President Hoffman and Director Powell of the Fulton county Fair association were here in an auto Monday distributing advertising matter for the forthcoming exhibition which they say gives every indication of being the best in the history of the association.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Horvey Pettingell of Colorado Springs, Col., are making a short stay at the Lake View hotel. Mr. Pettingell is prominently identified with the mining industry of Colorado, and is in Culver for the purpose of investigating the military academy preparatory to entering his son, Frank Horvey Pettingell, Jr., there.

Michael Keen and sons Al and Melvin returned Saturday from a two weeks' visit in Ohio. They attended a reunion of the Keen family in Ashland county where between 200 and 300 representatives were present. In the adjoining county of Medina Mr. Michael Keen also attended a reunion of the Sullivan high school. Over 700 were in attendance on that occasion, and some of the former pupils were 70 years of age. This was Mr. Keen's first visit to his boyhood home in twenty-two years.

W. H. Clark has returned to Culver after a year's absence to resume his investigations for the fisheries department of the Smithsonian Institute. His work from now until the close of the season will be along the Yellow and Tippecanoe rivers seeking mussels and classifying them with reference to their commercial value. He will make no special effort to find pearls. These are likely to be found in any species of mussel, but they are so infrequent that the pearl fishing as an industry is hardly worth any person's while. Mr. Clark is accompanied by his wife and sister. They are installed in one of the cottages on the West side.

CHURCH NEWS.

Items Pertaining to the Work of the Local Organizations.

Preaching at the Evangelical church Sunday morning by Rev. Walmer.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Christian church meets with Mrs. Parker Thursday of this week.

Preaching at the M. E. church Sunday morning, and in the evening union service, Rev. F. B. Walmer delivering the sermon.

On account of Rev. Walmer's appointment to preach at the union services Sunday night Prof. L. S. Hahn will occupy the pulpit at West Washington.

At the Reformed church: Young peoples' service Saturday evening; Sunday school, Sunday morning at 10 o'clock; preaching services at 11 o'clock. Everyone welcome.

Elocution Recital.

The recital given by Miss Heims' pupils brought out a large audience of interested friends who were well repaid by the entertaining program given. With a blending of musical numbers and a rollicking farce by six young ladies the exercises furnished a pleasing variety, and the patrons were gratified with the proficiency shown by the elocutionary pupils. The art of graceful public speaking is a highly valuable one, and Miss Heims' ability as an instructor is making itself noticeable in the ease and intelligent interpretation which a considerable number of Culver's young people have acquired since she began her annual summer instruction here.

A Fifteen-Pound Pickerel.

Nelson Geiselman is the hero of all the local Isaac Waltons, and he is wearing his halo with a conscious modesty that would do credit to a Hobson. Sunday afternoon Nelson angled for finny prizes down Yellow river near the iron bridge and landed a pickerel which lacked an ounce of weighing 15 pounds. This is the finest fish that has been caught in Starke county waters this year. Mr. Geiselman has the head of his prize fish mounted and takes pride in exhibiting it to his friends. He made his catch with a Dowagie spinner. Knox Republican.

Butter and Eggs.

Eggs are steadily advancing in price, in spite of the fact that the egg production is making big gains each year. The farm price of eggs in 1899 was 11.15 cents per dozen as an average for the United States. In 1903, 12.37 per dozen; in 1904, 17.20 cents, and in 1907, 18.20. Dressed poultry sold in New York in 1899 for 10.78 cents per pound wholesale, 12.97 cents in 1903, for 12.37 cents in 1904, for 13.36 cents in 1905, for 13.20 cents in 1906 and for 14.90 cents in 1907.—Live Stock World.

Umpire a Sinful Man.

An awful indignant bunch of baseball fans came back from Argos last Sunday. They one and all assert that the Argos umpire stole the game, and that Culver never had a ghost of a show in his decisions. Similar charges were made by the Plymouth crowd who played Argos the preceding Sunday. All of which goes to show that this is a wicked world and that our home missionary societies should redouble their efforts, particularly in Argos.

Culver Wins Again.

Culver's cutter crew was for the second time this season winner over the Illinois Naval Reserves when a mile and a half course was pulled over in Chicago last Saturday. Culver made a fine getaway, leading the reserves for the start, and finished over seven boat lengths ahead.

The cadets also won the race with the Ohio Reserves at Cleveland on Tuesday.

HAPPENINGS OF A WEEK

Record of the Most Important Events Condensed for the Perusal of the Busy Man.

RACE RIOT NOTES.

Springfield, Ill., was completely in the control of a mob for several hours, the police, sheriff's force and troop D of the First cavalry, and the members of Gatling gun section of the Illinois National Guard being unable to do anything to control the mob, which was rendered furious by the removal from the city of George Richardson, a negro who assaulted a white woman. As the result of the mob's actions one man is dead, another will probably die and several others were injured, while Loper's restaurant was wrecked, the shanties of a number of negroes residing in the "bad lands" burned, and Gov. Deneen called a number of companies of the Illinois National Guard to Springfield to preserve order. Among the injured was R. W. Chaffin, candidate for president of the United States on the Prohibition party ticket, who was struck in the head with a brick.

To the death list of the Springfield, Ill., race war were added the names of William Donnigan, colored, killed by the mob, and Frank Delmore, shot. With the arrival of the Second and Seventh Infantry regiments, I. N. G., and two squadrons of the First cavalry, all from Chicago, the entire National Guard of Illinois, with the exception of the Sixth Infantry and the Eighth Infantry (colored) was on duty in the riot-ridden districts. In all 4,200 guardsmen were in the city. The troops suppressed several small outbreaks. Private J. B. Klein of the First regiment, who killed a man at Kankakee while guarding the ammunition car, was exonerated by a court of inquiry.

One more death, that of J. W. Scott, was added to the fatality list of the Springfield (Ill.) riots. National Guard patrols were fired on, twice from ambush, but no one was hit. Gov. Deneen issued proclamations offering rewards and urging all citizens who had information about the rioting to present it to the grand jury.

Gov. Deneen ordered home all the state troops in Springfield except the Seventh Infantry and First cavalry. Negroes were in great fear of renewal of attacks. Arrangements were completed for surrendering Private J. B. Klein to the civil authorities at Kankakee for trial on the charge of killing Earl Nelson.

HOOSIER BREVITIES

NEWS OF THE WEEK IN THE STATE OF INDIANA.

HEAVY RAINS SAVE CROP

Storm Breaks Drought of Many Weeks and Assures an Encouraging Yield—Growers Want Still More.

Indianapolis.—Reports from over the state indicate that the rain of Wednesday night, ending a drought of more than two weeks, practically has saved the grain crop, as well as greatly benefiting the tomato, late potato and fruit yields. The corn throughout the farming regions of Indiana had reached a condition where, had rain not fallen within a few days, the crop would have been cut one-half in many places. Wednesday night's showers came just at the right time.

For five weeks congregations in both the Protestant and Catholic churches of South Bend have prayed for rain. Crops in that vicinity were on the verge of ruin. For more than a month no rain had fallen. Corn and pasture lands were burned dry. The soaking rain that continued most of the night is estimated to have been worth at least $250,000 to the farmers of the country adjacent to South Bend.

The timely rain saved the crops in Vigo county. High winds and lightning that accompanied the fall did considerable damage in the towns, especially in Terre Haute, where telephone, telegraph and light wires were blown down, outhouses wrecked and a few buildings unroofed. But the damage done by the storm was counterbalanced by the benefit gained by the farmers.

Corn in Gibson county is booming as a result of Wednesday's rain. Reports from Princeton show that farms were in a bad condition before the showers. Earlier in the year overwatering floods and later cut worms had devastated the crops, and what was left was threatened by the drought. The rains, far reaching in benefit, are thought to be worth $50,000 to the farmers in an added yield.

The showers were a boon to grain growers of Clark county. Corn, especially near Jeffersonville, was helped immensely and the present outlook is very favorable for a big yield.

The drought in Tippecanoe county was of such length that Wednesday's storm apparently had little more effect on the parched grain than an abnormally heavy dew. Farmers about Lafayette, though agreeing that the rain did smaller crops good, assert that a heavier fall is needed to greatly benefit the grain.

Finds Horse After Months.

Crawfordsville.—The horse belonging to Mr. Willets of the Shawnee Horse Thief Detective association, which was stolen last April, has been recovered. It was learned the horse had been consigned to Newgrass & Sons, Chicago commission merchants, and that they had sold the animal to the American Ice company. This company uses 3,800 horses in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other eastern cities. It was the information and help given by Newgrass & Sons and the American Ice company that the horse finally was found at Atlantic City, N. J.

Name Presiding Elder.

Richmond.—At the last session of the White River conference of the United Brethren church Rev. M. F. Dawson of Indianapolis was re-elected presiding elder, a position he has held for five years in the Indianapolis district. Rev. J. T. Roberts was chosen to succeed Rev. H. S. James, who has been presiding elder of the Marion district for three years. Indianapolis and Redkey are asking for the next conference. Mrs. A. G. Beard of Indianapolis brought greetings from the White River branch of the Woman's Missionary association.

Rush Y. M. C. A. Building.

South Bend.—A force of 100 men is engaged in rushing work on the new $150,000 Y. M. C. A. building, which is to be dedicated in October with the annual state convention of the organization. Previous to the convention it is expected that exercises will be held in which John M. Studebaker, the only surviving member of the famous five brothers who built the gigantic wagon works here, will speak.

Bolt Fells Entire Herd.

Morocco.—During the big rain-storm Joseph Chizum, a farmer south of here, was in the house looking out of the window at a herd of 22 steers in a nearby pasture when suddenly the entire herd dropped to the ground and lay as if dead. Mr. Chizum was calculating as to the cost of that stroke of lightning when the steers began to show signs of life, and in a few seconds all were on their feet again.

Methodists Plan Reunion.

Clarks Hill.—A homecoming service will be held by the Methodists of this place next Sunday. Many pastors and communicants formerly residents of Clarks Hill will be in attendance. A basket dinner will be served on the church grounds.

The morning service will consist of music, Scripture reading and a sermon by Rev. Dr. Samuel Goiffrey. In the evening there will be a special musical service and a sermon by Rev. W. B.

PLANS SURVEY OF COAL FIELDS.

Government Geologists Will Assist Indiana Officers.

Terre Haute.—Under the general supervision of State Geologist W. S. Blatchley a new geological survey of the coal fields of Indiana has been started. Mr. Blatchley, who is in Terre Haute looking after matters incidental to starting the work, says he expects to make a supplementary report next year which will bring his exhaustive report of the coal fields of the state made ten years ago up to date in every respect.

The field work of the new survey will be under the direction of Dr. George H. Ashley, assisted by E. F. Lyons, both of the United States geological survey. They have been doing work for the government in connection with the survey which is being made of the east interior coal basin, of which the Indiana field is a part. By co-operating with the government geologists State Geologist Blatchley is enabled to get the data which he desires regarding the Indiana field at a much lower cost than if he were to make the survey independently. The government geologists, in making their report to the government, will make a duplicate for Mr. Blatchley. The government will defray half the expense and the state the other half. "Since I issued my report on the coal fields ten years ago," said Mr. Blatchley, "new mines have been opened, new territory has been developed and new veins discovered. I will make a supplementary report covering all these new developments."

Oil Men Charged with Fraud.

South Bend.—W. L. Kizer, Dudley M. Shively, D. F. F. Conklin, S. M. and S. B. Robinson, prominent business and professional men of South Bend, were made defendants in proceedings in the circuit court when E. Newton McCormick of Lexington, Ky., filed suit charging them with conspiracy and fraudulent appropriation of the funds of the Mt. Sterling Oil company.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendants, as directors of the company, appropriated $30,000 without accounting for it and that they have conspired to make the 500 shares of stock which he holds valueless although the stock was valued at $100 a share when he purchased it.

Girl Slain; Sweetheart Near.

Bedford.—The shooting to death of Miss Della Henderson, 19 years old, while her sweetheart was calling on her, presents a mystery which the local police as yet have not solved. The bullet entered the girl's head and came out at the mouth. Her sweetheart says that he left Miss Henderson in the room alone a few moments, while he stepped out to get a bucket of water. He says he heard the shot and ran back into the room finding the girl lying on the floor with the revolver in her hand and the wound in her head. The tragedy is believed to be the result of a lovers' quarrel, and so far as known the young man was the only person near her when the shot was fired.

Produce Dealer Robbed on Pike.

Shelbyville.—Marshall Thurston, a produce dealer, was held up on the Boggsstown pike late at night as he was returning to this city and was robbed of $22.50, money belonging to his employer, Abe Spolski.

Thurston started home late in the evening. When he was two miles out two masked men sprang from a cornfield and covered him. Thurston got off the wagon and threw up his hands. Thurston came to town and notified the police, but they have made no arrests. Within the last year three robberies have been committed at the same place.

Miami Teachers to Meet.

Peru.—The annual teachers' institute of this county is to be held from August 24 to 28, inclusive. Superintendent E. B. Wetherow has engaged the following instructors: Prof. C. Tilden of Greencastle, Mrs. E. E. Okert of Danville, Prof. J. H. Bachtelkircher of Lafayette and Prof. W. Ethelbert Fisher of Peru. There are 200 teachers in this county, and it is expected that all will attend.

Suicide Plan But Fright.

Anderson.—James Adams, a young man, left a note to his wife which read: "Good-by, May. I know all" and left home with ten cents' worth of morphine. He was placed in jail, where he confessed he was but trying to frighten his wife, who, he says, made an attempt at suicide. The couple promised to live "happily ever afterward."

Kissing Bug Stings Girl.

Anderson.—Miss Myrtle Brewster, aged 14, was bitten by an insect while eating a peach at Mounds Park. Physicians were puzzled by the case. The insect bit the girl on the lip and immediately she complained of intense pain and her face began to swell rapidly. Her entire body became greatly swollen.

Town of Ade Must Start Over.

Morocco.—George Ade's town, south of this place, will have to start over again. During the recent storm in that vicinity the almost completed new store building, the pride of the town, was wrecked beyond repair.

Rider Is Fatally Wounded.

Chrisney.—Ogden Elliott, aged 25, of Edinburg, riding Little Joe, owned by J. H. Smith of Rockport, was thrown from his horse against a tree and trampled upon by

FOR HALF CENTURY

SUCH HAS BEEN LONG PERIOD OF SERVICE OF MAJ. LOEFFLER.

Army Officer and Door-Keeper of White House His Faithful Career Wins the President's Praise.

Washington.—To complete 50 years of service to the United States as soldier and officer in the army, as well as civilian employee; to have had the closest relations with presidents of the United States for nearly 40 years; to be happy and prosperous in his family relations, and to enjoy the widespread friendship and esteem of every statesman in the country is a record of which, President Roosevelt says, a man ought to be proud. The record is part of the life history of Maj. Charles D. A. Loeffler, who, in a quiet way, is to-day celebrating the completion of 50 years with the government of the United States.

Maj. Loeffler is personally known to every prominent politician and statesman in the country as a door-keeper of presidents. Although more than 70 years of age he is still holding that responsible position at the White House.

President Roosevelt thinks so much of him that he sent the following letter to his old friend:

"White House, July, 1908.—My Dear Maj. Loeffler: To-day you complete your 50 years—a full half century—of service in the army of the United States; and you have been in close and confidential relations with eight presidents. You have rendered loyal, faithful and gallant service to the country; you have shown yourself an absolutely trustworthy man; you have done well every duty intrusted to you. It is a record for your children and your children's children to be proud of. With good wishes, I am, Your friend.—Theodore Roosevelt."

Maj. Loeffler enlisted in the cavalry service of the United States at Baltimore July 10, 1858, 50 years ago last month. Almost at once he jumped into the thickest of the western Indian fights, serving under Robert E. Lee, who was lieutenant colonel of the Second cavalry, and Fitzhugh Lee, then a second lieutenant in the same regiment. He aided in saving the life of Fitzhugh Lee during one of the Indian fights, and in later years Gen. Lee was his close friend, always stopping at the White House to talk with him about their soldier days.

In the winter of 1861 Sergt. Loeffler was ordered to report to Washington for duty. He remained at headquarters here and on scout duty until the close of the war, when he was again sent to the war department for duty as doorkeeper and body guard for Secretary Stanton. Later he was with Gen. Schofield, and when Gen. Grant was inaugurated president in 1869 he was told to report for duty at the White House. He was assigned to duty as doorkeeper for Gen. Grant. Three years later his enlistment in the army expired and he was appointed to a civil position at the White House, still remaining as doorkeeper, and being retained by every president to this time. In 1878 he was made a captain in the regular army, being assigned as military storekeeper. He was later promoted to major and is now on the retired list. There is every prospect that he will remain doorkeeper to presidents until his life is ended. He is still vigorous and active.

Denatured Salt.

"Our readers know all about denatured alcohol," says the American Sugar Industry and Beet Sugar Gazette, "and have seen some mention in our columns of the use of denatured sugar in France and other countries of Europe. It now appears that salt is another product of France that is denatured for the sake of escaping taxation, the denaturing material used being in this case sugar. By a decree of President Fallieres of March 21, salt intended for the feeding of cattle may be denatured by the addition of two kilos (4½ pounds) of crystallized sugar to 100 of salt, and so escape the usual taxes on salt for table or dairy purposes. Instead of sugar, a number of other substances may be substituted, but preference is given to the sweet product, evidently as a means of encouraging a 'down-trodden' industry."

FATIGUED EXPRESSION.

A Slander.

Squaggs—Why did the butcher beat up Longley?
Squiggs—Slander.
Squaggs—What'd Longley say?
Squiggs—Said he saw a dog down in the butcher's licking his chops, and a lot of customers quit before it was explained that the dog was licking his own chops.—Toledo Blade.

Is Per-na Useful for Catarrh?

Should a list of the ingredients of Per-na be submitted to any medical expert, of whatever school or nationality, he would be obliged to admit without reserve that the medicinal herbs composing Per-na are of two kinds. First, standard and well-tried catarrh remedies. Second, well-known and generally acknowledged tonic remedies. That in one or the other of these uses they have stood the test of many years' experience by physicians of different schools. There can be no dispute about this, whatever. Per-na is composed of some of the most efficacious and universally used herbal remedies for catarrhal diseases, and for such conditions of the human system as require a tonic. Each one of the principal ingredients of Per-na has a reputation of its own in the cure of some phase of catarrh or as a tonic medicine.

The fact is, chronic catarrh is a disease which is very prevalent. Many thousand people know they have chronic catarrh. They have visited doctors over and over again, and been told that their case is one of chronic catarrh. It may be of the nose, throat, lungs, stomach or some other internal organ. There is no doubt as to the nature of the disease. The only trouble is the remedy. This doctor has tried to cure them. That doctor has tried to prescribe for them.

No other household remedy so universally advertised carries upon the label the principal active constituents, showing that Per-na invites the full inspection of the critics.

The percentage of automobilists who are violating the laws to that extent which irritates the citizens and the highway officials is not more than 10 per cent of the whole body of motorists. The bulk of law-abiding motorists are the ones who will suffer if the legislators are driven to repeal the present law and pass measures which will satisfy the demands of their country constituents.

It is as Mr. Scudder said: "The country people are simply boiling with indignation, and while they recognize that not all of the automobilists are to blame, they do not see any way of preserving their own lives and the lives of their children and horses except by putting in jail every automobilist who goes at a greater rate of speed than 20 miles an hour even in the most isolated sections of the country. It is evident also that there is a feeling against the owners of cars who permit their drivers to speed while they are riding in the machines. It is not unlikely that such owners will find in the near future that the police are going to hold them as well as their hired drivers."

Kokomo, Ind., Aug. 20—"The mob at Springfield, Ill., points out to me the greatest weakness of the United States government," said Ezra Roberts, colored, professor of history in the Booker T. Washington college at Tuskegee, Ala., and formerly a teacher at Indianapolis.

"The thing that impresses me most about the Springfield affair," he said, "is the disrespect for law. This condition of the public mind is not confined to that city. It is a lamentable condition throughout the United States. It is a truth that while our warships go to Turkey, the Orient or any European country to avenge an insult to the humblest American citizen, such a citizen may not be safe at home, white or black. We need today education as to the meaning of law enforcement which will make the lawless, white or black, realize that law is law, and that its violation means the speedy and adequate punishment of the offender."

"It is growing in the minds of the masses that law is an inconvenience. Disregardful of the courts the ignorant men try to constitute themselves court and jury and to execute their will at the price of human life, the death of innocent people and the destruction of property."

"I have an abiding faith in the American people. I think the best of the white race, with the best of the colored race, are agreed on giving the negro race a chance to prove what it can do, and are unwilling to condemn it for the acts of the worst people who belong to it. I think the day is coming when the American mob will be taught that it will meet death when it rises, and once it is convinced of that fact it will cease to rise."

SUMMER SCHOOL NOTES

Interesting Happenings Among the Boys That Have Been Gleaned from the Log.

Tuesday afternoon Rear Admiral Ross, U. S. N., commandant Great Lakes Naval Training station, made his second visit of the season to Culver. He will be with us during the remainder of the session, and will accompany the battalion on their trip east.

At two o'clock the battalion formed for review, and the long lines swung past the stand in a manner declared the "best yet." The cavalry, on their shining black mounts following behind the naval men.

The review over, the ground was given over to the troop, which gave a short exhibition drill, ending with a wild charge with sabres drawn.

The navy then marched its forces upon the field and went through the various movements of the built's and silent manuals.

A squad of troopers followed with rough riding exhibition in the center of the field, and their feats drew merited applause.

In the evening Admiral Ross gave a most interesting and instructive lecture upon Uncle Sam's method of taking young men from all walks of life and making them into first-class seamen. The various steps of the process were graphically depicted by means of stereopticon views, as well as by words, and many views of the magnificent fleet which recently completed the long cruise to the Pacific were shown.

A long-felt want at both C. S. N. S. and C. M. A. has just been filled, namely: a trainer for our athletic teams. We have always been at a disadvantage in that Culver teams have had to do their own training. An athlete needs to be accountable to some one for his physical condition to obtain the best results. Mr. McHugh, who supplies this long felt want, is a trainer of 20 years experience with athletic teams. He was trainer of the crew at Columbia, of track at New York A. C. and Chicago university, and football in University of Washington. The crew have felt his "heavy hand at the wheel" already, and they are all in fine condition. The Log expresses the sentiments of the corps in hoping that some arrangements may be made for a trainer for the teams in Winter school. With Captains Hynce and McNagney coaching and with a good trainer Culver would become more powerful than ever on the athletic field as she is in everything else, and the downfall of Morgan Park would be no more a talked-of dream but a great reality. Morgan Park, to explain for the benefit of the Summer school men, is the only school in the Central West who has been able to hold up her head when Culver is mentioned, and at that only in football.

Word was received last week of the recent death by an accident in Chicago of Leander Spafford, a former cadet of the Culver Summer school and a younger brother of Fred Spafford, C. M. A. '05. Spafford's home was in Morrison, Ill., whence he had gone with two college friends. Alighting from their train after night in a place where track elevating was being done, Spafford fell through the trestle work, striking his head on the pavement 15 feet below. The skull was fractured, and the unfortunate young man died in a few hours at the Cook county hospital where he was taken after the accident.

Shore drill has taken precedence over everything else for several days and the battalion has worked off the raggedness which marred the work a week or two ago. The marching is now up to standard and will make a hit with the people who witness it on the trip.

But's manual and the silent manual have had their share of attention and the latter will be used at Niagara where orders will be drowned in the noise of the waters.

The academic work of the summer was brought to a close this morning and the report slips have already received the records which they will carry homeward. The work has gone forward in an uneventful way and on that account has been of unusual thoroughness. Many cadets have made up conditions and enter their winter session with their accounts balanced. The Tuxis system has made itself felt here as well as elsewhere in the striving for academic credits.

The new coach, Mr. Westenberg, has been in the United States navy for eight years, graduating from the Naval Training station, Newport, R. I., in 1900. Since then he has been on the battleship Indiana, the Olympia and the Essex, being in charge of the racing crews on all three ships.

PSYCHIC FORCES.
Their Existence Proved, Yet Scientists Cannot Grasp Them.
I have seen enough to make me believe in Zollner's fourth dimension, but I don't. My mind is so constructed that such wonders as we meet in seances produce very little effect on me. They are as normal to me now as the popping of corn or the roasting of potatoes. But as for belief—well, that is not a matter of the will, but of evidence, and the evidence is not yet sufficient to bring me to any definite conclusion. In fact, in the broad day and especially the second day after I have been through one of these experiences I begin to doubt my senses. Rhetoric of this curious recession of belief and admits his own inability to retain the conviction that at the moment of the phenomenon was complete. "No sooner is the sitting over than my doubts come swarming back upon me," he says. "The real world which surrounds us, with its prejudices, its scheme of habitual opinions, holds us in so strong a grasp that we can scarcely free ourselves completely. Certainty does not follow on demonstration, but on habit."

Maxwell says: "I believe in these phenomena, but I see no need to attribute them to any supernatural intervention. I am inclined to think they are produced by some force within ourselves." Just what he means by that I can't precisely explain. It's harder to understand than the spirit hypothesis. He goes on to say that, while he is certain that we are in the presence of an unknown force, he is convinced that the phenomena will ultimately be found orderly, like all other facts of nature. "Some future Newton will discover a more complete formula than ours," he prophesies. "Every natural fact should be studied and, if it be real, incorporated in the patrimony of knowledge." He then adds, with the true scientist's humble acknowledgment of the infinite reach of the undiscovered universe, "Our knowledge is very limited and our experience young."
—Hamilton Garland in Everybody's Magazine.

Where He Would Have Shone.
Cardinal Mezzofanti, who died in 1849, at the age of seventy-five years, knew and could speak more than fifty languages. And he knew them thoroughly. He could entertain his English friends with specimens of Yorkshire dialect and his French or German visitors with the patois of their respective countries. "What a fine job he could have had as a universal interpreter should he have lived in the times of the tower of Babel!" was one of Lord Byron's caustic remarks.—Argonaut.

A New Leaf.
"I've just been thinking," said Willieboy.
"Thinking what?" demanded Stillman, to whom the idea of Willieboy's thinking was somewhat disconcerting.
"That in Adam's case it must have been a real re-leaf to change his clothes," said Willieboy. — Harper's Weekly.

The Michigan road, 100 feet wide, and usually in good repair in this section of the country, has become the great automobile thoroughfare for parties traveling north and south. Scores of autos every day are seen in their hurried flight, passing through our city on its principal and best paved street. These horseless vehicles have become a necessity and will not be abandoned until science and skill provide a better mode of transportation over our highways. While they are practical as a means for travel they are said to be very destructive to gravel and macadam roads. Their great weight, broad tires and rapid pace lift from the roadbed and scatter broadcast the grit and small particles that are intended to form the cement that keeps the road intact. There is the greatest complaint in some foreign countries where good roads prevail more than in our own. Enough evidence of the destruction of roads in many places has been discovered in this country to make it a matter of much concern to the public. — Rochester Sentinel.

Diarrhoea, Colic and Cholera Morbus

Are diseases that require prompt attention.
In almost every neighborhood some one has died from these diseases before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned.
Those who rely upon physicians often find that they are away from home when most needed.
Every family, and especially those who reside on farms and ranches, miles from any drug store or physician should keep at hand a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.
No physician can prescribe a better medicine for the purposes for which it is intended.
The remarkable cures effected by this remedy, in all parts of the country, have made it the acknowledged standard.

It can always be depended upon to effect a quick cure, and when reduced with water is pleasant to take. It is equally valuable for children and adults.

How Trees Cool the Air.

No one person in ten, perhaps, looks upon upon a tree as a cooling agent beyond the effect produced by its shade. And yet it acts on the hot air around it just as a lump of ice acts on the water in a pitcher. Here is the explanation: The human body you know maintains, when in a sound condition, a temperature of about 98 degrees, called blood-heat. Well, a tree as a body has a temperature of about 45 degrees, which is not effected by outside influences. You see, therefore, how a clump of trees, irrespective of the shade they make, can lower the temperature of the air around them; and when you consider the combined affect of this and the shade they make, you readily understand why the woods are so cool, and why it is wise to have little parks all over a city, and plenty of trees along the streets.

The Story of a Berlin Shrew and Her Likeness in Stone.

This quaint equivalent of the German term neidkopf is applied by travelers to an eddy carved in stone and fixed in a niche in the second story of a house in the Helligengestrasse in Berlin not far from the emperor's palace. The neidkopf represents a hideous, harpy faced woman with snakelike curls and tongue protruding in mocking derision.

One day some 200 years ago, the legend runs, Frederick William of Prussia, more familiarly known as Old Fritz, was walking about the streets of the city in the unconventional way he affected when he chanced to look through a window and observed a hunchbacked goldsmith hard at work. The king entered the little shop for a chat.

The result of his interview was an order for a gold table service for the royal household, an order that made the fortune of the hunchback. Later his majesty made other visits to the shop to see how the work was advancing, and on one of these occasions he observed a woman in the window of the opposite house contorting her face in the most hideous grimaces and pointing with derisive finger at the crippled workman.

To the king's query as to what ailed the old woman the goldsmith replied: "It is envy, sire. She is the wife of a rival goldsmith, and ever since your majesty so graciously gave me this order she and her daughter have reviled me."

Frederick William, paternal in punishment as well as in reward, at once investigated as to the ownership of the house in which the shrew lived. He found that it belonged to her husband and therefore reasoned that there was little likelihood of the family moving, an idea that seemed greatly to please his majesty. His next move was to consult a sculptor, whom he commanded to make the bust of a woman with the most shrewish, Xantippe-like face he could imagine. The king then bought and renovated the house in which the hunchback had his workshop, presented it to him and caused the bust to be placed conspicuously above the workroom window.

Thus whenever the envious woman across the street looked forth from her enmeshment the first object on which her eyes fell was this intended portrait of her amiable self.

For more than a hundred years the neidkopf—spiteful vixen head, as one would say in English—stood in proud prominence, a reproach to the envious woman and her descendants. It afterward mysteriously disappeared, but in 1840 or thereabouts it was found in a forgotten collection of bric-a-brac. Frederick William IV. bought the bust for a large price and had it replaced in its original niche, where it stands today.—New York Tribune.

The Senate Band.

The press gallery of the senate does not look unlike a band stand, with its elaborately decorated front, and it is never occupied by the scribes prior to the opening of the proceedings. A young lady seated in the gallery opposite the press gallery had been looking intently at the empty seats for quite awhile. Her curiosity got the better of her, and, going to the doorkeeper, she said, "Mister, will you please tell me when the band begins to play?" The doorkeeper was amazed. "No band will play, miss," said that gentleman. "There is no band. Why do you ask?" The young lady looked disappointed and embarrassed when she said, with hesitation, "Isn't that the band stand?" pointing to the press gallery.—Washington Herald.

Bray's Mythical Vicar.

It is curious to reflect that there are scattered about the world many scores of places whose chief claim to distinction consists in their association with some famous ditty or other. Take, for example, the village of Bray, in Berkshire, always associated with the world famous "Vicar of Bray." The most curious part of the business is that, though Fuller, in his "Worthies of England," asserts that the cleric who is the hero of the song was one Simon Alleyne, careful search of the parish registers has failed to substantiate the story.—London Musical Home Journal.

A Strenuous Task.

"Your honor," said the witness, "can't you order a recess?" "A recess?" "Yes, sir. I've stood on this stand and told the whole truth two hours on a stretch, and I'm teetotally wore out! I never told the truth that long before—not in all my life!"—Atlanta Constitution.

SOUVENIR FANATICS.

Nothing is Safe From Those Afflicted With the Craze.

In these enlightened days anything from the limb of a tree to a table napkin is liable to be carried away as a souvenir.

A western girl with a well defined case of the souvenir habit, sojourning in New York, was dining at a fashionable cafe and, being prepossessed in favor of the bubbling pewter cream pots with which the tables were supplied, calmly carried one away in her muff. Can you imagine her self veneration when upon examining her prize later on she discovered carved across the bottom, "Stolen from M. S.?"

A Pittsburgh bachelor, wandering into a restaurant, came upon a friend just seating himself with two ladies. The bachelor was invited to join the party, did so, and at the end of the luncheon insisted upon paying the costs. The bill being wrong, he went to the cashier's desk to personally adjust the discrepancy, where he was informed that the extra charges were for spoons which the ladies had put in their hand bags. And that was the first time he had ever met them!

Upon the occasion of the presentation of a handsome silver service by one of the United States to a battleship which was being christened in her honor an elaborate banquet was served aboard ship, at which the service was used. Society came en masse from the town near which they were anchored, and after the function was over there were not enough forks and spoons with which to lay the tables. And yet these souvenir fanatics would draw their moral skirts aside for fear of contamination with a real thief.—Bertha Reynolds MacDonald in Bohemian Magazine.

ROUND THE CAPITAL

Information and Gossip Picked Up Here and There in Washington.

Virtue That Abides in Clean Linen

WASHINGTON.—The nation's capital is sincere in its crusade for cleanliness, and promises to prove herself a worthy example to the other cities of the land. The activities of Dr. W. C. Woodward the past week have centered in the effort to reform the laundry business of the city.

Every person who launders for pay the clothing, sheets, pillow cases, table cloths or similar articles belonging to any other person will be required to register with the health officer.

"What the health department desires," says Dr. Woodward, "is to bring under better control the many homes of the poorer classes in which washing is done for hire to supplement the scant wage of the head of the household. Too often these houses are in an uncleanly condition.

"And there is reason to believe that in many cases, especially in the summer season, when heating water for washing not only diminishes the profit of the operation, but also adds to the discomfort of the household, the water used is not properly heated, and clothing from various sources is passed successively through the same dirty water; and, moreover, that ironing, which, when efficiently done, is a reasonably safe disinfecting process, is not done in the manner best adapted to the accomplishment of that end.

"And finally, during rainy days in summer, and particularly during inclement weather during the winter season, clothing is hung up or spread about within the living rooms of the premises, often amid foul odors which effectively permeate it, and occasionally on premises occupied in part by patients suffering from communicable diseases.

"While the most effective regulation of the business of laundering cannot be brought about until some system of licensing is established, as is proposed in the pending bill, yet it would seem that it may be possible to facilitate the inspection of places where laundering is done by requiring registration at the health office. If they be registered then they can be systematically inspected, at least from time to time, as lunchrooms and other similar places are now being inspected, instead of being visited only occasionally, in the course of the routine work of the department."

Envoys Notorious as "Tightwads"

UNCLE SAM is getting wise on one point and that is that foreign countries like to have him send millionaires as his representatives to their lands there to spend American gold lavishly, but are disposed to be decidedly niggardly when it comes to their representatives spending money in America.

Secretary Root is credited with being about to turn this situation to good account. Mr. Root resents the position of the foreign governments in requiring money qualification of an American ambassador.

Of course what ambassadors and ministers spend here on private enterprises for their governments cannot be reckoned. But their entertainments and general mode of living are an open page. The man who draws the biggest salary in Washington is James Bryce, who gets $50,000 annually and an additional $10,000 a year for contingent expenses. Mr. Bryce has one of the finest mansions which the capital can boast, completely furnished, with an extra fund to pay for any necessary repairs or new equipment. He has linen, silver and glass at the expense of the British exchequer, and even the liveries of his retainers come from the public fund.

Yet with this vast sum at their disposal, few people live more unpretentiously than the British ambassador and Mrs. Bryce. Their social record during the last winter contained fewer events than any of the immediate predecessors. Mrs. Bryce gave about six small afternoon receptions during the season, when tea and small confections were served.

There were two large evening levees, when practically the whole of Washington's official and social world was entertained. About three formal and pretentious banquets were given by the British ambassador during the winter.

But little more can be placed to the credit of the French ambassador and Mme. Jusserand, second on the list of big salaries. M. Jusserand gets $42,500 a year, about $10,000 for extra expenses. The dean of the corps, the Italian ambassador, Baron Mayor Des Planches, is almost out of the social running.

In view of the loud lamentations about what a hard time American diplomats abroad have to make ends meet, it is said that Secretary Root and some legislators who are in his confidence will present the next complainants with a story of what good managers the diplomats who live in Washington have proved themselves.

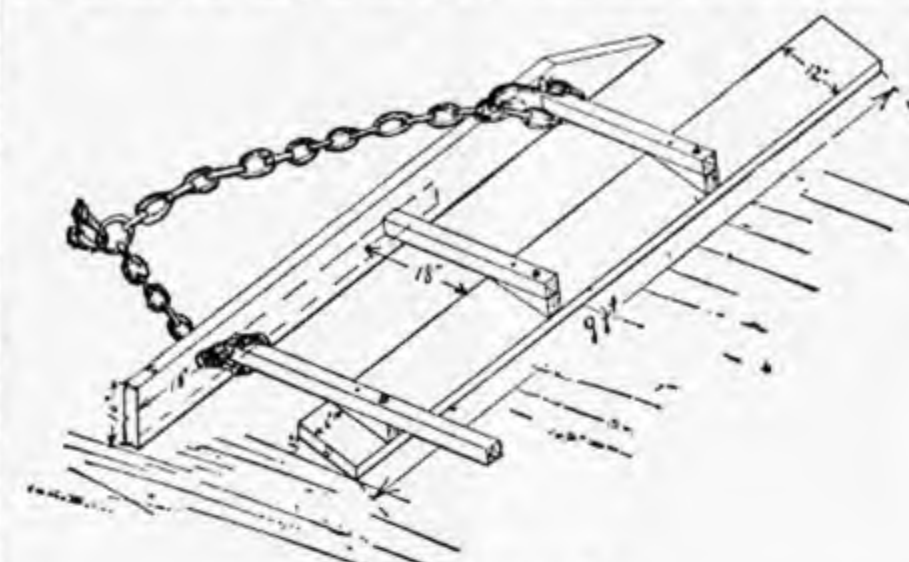

BETTER METHODS THAT WOULD MAKE FOR BETTER ROADS

Waste of Energies and Funds Responsible for Many Poor Country Highways—By H. H. Gross, Secretary Good Roads League.

The requisite for material improvement in any direction is not necessarily boundless resources. It is often only a judicious manipulation of the means at hand. The watchword of the business world to-day is "results," and the ratio of "results" to opportunity and resources measures success. The keynote is economy, whether it is in time, energy, money or material. Therefore the first step in road work, as in any other problem, is to do the right thing in the right lowers the road to settle and be worn hard and smooth before the frost enters the ground. A split log road drag or its equivalent may be used at any season of the year immediately after rains, but with this exception no work on earth roads should be permitted after July 1. The split log road drag may be easily made on the farm for $2.50 or five dollars and will serve the purpose just as well as a factory made one costing five or six times that amount.

Work done upon earth roads in the

An Improved Road Drag.

The King drag as usually constructed works well if the soil is in just the right condition. It is a truly valuable implement. But it sometimes leaves clods which the operator, and especially the user of the road wishes had been crushed. An improvement was made when J. L. Pelham, then connected with the Fort Hays experiment station, now an instructor in the Western Normal school at Hays, set the rear plank in such position as to make a crusher and smoother of it. This is well illustrated in the above drawing which scarcely needs explanation. One advantage of this improved drag is its light draft. It may be operated by two heavy horses. Three ordinary horses draw it readily.

way—to spend the available funds in the most efficient manner possible.

The most disastrous stumbling block to the advancement of road building is the lamentable examples we have on every hand not only of incompetent and negligent administration in the matter of highway supervision, but untold waste of the funds through improper and inefficient methods and cumbersome and absolute laws. Of the $5,000,000 expended annually in Illinois for roads and bridges, probably one-half of the portion expended upon roads is as good as wasted; and what is true of Illinois is largely true of other states. Small wonder that taxpayers are disgusted. Men tire of pouring water into a rat-hole unless they can get the rat. The taxpayer wants to see something for his money, and he is right.

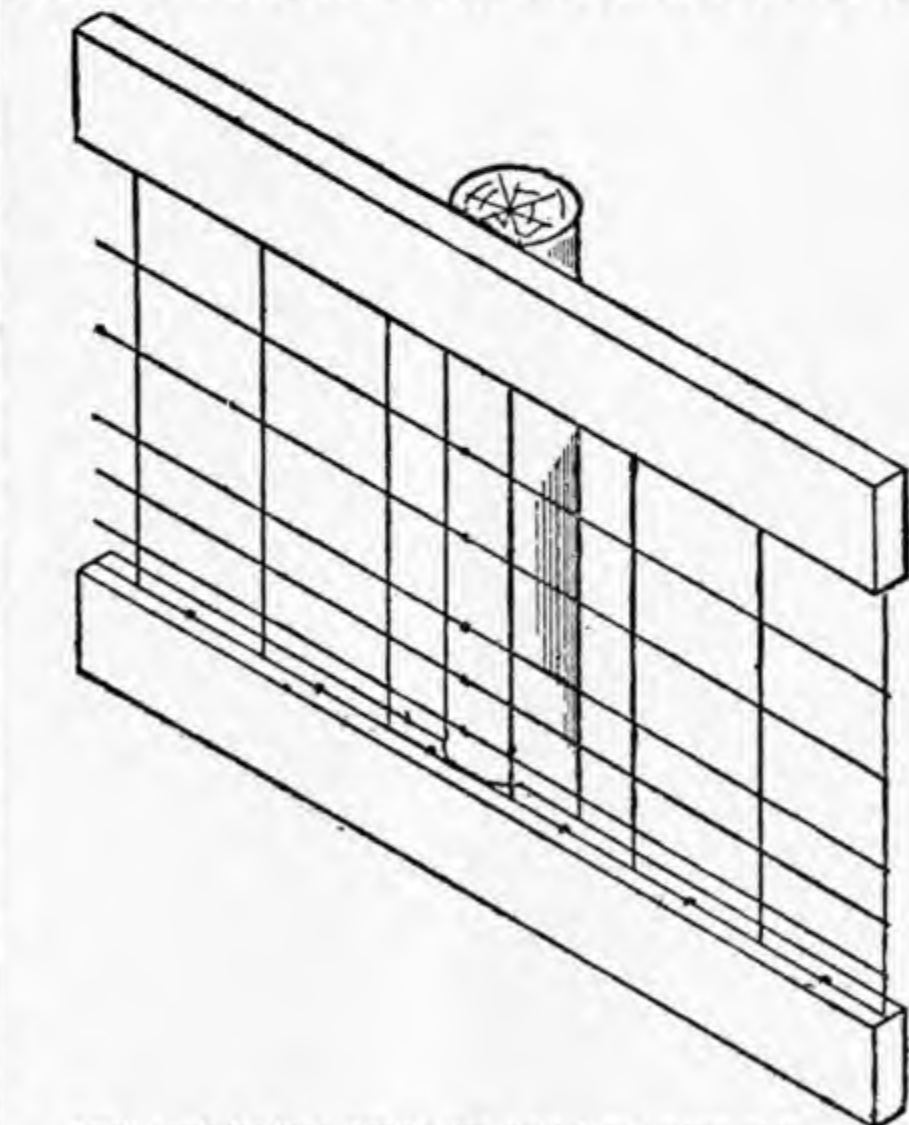

In the maintenance of earth roads, the weather conditions are an important factor. The spring is the one and only season of the year when the surface should be disturbed. This al-fall is not only of no avail, but often does much actual damage, and millions of dollars have been wasted in this manner. The farmers, in some districts, are permitted to work out their road tax, and in this way they put in their time without proper supervision, entirely irrespective of results. This is usually done late in the year, and so, of course, insures bad conditions throughout the winter.

In several states, highway commissions have been authorized by the legislatures, and these are doing splendid work in conducting a campaign of practical education on road building and maintenance.

Further than this, the national government offers valuable assistance in road construction through the public roads office of the department of agriculture—an office created and maintained for the betterment of highway conditions. Its bulletins may be had for the asking, by addressing L. W. Page, director public roads office, Washington, D. C.

THE CLOVER LEAF WEEVIL

By Prof. J. T. Folsom.

The first injury from the clover leaf weevil is seen the latter part of March in the form of little round holes in the clover leaves. On the ground under the rubbish you will find little green grubs curled head to tail; at night they crawl to the plant and do the damage. In June these grubs turn to beetles and do more damage by stripping the leaves. This insect constantly threatens the plant but rarely does serious damage. In moist weather a fungous disease sweeps it off like magic. If the grubs are present in alarming numbers in the spring, cut the clover early, or pasture it a little, or clip it back in May or early June.

PASS CONGO TREATY

BELGIAN DEPUTIES ADOPT THE ANNEXATION MEASURE.

BITTER STRUGGLE CLOSES

Atrocities and Maladministration in King Leopold's African Realm Now Probably Will Come to an End.

Brussels.—After several months of bitter struggle, the chamber of deputies Thursday adopted the Congo annexation treaty by 83 votes to 55, and although this action probably will insure the solution of the great Congo problem, there still remains open the important question of Belgium's financial responsibility.

This action on the part of the chamber had not been expected and at the last moment nearly caused the collapse of the cabinet. The colonial bill, which also was adopted, was amended so as to relieve Belgium of the responsibility of guaranteeing the payment of interest on the Congo debt, despite the efforts of the government.

At the conclusion of a long meeting of King Leopold and the members of his cabinet it was announced that the ministry would not resign, the government temporarily accepting the chamber's action on the financial question.

The passage of the Congo treaty means that the annexation of the state to Belgium is now practically assured, as the senate and King Leopold are ready to indorse the bill. The personal rule of King Leopold in Africa is now drawing to a close—in the future he will have nothing to do with the state which is to be administered by Belgium—and the hope is wide-spread that there will now be an end to the atrocities and maladministration in this part of the world which, for years past, has been a subject of investigation and bitter complaint by humanitarians all over the world.

Last year Great Britain and the United States about decided to interfere in the Congo administration unless the situation there improved.

BISHOP McQUAID COLLAPSES.

Dramatic Scene When Aged Prelate Faints at Rochester, N. Y.

Rochester, N. Y.—At the close of the banquet with which the exercises of the new hall of theology at St. Bernard's seminary were concluded Thursday afternoon, Bishop Bernard J. McQuaid suddenly collapsed, and it was feared that death was imminent. The exercises involved the celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the bishop's episcopate and the sixtieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

After talking a few minutes, the bishop suddenly said:

"I would like to say more, but I feel that my strength is failing me."

With this he became unconscious and the clergy, stunned by the shock, involuntarily knelt in prayer. Dr. Simpson administered two hypodermic injections. Conductor Bishop Thomas F. Hickey prepared to administer extreme unction, but Bishop McQuaid regained consciousness within a few minutes and slowly revived. At eight o'clock Dr. Simpson said he was in no immediate danger of death.

COAL PRICES MAY ADVANCE.

New Company That Plans to Control St. Louis Supply.

St. Louis.—Announcement was made Thursday that a corporation is being formed to be known as the Commonwealth Fuel company, embracing 153 Illinois coal mines within a radius of 50 miles of St. Louis, supplying practically all the coal consumed in St. Louis and in East St. Louis.

It is stated the new combination proposes not only to control the output of the mines, but also to control the prices. According to dealers, if the negotiations are consummated an increase of ten to fifteen per cent. in the price of coal may be expected, meaning an increase of from $600,000 to $1,000,000 in the coal bill of St. Louis and East St. Louis.

Lusitania Sets a New Record.

The Lusitania's former record, which was also the ocean record, was 4 days, 18 hours and 40 minutes.

Are Turning from Whisky to Beer

FROM the preliminary report of the commissioner of internal revenue it is apparent that the consumption of whisky and other ardent spirits is on the decrease and that the consumption of beer is increasing. During the fiscal year which ended on June 30, last, $131,789,242 was paid to the government as revenue on whisky and other spirituous liquors. For the year previous $147,550,281 was paid, a loss in revenue of $15,761,038. There was distilled during the year which ended June 30, last, 119,808,402 gallons of distilled spirits, a decrease over the previous year of 14,333,672 gallons.

During the past year 58,747,650 barrels of beer, ale, etc., were made, a gain of 201,569 over the preceding year. On this beer, ale, etc., the government received as revenue the sum of $58,747,680, a gain of $201,569.

The receipts from all sources of internal revenue for the year aggregated $251,665,950, being a decrease of $17,998,072 from the receipts for the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1907.

Tobacco of all sorts yielded a revenue of $49,862,754, a loss of $1,948,215, the figures of the year which ended June 30, 1907, being $51,811,069. This year cigars contributed a total sum of $20,714,276; little cigars, $545,050, and cigarettes, $4,879,346, and tobacco of other kinds, including chewing and smoking, $21,846,563.

Oleomargarine paid revenue to the extent of $954,304, a gain of $65,663 over the previous year. This represents 79,107,302 pounds consumed.

Renovated butter was a close second to oleomargarine, 50,240,708 pounds being manufactured, upon which $125,601 revenue was paid.

Filled cheese paid $1,271; mixed flour, $2,380. Playing cards were taxed for $549,810, a loss of $112,904 for the preceding year.

Would Make Work of Mining Safe

THE great number of mine accidents and the appalling loss of life therefrom has prompted the United States government to invite Great Britain, Germany and Belgium to send their leading experts in such matters to this country to co-operate with the efforts now being made through the United States geological survey to establish an experimental station at Pittsburgh and to inaugurate the work there of testing explosives used in coal mining. Congress at its last session appropriated $150,000 for this purpose, and this sum has been turned over to the survey.

It is said that abroad mine explosives are tested, and those which are deemed standard for the purpose of mining are labeled "permissible."

There is no such condition here, nor has the geological survey the right to impose it. It may, however, endeavor to ascertain the facts by investigation, and then set them forth for the benefit of mine operators and for the information of state legislatures.

Last year 3,200 men were killed in the mines and the year before 2,061. The rate for 1906 was 3.34 for every thousand men employed, while for 1907 it was still greater. In four mines alone nearly 500 men were killed since last December—356 in the disaster at Monongah, W. Va., said to be the most appalling, so far as the loss of life is concerned, in the history of mining; 25 more in the disaster at the Darr mine, in Pennsylvania; 32 in the Naomi mine, in Pennsylvania, and 61 in the Yolande mine, in Alabama.

The experts who will come to this country are Capt. Desborough, inspector of explosives under the home office, Great Britain; Herr Meissner, chief of the German mine service, and Victor Watteyne, engineer-in-chief, administration of mines, Belgium.

SPRINGFIELD'S FIERCE RIOT RESULTS IN SIX DEATHS

Terrible Race War Makes Necessary Calling Out of Nearly All of Illinois National Guard and the Troops Repress All Further Outbreaks.

Springfield.—Only two regiments of state troops were left in Springfield Thursday night. At a conference in the governor's office Wednesday night it was decided to release the Second Infantry from riot duty Thursday, in addition to the Third and Fifth regiments whose departure had been scheduled to follow the release of the First and Fourth regiments Wednesday.

The troops which remain on guard here are the Seventh Infantry and eight troops of the First cavalry.

The conference was between Gen. E. C. Young and Gov. Deneen. The former pointed out that with conditions in their present satisfactory state the expense of keeping the large body of troops here is useless and asserted that one regiment of infantry and one of cavalry can take care of any riotous demonstrations which may arise.

Plans were also completed for the delivery to the civil authorities of Joseph B. Klein, the Chicago private of Company A, First Infantry, who stabbed Earl Nelson with a bayonet at Kankakee while the regiment was en route to Springfield. The surrender of Klein will be made according to military regulations in such instances. Company L of the Third Infantry being detailed as an escort for the prisoner.

Six on the Death Roll.

Springfield, Ill.—Two more deaths on Sunday and one Monday from injuries received in mob fights increased to six the fatalities resulting from the terrible rioting and race war that raged in Springfield Friday night and Saturday.

William Donnigan, the aged colored man whose throat was cut Saturday night, expired at 11 a. m. Frank Delmore, who was shot through the lungs on Friday night, passed away an hour later.

Monday night J. W. Scott succumbed to a gunshot wound in the lungs received Friday night.

More Trouble if Bowe Dies.

Another death is expected momentarily. W. H. Bowe, chief clerk in the county treasurer's office and one of the most popular citizens of Springfield, is slowly sinking from the effects of the bullet wounds and the beating which he lay night. Bowe's friends have warned the authorities that "Billy" will be avenged and the event of his death will cause a redoubling of vigilance by the troops' commanders.

Evidence is not lacking that many citizens who were known to have important testimony regarding the mob and its leaders have been deterred from offering this to the state's attorney because of threats of violence made against them last night.

Loot from Stores Recovered.

The gathering of evidence began in earnest Monday. Policemen in plain clothes were sent to search the houses of prisoners and suspects, and as a result the police station looked like a general store. Groceries, hardware, clothing, dry goods and shoes were recovered in great quantities, most of them bearing the price tags of the looted business houses. Naturally ments, I. N. G., and two squadrons of the First cavalry, all from Chicago, the entire National Guard of Illinois, with the exception of the Sixth Infantry and the Eighth Infantry (colored) was on duty in the riot-ridden districts Sunday night. In all, 4,200 guardsmen are in the city.

Private J. B. Klein, Company A, First Infantry, killed a young man named Earl Nelson at Kankakee, and his case was considered Sunday by a regimental court of inquiry, which

MAJOR GENERAL YOUNG.

In Command of Troops at Springfield. Reported to Adj. Gen. Scott that Klein's act was performed in the strict line of duty.

Following is a list of the dead:

The Dead.

William Donnigan, negro, 60 years old, lynched by mob.

Scott Burton, 65 years old, negro, lynched by mob.

John Caldwell, shot in stomach by militia.

J. W. Scott, 70 years old, shot during rioting.

Louis Johnson, 17 years old, shot during rioting.

Night of Wild Riot.

From the early attack of the mob on the Loper restaurant in the business district of the city Friday night, there developed rapidly as the morning wore on the most vicious race war that Illinois has ever experienced.

The red torch of anarchy was carried through the disreputable districts and applied to the homes of the negroes, good and bad, without discrimination.

The night was made hideous with the volleys of gun fire by reckless men and the demoniacal screams and shouts of drunken men thirst for blood and destruction.

The sum total of the night's work was the destruction of the Loper restaurant, the complete ruin of 25 or 30 small places of business on East Washington street and the burning of 50 houses in the residence district where the negroes had congregated.

The story of Friday night runs in four chapters: The looting of the Loper restaurant and the killing of a boy, Louis Johnson; the demolition of the stores and business houses of the negroes on East Washington street; the burning of homes in the black belt, and finally the wanton murder of a negro and the stringing of his body over a burning building with the intention of watching it consumed in the flames.

Militia Fail to Stop Rioting.

The declaration of martial law and the presence of 3,000 militia in the city failed to check the mob spirit.

After smoldering all day, the flames of riot blazed up again at night, the lynching of an 80-year-old negro being the first act of violence.

William Donnigan, once a friend of Abraham Lincoln, and for more than 50 years a citizen of Springfield, was the latest victim of the racial warfare resulting from the assault upon Mrs. Earl Hallam, a young white woman, by a negro Thursday night.

Donnigan was brutally beaten by the mob, hanged to a tree, and otherwise mistreated.

Late Saturday night the residence of Rev. G. M. McDaniel, 1144 North Seventh street, a colored preacher, was torn down by a mob. The preacher and his family were not in the house at the time of the attack. In the afternoon they had been served with a notice to clear the city at once.

Wounded Kept in Hiding.

The amount of fighting there was Friday night and early Saturday morning and the exact number of wounded may never be known. The ambulances and livery rigs were busy all night carrying wounded men to St. John's hospital or their homes.

The temper of the mob was terrific and the storm they started unquenchable. The fire department was not allowed to make runs to burning homes of negroes. Men ran into the street and grabbed horses' bits. Others cut the hose. The department had to content itself with holding fires from spreading to homes of white men.

Illinois Central trains were not allowed to run through the city. The officials were afraid the rioters would break into the cars and kill the colored porters.

Guns were taken away from the members of the Springfield company of militia as they marched down the street.

Desultory fighting was going on in several parts of the city while the main crowd, 10,000 strong, was tearing up the negro quarter.

Prominent Man Beaten by Negroes.

A sign of the feelings with which the blacks regarded all whites was given when William H. Bowe, chief clerk in the county treasurer's office, narrowly escaped being lynched by a band of negroes while on the way to his home early Saturday morning. With two companions he had gone to the district known as the "bad lands" to see the devastation wrought by the flames. As they were leaving a dozen negroes confronted Bowe and his friends and ordered them to halt.

Bowe alone obeyed the order, the others running away. After probably fatally shooting Bowe his assailants robbed him of jewelry, tearing a diamond ring from his finger.

Joe Farmer, one of the gang, recognized Bowe and pleaded with the others not to lynch him. Only for this he probably would have been killed.

Mayor Issues Proclamation.

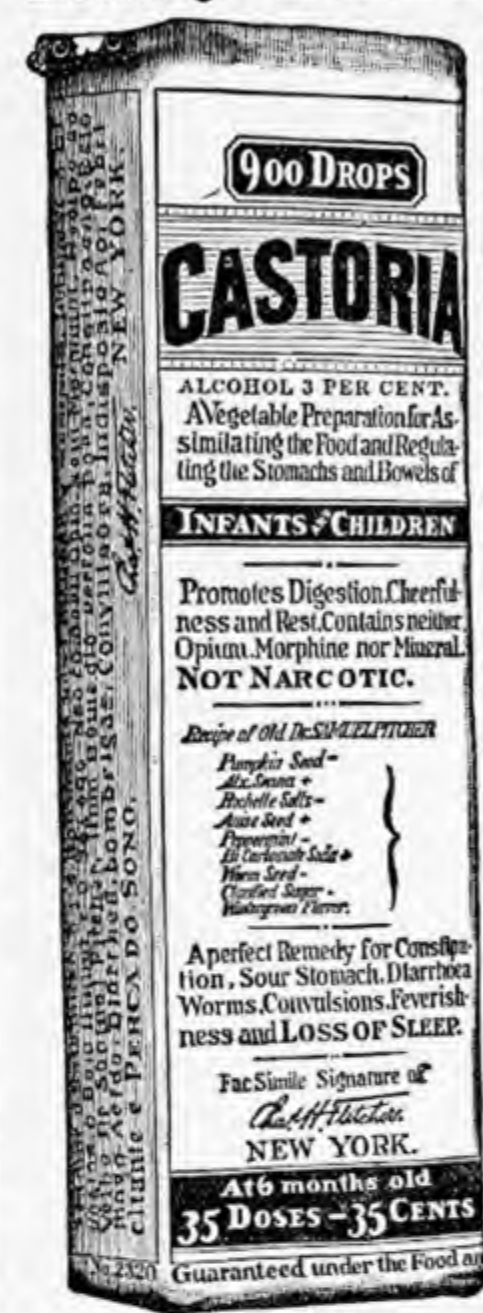

In an effort to reduce the crowds on the street to a minimum, Mayor Reece on Saturday issued a proclamation requesting all good citizens to remain at their homes and not to congregate on the streets, and thereby lend strength to the turbulent element.

Mayor Reece also requested all business houses and stores, with the ex-

Dr. F. Gerald Blattner, of Buffalo, N. Y., says: "Your Castoria is good for children and I frequently prescribe it, always obtaining the desired results."

Dr. Gustave A. Eisengraeber, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "I have used your Castoria repeatedly in my practice with good results, and can recommend it as an excellent, mild and harmless remedy for children."

Dr. R. J. Dennis, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have used and prescribed your Castoria in my sanitarium and outside practice for a number of years and find it to be an excellent remedy for children."

Dr. S. A. Buchanan, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have used your Castoria in the case of my own baby and find it pleasant to take, and have obtained excellent results from its use."

Dr. J. E. Simpson, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."

Dr. R. E. Eskildson, of Omaha, Neb., says: "I find your Castoria to be a standard family remedy. It is the best thing for infants and children I have ever known and I recommend it."

Dr. L. R. Robinson, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria certainly has merit. Is not its age, its continued use by mothers through all these years, and the many attempts to imitate it, sufficient recommendation? What can a physician add? Leave it to the mothers."

Dr. Edwin F. Pardee, of New York City, says: "For several years I have recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."

Dr. N. B. Sizer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what ingredients are put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use."

BABY CRIED AND SCRATCHED

All the Time—Covered with Torturing Eczema—Doctor Said Sores Would Last for Years—Perfect Cure by Cuticura.

"My baby niece was suffering from that terrible torture, eczema. It was all over her body but the worst was on her face and hands. She cried and scratched all the time and could not sleep night or day from the scratching. I had her under the doctor's care for a year and a half and he seemed to do her no good. I took her to the best doctor in the city and he said that she would have the sores until she was six years old. But if I had depended on the doctor my baby would have lost her mind and died from the want of aid. But I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and she was cured in three months. Alice L. Why He Felt Sad.

"Young man," said the stern old broker, "I find that you slipped off yesterday afternoon and went to the ball game. Don't you feel bad about it?"
"Indeed I do, boss," confessed Tommy.

"Ah! That's one consolation."
"Yes, I felt bad 'cause the home team lost."

The Spider and the Fly.

In the long warfare between the spider and the fly, the latter has had the housewife for its auxiliary and friend. The flies have been tolerated, even fed and nurtured, while the spiders and their webs have been ruthlessly destroyed. This unrelenting and unrelenting war against it keeps the spider population down, while the flies increase and multiply by the millions and ten of millions, almost unchecked. The spider is ugly and his web is unsightly in the estimation of most people, but spiders hurt no human creature. They feed on flies, which are the foes of mankind, and do mankind a service.—Philadelphia Press.

Laws That Hurt Holland.

Holland is not a poor country; as a matter of fact it is the third richest, proportionately, of all Europe. Its wealth is forcibly spread over its tiny surface, for lawmaking has prevented undue accumulation and quashed the small capitalist. When the father and mother dies, the farm, business, whatever the little property may happen to be is at once cut up, smashed to pieces, flung on the market at any price; the proceeds are compulsorily divided among the children.

Retort Courteous.

Admiral Lord Charles Beresford has sat in parliament on several occasions. At York, one evening, after having addressed a political gathering, a famous politician who had veered round on the home rule question approached him and said: "Admirable speech, Beresford; very good, indeed. I didn't think you could do it. You don't look like a statesman." "Perhaps not," was the bluff sailor's retort. "No more do you look like a weathercock." —Bellman.

PIONEERS AT THE LAKE.

The Beginning of Lake Maxinkuckee as a Summer Resort.

Lake Maxinkuckee is now the Saratoga of Indiana, but some persons now living can remember when there were not more than two farm houses on the borders of the lake. In 1873 there were two fishing parties from Indianapolis at the lake. One of these was composed of Gen. G. F. McGinnis, J. H. Holiday, Col. N. R. Ruckle, Harry Adams, John D. Nicholas and Charles M. Walker. The other party included Gen. John Colburn, Henry D. Colburn, Jeremiah Wilson and Robert L. McQuat. At that time the lake was reached by an overland wagon drive from Argos, and of the two farm houses on its shores one was owned by Peter Spangler and the other by a Mr. Peeples. The lake was full of fish.

The members of the second party were so impressed by the beauties of the lake that they talked of establishing a summer resort there, and they tentatively bargained with Mr. Peeples for his farm of 45 acres at $40 an acre. Just then, however, the panic of 1873 came on and the matter was stopped. Subsequently it was taken up by John L. Vajon, Mr. McQuat and one or two others, and the Peeples' farm bought at the price named. Since then single lots have been sold at almost the cost of the whole farm.—Exchange.

Baptized Over Two Hundred.

A singular feat was performed at Bremen when Rev. N. L. Stambaugh, formerly pastor of the U. B. church of this city, but now stationed at Bremen, baptized 219 persons. From the time Rev. Stambaugh started in he never once left the water until the entire number were baptized, and the ceremony lasted an hour and a half.—Rochester Sentinel.

Again Lost Sight Of.

The promoters of the South Bend Indianapolis traction company which had offices here in the Baldwin block have not yet returned, although they were due here today according to a promise one of them made. They made a survey to Frankfort and then J. H. Keller, trustee, sold the franchise, and this seems to have stopped proceedings.—Logansport Pharos.

Sale of a Church.

The building and grounds of the English Lutheran church were sold at sheriff's sale, the Farmers State bank being the purchaser. There is about $1200 indebtedness. It is understood that the property will pass into the hands of the United Brethren church and that a class will be organized here at once.—Knox Republican.

FAIR

At Rochester, Sept. 2 to 5

Everything points toward a good exhibit in all of the departments.

Splendid free attractions each day. The Rochester, Athens, Akron, Tiosa and Macy bands will furnish plenty of good music.

Our race track has been resealed and is in fine condition. Every effort is being put forth to make the races one of the good features of the fair.

Don't forget Old Soldiers' Day, Thursday, the 3d.

The management want your patronage. Send an exhibit. Come and spend at least a day or two at the fair.

All school children admitted free on Thursday, Sept. 3.

Remember it is next week.

E. C. MERCER, Secretary.
