, giving the ball up but once on downs and once on a fumble. The visitors in both cases contented themselves with simply punting out of danger and the official's whistle put an end to the prettiest game of the season.

Fine Specimens of Farm Products

This has been a rare season for the growth of fine vegetables and products of the farm. Fruits and vegetables, corn and potatoes, have grown to great size and old mother Earth has brought forth bounteously. The CITIZEN office has been favored with samples from the farmers and its show window is adorned with an array of exhibits that gives it the resemblance of a small county fair. Among the contributions not hitherto mentioned is a specimen of corn as fine as ever grew in the Dakotas, some of the ears being twelve inches in length, brought in by Rollo Hawk, who lives about a mile south of town. He also brought a squash that measured 26 inches from its chin to its toes, and is big enough to vote. Rollo is a progressive young farmer and we predict for him a successful career.

Jake Landis brought in some specimens of large apples from his mother's farm. He has fifty bushels of the same kind. Michael Baker, near Hibbard, left some rare specimens of Northern Spy variety, one of the best kind of apples grown.

J. L. Scheuerman, living south of the lake, left three potatoes of the "Chicago Market" variety, which weighed 6 pounds and 3 ounces, and three "North Dakotas" which lacked one ounce of weighing five pounds. If anybody can beat these samples let him raise his hand or stand up.

A sample of potatoes was left by W. W. Christenberry, one of which was nine inches long and stopped growing only because it was tired. Jacob Myers favored us with a specimen of Rural New Yorkers. They are not so large as some others on exhibition, but are of even growth and are hard to beat.

Daniel Easterday left a specimen of improved corn, which has a small cob but long kernels, many averaging three-quarters of an inch. L. C. Dillon also left some fine corn samples, one of the ears being 15 inches long and was starting a beard.

The native country of corn is uncertain. The Indians cultivated it in this country in an early day. It was introduced to Europe about the year 1520 by Columbus from America, but there are good grounds for the conclusion that it was known and cultivated in the ancient world long before that time. In the United States the corn crop is about 2,150,000 bushels yearly.

Evangelical church service for Sunday, Nov. 13 are: Sunday-school at 10 a. m. and preaching at 11 a. m. You are cordially invited to attend these services.—Chas. McConnehey, pastor.

Jake Landis and Dow Rector drove to Plymouth Saturday and remained to hear Senator Carmack of Tennessee speak in the evening.

OBITUARY.

"The spark of life is like unto a spark of fire, it flashes forth its beauty and is gone." "Della gone? No, 'tis only transition. The lily bud with all its beauty spent in its mission here has opened in full majesty and fragrance in the garden of the Redeemed."

Miss Della Victoria Romig was born Jan. 10, 1888 and lived happily through 16 years, 9 months and 23 days, when on Nov. 3rd she left the body for the spirit life with God. She was the daughter of Henry and Sarah Jane Romig and besides her parents she leaves two brothers and four sisters to mourn their loss which is to her eternal gain. At the age of eleven years she united with Zion's Reformed church and lived a consistent Christian life. Previous to her last illness she had been in robust health and not until eight weeks ago when she was seized with typhoid fever did she surrender her line of duties. She bore her sufferings patiently. Days and weeks passed with few visible signs of regaining health, yet loved ones did not lose hope. But there comes a time in the affairs of humanity when even the arm of the nearest and dearest one seems to be shortened, wisdom seems weak and that heart must fondle in the breast of the infinite for rescue and support. God has again spoken. This time to claim for his realm one fair and lovely and while heart strings are torn and bleeding. Yet to him who is who is too just to be unkind we bow in humble submission and answer "It is well." 'Tis but for a moment, this separation we suffer and not that we would recall her sweet spirit from the world beyond.

Della was greatly admired among her school friends and by her teachers, beloved in our Emmanuel's Evangelical Sunday-school, its honored secretary and a delight in the home. But in no place will she be missed as in the home circle. As in their ponderings her beloved parents may well repeat the words:

"O! Yes; We will meet, but we will miss her:
There will be one vacant chair,
We will linger to caress her
When we breathe our evening prayer,
Sometime, when all life's lessons have been learned,
And sun and stars forever more have set,
The things which our weak judgments here have spurned,
The things over which we grieved with lashes wet,
Will flash before us out of life's dark night,
As stars shine most in deepest tints of blue,
And we shall see how all God's plans are right.
"But not today! Then be content, poor heart
God's plans like lilies pure and white unfold;
We must not fear the close-shut leaves apart
Time will reveal the calyxes of gold.
And if through patient toil we reach the land
Where tired feet with sandals loosed may rest,
Where we shall see and clearly understand
I think that we shall say, "God knew the best."

Funeral services were held by the undersigned from Emanuel's Evangelical Church, Saturday, Nov. 5th at 10:30 a. m.

An amusing incident occurred in Plymouth the other day, showing one effect of Sunday-school teaching. A little girl came crying to her mother and it was found that she had poured the sewing-machine oil on her head. When asked why she did it she said amidst her boo-hoos: "Well, they put oil on Jesus' head."

SEEKING A PARDON

Whitman's Young Wife Enlisting Aid for Her Aged Spouse.

CONVICTED IN THIS COUNTY

On a Horse-Stealing Charge and Given Indeterminate Sentence.

Mrs. Ivah Whitman, the young wife of Amos Whitman, now serving time in the Michigan City prison for stealing a span of horses from Clinton Jones, in Green township, a year ago, has visited Sheriff Bondurant and the prosecuting attorney to enlist their help in an effort to secure a pardon for her husband. She has also been to see Mr. Jones, owner of the stolen horses, and says that he is disposed to take a charitable view of the case, owing to the husband's age. She will present her petition before the board of pardons at its meeting the first of November.

Whitman stole a pair of fine 3-year-olds and was captured after a long pursuit, having cleverly covered his tracks. Deputy Sheriff Voreis, with others, followed his man into Michigan and found him at a farm house at dinner. He brought his prisoner to Plymouth, where in the circuit court he plead guilty and was sentenced to a term of from one to fourteen years. He was 62 years old at the time of his sentence.

Sentiment is divided as to the advisability of his pardon. He was not probably an authorized preacher, as claimed, but he was reported to have held meetings in country places and to make use of his acquaintance in neighborhoods to locate good horses, which he made known to confederates, who would steal them while the people were at meetings.

The devotion of his wife to the man who is more than twice her age is touching. She took up her residence at Michigan City to be near him and has centered her hopes in the effort to procure his parole.

After the business was concluded the young people invited furnished music instrumental and vocal and also gave solos, quartettes and choruses from Queen Esther. A very fine collation was served by the hostess and all present had a most delightful evening.

The Monterey graded school building is nearing completion and will be modern in every detail. The new building will give the children comfortable quarters and will enable the teachers to do good work. The much needed high school building at Culver remains on paper and in the minds of expectant people. We may have an earthquake here some time in the future, nothing less will produce material results.

It is said of an Indian Territory editor that he visited an insane asylum while in St. Louis recently, and was mistaken by a lunatic for a fellow sufferer just arrived. Becoming confidential, the inmate asked the editor what made him go crazy, and to humor him the editor replied: "Trying to make money out of the newspaper business." "Rats," said the lunatic, "you're not crazy, you're just a d--m fool."

MORGAN GIVES COPE TO ITALY

Humbert's Ambassador Succeeds in Convincing That Relic Was Stolen.

WAS JUSTIFIED IN PURCHASE

American Millionaire Had No Reason to Suppose That Party From Whom He Secured the Treasure Was in Illegal Possession.

New York special: J. Pierpont Morgan has returned to the Italian government the ancient ecclesiastical cope which was stolen from the cathedral of Ascoli, Italy, two years ago, and later purchased by him. The presentation was made through Baron Edmondo des Planches, the Italian ambassador, who called by appointment on Mr. Morgan in this city. The cope is now in the Victoria and Albert museum at South Kensington, England, to which it was loaned by Mr. Morgan.

Decides to Return It.
Ambassador des Planches said that shortly after he was invited by his government to open negotiations with Mr. Morgan looking to the return of the cope the latter intimated that if only he could be sure that the relic was stolen he would not hesitate in placing it in the hands of its owners. Finally the meeting between the Ambassador and Mr. Morgan was arranged. Mr. Morgan then announced his decision. He said he felt justified in making the purchase. He had no reason to question the right of possession of the relic of the person from whom he made the purchase.

The cope was presented by Pope Nicholas IV to Ascoli, his native place. It is a French work of the thirteenth century, and is one of the finest specimens of the art of that period that have been preserved.

It was in 1902 that the cope was stolen from the cathedral of Ascoli, while repairs were being made on the building. Every effort to trace it or discover the thieves failed until last July, when a letter appeared in the Giornale d'Italia from Signor Ricci, the director of the galleries of Florence, saying that the cope was on exhibition at the South Kensington museum, where it appeared as the property of "a well-known American collector."

A photographer who had been arrested in connection with the case committed suicide by hanging in his cell. Rochigiani left a note saying that he was innocent, and intimating that the real thief was one high in Italian circles.

FAVORS TREATY WITH AMERICA

Germans in Sympathy With an Arbitration Agreement.

Berlin cablegram: The German government is in full sympathy with the proposal of the United States for a treaty of arbitration between the United States and Germany and there seems no doubt that a treaty will be arranged at an early date. The foreign office only received the proposal from the American embassy a few days ago. The foreign office here is authority for the statement that Germany has no agreement with Spain whatever respecting joint protection of their interests in Santo Domingo. Neither has Germany protested against the arbitration decision in the case of the claims of the Santo Domingo Improvement company of New York, nor does the foreign office know anything regarding the action taken by the Spanish consul at Santo Domingo in behalf of Germany.

London cable: In a letter to the London chamber of commerce Lord Lansdowne, secretary of state for foreign affairs, informs that body that Russia has met in a conciliatory spirit the protests of Great Britain and the United States against her declaration that certain articles shall be considered unconditionally contraband of war. Russia has conceded that rice and other specific provisions henceforth will be regarded as only conditionally contraband, the onus of proof lying with the captor.

DROWNS IN A TEN-GALLON JAR

Child Loses Its Life While the Father Is Only 100 Feet Away.

Macomb, Ill., dispatch: Within 100 feet of her father the 3-year-old daughter of Durham Leach of this city was drowned in a ten-gallon jar. The child was with its father while he was feeding the pigs and it started to the house. Returning, he was horrified to see the little one's feet sticking from the top of the jar. She was dead when he pulled her out. It is supposed she reached into the jar to play in the water and lost her balance. There was only about seven inches of water in the jar.

GIRL'S BODY IS FOUND AT GATE TO CEMETERY

Bloody Trail From Car Tracks Is Strewn with Victim's Teeth, Indicating Desperate Struggle.

Cincinnati special: The body of Alma Steinway, telephone operator, was found in a vacant lot near the entrance to Spring Grove cemetery with marks that indicate murder. A trail of blood from the street car track suggested that the girl had been struck by a car. Her injuries were all about the head. The condition of her clothing indicated a desperate struggle, but no clew to the manner of her death has been found.

Later developments, however, leave no doubt about the girl being most brutally murdered. She was exceptionally attractive and highly respectable. She left the Cumminsville telephone exchange shortly after 9 o'clock at night and her transfer to Winton place was punched at 9:40. It is believed that some one waylaid her in the suburbs or possibly followed her from the car, as she had some distance to walk to her home after alighting, assaulted her and dragged her body into the vacant lot adjoining Spring Grove cemetery.

There was found a blood trail from the lot to the street car tracks and every indication of a desperate struggle. Her teeth were scattered along the trail, as well as her hat and other parts of clothing. She was cut over the temple, her skull crushed and jaws broken. While there are male footprints in the trail, there is no clew to the murderer.

WOMAN AND CHILDREN BREAK INTO COUNTY JAIL

Insist on Being Cared for Until the Husband and Father Has Served His Term.

Stevens Point, Wis., special: Breaking out of jail is a common occurrence, but for a woman to enter jail unbidden and bring five children with her and refuse to go out when ordered to do so is something new. This is what has happened in this city.

Albert Wisniewski, one of the men convicted of the unlawful sale of liquor, is serving a three months' sentence. Mrs. Wisniewski, accompanied by her five children, came to the jail and asked to see her husband. Sheriff Bourn opened the door for the purpose of calling the husband into the office, and as he did so Mrs. Wisniewski and her five children rushed into the jail part of the building—and she says she is going to stay there. The woman was very angry.

Two "blind pigs" were wrecked at the village of Rosholt some time ago. Wisniewski's place was one of them and his wife says they have no place to live and no money and that as they have sent her husband to jail herself and children will stay with him.

Sheriff Bourn has notified the city authorities with the expectation that they will provide for the family and look to the town of Alban for reimbursement.

WRECKS SAFE TO SAVE QUEUE

Philadelphia Chinaman Catches Pig-tail in Door and Causes a Stir.

Philadelphia, Pa., dispatch: Lee Wong, a Chinese laundryman of Germantown, wants to get back to China. He is saving his money carefully for the purpose, so he bought a safe and had a special combination made in Chinese characters. Lee Wong slammed his safe door shut. When he tried to way away he found himself fast. His queue was caught in the door and he had forgotten the combination. His cries brought in Policemen Donnelly.

"Flogetee combination," wailed Wong.

"Get a knife," said Donnelly. Wong jumped in terror as far as his queue would let him. "No, no," he shrieked. "No cuttee pigtail, clackee safe. Blow him up."

Finally they got a bit of burglar's tools from the police station. After two hours' work the safe was wrecked and the pigtail released.

Former Coachman to ex-President Pleads Guilty and Is Sentenced.

Philadelphia, Pa., dispatch: Charles Ihlstrom pleaded guilty to forging the name of former President Grover Cleveland to a check. A letter from the ex-President was read, stating that the prisoner had been in his employ as a coachman for a year and a half, during which time he had always been an honest man. The defendant said his wife and two brothers had died recently, and he himself had been sick. In order to raise money with which to defray funeral and other expenses he had resorted to the forgery. He was sentenced to six months in jail.

NATION'S CHIEF SUSTAINS FALL

President Roosevelt Is Thrown From His Horse When the Animal Stumbles.

NEWS HAS BEEN SUPPRESSED

Story of the Accident Is Kept From the Public, Various Explanations Being Made Regarding Bruises on Executive's Face.

Washington dispatch: A story explaining a mishap that recently befell President Roosevelt has received wide circulation. According to the story, the president was taking his usual canter on horseback along one of the country roads in Rock Creek park a week ago last Sunday afternoon. His horse Bleistein, while galloping at a sharp pace, is said to have stumbled and the president was thrown from the saddle.

It is known that on the following day when the president appeared at the executive offices he had a large and ugly looking bruise on his forehead and one or two minor bruises lower down on his face. These had obviously been treated by a surgeon.

Secretary Loeb Explains.

The presence of the bruises was variously explained by Secretary Loeb and others attached to the white house staff. According to one explanation Mr. Roosevelt had stumbled and fallen while playing tennis and sustained the cuts which appeared upon his face. Another explanation had it that the president, while riding through the country, had dismounted from his horse and attempted to climb a fence for the purpose of investigating something that had attracted his attention, that he slipped and that his face was scraped by one of the bars of the fence.

Story Is Carefully Suppressed.

While the fact that he had been injured aroused a great deal of curiosity the additional fact that his immediate counselors were anxious to suppress all information regarding the accident served to prevent publication of even speculative stories. The president's friends evidently feared that the facts might be misunderstood and enlarged upon and for that reason they were very anxious that it should not be known.

The president himself came out of the mishap slightly jarred, with a considerable lump on the side of his head and the bruises or cuts which attracted so much attention from visitors at the white house and executive office. Otherwise he was all right and did not lose a moment from his multifarious official duties.

The accident, according to persons familiar with the facts, was one that could have overtaken any horseman under similar circumstances.

Rides Home Alone.

The most singular phase of it, however, was that at the moment it happened the president was alone. He had dismissed his attendants at a point beyond where it happened. After his fall, when he had risen to his feet, he found Bleistein, whose stumbling was responsible for the unseating of the president, patiently waiting to be remounted.

The president vaulted back into the saddle and rode to the white house, where his injuries were attended by Dr. Rixey.

President Roosevelt was disposed to make light of the whole affair and it has not interfered with his frequent jaunts into the country with Bleistein.

MAKE ATTACK ON GRAIN TRUST

Iowa Co-operative Farmers Declare Enemies Restrict Their Trade.

Mason City, Iowa, special: Representatives of farmers' co-operative societies from Ridgeway, Langdon, Badger, Stanhope, Gowrie, Postville, Pierson, Rudd, Lawler, Dougherty, Burt and Stansgar met in convention at Rockwell to devise means to check the movements of alleged grain trust concerns. The latter have curtailed the business of the co-operative bodies, limiting their markets for disposing of grain and also for the purchase of supplies. The co-operative men may resort to courts.

WOULD NOT SALUTE THE MIKADO

American Vessel at Chefoo Refuses Request of the Japanese.

Chefoo cable: The Japanese consul here, on the occasion of the mikado's birthday, requested Rear Admiral Folger, commanding the cruiser division of the American Asiatic fleet, and the captain of a Chinese cruiser to fire a salute. Rear Admiral Folger declined to accede to the request on the ground that he was not in Japanese waters. The Chinese captain, however, complied. The incident has aroused much comment.

BURGLARS MAKE RAID ON TOWN IN INDIANA

Inhabitants Sleep While Professionals Blow Open Safes With Nitroglycerin and Escape With Plunder.

McCoyburg, Ind., special: The authorities here have notified the Chicago police to look out for burglars who raided the town Thursday night, blowing open safes with nitroglycerin, stealing a large sum of money and valuables and escaping without arousing the sleeping inhabitants. A general alarm to the police and sheriffs of Hammond and other near by towns, as well as Chicago, has been sent out. The places robbed by the burglars are:

Walter Lee's hardware store.
James McDonald's general store.
Reed McCoy's store.
George Danford's store.

The postoffice.
Money drawers, safes and the stocks in the stores were rifled. Tools with which to break into the stores were obtained from a blacksmith shop.

In the postoffice the richest booty was obtained. There a large safe was blown to pieces with nitroglycerin. All the stamps and money, including some church funds that had been deposited there, were stolen.

The amount stolen is not given out by Postmaster McCoy, but it will reach several hundred dollars. The sheriff of Jasper county procured a pair of bloodhounds from Mitchell, Ind., to track the robbers, but owing to the crowd of people that had visited the stores in the early morning the hounds could not get the scent.

It is thought that the raid was the work of professionals, for no clew to their whereabouts has been obtained.

DYNAMITE EXPLOSION INJURES TWO SCORE

No Trace Has Been Found of Italian in Charge of the Blast, Which Does Much Damage.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., special: The explosion of over a ton of dynamite under the Bond street bridge at 1 o'clock Wednesday shook the city and the surrounding country within a radius of five miles, probably killed at least one person and injured nearly forty others, two of whom may die. The man supposed to have been killed was an Italian in charge of the dynamite. He was seen at his post of duty just before the explosion and no trace of him has since been found.

A heavy train bound for New York was just pulling out of the Mount Vernon station when the explosion occurred and the engineer stopped until the track was clear. In another minute this train would have reached the bridge.

Most of the persons injured were caught by falling ceilings and walls in the houses near by.

Chief of Police Foley at once arrested William F. Ryan, foreman of the gang of workmen employed on the blasting operations, and many witnesses are now held while an investigation is being made into the cause of the explosion.

GIRL IS MURDERED IN PASTURE

Missouri Officials Find Mutilated Body and Search for Young Men.

Marshall, Mo., special: The body of Miss Rosa Butts, aged 23 years, was found in a pasture in the suburbs of South Marshall. The girl evidently had been murdered. Her throat had been cut with a sharp stick, a piece of which remains in the flesh; the left ear had been cut off and there was a bullet hole in the head. There was evidence that the girl had made a struggle for her life. A cigarette near the body and bloody tracks leading away from the spot are the only tangible clews. Miss Butts, who was a domestic, was last seen late Wednesday night, Nov. 2, according to her sister, with two young men. Neither of the men has been found.

Gillespie Loses Habeas Corpus.

Indianapolis, Ind., special: The supreme court has sustained the action of the circuit court in refusing to grant a writ of habeas corpus in the case of James Gillespie, being held charged with the murder of his sister, Elizabeth Gillespie, at Rising Sun.

Takes Acid Before John.

Hammond, Ind., special: John William Clements of Shelby committed suicide by drinking two ounces of carbolic acid in the presence of his wife. He met his wife in a restaurant, and, pouring the poison into a cup, drank it, dying in less than an hour.

Cody Bank Robbers Escape.

Cody, Wyo., dispatch: The Cody bank robbers have escaped. Members of the posse sent from here have returned and say that the timber in which the outlaws took refuge has been thoroughly beaten and no trace of the men has been found.

Capture Men with Nitroglycerin.

Grand Rapids, Mich., dispatch: George Wilson and Arthur Noyes, alias Howard, alleged to be members of the Hyde Park (Chicago) famous gang of safe blowers, were captured in Grand Rapids. They had four ounces of nitroglycerin, which they attempted to explode when arrested.

Town of Marion, Mich., Burns.

Grand Rapids, Mich., dispatch: Fire has destroyed the west side of the town of Marion, Tuscola county, causing a loss of $200,000. The opera

FIGHT NOW IN THE LAST FORTS

Defenders of Port Arthur Pretty Nearly in the Last Ditch, Dispatches Say.

JAPANESE PUSHING FORWARD

Russians Seem to Expect Deadlock Below Mukden for the Winter—Oyama May Attempt Again to Capture the City.

The defenders of Port Arthur have retired to the Liati hill fort, where they are fighting desperately, say special dispatches from Chefoo and Tientsin. Many Russians are deserting and surrendering. The Japanese, according to these reports, are advancing with irresistible energy, and the fortress' doom is evidently sealed.

The Russians apparently expect a deadlock below Mukden for the winter, which appears possible unless Port Arthur should fall or the Japanese abandon the idea of renewing the assault upon the fortress there and settle down to a regular siege.

Either action would release enough troops for them to concentrate in an endeavor to force the Russians out of Mukden and compel Kourapatkin to fight on the defensive.

The latest dispatches indicate that the Japanese contemplate such a movement.

There is considerable evidence to indicate that they will make every effort to force the Russians out of Mukden, not only for the moral effect on Europe, but upon the Chinese as well. The town is extremely important to them as winter quarters.

Gens. Linevitch and Kaulbars have been appointed to the first and third Russian armies, respectively. Gens. Kutnefich and Selivanoff will command the first corps, the chief of which mand the Thirty-seventh divisions of Gen. Meyendorff, his resigning on account of ill health. Gen. Slouchovsky, commander of the Tenth corps, has resigned, and it is expected that he will be succeeded by Gen. Jenzpitsky.

Gen. Kourapatkin reports that Lieut. Col. Bogdenoff, who was sent by Viceroy Alexieff to explore Mongolia, accompanied by only two interpreters and a courier, was attacked by Chinese bandits on Nov. 3 near Duinbin mountain, on the Chinese Eastern railway, and that one of the interpreters was killed, the others of the party being captured.

Cavalry sent in pursuit of the bandits found the corpses of Lieut. Col. Bogdenoff, the second interpreter, and the courier, which have been brought to Harbin. The report adds that punitive measures will be taken.

Gen. Kourapatkin also reports the repulse of a Japanese attack on his right flank on Nov. 5. Six Russians were killed.

Japanese Preparing for Attack.

The Japanese below Mukden continue to receive re-enforcements, and it is believed by the Russian military men that their advancing depends only upon accumulating sufficient military men.

They are working hard intrenching their front, which looks like a continuous fort. An attempt to dislodge the Russians from Mukden is expected. It is believed that the intention is to make the front very strong so that it may be held by a comparatively small force while the larger body engages in a flanking movement.

The positions of the two armies along the Shakhe remains unchanged. The Russians continue an infrequent and ineffectual bombardment, principally at night or in the early morning, devoting their energies chiefly to the Japanese left, where the lines are nearer than elsewhere. For the most part the Japanese refrain from replying.

Port Arthur's Fall Imminent.

Correspondents declare that the defenders of Port Arthur have been driven to the last extremity, and are now holding out desperately at the Liati, to which they were forced to retire by the invincible advance of the Japanese. Here they have ten guns of large caliber. Many Russians, it is asserted, are deserting and surrendering.

More reliable reports do not confirm these statements, but the Tokio news of the capture of Wantai hill, a dominating fort within two miles of the railway terminus, shows that the Japanese are making rapid strides.

Bennett Burleigh, the London Daily Telegraph's correspondent, reports from Chefoo that there was no fighting on the night of Nov. 5. The troops of the Mikado, he says, have frequently stolen into the native town of Port Arthur after dark, but invariably were driven out at daylight with heavy losses. The Japanese have four large forts facing the Russian works on Rihlung mountain and Shanshu mountain, where they are mounting naval guns on stone foundations.

Mukden dispatches to Berlin state that the Russian commanders are preparing their men to hear of the fall of Port Arthur.

Finger Prints of Criminals.

At the close of 1903 the London police had a collection of 70,000 sets of finger-prints of criminals. It has been completely established that the thin capillary ridges on the tips of the fin-

CHAPTER XIX.—Continued.

"I want not that recompense, lord. I want—nothing you have to give. Little shall you think of the debt,—or think that in helping you, I repaid you for your hospitality, your—"

Her voice broke as the memory of that time passed over her like bitter waters, and she was obliged to stand silent before him, steadying her lip with her teeth, until the waters had fallen.

"It was the King who sent for you, that he might know whether I had spoken the truth concerning my disguise—" she said when at last her voice returned. "Now, by coming, you have helped me against his anger,—let that settle all debt between us. I thank you much and—and I bid you farewell." Again Elfgiva's schooling came to her mind and she swayed before him in a courtesy. She did not know that her cheeks were as white as her kerchief, that her eyes were dark wells of unshed tears. She knew only that at last he was bowing, he was turning, in a moment more he would be gone—

But just short of that point he stopped, and all motion around her appeared to stop, as a noise down the corridor clotted out every sound in the garden,—the noise of a great body of people rousing the echoes with jubilant shouting.

"The King! The King!" could be heard again and again, and after it a burst of deafening cheers that drowned the rest.

Listening, everyone stood motionless as the babel came nearer with a swiftness which spoke much for the speed of the shouters. Only Randalin's little red shoe began to tap the earth impatiently. What did it matter what they said?

"Hail to Canute of Denmark!" "Hail to the King of the Danes and—"

Again cheers drowned the rest. The pages, who had sped at the first alarm like a covey of gray birds, came panting back, tumbling over one everywhere for you!" The pat of light feet, a swish of silken skirts, and Dearwyn had thrown herself upon the bench under the oak tree, her little dimpled face radiant. Only think that Elfgiva will be a queen and we shall all go to London!" As the only adequate means of expression, she threw her arms around her friend in a rapturous embrace.

"What is the matter with you that you are so silent as to your tongue, when you must needs be shouting in your heart?" Disengaging herself gently, she climbed upon the bench as she chattered. "The messenger had a leather bag around his neck which I think likely contains Edmund's crown and—Ah, Tata, look! look! Thorkel is holding it up!"

Yes, it was Edmund's crown. Again, a picture of the English camp-fire rose before her, and she shivered as she recognized the graceful pearly points she had last seen upon the Ironside's stately head. Now Thorkel was setting them above the Danish circlet on Canute's shining locks, while the shouts merged into a roar of acclamation.

"But why does he look so strange?" Randalin said suddenly.

And Dearwyn laid a finger on her lip. "Hush! At last he is going to speak."

Canute was bending toward the messenger, holding him with his glance. "Tell me news, messenger," he was saying sternly. "Tell about the cause of my royal brother's death."

The messenger seemed to lose what little breath he rode on the shoulders of the crowd had left him. "My errand extends no further," he panted. "It is likely that the Earl will send you more news—I am but the first—"

His breath gave out in an inarticulate gasp, and he began to back away.

But the King moved after him. "Stop!" he commanded,—"or it may be that I will cause you to remain quiet for the rest of time. You must breast, that day, my heart got afraid that you were obliged to do it to save yourself. Even after I heard how you had made a bargain to inherit after each other, I never suspected what kind of a plan was in your mind."

Standing in silent listening, Canute's gaze traveled from face to face until it came to the spot where Elfgiva fluttered among her women, holding her exquisite head as if it already wore a crown. An odd gleam flickered over his eyes, and he made a step toward her. "You!" he said. "What do you believe?"

Peeling her silvery laughter, she turned toward him, her eyes peeping at him like bright birds from under the eaves of her hood. "Lord, I believe that I am afraid of you!" she coquetted. "When I bethink me that all the time I have been chiding you for being unambitious for glory, you have had this in your mind!" Laughing, she stooped and kissed his hand with the first semblance of respect which she had ever shown him.

His face was curiously still as he regarded the beautiful Elfgiva,—and stiller, as though he were examining some familiar object in a new light. "You believe then that I had murdered?" he asked. "And you find pleasure in believing it?"

"Now, it is not murder!" she protested. "When a king kills—in war—"

"But this is not war," he said slowly. Lifting one of the jeweled braids from her shoulder, he played with it as he studied her. "This is not war, for I had reconciled myself to him. I had pledged faith with Edmund Ethelredsson and vowed to avenge his death like a brother."

Her white forehead drew itself into a puzzled frown. "But you were not so foolish as to swear it on the holy ring were you?" When he did not answer, she raised her shoulders lightly. "What should I know about such matters? Have you not told me, many times and oft, that it behooves a woman to shun meddling with great affairs?"

He gave a short laugh. "And when were you ever before content to follow that advice?" Letting the braid slip from his fingers, he stood looking her up and down, his lips curling with scorn.

Randalin spoke abruptly to her companion. "Dearwyn, I can tell you something. Elfgiva will never get the queenship over England."

"What moves you to say that?" the little English girl asked her, startled. But Randalin's attention had gone back to the King, who had turned where the son of Lodbrok waited regarding him over sternly-folded arms.

"Brother," he was saying gravely, "your opinion is powerful with me, so I will openly tell you that you are wrong in your belief. Never have I so much as hinted to yonder peace-nitiner a word of harm against Edmund Ironside."

From Thorkel the Tall came one of his rare laughs,—a sound like the grating of a rusty hinge,—Rothgar unfolded his arms to fling them out in angry rejection.

"This is useful to learn!" he sneered. "Do you think I could not guess that you had no need to put your desire into words after you had shown Edric by your actions that your mind and his are one, after you had admitted by your bond with him that you hold the same curious belief about honor?"

This time it was Randalin who clutched the English girl. "Oh!" she gasped.

For Canute's eyes were less like eyes than holes through which light was pouring, while his fingers opened and shut as though he had forgotten his sword and would leap upon the scoffer with bare hands.

Thorkel left off laughing to grasp the Jotun's arm and try to drag him backwards. "Do you want to drive him from his mind that he has loved you? Go hide yourself in Fenrir's mouth!" (To be continued.)

SWEET PEAS KILL FLIES.

Druggist Makes a Discovery of Value to the World.

A local druggist has found a new agent for the destruction of flies that for activity and effectiveness discounts anything heretofore offered for that purpose. And not only is it harmless, but it is a thing of beauty as well. After selling annually thousands of sheets of fly paper of the sticky and poisoned varieties and a ton more or less of insect powder, the new antidote for the pest bids fair to supersede all previous methods with him and those of his friends who are in on the secret.

For several days the druggist, who is a lover of flowers, has had upon his front cases bunches of sweet peas of a variety grown originally in California and but recently cultivated in this section of the country. Each morning after opening up the store he has found collected around the base of the vessel containing the peas quite an accumulation of dead flies.

For the first day or so he regarded the mass of defunct dipterous insects as an accidental gathering in the neighborhood of the flowers, but curiosity prompted him later to watch the conduct of the few flies left in the store. It was observed when the peas were freshly picked that immediately after their being placed in the vases those flies in the vicinity swarmed upon the petals and proceeded to fasten themselves there. Shortly afterward they fell from their positions, dead.

It is presumed that the odor of the peas attracted them first and that afterward they absorbed some poisonous exudation that the flowers possess and died in consequence. So far as known the peas possess no toxic effect upon the human being.—Springfield Journal

Fashion in White Aprons.

White aprons are dressier and are modeled upon a plan that supplies either a band around the waist or ties, for something there must always be nowadays to keep the fullness from flying out behind. Mother Hubbard fashion being not at all in favor.

Of graceful shape is a white lawn that is made up with four one inch box plaits and sets of fine tucks in front. There are four of the sets and five tucks in each. The two middle plaits join and face one another. The other two alternate with the group of tucks. Forming the shoulder strap from the shoulder seam to the waist line in front, and from there used as a waist band for the back, is a flower band for insertion. This also heads the front of the apron, which is rounded out a little. The neck is finished with a narrow embroidery ruffle, and the same in a broad wide form sleeve caps. A six-inch hem and two sets of fine tucks, separated by an inch wide tuck, form the bottom of the apron skirt.

Materials for Winter.

Etamine, voile and canvas are to be worn all winter and there are suits that are being made up fresh in these goods, for the material is treated in such a manner that it is as warm as serge. Besides this there are the long cloaks and, as a woman remarked, as she tried on a broad-cloth cloak of three-quarter length: "I can wear my voile gown all winter under this cloak." And the modistes are actually counting upon this to the exclusion of the hitherto necessary tailormade suits for cold day wear.

Unique Boudoir Coffee Mill.

A coffee mill just suited to table-made coffee or to the chafing-dish outfit which includes coffee-making utensils is a real Syrian implement. The mill is a brass cylinder about two inches in diameter, and nine or ten inches long. Top and bottom unscrew—the top to admit the bean, the bottom to discharge the powder. A small arm fitting over the screw at the top serves as the handle by which to revolve the interior machinery. When not in use the handle folds out of the way.

Hair Dressing.

As the style of dressing the hair is less pronounced than formerly, the prevailing modes in hats undergo a similar change. The broad effects are being rapidly done away with, and although the extremely narrow "torpedo" shapes are rather trying, there will be found plenty of pretty models that will answer the requirements. Nothing is more unattractive than a broad expanse of brim under which the hair is not appropriately dressed.

One of the New Silk Waists.

Fancy silks, in plaids, stripes and figures, are all greatly in vogue for odd waists and are exceedingly effective worn with the fashionable skirts and suits. This one is exceptionally smart and is made of chiffon taffeta, in green and blue, combined with collar and cuffs of plain green trimmed with Oriental embroidery. At the neck is a turn-over collar of white which is worn with a harmonizing tie. The model is one of the latest and is closed invisibly beneath the box plait at the front and is suited to various materials and combinations. The quantity of material required for the medium size is 4 1/2 yards 21, 4 yards 27 or 2 1/2 yards 44 inches wide, with 3/4 yards of silk for collar and cuffs.

My Lady's Boudoir.

The prevailing popularity of pompadour styles renders it easy to plan a most charming sanctuary. One of the most attractive seen this season had for wall paper a gray medallion design on a cream ground, with the woodwork done in white enamel. The furniture is also of gray, picked out with white, the ornate carvings of the periods of the Louis lending themselves well to this coloring.

To relieve the grayness of the walls and furniture the upholstery was done in rose brocade. The inner draperies of the windows, the portieres and cushions were the same. The carpet was a plain rose tint, with rugs here and there. The dainty Sevres desk-set, the clock and ornament on the mantel were all chosen with a regard to the period of the other furnishings of the apartment, and the whole effect was most pleasing to the observer.

Good Complexion Balm.

Half a pint of alcohol, two ounces of spirits of camphor, two ounces of spirits of ammonia and five ounces of sea-salt, to be added to sufficient boiling water to make a quart in all, when the mixture should be placed in a bottle and thoroughly shaken before use. This lotion, which should be well rubbed into the skin daily, is said to be especially efficacious in taking the fatigue out of tired muscles.

Handsome Under Skirt.

Well fitting and handsome petticoats are among the tasteful features of dress which every woman desires to possess. This one is carefully shaped to fit smoothly over the hips and is made to flare gracefully and freely at the lower portion, so full-filling all the essential requirements. As illustrated it is made of taffeta with the under ruffle finely plaited and is trimmed with a lace frill, lace insertion and lace medallions. The flounce is circular, but so shaped that its fullness can be made to fall in a box plait at each point. The quantity of material required for the medium size is 10 yards 21, 8 yards 27 or 4 1/2 yards 44 inches wide, with 3 1/2 yards 21, 3 yards 27 or 2 yards 44 inches wide for plisse frill, 11 yards of lace and 6 1/2 yards of insertion to trim as illustrated.

All Glitter.

Everything in the trimming line this season glitters. Literally, it is to be a brilliant year. For ball gowns nothing will be more popular than spangled net in circular flounces and all kinds of designs are carried out in them by means of the colored paillettes. A pretty pattern shows graduated rows of solid circles in gold and silver spangles with the largest sizes at the bottom.

Having a similar effect, but less challenging and for less ceremonious occasions is the canvas trimming embroidered in gold and colored silk. This is treated in gorgeous patterns of different color combinations and comes in bands or on edges. The former is very well adapted to a waist coat. The other is most effective when set between pleats. One can scarcely pass the trimming section at Field's without witnessing the purchase of yards of the charming glittering stuff.

Painted Lace.

A great deal of this is being used, and never two patterns alike. It is painted in water colors, and generally floral, sometimes emphasized by silver and gold, and a little copper, and then the lace is lined with chiffon. Some very pretty blouses and light-colored silks and muslins have lace medallions, hand painted, inset, which are very pretty indeed. The Americans are favoring painted nets for hats. They have drawn pink and blue silk round them, and carelessly tied bows. These paintings look very pretty on champagne tints. Linen voile is a new material for wash dresses, trimmed with movable galons, painted generally on a canvas foundation, and sometimes interspersed with French knots. It is pretty to look at, and good to wear.

Season's Color Schemes.

It is in the trimming and color schemes that the clever girl who designs her own toilets will make her most conspicuous triumphs this season. Trimmings are to be lavishly elaborate, and color schemes—for the note of color contrast is to be a pronounced one—must be cleverly handled, lest they prove a pitfall for the unwary.

There is a perfect furore for all the new burnt tints. Indeed, a run down the color card makes the student of fashions think of a very careless cook, so many tints have got burnt or scorched. There is burnt bread, burnt orange, and burnt onion; scorched leather and burnt amber punctuate the gamut of tints from the palest ecru to the deepest brown, and the smoked tints bring up the rear.

Silver Fox Edgings.

Edgings of silver fox and of gray astrachan are seen on some of the smartest gowns turned out from

COURT DENIES RIGHT TO CUSTODY OF CHILD

Grandparents, Who Have Raised Offspring of Son, at Great Expense, Are Given the Verdict.

Bloomington, Ill., dispatch: Thomas Marshall of Sycamore has been awarded the custody of his grandson, Kimball Marshall Cormack, son of Rev. J. M. Cormack, by the Illinois supreme court. The case is a famous one in central Illinois.

The father filed suit to regain his child, but the circuit court gave a decision in favor of the grandfather, who had raised the lad from infancy. A writ of habeas corpus was sworn out by the father, but the supreme court sustained the lower court.

The child was born in a Chicago hospital four years ago, its mother, Jennie Marshall Cormack, dying a few days after the babe was born. The grandparents then took charge of the little one and, although it was delicate at birth, it was brought to health through the attention of skillful physicians and trained nurses, an immense sum of money being expended in this direction.

The father, who is a Methodist clergyman stationed at McHenry, recently married for the second time and wished to reunite his family, having two children older than the one in dispute. Rev. Mr. Cormack is a well-known clergyman of the Rock river conference and has occupied charges at Blaine, Cherry Valley, Fairdale, Monroe, Davis Junction and other central Illinois cities.

NEGRO ENDEAVORS TO PROTECT GIRL'S HONOR

Slashes Man Who Induces His Sister-in-Law to Abandon Dance and Walk With Him.

Aurora, Ill., special: Defending the honor of his sister-in-law, Rosa Patterson, a girl 16 years of age, George Scott, colored, of Aurora, engaged in a quarrel with Lloyd D'Courcy, an English negro, and in a fit of rage cut his throat with a big knife. D'Courcy died five minutes later on his way to the hospital in the ambulance. Scott was arrested shortly afterward and confessed to his crime, and was held to the grand jury without bail. The girl is at Scott's home under police surveillance, detained as the principal witness.

The girl met D'Courcy at a dance and D'Courcy persuaded her to take a walk with him. Scott saw the couple leave the building and started after them. He demanded that she leave the Elgin man, whereupon D'Courcy told Scott it was none of his business, and punched Scott's nose. Scott then pulled out a big knife and slashed D'Courcy across the throat, severing the jugular vein. D'Courcy ran west to the police station, where he fell, dying.

TRAIN ROBBERS ARE FOILED

Burn Bridge Near Prairie du Chien, Wis., but Lose Prey.

Prairie du Chien, Wis., dispatch: A wooden bridge fifty feet long in an isolated place three miles below the city on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road was burned Wednesday night. The work is supposed to have been done by a gang of train robbers who had planned to ditch the night passenger trains. A hunter who happened along was roughly handled in the darkness. He was unable to get a description of the men, but believes there were six or eight of them.

JANESVILLE HOLDS BIG JUBILEE

Celebrates Opening of Largest Beet Sugar Factory in West.

Janesville, Wis., special: All Janesville Wednesday celebrated the opening here of the largest beet sugar factory in the west. The factory cost, complete, $800,000, and was moved here complete, with the exception of the brick, which came from Dresden, Canada, in 400 cars. Nearly 5,000 acres of beets have been grown within a radius of fifty miles of Janesville for the factory, and a night and day force of 250 men are employed. Capt. James Davidson of Bay City, Mich., is the owner.

Steals Red-Hot Stove.

New York dispatch: Louis Pergaino paid $5 in the Tombs police court for stealing a red-hot stove. The stove, which was used for boiling frankfurters by a street vendor, was being removed by an agent of the bureau of incumbrance and Pergaino took it from back of the city's wagon.

Boy Resents Punishment.

Passaic, N. J., dispatch: Beaten by his parents for telling them a falsehood, Samuel Clark, 12 years old, walked here from Newark and crawling behind a high fence, swallowed another in their efforts to impart the news. Elfgiva caught the nearest and shook him until his teeth chattered; and in the lull, the swelling shout reached them for the first time unbroken: "Honor to the King! Hail to the King of the Danes and the Angles!"

From the Lord of Ivarsdale came a cry, sharp as though a heart-string had snapped in its utterance, the tie that for generations had bound those of his blood to the house of Cerdic.

"Edmund?"

The mob of soldiers and servants that burst through the doorway answered his question with exultant shouts: "Edmund is dead! Edmund is dead! Long live Canute the King! King of the Danes and the Angles!"

Unbidden, memory raised before Randalin a picture of the English camp-fire in the glade, with the English King standing in its light and the hooded figure bending from the shadow behind him, its white taloned hand resting on his sleeve. If he was dead, he was dead, and there was no more to be said. Was the Etheling always going to stand as though he were turned to stone? Would he never—

Ah, at last he was moving! As if the news had only just reached home to him, she saw him draw himself together sharply and stride toward the door; and she watched feverishly to see if anyone would think to stop him. One group he passed—and another—and another—now he was on the threshold. Now he was out of sight.

She let her suspended breath go from her in a long sigh. "It is good that everyone is too excited to notice what I do," she said to herself. And even as she said it she realized that her limbs were shaking under her that she was sick unto faintness. Staggering to a little bench under one of the old oaks, she sank down upon it and leaned her head against the tree trunk and waited.

THE ETERNAL MASCULINE.

At seventeen we meet some girl
We worship fond and deep
And beg from her a tiny curl
We e'er and aye may keep.
"The spoon gold," we ardently swear,
"A mesh of filigree,
And fondly kiss and hide it where
No prying eye may see.
At twenty-seven, less enthused
With auburn tinted curls,
We, finding it, grow much confused
To recollect which girl's Fair head it lent a halo to—
May, Kate or Prue, the dears—
"Well, psnaw, the thing that's best to do
Is keep it ten more years!"
At thirty-seven, then, one day
While rummaging, we stare
In absent way at it and say:
"The devil! Whose red hair
Is this? It ne'er belonged to me!
The bricky stuff!" Ah, Pat!
We toss it forth and smile to see
It crinkle in the grate.

The Kid. Of course he'll come out right, but a author that'd have his hero in a fix like that for a week is got no feelin's. —New York American.

A Need of the Hour.

"It seems to me," said his friend, "that your college ought to establish a chair of gambling."
"A chair of what?" said the professor.
"Gambling. It is the great occupation of many, if not most of us, and the average college graduate is apt to take it up in some form or other in spite of all the warning he may receive. Therefore, why not train him to follow it with skill and success? Why not have, say, lectures on how to play poker, on how to play the races, on how to speculate in stocks and so on? If you could have these subjects properly handled you might turn out a corps of experts who would cover their alma mater with glory and reap a golden harvest for themselves."
"But, supposing the movement to be a success, it would simply ruin the public."
"Well, I judge that's what the public is for. It is simply a question of who gets the money." —New York Press.

Sudden Lights on History.

George Porgie had just kissed the girls and made them cry.
"They're crying for more," he said complacently.
Which shows how conceited men really are.
Othello had just strangled Desdemona.
"I suppose the papers will say," he mused as he gazed at his swarthy thief, "that she was a victim of the black hand."
Muttering to himself, he went to another highball. —Chicago Journal.

Desperate.

It was the third act of the play, and the beleaguered maiden was shrieking for help.
In vain.
"Alas," she moaned, casting herself down, "nobody hears me!"
The villain laughed mockingly.
"Of course not," he sneered. "How could anybody hear you with such a swell audience as we've got tonight?"
She perceived at once that her case was desperate and in that thought grew calm, as befitted one of her proud lineage. —Puck.

The Force of Habit.

"They say that Versus' wife married him while he was still a struggling poet on the ground that so thoughtful a man must make a good husband."
"How did she get that idea about him?"
"When he wrote to her offering his hand he mechanically inclosed a stamped and addressed envelope." —Judge.

Bold Freddie.

Mattie—Fred says he couldn't live without me!
"Grace—Bother! That's just what he told me a little while ago."
Mattie—Yes; Fred and I often laugh about it. The funniest thing about it was, as Fred says, that you really supposed he was talking seriously. —Boston Transcript.

The End Is Near.

"You look hopeful. What's going on?"
"The doctors have begun to issue bulletins concerning the condition of that rich uncle of mine who has been hanging on for so long." —Chicago Record.

Misplaced Devotion.

She was tall, with wavy brown hair and rich, deep brown eyes, just like all brunettes in novels. He was undersized and impecunious, but impressionable and ardent. They lived at the same boarding house for a time. With her he was sentimental, tender, earnest, also inclined to be rash and extravagant with his small earnings in bringing gifts of candy and the like. It is whispered that in a moment of recklessness he bought her two ice cream sodas in succession. But this could never be verified. Circumstances over which she had no control caused her to leave the boarding house without bidding him goodbye. Carelessly, too, she neglected to leave her address. He applied to the boarding house mistress in grave distress of soul.
"Do you know," he asked, "where Miss Jones has gone?"
"Now, look here, Mr. Blank," said the kindly woman, "let me advise you not to worry too much about Miss Jones. She's engaged. Didn't you see that ring?"
"Engaged?" he gasped, backing toward the mantel and blindly grabbing at a bunch of catfalls for support.
"Engaged, did you say? And, great heavens, she let me buy her peanut brittle!" —Brooklyn Eagle.

Salt Lake's Water.

"When once you understand the art of bathing in the great Salt lake of Utah it is the finest diversion on earth, but it is not apt to result pleasantly to the man who does not heed the advice of the experienced," said a citizen of Salt Lake City. "At any other bathing resort in the world the swimmer can play in the waves, dive and disport himself as he pleases, but not so in this wonderful sheet of water in the west and all on account of its extraordinary saline qualities. So heavily is it charged with brine that unless the bather protects his eyes, nose and ears from liquid contact he will receive such stinging punishment as will make him bitterly regret having entered the water. To get even a little of it in the mouth is cause for grief. But when he knows enough to protect himself in sensitive places he will admit that nowhere in the world is the bathing so fine or so stimulating in its effects." —Washington Post.

The English Flag.

For over 500 years the red cross on a white field has been the emblem of England, and when in fullness of time the emblems of the neighboring kingdoms of Scotland and Ireland were joined with it the union flag came into being. But for nearly 200 years the union flag bore upon it two crosses only, the red cross of England and the white cross saltire of Scotland, "according to a form made by our heralds," as King James said in his proclamation. The white saltire of Scotland was simply surmounted by the red cross of England, but this latter had to be "fimbriated" bordered—that is, with a narrow white edge, owing to the strict heraldic law that color cannot be placed upon color nor metal upon metal.

A Blown Out Candle.

The only reason, it seems, that we don't die when we are in a room where a candle is blown out is that we don't get enough of the deadly composition that is eliminated from the burning wick, of which carbonized hydrogen, carbonic oxide and acrolein are some of the component parts. A medical journal tells of a company of jokers who tried a pleasant on a boy sleeping in one corner of their room. They held to the boy's nose the smoke of a blown out candle. In a little while the boy fell into short breathing, trembling and cramps and died in three days.

The Stomach's Lining.

How are children so often able without injury to swallow such sharp things as pins, needles, tacks and bits of glass? The secret as disclosed by a scientist of Vienna lies in the fact that, when a pointed or sharp edged body comes into contact with the lining of the stomach or intestine, the part touched contracts and puckers so as to thicken itself in that place. At the same time it withdraws itself in such a manner as to form a little pocket and gradually twists the object around so as to turn the edge or point away, pushing the thing along.

Proper Beginning.

Ascum—I hear your son is going in for a literary career? Mrs. Dreamer—Yes. He started in this very morning. Ascum—Indeed! What has he done? Mrs. Dreamer—He's sat for his photograph in two poses, one where he's reading a book and another with his brow resting on his hand. —Philadelphia Press.

Forgetful.

Jones—What have you got that string around your finger for? Brown—My wife put it on so that I would remember something. I forgot what it was. I'm keeping it on now to remind me to ask her what it was when I get home this evening. —Boston Transcript.

Early Rising.

"To be forced to get up early," says a physician, "grinds the soul, curdles the blood, swells the spleen, destroys all good intentions and disturbs all day the mental activities. Criminals are always recruited from the early rising class." —London Chronicle.

A Merger.

"Colonel never resigned, did he?"
"No; he just merged into the office, an' to this day they can't tell the difference 'twixt him an' the weather boardin'." —Atlanta Constitution.

Words are wise men's counters—they do but reckon by them. But they are the money of fools. —Hobbes.

HUMOR

JUST LIKE A WOMAN.

A Short Story of How Some Ladies Are Robbed.

"Half the thefts that women charge to pickpockets," said the reformed burglar, "are not thefts at all, but simply cases of loss from their own carelessness. Don't tell them that I said so, though, for I've had enough blame to bear in my day, but that's the truth. If a woman goes home and makes a hullabaloo about being robbed she gets more sympathy, but let her say she lost her money and she has to shoulder the whole responsibility and be found fault with into the bargain."

"But what becomes of the pocket-books and purses? They are not going off of themselves."

"Their owners lose them without knowing it. They lay them down or drop them and they are picked up by somebody who doesn't run round looking for the person they belong to. Here is a case in point: A woman seated herself before a bargain counter piled with remnants of silk. After turning over a few pieces she felt something fall into her lap and picked up a fat leather pocketbook.

"Hello," she says. "Here's a purse. It looks as if it had a lot of money in it." And she handed it to the clerk, who laid it on a shelf back of him and said he would send it to the lost and found department.

"When that woman had found the goods she wanted and went to take her pocketbook out of her reticule it wasn't there, and you ought to have heard her squeal. She declared she had it when she sat down to the counter. But it was gone sure enough."

"A store detective was sent for, and he asked her a few questions. He was a friend of mine and told me the story. Then he asked to see the purse she had found, and it turned out to be her own. She had laid it down the first thing, and when it fell into her lap she was so surprised she didn't recognize it."

"And I really think that she hated to admit that she hadn't been robbed." —Chicago Record-Herald.

A Marine Memory.

I shipped on a awful bad crew one time, although they tried hard to do their work and was very well behaved. Thinks I to myself, these chaps ain't sailors; they've chosen the wrong road in life. Maybe there is among 'em them that could 'a' been great as, for instance, writers. I had bought four new novels to read durin' the 'vage. I read 'em. Then, thinks I, the fellows that I ought to got to sail my ship are them that wrote these books, whether the men I have got to sail it are the men that ought to wrote these books or not. —Judge.

His Only Comment.

"According to this paper," remarked Mrs. Gabbleton, "the average person's vocabulary is only 2,500 words."
"Considering the number of times you use your entire vocabulary daily," rejoined Mr. Gabbleton, "I'm surprised that you haven't worn it out long ago." —Kennebec (Me.) Journal.

So Delicate.

"That's Mrs. Marmuch, the society leader," explained the man who knew.
"My, you don't say!" replied the plebeian. "She's in half mourning, isn't she?"
"Yes. You see, three of her six husbands are dead." —Philadelphia Ledger.

The Professor.

The professor was watching a man who was cleaning the brass globe on the flagstaff on top of a skyscraper.
"Well," he observed, "if I were as near heaven as that I should feel dangerously near the other place." —New York Herald.

On to the Horse.

"Pop."
"Yes, my son."
"Who was Centaur?"
"Centaur, my son, was a man who never got stuck on a horse trade; he was on to the horse." —Yonkers Statesman.

A Frank Tribute.

"She is beautiful," said the studious girl, "but she is not accomplished."
"My dear," answered Miss Cayenne, "there is no accomplishment more difficult than being beautiful." —Washington Star.

'Twould Be a Shame.

"Sir, I thank yer kindly fer yer generosity."

"But I haven't given you anything."

"Well, yer ain't goin' ter let me gratitude go ter waste, is yer?" —San Francisco Examiner.

Cause For Gloom.

"He made a lot of money in that deal and yet he looks glum."

"Yes, his wife found out in some way just how much he made." —Philadelphia Press.

EDITORIAL FLINGS.

Speaking of campaign funds, has any voter ever been heard to admit that any of the money was spent on him? —Philadelphia Inquirer.

A number of Boston people know much more about Bill Dineen and Cy Young than they do about Ralph Waldo Emerson. —Washington Star.

China would feel under obligations if the international lawmakers would get together and fix a fair rental price for battlefields. —Kansas City Journal.

The police say that the women's fashion of carrying handbags is responsible for the many holdups. As in the days of Adam, the woman is to blame. —Chicago Post.

BRITISH BRIEFS.

Cats with collecting boxes tied to their necks are utilized in London charitable work.

More than 800 trains enter London every morning before 8 o'clock to bring the workers to their places.

The Australian commonwealth government proposes to class consumptives among prohibited immigrants.

Half a century ago little more than one-half of the population of England lived in towns. Today the rural population is only one-fifth of the whole.

The members of the Australian parliament are working hard to get their salaries raised from $2,000 to $3,000 a year. So hot has the fight become that one member has petitioned the speaker for permission to put up a tent in the public gardens to live in, saying that he cannot afford to hire a house.

Hay $100 a Ton.

Lou Dillon, the unbeaten trotting mare, always has the best of foods—oats, carrots, hay and so on. She is a Californian by birth, and as Mr. Billings does not wish to risk the consequences of a change of diet all her hay is brought from her native state, sometimes at a cost of $50 a ton, sometimes at a cost of $100. —Country Life in America.

Trouble Enough.

When Philip Verrill Mighels was gathering material for his novel, "Bruver Jim's Baby," he ran across an old miner who unconsciously posed for his character of If-Only Jim. The old man sat alone in his cabin, where the hand of woman had never been known, and dirt reigned triumphant. The conversation turned upon cooking.

"Yaas," drawled the old man, "I got me one o' them there cookbooks wunst, but I never could do nothin' with it."
"What was the trouble?" asked Mr. Mighels persuasively.

"Why, every one o' them blamed receipts starts off with 'take a clean dish.'" —Denver Republican.

Not Sick a Day Since.

"I was taken severely sick with kidney trouble. I tried all sorts of medicines, none of which relieved me. One day I saw an ad. of your Electric Bitters and determined to try that. After taking a few doses I felt relieved, and soon thereafter was entirely cured, and have not seen a sick day since. Neighbors of mine have been cured of rheumatism, neuralgia, liver and kidney troubles and general debility. This is what B. F. Bass, of Fremont, N. C., writes. Only 50c, at T. E. Death cannot be wrong, or it never would have been a part of the economy of Nature. One half of life is gone before we learn how to live, and it requires the other half to learn how to die. When we have learned how to live then we will know how to die.

The town council is grading some of the alleys. Care should be taken that every day's work done is one in the right direction and will stand for permanent improvement. Too much street work is done to satisfy the whim of some individual at the expense of the entire town.

With a department of commerce and labor and an appropriation of $500,000 made by congress nearly two years ago, for the purpose of securing evidence against trusts, the administration could give us an object lesson by making public some of the inner workings of the trusts. Give us a little of that much talked of publicity, please.

We have known Mr. Rader for the past 40 years and when we first became acquainted with him he was known as old man Rader.

Why should there be a tariff of 70 cents a ton on bituminous coal when the average cost of labor in mining a ton is but 45 cents. Is this excess of tariff in the interest of labor or the coal trust? Do we need to ask who pays this tariff when all that is necessary is to buy a ton and note the increase in price. Is the coal trust a good trust or a bad one? The coal trust is in favor of standing pat or letting well enough alone. It is supremely satisfied.

MOUSE CAUSES TROUBLE.

Fire on East Wayne Street Does Slight Damage.

Miss Alice Shultz, who rooms with Mrs. W. H. Curry, at 111 East Wayne street, was attempting to find a mouse in her room last Thursday evening and struck a match while she looked under the couch. The tiny flame set fire to the fringe on the couch and had it not been for the timely arrival of gentlemen rooming in the house a serious fire would have occurred. The couch and other articles of furniture were badly damaged before the flames were extinguished. Miss Shultz displayed much courage in her efforts to assist the men in putting out the fire.—South Bend Tribune.

Helen Gould Guest of Honor.

The World's Fair children had a party Wednesday, and Miss Helen Gould was their guest and hostess. Little ones from Jerusalem the Philippines, Patagonia, Congo, China, Japan and other nations met and played and romped. The party was given at the model playgrounds at the fair, and Miss Gould was the most prominent of the limited number of "grown-ups" who attended. For each of the little girls she had a pretty dish, for each of the boys she had a wonderful bouncing ball, and for all of them she had a bright smile and a pleasant word.

Close Call For Roosevelt.

The United States has just learned how close Secretary Hay came to being president, through an accident to President Roosevelt, and how nearly the Republican national ticket came being left without a head on the eve of election. The real reason for the president's retirement since a week ago last Sunday has been learned. The president attempted to take a high fence at full speed while out riding alone.

His horse stumbled and threw him. He struck on his head. When he regained consciousness he tried to mount, but it was some time before he could control his actions. Then he rejoined his orderly and rode home ordering that nothing be said about the accident. There was a great lump on the right side of his head and a long but shallow gash extended from above the right ear to the forehead.

An Exciting Experience.

Dr. B. W. Everman, ichthyologist of the government fisheries department, formerly a resident of Burlington, who has a very exciting experience on the top of Mt. Whitney in western United States a few weeks ago, has just returned from the west. He spent six weeks in the vicinity of Mt. Whitney hunting for a rare species of gold trout. He discovered four new species of the trout there, the only known to be in existence on the earth.

With a party of friends he went to the top of Mt. Whitney, which is more than 14,000 feet above the sea level. Lightning forms at the top of the mountain and it was a stroke of lightning that killed one of the guides of the party. Dr. Everman picked up a can of salmon to open but immediately threw it away, smelling ozone on it. Later the guide was killed by lightning and the rest of the party stunned. No noise was heard. Dr. Everman and Prof. Clark, botanist of Field's Museum, Chicago, will be at Lake Maxinkuckee for several days.

No Poison in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

From Napier, New Zealand Herald: Two years ago the Pharmacy Board of New South Wales, Australia, had an analysis made of all the cough medicines that were sold in that market. Out of the entire list they found only one that they declared was entirely free from all poisons. This exception was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, made by the Chamberlain Medicine Company, Des Moines, Iowa, U. S. A. The absence of all narcotics makes this remedy the safest and best that can be had; and it is with a feeling of security that any mother can give it to her little ones. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is especially recommended by its makers for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. This remedy is for sale by T. E. Slattery.

FEMALE WEAKNESS

542 1-2 Congress St.
PORTLAND, MAINE, Oct. 17, 1902.
I consider Wine of Cardui superior to any doctor's medicine I ever used and I know whereof I speak. I suffered for nine months with suppressed menstruation which completely prostrated me. Pains would shoot through my back and sides and I would have blinding headaches. My limbs would swell up and I would feel so weak I could not stand up. I naturally felt discouraged for I seemed to be beyond the help of physicians, but Wine of Cardui came as a God-send to me. I felt a change for the better within a week. After nineteen days treatment I menstruated without suffering the agonies I usually did and soon became regular and without pain. Wine of Cardui is simply wonderful and I wish that all suffering women knew of its good qualities.

Wilhelmina Swan
Treasurer, Portland Economic League

Periodical headaches tell of female weakness. Wine of Cardui cures permanently nineteen out of every twenty cases of irregular menses, bearing down pains or any female weakness. If you are discouraged and doctors have failed, that is the best reason in the world you should try Wine of Cardui now. Remember that headaches mean female weakness. Secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui today.

RETAIL TRADE ON UP GRADE

Dun's Review Shows Heavier Volume of Dealings in the Necessities.

FACTORIES MEET THE DEMAND

More Men Are Employed to Fill the Orders From Small Dealers and Others Who Are in Touch With the Consumers.

Chicago, dispatch: Trade conditions in the Chicago district during the past week are characterized in the review issued by R. G. Dun & Co. as follows: "Features of the business situation which stand out distinctly are the strengthened demand for factory products, rising costs of raw materials and heavier retail dealings in necessities. Moderate decline is seen in quotations for leading grains, but directly affecting important industrial lines are dearer pig iron, steel, lumber and hides.

Plenty of Work.

"There are indications that consumption again has reached high volume. The labor market is steady and more hands are now employed than at any time heretofore this year. Industrial activity reflects easier confidence and a widening effort to respond promptly to accumulating demands upon capacity. This is notably evident in metal, wood-working and leather branches. Jobbing trade is well sustained in staple goods, current selections being well distributed on both local and outside requirements. Western shipments of general merchandise continue large and more buyers take advantage of discounts.

Effect of Coal Strike.

"While receipts of bituminous coal fall short of those for corresponding period last year, the available stocks are seen to be ample for normal needs and strike interruptions at the mines had slight effect. Railroads increased specifications for considerable rolling stock and rails and new contracts added to the previously engaged condition of shipbuilding yards. Receipts of lumber were 40,212,000 feet and barely equal to those a year ago. Lumber dealers report stocks much broken and a large aggregate of building and factory demands quickly absorbs fresh supplies.

Demand for Building Sites.

"New construction planned exceeds that of same period last year and sites for business improvements are in strong request. Traffic returns show increased movement of commodities by both rail and lake.

"Notwithstanding diminished supplies of grain, dealings on the board of trade maintained fair activity. Grain shipments, 3,133,064 bushels, fell 40 per cent under those a year ago. Flour buyers operated conservatively, domestic stocks having gained and the general demand being lighter. Hog products rallied on the monthly statement disclosing reduced stocks here, but the gain was not equally sustained.

"Live stock receipts, 340,956 head, overran those of last week. "Failures reported in the Chicago district number twenty-four, against twenty last week and thirty-five a year ago."

ILLINOIS BANK CLOSES DOORS

Creditors at Makanda Lose Heavily in Private Institution.

Carbondale, Ill., special: The private banking firm of N. J. Powers & Co., of Makanda closed its doors Tuesday and scores of creditors lost heavily by the failure. The firm has been considered one of the substantial institutions of the section and its failure is a great surprise. The assets and liabilities of the bank are not fully known, but it is believed they will not be able to pay more than 20 cents on the dollar.

FRATERNAL ORDER IS BANKRUPT

Royal Templars of Temperance Goes Into Receiver's Hands.

Buffalo, N. Y., dispatch: George C. Munger of Syracuse has been appointed receiver for the Royal Templars of Temperance, supreme council. The directors of the concern have advised the members that arrangements have been made to insure them at the same rate they have been paying, less all emergency assessments. The liabilities of the order are placed at $265,000 and the assets at about $52,000.

Plans Big Pipe Line.

New York special: A representative of a prominent steel manufacturing concern said that if the Standard Oil carries out its plan to pipe oil from the western oil territory to Chicago, more than 200,000 tons of pipe, costing $7,000,000, will be required.

Soldiers Sue Government and Win.

Washington dispatch: A number of officers who served in the Third, Fifth and Sixth Illinois volunteer regiments during the Spanish war received judgments in the United States court of claims for extra pay due because they were discharged without furlough.

Russia to Accept Passports.

Washington special: The state department has received a cablegram from the American embassy at St. Petersburg which warrants the assumption that the Russian government will soon recognize passports of American Jews traveling in Russia.

DESECRATED GRAVE OF MILTON.

Diabolical Act of Drunken Men Committed a Century Ago.

There are probably many, even among the subscribers to Milton's statue, who will be surprised to learn that the body of the great poet was once on view at a charge of threepence a head within a few yards from the site chosen for this splendid tribute to his memory.

It was in 1790, after a carousal, that two overseers and a carpenter entered the Church of St. Giles, Cripplegate, where Milton lay buried, and, having discovered the leaden coffin which contained his body, cut open its top with a mallet and chisel. "When they disturbed the shroud," Neve says, when telling the story of the ghoully deed, "the ribs fell. Fountain confessed that he pulled hard at the teeth, which resisted until someone hit them with a stone. Fountain secured all the fine teeth in the upper jaw, and generously gave one to one of his accomplices. Altogether the scoundrels stole a rib bone, ten teeth and several handfuls of hair; and, to crown the diabolical business, the female gravedigger afterward exhibited the body to any one willing to pay threepence for the spectacle."—Westminster Gazette.

DOG HAD NOT FORGOTTEN.

Stung by Bee in Puppyhood, He Cherished Resentment.

"Something must have stung your dog," said a resident of this city to a suburbanite, whom he was visiting a few days ago, as he noticed the antics of a large collie which, after snapping frantically at a flying insect, lowered his head and carefully licked his right forepaw.

"No," replied the owner of the dog, "that is only a little delusion of his. When he was a puppy a bee stung him on that foot you see him attending to, and ever since he has cherished a standing grudge against flying insects. Apparently the sight of one not only arouses his anger, but recalls most vividly his first experience with one, for each time after running after one, whether he catches it or not, he stops and tenderly licks the place where he was stung two years ago. As far as I know he has never been stung since then."—Philadelphia Press.

Love in Zululand Cottage.

Poverty being already present no window is provided for his entrance, and if love goes out by the door he must go on all fours. The becoming costumes of the handsome young couple show traces of European influence.

Gift for Texas University.

The museum of Baylor university at Waco, Texas, has recently received as a gift from the Rev. Z. C. Taylor, Bahia, Brazil, the complete skull, the blade bones, several vertebrae, and three ribs of an immense specimen of the common fin whale or rorqual, captured in the South Atlantic. The length of the skull is 15 1/2 feet, width across the top 8 feet, height from the ground 5 feet, length of lower jawbones 13 1/2 feet, length of ribs 6 feet 4 inches, length of bladebones 5 feet 4 inches, width 4 feet. Weight of skull 2,884 pounds; of each of the lower jawbones 545, of the bladebones, 85 pounds.

Statistics of Billiards.

Taxation enables many curious tables of statistics to be compiled. It would probably puzzle the best of English statisticians to guess even approximately at the number of billiard tables in use in England. There is no such difficulty in France, where the billiard table is a taxed luxury, and its relative frequency in communities of all grades of population and wealth is made the subject of calculations as elaborate as they are ingenious. In all France there are 89,676 billiard tables, divided among 18,601 communes, and realizing more than $40,000 in taxes.—London Tit-Bits.

Woman Shot Deer from Carriage.

The other day Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Iott of Houlton drove up to B plantation and while Mr. Iott was a short distance in the woods after partridge, Mrs. Iott, who was sitting in the carriage, spied a large buck deer at the edge of the clearing and immediately brought her rifle to bear upon Mr. Deer. He dropped after receiving one cartridge.—Lewiston Journal.

Small Rental for Church.

When Goodyear Bros. of Buffalo bought the sawmill and houses at Medix Run, Mass., there came into their ownership a union church, which had belonged to the Dodge company. The Goodyears have now rented this church to the Methodists for 10 years for 10 cents, or one cent per year.

QUICK RESULTS.

W. J. Hill, of Concord, N. C., Justice of the Peace, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills proved a very efficient remedy in my case. I used them for disordered kidneys and backache, from which I had experienced a great deal of trouble and pain. The kidney secretions were very irregular, dark colored and full of sediment. The pills cleared it all up and I have not had an ache in my back since taking the last dose. My health generally is improved a great deal."

FOSTER-MILBURN CO., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all dealers, price 50 cents per box.

Tolstoi Family Disagree.

Tolstoi's children do not at all agree with the sentiments expressed in his recent tract on war. They are all hot Russian patriots. One son is fighting in Manchuria; a daughter is president of a committee of women of the aristocracy whose object is recruiting for the army; another son has just published in Novoe Vremya of St. Petersburg a signed article in behalf of the war. It has been known that neither his wife nor any member of his family agrees with Tolstoi's ideas on society, religion or politics, and this present protest of his youngest son against him may be taken as a sort of protective move on their part.

In the early railroad days, and that era may be brought down to a comparatively recent date, roadbeds were constructed largely along the lines of least resistance. The economy of time was not considered as carefully as the economy of construction. Then came the era of speed, when the saving of the hours became all important. New, high-speed locomotives were invented and fast express schedules were arranged with few stops, but there was still another great factor in bringing about the present fast train service, that the average person fails to take into account. A great deal of speed can be put into the track itself. And so came an era of improvement in the roadbed, and grades were cut down and filled up to as near a dead level as possible, and cut-outs were built, to eliminate bends and curves. So with "a fast track" and high-speed locomotives the modern express trains and "specials" have reduced the distance between points and added to the fast train service without sacrificing either comfort or safety.—From "The World's Progress," in Four-Track News for November.

California, the Land of Resorts.

California is essentially a country with an all-the-year-round outing season. Its summer and winter resorts are limited only by its boundaries. Many of these are widely known and advertised, while others—and these not the least among the attractive—are known and loved only by a favored few.—Carrie Stevens Walter in Sunset Magazine for November.

Blanke Coffee Wins Everything.

St. Louis, Nov. 8.—World's Fair gives C. F. ### English Wheat Imports.

Statistics which have been collected relative to the wheat acreage of England show that whereas in 1868 it was 3,500,000 acres, in 1904 it was only 1,375,000 acres, the shrinkage since 1903 being 13 per cent. Under these circumstances it is not surprising that England is the heaviest importer of wheat and wheat flour in the world. Heretofore this trade has largely been held by the United States which had until 1903 furnished more than half the British imports of wheat and three-fourths of their imports of flour. But in 1903, though Great Britain imported 164,505,380 bushels, the United States supplied only 45,167,391 bushels, or about 27 per cent. During the first eight months of the present year or up to August 31st, the United Kingdom imported from all sources 113,390,350 bushels, or about 9,000,000 bushels more than during the same period last year, and of the total the United States furnished less than 10 per cent, the balance being obtained from Russia, Argentina, British India, and Australasia. This independence of the biggest buyer of wheat of the United States as a source of supply only deepens the mystery of the present extraordinarily high price of wheat in this country. True the crop is under the average and much of the Northwestern wheat will rank below milling grade, but unless the supply is insufficient for home consumption, and that is not claimed, it is difficult to account for abnormal values on any other basis than speculative manipulation of the market. High prices are of course factors in the decline of wheat exports.

Nut-Bearing Trees.

Most of our people take little interest in the growing of nuts, and it is rather remarkable that in the light of this we should still have the amount of nuts on the market we do—nuts sufficient to supply the demands of a large population. But with the increase of population we must expect to see the demand for nuts increase. That there will always be a good market for nuts is without controversy. An increase in the price is not going to stimulate production to the point where there will be an over-supply. It takes too many years to bring a nut tree to the point of bearing for us ever to have a very great over-supply.

But just at this time the question of reforesting many plots on the farm is being considered. Why not plant groves of nut trees as well as other kinds of trees. The woods of some nut trees are quite valuable. The planter will have the satisfaction of seeing a grove of beautiful trees growing up on his farm and may live to reap the fruit of them. Where single trees are to be planted in pastures it will be hard to find trees more suitable than some of those that bear nuts.

Poultry House Floors.

It is much easier to build good walls to a poultry house than it is to build a floor that will be satisfactory. A good many people try to get along with earth floors. These, however, have the great detriment of being damp, especially in cold weather. As a result of damp floors come rheumatism, colds, roup and digestive disorders. Cement floors also develop more or less dampness. This dampness, however, might be obviated by laying the cement on a thick layer of broken stone. Generally our builders get back to the board floors raised a short distance, say a foot, above the earth. If it is desired to make this particularly good it should be double with tarred paper between. In the use of boards for flooring it should be seen that the ventilation is good and that the floor is not approachable by rats. If the rats cannot get a foothold they cannot gnaw a hole through the floor.

Bulk of Rough Feed.

Nearly all kinds of rough feed contain the nutrients the cow must have. The straw of grain contains the very things the cow needs out of which to make milk and butter-fat. But we have to consider the bulk. One hundred pounds of oat straw would furnish enough nutrients to make ten quarts of milk with a richness of 4 per cent. But no cow could digest more than a third of that amount in a day. Therefore straw is of very little practical value in the feeding of milk cows. We must have more concentrated roughage, such as clover hay or corn stalks. It is of course different with oat hay. That is cut at a time when the grain is in the dough stage and much of the substance is still in the stalks and leaves.

Hand Separator Cream.

Hand separator cream needs to be kept as carefully as any other kind of cream. Progress in this has been made but slowly since the introduction of the gathered cream system, or indeed since the introduction of the hand separator. Considering the small volume of gathered cream compared with the whole milk system there seems little reason in every farmer not having a perfect arrangement for keeping it. But it must be acknowledged that so far as we are able to learn by far the greater part of the cream from hand separators is still kept in cellars with vegetables and all kinds of things that have an odor that is not an addition to the flavor of the cream.

MAKING THE CHURCH POPULAR.

Result of Eastern Pastor Encouraging
Sunday Flirtations.

Oh, Polly, put your bonnet on and stick a flower in it;
And, Dolly, pin a ribbon bow wherever you can pin it.

'Tis Duty's call
To one and all
To look your most diverting,
For Church is now,
So pastors vow,
The very place for flirting.

Then hold your hymn-book cornerwise and give your thoughts to glancing.
And, while you sing, make goo-goo eyes in fashion most entrancing.

For, thus, 'tis said,
Are sinners led
To Heaven, do not falter.
And this way, too,
From aisle or pew,
Are husbands led to altar.

So, Polly, put your war-paint on. The palm has gone to Beauty!
And, Dolly, don your picture hat. 'Tis your religious duty.

The pastors say
This is the way
For sinning souls to search.
'Tis woman's face
That points to grace
And leads a man to church.
—New York Press.

Beds of Soldiers.

In Germany and Austria the soldier has a simple straw bed with one or two covers, neither sheet nor mattress. In Russia until recently he slept with his clothes on, on a camp bed, but now ordinary beds begin to be used—the result of association with more civilized countries. After this it cannot be doubted that the French soldier's bed is the best of all, with its wooden or iron bedstead, a straw bed, a wool mattress, sheets, a brown woolen coverlet, and an extra quilt for cold weather. Thus the bed of the French soldier is the softest of all soldiers' beds, as that of the French peasant is acknowledged also to be the best of all European countries.

Pact Fulfilled After 40 Years.

An agreement made between friends forty years ago was kept yesterday afternoon at the funeral of the Rev. George Heacock. The Rev. J. Richards Boyle, pastor of the Spring Garden Street Methodist Episcopal church, officiated, and the pact that whichever of the two should die first should have his funeral services conducted by the other was fulfilled.

Mr. Boyle converted Mr. Heacock to Methodism in March Chunk four decades ago, at which time the agreement was made.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Snap Shots, 2,000 a Second.

An Italian named Luciano Butti has perfected a photographic apparatus capable of registering the incredible number of 2,000 photographic impressions per second, says the London Globe. The most minute and least rapid and casual movements of birds and insects on the wing, which have hitherto defied science, can, it is claimed, be registered with accuracy, thus opening a new world of natural observation to ornithologists. The films used cost £2 per second for the 2,000 impressions.

AS A PERSONAL FAVOR.

Lawyer Asked Judge to Break News
To Mrs. Moriarity.

One of the most picturesque figures of the New York bar was the late Thomas Nolan, a lawyer, whose witty retorts furnished subjects for merriment at many a lawyers' gathering. Now, Nolan was at one time counsel for a poor widow who was suing a construction company for the death of her husband. The case had been placed upon the day calendar, but had been frequently postponed, and Mrs. Moriarity, by the time she had made her fifth call, was in an extremely disturbed frame of mind; consequently the tones of Nolan's rich brogue were more than usually fervid as he fought against the sixth adjournment. "I am sorry," said Justice Dugro, "but your opponent has shown me good cause for the adjournment, Mr. Nolan, and the case will, therefore, go over until to-morrow."

"Very well, sir," said the barrister, sweetly, "but might I ask your personal favor of this court?"

"Certainly, sir; with pleasure."

"Will your honor kindly step down to my office and just tell Mrs. Moriarity that you have adjourned the case?"—Success.

Cream, Ark., Nov. 7.—(Special.)—After eighteen months' suffering from Epilepsy, Backache and Kidney Complaint, Mr. W. H. Smith of this place is a well man again and those who have watched his return to health unhesitatingly give all the credit to Dodd's Kidney Pills. In an interview regarding his cure, Mr. Smith says:

"I had been low for eighteen months with my back and kidneys and also Epilepsy. I had taken everything I knew of, and nothing seemed to do me any good till a friend of mine got me to send for Dodd's Kidney Pills. I find that they are the greatest medicine in the world, for now I am able to work and am in fact as stout and strong as before I took sick."

Mrs. Buttesman is in excellent health and still reads her paper without using glasses. The first time she ever rode on a trolley car was when she went to Norristown to apply for a pension.

There is more Catarth in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarth to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarth Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circular and testimonials.

Starches are put up in 3/4-pound packages, and the price is the same, 10 cents. Then again because Defiance Starch is free from all injurious chemicals. If your grocer tries to sell you a 12-oz. package it is because he has a stock on hand which he wishes to dispose of before he puts in Defiance.
He knows that Defiance Starch has printed on every package in large letters and figures "16 ozs." Demand Defiance and save much time and money and the annoyance of the iron sticking. Defiance never sticks.

Mrs. Fairbanks tells how ne-

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Ignorance and neglect are the cause of untold female suffering, not only with the laws of health but with the chance of a cure. I did not heed the warnings of headaches, organic pains, and general weakness, until I was well nigh prostrated. I knew I had to do something.
Happily I did the right thing. I took
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound faithfully, according to directions, and was rewarded in a few weeks to find that my aches and pains disappeared, and I again felt the glow of health through my body. Since I have been well I have been more careful. I have also advised a number of my sick friends to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and they have never had reason to be sorry. Yours very truly,
MRS. MAY FAIRBANKS, 216 South 7th
St., Minneapolis, Minn." (Mrs. Fairbanks is one of the most successful and highest salaried travelling saleswomen

SAY WILD MAN ATTACKS GIRLS

Three Young Women Beat Off an Uncanny Individual and Run for Home.

MAY BE MURDERER OF OTHERS

Assault May Lead to the Solution of the Mysterious Assaults Upon Unprotected Females Near the Spring Grove Cemetery.

Cincinnati dispatch: A half naked wild man, whose abode is supposed to be among the tombstones of Spring Grove cemetery, and who has for six months frightened women and children in the neighborhood by his uncanny appearance and weird shouts, is believed responsible for the murder of three pretty girls, whose bodies have been found near the cemetery, within the last few months.

This theory gained strength when three girls living near the scene of the murders reported to the police that they had been attacked by the fiend about 10 o'clock Thursday night, the hour at which all the murders have been committed.

Attacks Three Girls.
Mamie Roddy, Lizie Welmer, and Mamie Wehmeyer while passing the cemetery were attacked by the man.
He struck at them and tried to throw one of them to the ground, but the three girls turned on him and by pulling his long hair and beard and digging at his eyes with their finger nails succeeded in making him release his hold.

The wild man finally leaped over the cemetery fence and disappeared among the grave stones. The girls were so frightened that the ran all the way home.

No trace of the supposed wild man has been found. He is described as being 40 years old, with long hair and beard, barefooted and wearing knee pants. He wore no hat, but had on a long, dark overcoat.

The murder of Alma Steinigeweg, whose mutilated body was found near the cemetery Thursday, closely following the mysterious killing of Mary McDonald and Lulu Mueller within a radius of half a mile, and this attack on the three girls has terrorized the residents of Cummins-ville, and few women are venturing out of their homes at night.

Clew to Murderer.
The only other clew to the murder of Miss Steinigeweg is the story of Frank Limle, the conductor on whose car she rode on her way home Wednesday night.

He says on Monday night a short, stout man boarded the car with Miss Steinigeweg. He alighted when she did, with other passengers. Miss Steinigeweg had a transfer for the Winton road car, but the stranger asked for no transfer. The conductor wondered why the man took the car for such a short distance.

Alone With His Victim.
Tuesday night the man did the same. Then, also, other passengers got off with Miss Steinigeweg, but on Wednesday night the man alighted
alone with his victim.

Jacob Kollmer, a saloonkeeper, says a stranger, dusty and nervous, entered his place a few squares from the scene of the murder Wednesday night and asked the nearest place to board a freight train.

The president of the telephone company has offered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest of the murderer of their employee, Alma Steinigeweg.

OHIO POLLS TO CLOSE ON TIME

Supreme Court Decides That Voting
Must Cease at 4 O'Clock.

Columbus, Ohio, dispatch: The supreme court has reversed the decision of the circuit court at Cleveland in the matter of the validity of that clause of the election law providing for the closing of the polls at 4 p. m.
in cities of over 300,000 population and voting will be stopped in Cleveland and Cincinnati at 4 p. m. election day.

Money in Circulation.

Washington dispatch: The treasury statement of money in circulation in the country shows that on Nov. 1 the total was $2,583,476,661, compared with $2,427,294,869 on Nov. 1, 1903.
The population on Nov. 1 is estimated at 82,329,000 and circulation per capita at $31.88.

Two Dead Through Mistake.

Indianapolis dispatch: Mrs. Susie
Cox, aged 46, and Mrs. Sarah Shaw, colored, aged 35, are dead through the mistake of Miss Funk, a nurse at the city hospital, who gave them a drink of a solution of carbolic acid, thinking it was sterilized water.

Troopers Chase Deserters.

Guthrie, O. T., special: Rather than return to the Philippines service, four troopers of the Eighth cavalry at Fort Sill deserted during the night and escaped on stolen horses. A troop of cavalry has been sent in pursuit of the deserters.

Leaves $375,000 to Rescuer.

Phoenix, Ariz., dispatch: E. B.
Vaughn, a private in the Fifth United States cavalry, has been left $375,000 by the will of M. D. Thornton of Portland, Me., whose life he saved while both were serving under Gen. Miles in Porto Rico.

FAIR WOMAN'S LATEST TOY.

Powder Knife Takes the Place of Old-Fashioned Puff.

The powder puff is to go. Beauty has discovered that it is too unhygienic to be safe—and in addition a new fashion was wanted.

So an old toilet adjunct has been resuscitated from the past in Paris by a great beauty, who, searching through the archives of the time of Louis XV., lighted upon a curious little knife, with a supple golden blade as thin and pliant as a painter's palette knife, set in an exquisite enameled handle, of that bright, yet mellow, character that proclaims beauty.

Two of the new designs for powder knives in beauty's boudoir.

ful old age. Discovering its use, the modern woman, professing abhorrence of the microbe-laden puff, has adapted it to her own needs and has thereby set a new vogue in exotic Paris.

Marie Leczinska, to whom King Louis XV. presented this lovely little weapon, one of a whole battery of toilet adjuncts, used it to spread upon her face the cosmetic that enhanced her beauty, and this is what the knife with the golden blade is doing for the belles of to-day, who find it far preferable to as well as much more romantic than the puffs, cham-poids pads and medicated cotton wool with which they have up to now applied powder and paste to their complexions. The knife smooths whatever cosmetic is employed with exquisite evenness, producing a surface like enamel upon the skin. Here we have quite the latest toy that is found in beauty's boudoir.—London Express.

Largest Motor in the World.

The largest motors in the world are in use in the huge forests of Canada, where they are used to drag logs over the snow and rough roads. They were specially designed for the purpose by a Chicago man. One of these machines is capable of dragging a train of 200 tons weight of logs at a speed of twelve miles an hour. It is the only machine in existence which will draw a heavy load through three feet of snow and over stumps and logs a foot in height. It is twenty-five tons weight and 200 horse power.
It travels on four runners, with a traction wheel in the center weighing seven tons. The machinery is enclosed in a box-like affair, giving the motor a somewhat strange appearance as it makes its way along forest roads.

Silent Japanese Women.

Japan has its communities of silent female recluses. There is a convent at a place called Yunakawa, about seven miles from Hakodate. A matron of some fifty years presides, and her instructions are implicitly obeyed.
The women are all young, ranging from sixteen to twenty-seven, and some of them are described as very beautiful. The building stands in a farm of some 250 acres, but the women do not engage in any agricultural work. They spend most of their time indoors, and they observe a strict rule of silence.

Fire Steels of Our Grandfathers.

The housewife who presses a button and lights the house with electricity or furnishes the heat for cooking on an electric range will look with interest upon this picture of fire steels of the fifteenth century, wherewith the folk of that time secured the necessary heat and light. To the first crude pieces of metal of years and years before the art of this period was added taste in design and ornamentation. Some of the steels showed a high degree of art, and today are valued highly by antiquarians. The best collection at present is in England, and comprises the make of several countries.

An Ancient Tree.

At Versailles is a pomegranate tree which is said to be the oldest in France. It is in an old orangery and was planted in 1685. In exceptionally warm seasons the tree still puts forth a few flowers, but it has borne no fruit for many years.

Income From Liquor Tax.
Napoleon used to say that when he was looking over the imperial accounts that no virtue paid him as well as brandy. Without echoing his cynicism, we can realize that liquor furnishes a great proportion of the funds required to operate our government.
Thus of the $494,178,683, the aggregate of customs collections and internal revenue receipts the last fiscal year, $196,538,616 came from liquors of all kinds, imported and domestic. Through customs and internal revenue the government collected $65,832,101 on tobacco and its manufactures. The total of the two items is $262,370,717, or enough to pay the pension charges and leave $120,000,000 over.—Boston Transcript.

Cabinet Dinners Not Popular.

Cabinet dinners have been voted a bore by the president and Mrs. Roosevelt and will be abolished this winter if they have their way. There are nine of these dinner each season, one being given by each member of the cabinet. The guests invariably consist of the president and his wife and the other members of the cabinet and their wives or other ladies of the cabinet.
Occasionally one or two outsiders are included, but very seldom, and it is hardly to be wondered at that the affairs have become tiresome.
For the past two years Mrs. Roosevelt has felt that the dinners were an unnecessary tax on the cabinet families.

The Youth's Companion in 1905.

It is impossible even to summarize in a single paragraph the many and varied attractions which The Youth's Companion announces for the coming year. A series of articles planned to interest especially the forty-five millions of Americans who look directly to the soil for their subsistence with treat of "New Fields for Young Farmers," "The Sanitation of the Farm,"
"The Future of American Cotton,"
"How Women Make Money on the Farm," etc. Seven serial stories and 250 short stories by the most talented and popular American writers of fiction will form part of the contents of the new volume for 1905.

California as a Horse-Raising State.

I have not the least hesitation in claiming that were the whole world searched there might be found sections which closely approached California, as a horse-raising country, but none that surpasses it, inasmuch as there are parts of this state which are perfect in every particular, nothing, in fact, being lacking for the production of the very highest type of horses.—Joseph Cairn Simpson in Sunset Magazine for November.

New Train Service, Chicago to St. Louis.

The Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad now runs night and day trains to the Exposition City, which represent the highest type of railroad construction. When you go to the World's Fair be sure your ticket is made good over this line, and you will enjoy every mile of the short trip.

Your local ticket agent will gladly make your ticket good this way if you request it.

Possibilities of the Future.

The luxuries of one generation are the necessities of the next. It is not impossible that in a few years more the poor man of this country will ride to his work in a neat $50 automobile and look enviously at his rich neighbor who is able to sail around in a $2,000 airship.—Oshkosh Northwestern.

Too Cheap for Her.

Wife—"The woman next door got a new gown yesterday."
Husband—"Yes, and of course you want one just like it."
Wife—"Don't you believe it. Hers only cost $25."

Mrs. Mary E. Meserve, of Salisbury, Mass., was cured of Anæmia, a disease in which there is an actual deficiency of the blood, by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People

She says: "The first symptom was an unusual paleness. Later the blood seemed to have all left my body. I had shortness of breath and fluttering of the heart; was depressed, morose and peevish. I suffered for two years. Physicians did me little good but I am now a well woman because I took twelve boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

These pills really make new blood and have cured obstinate cases of rheumatism, scrofula and erysipelas. They are especially useful to growing girls.

Sold by all Druggists.

Election Returns That Interest All Parties.

W. L. Douglas makes and sells more men's $3.50 shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.

The reason W. L. Douglas shoes are the greatest sellers in the world is because of their excellent style, easy fitting and superior wearing qualities. If I could show you the difference between their excellent style and those of other makes and the high-grade leathers used, you would understand why W. L. Douglas shoes are more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day, and why the sales for the year ending July 1, 1904, were $5,263,040.00.

W. L. Douglas guarantees their value by stamping his name and price on the bottom. Look for it—take no substitute. Sold by shoe dealers everywhere.

SUPERIOR IN FIT, COMFORT AND WEAR.

"I have worn W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes for the last twelve years with absolute satisfaction. I find them superior in fit, comfort and wear to others costing from $5.00 to $7.00."—H. M. Deane, Jr., Dept. Col. U. S. Int. Revenue, Richmond, Va.

W. L. Douglas uses Corona Calfskin in his $3.50 shoes. Corona Calf is conceded to be the finest Patent Leather made. Fast Color Eyelets used exclusively.

OKLAHOMA OPPORTUNITIES

The completion by the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway of over 350 miles of railroad in Oklahoma opened a rich agricultural country of excellent possibilities, besides giving direct connections between St. Louis, Hannibal and Kansas City, and Oklahoma City, Shawnee, Guthrie, El Reno, Enid and other Oklahoma points. Along the route are located new and growing towns—Cleveland, Jennings, Cushing, Agra, Fallis, Luther and Maud, situated right in the heart of a rich farming section, offering the best of opportunities for safe and profitable investments.
The field is new and the prices of farm land are low.

The opportunity is "NOW."

In fourteen years the wealth of Oklahoma has steadily increased until at present it is approximately four hundred million dollars.
Oklahoma has a population of six hundred and fifty thousand; some three hundred banks, with twenty-five million dollars on deposit.

The new fields in eastern Oklahoma are in the best fruit section of the country and produce the very best of fruit in abundance. At the World's Fair, the Winesaps and Jonathans from Eastern Oklahoma received awards in competition with the best fruit sections of the world. The rainfall in this field is about forty inches and well distributed. The weather is mild and the work can be carried on the year round.

Few lines of business are adequately represented. There are openings of all sorts—for mill and manufacturing plants, for small stores of all kinds, for banks, newspapers and lumber yards. Mechanics and professional men, both are in demand. Would you like to hear of an opening? THEN TELL US WHAT YOU WANT, how much you have to invest and we will gladly furnish the information.

They Sew And Kick.
A vigorous protest is going up from many of the patrons of the Wabash schools because the school board has decreed that plain sewing shall be taught in the regular course of study up to the eighth grade. The order applies to the boys as well as the girls, and is effective this week. Many of the lads who are compelled to do "girls work" with a needle and thread are protesting tearfully, but without avail. The pupils, boys and girls each bring a piece of cloth, a needle and thread each morning, and half hour is devoted to instructing the children how to handle the needle. It is suggested by some of the parents that embroidery and drawn work will be included later in the high school course.

New Warsaw Industry.
The Warsaw Sand Brick company, with a capital stock of $50,000, all in the hands of local business and professional men, has been organized in this city for the manufacture of sand brick, and articles of incorporation will be filed at once. The company will open with between thirty and forty men and will have a capacity of 36,000 bricks a day at the outset. Bricks made with sand are steamed, instead of baked, as is the case with the clay brick, and are ready for the market one day after they are moulded—in fact they are loaded direct from the steaming rooms into wagons for immediate use.

A Card of Thanks.
To all the kind friends who so ably and cheerfully assisted us during the sickness and death of our loving daughter and sister, we desire to express our heartfelt thanks.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY ROMIG AND FAMILY.

At the international peace conference at the Hague in 1899, the President of the United States was designated as the one who should issue the call for the second meeting when the opportune time had come. Such a call has just been made over the signature of the Secretary of State and the date will be set as soon as all the international diplomatic formalities are consummated.

WIN SIMONS MAKES A STRIKE

Spiritualists Hold Regular Meetings—Items and Gossip.

From the far off quarter of the sky toward Colorado comes the rumor that Win Simons has struck gold. His friends state that the real value of the find is unknown but the actual fact remains that he has uncovered a promising lead of the precious metal. The story of Win Simons, ex-representative and one of the most honored citizens of Marshall county, is well known. He inherited a large fortune and soon became a vigorous factor in the business world. During his prosperity he did more for Plymouth than any other man either before or since. But financial ruin overcame him and with thousands of others went down helpless at the time of the great Cleveland panic. After that he journeyed to Colorado and took up a claim, which he has been working ever since. It is not to be taken seriously that he has another fortune almost banked and ready for the check-book but if the present good prospects do turn out something big there are hundreds here who will gladly assert that it is no more than his just dues.

Plymouth has a society of Spiritualists which holds secret meetings with enthusiastic regularity and is obtaining miraculous results. Voices that have hollow but strangely familiar tones come and go. The trumpet, when one is used by the medium, floats in the air, flashes of light appear, intelligent rappings occur and even partial and complete materializations have been produced of friends long given in agony from Earth to Heaven. In fact most of the Marshall county worthies, now on the other side of Styx, have at some time or other conveyed messages to these disciples of the cult. The society and its remarkable success is in a great measure due to efforts on the part of the Sprague spiritualistic missionaries who were here last winter.

Jesse Miller, of North township, has been to visit Aladdin's wonderful cave or at any rate a place containing wealth about as fabulous. He has just returned from the heart of old Mexico which he says is the richest mining country on earth. In one of the outlying districts where a new company is formed for the purpose of mining he was shown into a tunnel the sides of which were literally bediamonded with huge deposits of copper, gold and silver. The promoters of the new company allowed him to hack specimens of each metal direct from the solid veins. These specimens he brought back home. They have been on exhibition for the past week at the office of William Everly of this city.

Lawyers are poking fun at the Marshall county jury that last week tried to sentence a man to the Michigan City penitentiary. Nearly everybody is enough versed in law to know that a jury does not sentence the culprit. It simply finds him guilty or not guilty, and the judge fixes his penalty in accordance with statutes made by the legislature for that purpose. But a surprise awaited Judge Bernetha in the case of Indiana vs Gandy on charge of attempted rape, for the jury found the culprit guilty but tacked on the verdict a recommendation that he be sentenced to two years imprisonment and hard labor. In addition it was kind enough to mention Michigan City as the explicit place of confinement whereas the judge, it is said, had Jeffersonville in mind. At first it was thought the peculiar action of the jury would make the proceeding null and entitle the prisoner to a new trial but a different opinion is now held. Judge Bernetha has not yet made known his ruling on the matter.

Marshall county was compelled to pay out over a hundred dollars last as the result of a cheap little personal quarrel concerning ten rods of fence. Two farmers up in Bourbon township had differences to the amount of three dollars and twenty cents. A jury trial resulted. The farmers settled their dispute and incidentally the tax payers settled the bill. The great expense of conducting court borne by the people at large on account of such a petty and uninteresting personal difference seems preposterous and yet to say a word against it would be striking a blow at the jury which is the very heart and foundation of our civil liberties.

German township land has enhanced wonderfully in value the past few years. A large portion of its acreage easily competes with the high priced farms of Center and Bourbon townships. The improvement has been due almost wholly to efficient ditching.

The price of coal takes another jump and we are now told that it will be 35 cents a ton higher. The miner gets no more for digging it and the value of the coal in the mine has not increased, but the coal trust will soon pay another dividend. The trust gets the 35 cents.

Kewanna dedicated a new $5,000 addition to their already magnificent school building. Culver is one of the best commercial towns for its size in the state, which may explain why our school facilities are lagging. The people haven't the time to look after the interests of the children. They are too busy chasing the almighty dollar.

America is still ahead. It remained for a native of this country to achieve the first real success in flying an air ship, as it did for the invention of the telegraph, the telephone and the laying of the ocean cable. Capt. Baldwin in his airship tests at St. Louis is in the class with Morse, Field and Edison in the field of scientific and useful invention.

The Chronicle of last week made mention of the Laporte and Bremen bands greeting Senator Fairbanks. Where was the Maxinkuckee band? They went to Plymouth expecting to be a part of the real thing. Apparently they were lost in the shuffle.

This is the season of the year when the deadly corn shredder will get in its work. A few early cases of torn and mangled arms are already reported. A safety device attached to the shredders does not remove all danger.

WILL MERGE VANDALIA LINES

Pennsylvania Company to Unite Them into One Line.

The plan decided upon by the Pennsylvania company for the merging of the Vandalia companies is for a consolidated company with $35,000,000 capital stock. It will be submitted to a vote of the stockholders of the several companies at meetings to be held next month. The company will be incorporated as the Vandalia Railroad company and will include the following lines: The Terre Haute and Indianapolis, the St. Louis, Vandalia and Terre Haute, the Terre Haute and Logansport, the Logansport and Toledo, and the Indianapolis and Vincennes.

The Terre Haute and Peoria is not included and for the present at least it will be operated as a leased line. James McCrea, first vice-president of the Pennsylvania company, will be president of the Vandalia company, and there will be three vice-presidents. These latter will be in charge of the operation, but their names have not yet been announced.
