W.O. Osborn To Receive Award

CULVER ACADEMIES HONOR LOCAL BANKER

Culver Military Academy and the Culver Academy for Girls will present their Distinguished Service Award to William O. Osborn, president and board chairman of The State Exchange Bank of Culver, following the Academies' annual Memorial Service in the Culver Memorial Chapel at 11:00 a.m. Sunday, May 26th. Mr. Osborn will be the featured speaker during the chapel service and will receive an engraved gold sash during a full garrison parade of Culver Military Academy cadets at 12:30 p.m.

The award recognizes a long and thriving association between two institutions in a small Midwestern town - a bank that has gained national acclaim and a school that has achieved international prominence.

In announcing the approaching presentation, Lt. Gen. John W. Carpenter III, superintendent of the Academies, said, "We are pleased to offer this award to Mr. Osborn for his extraordinary contributions to the Academies over the past 65 years - or more. The Academies have been most fortunate to count on him as a friend and supporter during these years, and his loyalty, interest and cooperation have contributed significantly to the success of the schools."

Responding to Gen. Carpenter's announcement of his selection, Mr. Osborn said, "I consider this award one of the most outstanding events of my life. I want you to know I fully appreciate my associations with you as well as the Culver Academies and the entire Culver family."

Mr. Osborn's association with the Academies and the Culver family spans the entire history of the schools. As a young boy growing up in the town of Culver, he delivered newspapers to the school's founder, Henry Harrison Culver, during the 1890's. He watched and participated in the growth of Culver Military Academy since its founding in 1894 and the subsequent creation of six Culver Summer Schools, the Special Camps and the Culver Academy for Girls.

Graduating from Culver High

School in 1905, Mr. Osborn became a cashier at the Exchange Bank. One of 240 privately owned banks operating in Indiana at the time, the bank's total resources were about $62,000. Sensing the need for better legal information in bank management as an adjunct to growth, he studied in his free time and was admitted to the Indiana Bar in 1912. He became a partner in the bank in 1912 and rose to its presidency in 1951. Growing under his leadership, The State Exchange Bank now has resources totalling more than $125 million.

Speaking before the Wisconsin State Bankers Association, Mr. Osborn pointed out, "To successfully operate a bank, Goodwill must be maintained. I am a firm believer that our banks belong to our communities and that the communities in which our banks exist have a right to expect a bank to be more than a depository."

The steady growth from a tiny bank to one of national prestige, now rated in the top eight percent nationally in terms of deposits and the only Indiana bank ranked in the top 100 in terms of agricultural loans, has been attributed to "Will" Osborn's leadership in customer services and employee benefits. The State Exchange Bank has become known as "The Bank That Good WILL Built."

Among the first chartered in Indiana, The State Exchange Bank has pioneered many banking services and developments. Mr. Osborn established what is probably Indiana's first bank holding company, the State Exchange Finance Co., in 1923, which enabled the State Exchange to expand banking services to Argos, Plymouth and the Farmers State Bank in LaPaz. Following the nation-wide banking moratorium in March, 1933, The State Exchange Bank was the only Marshall County bank permitted to re-open as a Class A Bank on an unrestricted basis. During the Depression the bank never borrowed, restricted deposits, cut salaries or skipped a dividend. Losses on loans were less than one-tenth of one percent, and there were no foreclosures.

Bank customers have always shared in the policy of no service charges or minimum balance requirements on checking accounts, no charge for personalized checks, maximum interest and broad financing services. The State Exchange Bank pioneered in crop and feed loans, life insurance coverage on loans, Christmas Savings Club, drive-in banking, customer field service representatives and support of youth projects. The bank also pioneered group insurance coverage and dividend bonuses as employee benefits.

Since 1963, Mr. Osborn has served as a member of The Culver Educational Foundation's board of directors, actively lending his expertise to assist in key board decisions. Concerning the Academies, Mr. Osborn says, "These are the finest secondary schools anywhere. A young person can obtain the best in preparation for life, and the beautiful campus, top quality instruction and fine surroundings make the Culver Academies a great asset to our area."

BLOODMOBILE WILL BE HERE TUESDAY, MAY 21ST

A quota of 100 pints has been set for Culver when the Red Cross Bloodmobile visits here on Tuesday, May 21st, from 12:00 noon to 6:00 p.m. The Bloodmobile will be stationed at Fellowship Hall of Wesley United Methodist Church.

Blood donations are needed for many reasons. Disasters causing injury to many persons, such as the recent tornadoes that hit the area, can strike at any time. Surgery aid other patients with severe medical problems such as leukemia are constantly in need of blood. Newborn babies are often in need of transfusions. Our community needs to be ready to help out at a moment's notice in such cases. The Red Cross Bloodmobile is the most convenient and efficient way for the members of the community to fill this need.

Donating blood is easy. Donors should be between the ages of 18 and 65. Females must weigh at least 110 pounds, males, at least 125 pounds. Donations can be made if at least eight weeks have elapsed since the last donation, and no more than five donations may be made within a calendar year. And, of course, donors should be in good health; a good night's rest before donating blood is recommended. The actual donation of blood is painless, and it's a great way to give the whole community a hand.

This year, Mrs. Lloyd Holfield will be in charge of the Bloodmobile. Culver organizations who will be helping out are the Culver City Club, Culver Extension Homemakers Club, Culver Hospital Auxiliary, Culver Jaycees, Tri Kappa, Maxinkuckee Junior Women's Club, and many individuals. The most important job, however, will be done by the people of the community who come to the church and roll up their sleeves, and it is hoped that the community will show their concern for each other by doing so.

Persons in need of more information are urged to call Mrs. Lloyd Holfield at 842-2143, or Mrs. Donald Muehlhausen at 842-3512.

FOOD STAMP OFFICE STAFF IN CULVER NEXT WEDNESDAY

Because the Marshall County Food Stamp Office staff will be attending an area meeting all day Tuesday, May 14th, they will be in Culver at the Town Hall on Wednesday, May 15th, from 9:00 to 11:30 a.m.

And The Band Played On..

A week ago last Saturday the Senior Band from Culver Community High School was awarded a First Division rating at the annual contest sponsored by the Northern Indiana State Band, Orchestra and Vocal Association. We congratulate the band members, their parents, and the director of the CCHS Band Department, Charles Byfield.

We would also like to commend the Board of Trustees, and the Superintendent, for their support of the music program. Without administrative support, our music program would not be where it is today.

Music departments are one of those parts of a school system that seem to exist in larger school systems. Many schools the size of CCHS offer no music programs at all, or at best only a marginal level of music education.

That is why we are especially proud of the performance of our band. Not only did the judges award a First Division rating — they also praised our musicians and their conductor on their score sheets. The Citizen was able to obtain these comments, all signed, from the three judges who graded the band's performance, and also from the judging of the band's skills at performing a previously unseen work of music. The following comments speak for themselves. They are what judges from other areas thought of our band, and our director.

Obviously WELL TAUGHT band. Good band style. Excellent band sound. ... It was a pleasure to hear your group. Keep up the good work - the school and community should be proud of this group.

I like the confidence with which the band plays (as a band).

I have certainly enjoyed judging this fine musical group at Culver. The community, students, school administration, and teachers can certainly feel and be proud of their playing of their band and band director, Mr. Charles Byfield. My congratulations to you. Best band today. Keep up the fine work. (This judge gave the CCHS band a perfect score)

ADAM AND FALLEN MAN

Isaiah 2:22 - Cease ye from man, whose breath is in his nostrils; for wherein is he to be accounted of? This is the Golden Text used with the above subject in the Lesson-sermon for study in Christian Science this week.

The lesson includes the creation of the spiritual man in God's image and likeness from Genesis 1; then, after the mist arose, see Genesis 2:6, we find the opposite creation—the material man.

Mary Baker Eddy writes in the Christian Science Textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures: "The Science of being furnishes the rule of perfection, and brings immortality to light. God and man are not the same, but in the order of divine Science, God and man coexist and are eternal. God is the parent Mind, and man is God's spiritual offspring."

All are welcome to the public lecture tonight, May 9th, at 8:00 p.m. by Mr. Kenyon of London, England, given in the Christian Science Church, 428 South Michigan Street, Plymouth.

A painting by Miss Terry Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, Culver, is on display in the Ball State University Art Gallery.

Dr. Murphy, a painting instructor at BSU, selected Miss Smith's painting to be eligible for placement in the art show. The director of the Art Gallery then determined which works would be entered in the Ball State Art Students Exhibit, on display April 7th through 28th.

The painting, titled "Body in Motion," is of a snow skier painted in the abstract. The colors and medium used on this 40" by 50" painting were blue, yellow and white acrylic paint.

Plaster, wood, and soft sculptures, paintings, drawings, photographs, and paintings of other students are also entered in the show. These works by BSU art students are considered to be the best in their particular field.

Strawberry Festival Proceeds Build New Fire House

Once again, the people of Aubbeenaubee Township are making plans for the Strawberry Festival held each year in Leiters Ford. This year's celebration is scheduled for June 8th.

The Festival is held each year to benefit the Aubbeenaubee Township Volunteer Fire Department, and proceeds are being used to complete the new fire house, which will be ready for use in the near future.

The cafeteria-style supper which is a traditional part of the festival will be held in the new fire house the evening of Festival Day. The festival draws 15 to 20,000 visitors annually, so plans are always made on a pretty large scale! This year, visitors will meet Miss Karen Rogers, Miss Indiana of 1973, who will speak during the evening program. The Rudy Varju Family will also appear. Miss Annette Severns, 1973 Festival Queen, and Governor Otis Bowen will be on hand to crown the Queen of the 1974 Festival.

Entries for the Festival Queen competition are now being accepted. Girls between the ages of 15 and 18 years who are residents of Aubbeenaubee Township may enter the contest. The contestants will be honored at a tea to be held June 3rd at the home of Mrs. Wayne Roe of Leiters Ford. At that time, the name of the winner will become a secret until her coronation at the climax of the festivities Saturday evening. Entries may be sent to Mrs. James R. Kline, Route 4, Rochester 46975. Mrs. Kline is the chairman of the queen contest committee.

Following a parade at 6:30 p.m., the evening program will begin on the giant stage located on the school grounds, adjacent to the fire house. There will be prizes for floats and trophies and ribbons for other parade entries. Entries should be made by phone or letter to Parade Committee members Ralph Stayton, Bob Lancaster, or Jack Croy, all in Leiters Ford. First prize for the best float will be $50.00, second prize $25.00, and third prize $10.00. A square dance with live music will begin at 9:00 p.m.

This is what little girls are made of.

Every minute, three billion cells in a little girls' body are being replaced by new ones.

The material for each new cell comes from the nutrients in the food she eats. What these nutrients do once they reach her body, and what they do with each other will make her different from every other little girl.

Her life depends on nutrition. She'll grow to live life well or ill because of it. We study nutrition. And we've learned that although poverty is the chief cause of malnutrition, it isn't the only cause.

Almost half of us are under-nourished. And through nothing more than a lack of knowledge about the food we eat.

Every day we're learning more. You should learn more too.

To give you some basic information and valuable guides to preparing meals and diets, we've put together a book entitled "Food Is More Than Just Something to Eat"

Write for it. Nutrition, Pueblo, Colorado 81009. And we'll send it to you.

Dear School Patron:

As the month of May opens, our sports season is in full swing with boys breaking records in track, the baseball team winning more and more games and the golf team working full speed. We're excited about closing the current school year and perhaps even more excited about some of the projected plans for the fall term.

As I write this letter I have just completed looking at the first pictures back on this year's school annual. The school annual is always full of many memories to many people and the book this year as usual is most revealing. Much credit goes to its sponsor Miss Ruth Shanks for hurriedly organizing the staff and putting the book together. This year for the first time in a few years, the book will be a spring delivered one rather than a fall book. Although there are the disadvantages of not quite getting all of the spring activities, the advantages of a spring book far outnumber any weighed with a fall book. In the first place, the seniors are graduating now and they are full of anticipation about pictures and activities. The enjoyment in receiving a book the week of graduation cannot be measured. When fall arrives, other activities have come into their lives. By putting out a spring book the school can close all of its accounts financially instead of waiting until fall when the class is widely scattered and there are new teachers often even new administration to try to settle money problems. So this year's book will soon arrive on the scene and all of us connected with it, hope that everyone will find it to be interesting to look at.

Commencement will soon be upon us. Our speaker this year is Dean of Students at Northwood Institute located at French Lick, Indiana. Senior activities are always gala affairs; the band the caps and gowns plus the festive occasions connected with the closing of the school year. Announcements are currently being made concerning awards and this class has certainly earned its share. Although I am not thoroughly acquainted with past Culver class histories, one thing is certain...this year's graduating class has kept all traditions in the Academic and activity account. They have represented the school well during their senior year.

We're looking forward to some other affairs during the closing month; the junior class is sponsoring a variety show. We hope you'll plan to attend the show on Thursday night May 16; the high school band trip to Holland and Greenfield Michigan will put our school community on the map literally speaking as thousands of people will see the Culver band in action. We hope a good many people from the local area will travel to one of the two sites to see the band plus all of the other attractions connected with the Tulip Festival and/or the Greenfield County Fair.

Last of all we hope you regularly listen to the Culver radio program each Sunday afternoon. We've had some very good programs in recent weeks and plan to continue them each Sunday throughout the summer months as we endeavor to keep you informed about your school. Come join us each Sunday for a brief visit!

Sincerely,
Donald R. French

Rose Planting In Five Simple Steps

The proper planting of roses requires neither great gardening skill nor experience. Simply use a little common sense in your choice of location, follow the five steps as outlined, and you will have given your roses as good a start in life as could be desired. The procedures outlined below were developed by All-America Rose Selections, the national rose-testing organization. They suggest that, in addition to the proper planting techniques as described in this article, the following are essentials to successful rose growing: Healthy plants of good varieties, well prepared beds having good drainage, a minimum of at least a half a day of sunshine in the area in which the roses are planted, and plant as early as possible.

1. Well prepared, deeply spaded bed in well-drained area. Dig each hole 15" to 18" wide and as deep. Add a quart of peat moss or compost and mix well with the soil. Form blunt cone of the mixture in planting hole.

2. Prune all rose canes to 12" and remove any broken or injured roots. Position rose on soil cone so that bud union (swelling at base of stem) is just above the ground level after the ground settles in mild climates and about 1" below the surface in climates where winter temperature falls below freezing. Spread roots out in a natural manner down slope of mound.

ORNAMENTAL GOURDS - CHILDREN LOVE THEM

If you want to make a child happy give him a packet of gourd seeds to plant. The seeds are large and easy to handle — like pumpkin seeds — and they like to be planted directly into the garden — after all danger of frost. Once in the ground, they germinate quickly and grow at the rate of several inches a day.

Although ornamental gourds do grow as vines and need plenty of room, they can be grown up a chain-link-fence, trellis or chicken wire to save space, and they need a good sunny location.

Male and female flowers grow on the same plant. You can tell the females by the immature baby gourd at the base of each flower. When it is pollinated by an insect carrying pollen from the male flower, the baby gourd will then grow quite fast.

During late summer and fall the vines produce hard, odd-shaped gourds. Some look like pears and oranges. Others resemble bottles and eggs, while some will be warted or striped.

The gourds should be picked with a short piece of stem intact, then dried and varnished to make long lasting decorations. Children will also love to play with the many different shapes, creating animals and birds by sticking legs and heads on them.

Another trick, while the gourds are half-grown is to scratch your child's name on the skin. Where the skin is scratched the gourd will form a scar, and as it grows your child's name will be permanently displayed, growing bigger as the gourd grows big.

3. Work in soil around roots to eliminate any air pockets. Firm soil about roots and add more soil until hole is three-fourths full, then firm with foot or tamper, using care not to injure roots.

4. Fill remainder of hole with water and allow it all to soak in then refill. After water drains, see that bud union remains at proper level and fill remainder of hole with soil and tamp. Head canes back to about eight inches, making cuts one-fourth inch above an outside bud.

5. Mound soil around and over plant to height of eight to ten inches. This protects the rose canes from drying out. When buds break, gradually remove mound of soil — probably within a week or ten days. Loosen name tag so that it does not constrict cane. When vigorous growth starts, apply plant food according to manufacturer's specifications.

CCHS After-Prom Party

The door to Culver Community High School was a time machine Saturday night as the community-sponsored After Prom took its guests back into the world of "The Fabulous Fifties." Those great old songs, cuffed levi's, leather jackets, and even a few "two-dab men" with slicked-down hair were in evidence. Hula hoops, "The Stroll," and a game of "live" checkers made the party a mixture of Fifties, Sixties and Seventies, and The Midnight Hour helped everyone dance through each era. After a 3:30 a.m. breakfast, the yawning crowd headed for home and a few hours' sleep before the trip to Turkey Run, or the Dunes, or wherever they planned to spend Sunday. The After-Prom Committee, after spending those extra few minutes "tidying up" the area, staggered home to bed with no intention whatever of getting up again in a few hours.

Does anybody remember "The Stroll"?

BEST COSTUME WINNER—Anna LeMar, right, is presented her prize for having the best Fifties era costume by Ron Tusing, chairman of the After-Prom Committee. Ron could also have qualified, from the looks of this picture!

SITTING AROUND at tables happens at any dance, but the hula hoops are obviously from another era!

FLOWERS FOR FOOD

Large, colorful blooms like this can be found on many kinds of squash — particularly the zucchini and butternut kinds, and they are edible, especially when fried in batter.

There are numerous plants with edible flowers, many of them quite common in the flower and vegetable garden. Here are some of the most popular:

Squash flowers. These generally open in the early morning, and they are quite spectacular. Some measure 4 in. across in a dazzling display of bright yellow velvety petals. A good way of eating squash blossoms is to fry them in batter to have with breakfast eggs.

Nasturtium flowers have a sweet nectar which is tasty, and the petals are edible, too. They have a slightly pungent flavor similar to cress, and can be added to a salad to add a spicy touch.

Broccoli and cauliflower heads are tight flower bud clusters. Left on the plants to mature, they will open up and display yellowish flowers common to the cabbage family. Hot weather induces flowering more quickly than cool weather, which explains why broccoli and cauliflower should be planted out early in the spring. It's even better, however, to treat them as a fall crop by transplanting young plants into the garden in midsummer to mature in the cooler days of fall.

Margold petals make an excellent substitute for saffron for adding saffron flavor and color to scrambled eggs and rice dishes.

Edible hollyhocks flowers make colorful flower containers for dips, and although pansy flowers have no flavor, they are edible and their colorful "faves" add interest to gelatin desserts.

When using these flowers it is best to use only garden fresh types that have been washed. Don't use florist flowers, since these may contain toxic chemicals, and don't use other parts such as leaves or pods.

ACADEMIES RECEIVE GRANT FROM BAXTER FOUNDATION

Students attending the Culver Academies will benefit from a $200,000 grant from the Baxter Foundation of Indianapolis.

Half the grant will be devoted to teaching innovation, including the purchase of a time-sharing mini-computer for academic applications, and the other half will create an endowed scholarship fund. The Baxter Foundation, which previously supported Culver's Woodcraft Museum and Memorial Chapel, has announced the grant to the school's "For Culver Tomorrow" campaign.

A portion of the teaching innovations grant will enable Culver to implement a mini-computer teaching system. The mini-computer, which will be installed this winter, will enable Culver students to study and create experiments in mathematics, science and the social sciences. Computer simulations, made from practically anything for which a mathematical model exists, are especially valuable when experimental equipment is too expensive, too dangerous, or when the time span of the actual experiment is too long or too short.

The time-sharing system, which will consist initially of a mini-computer and four terminals, concentrates on each terminal in sequence, but the operation occurs so quickly that each terminal is seemingly served at the same time. The computer, a 24K Nova 2/10 model with a 256K swapping disk (each "K" represents the capability of storing 1,000 words), is manufactured by Data General Corporation of Southboro, Mass.

Math and science classrooms will be equipped with outlets for in-class use of two terminals, and the other two terminals will be available for independent use. Each terminal is expected to serve 60 students, but the computer will be able to accommodate up to 16 terminals, depending on the Academy's future needs.

Aside from the cost of the computer and terminals, another portion of the grant will underwrite maintenance, supplies, terminal rental, staff training and preparation of classroom materials for five years.

Culver mathematics instructor David L. Burke, who will direct the project, has written a three-week computer literacy course that will be taught in all sophomore geometry classes. In addition to learning beginning programming skills, students will discover what computers can and cannot do and how they are being used in society.

WORLD PLAN COUNCIL MEETS FRIDAY IN INDIANAPOLIS

Three members of the World Plan Executive Council will meet with news media representatives at 10:00 a.m. Friday, May 10th, in the Van Camp Room of Stouffer's Inn to discuss implementation of a plan to reduce all problems faced by Indiana residents by one-half in two years.

Miss Jessie Nichols, 26, Larry Farwell, 24, and Malcolm Ringwalt, 27, have come to Indiana from the World Plan Administrative Center in Seelersberg, Switzerland where they worked with Maharishi Mahesh Yogi to structure a plan through which state governments may reduce crime, ill-health and problems in business and industry in Indiana by 50 per cent over a two-year period.

This impressive goal of eliminating half of the state's problems in a 24-month period is practical and attainable through the scientifically proven effectiveness of Transcendental Meditation and the Science of Creative Intelligence.

More than 5,000 Hoosiers are already practicing Transcendental Meditation which has been proven to remove stress and anxiety and improves the physical health and psychological well-being of the individual.

The Science of Creative Intelligence provides the knowledge of the nature, origin, range, growth and application of creative intelligence—creative intelligence which is developed and cultivated in each individual life through the simple technique of Transcendental Meditation.

The state-wide model program to be discussed at the upcoming press conference is unique in that it is being offered for the first time and only in Indiana.

"John I found this letter in your coat pocket this morning. I gave it to you a month ago to mail."
"Yes dear, I remember. I took that coat off for you to see a button on and I'm still waiting."

A Russian and an American were discussing democracy and communism, and the American said, "In America we have such freedom, a man can go right up to the steps of the Capitol and call the President a stinker." The Russian retorted, "We have equal freedom in Russia. A man can go right up to the steps of the Kremlin and call your President a stinker, also."

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Command" Performance

Three days before concert time, a rock singer informed the promoter that he had changed his mind about doing the show. The promoter hastened into a local courtroom for help.

"I want a court order commanding him to perform," he said. "That is what he agreed to do when he signed his contract."

But the court denied the promoter's request. The court said it had no authority to force an unwilling man to sing.

This is the law's usual attitude with regard to contracts that call for personal service of one kind or another. Although the courts may award dollar damages for breach of contract, they generally won't force a singer to sing, a painter to paint, or a baseball player to play baseball.

Why? Because, say the courts, it would be too hard to tell whether the performer—acting under compulsion—was really doing a good job or was only going through the motions.

Furthermore, a forced performance is considered too close to involuntary servitude. Courts are reluctant, said one judge, to "turn contracts of service into contracts of slavery." (In that case, he refused to force a dancer to dance.)

Sometimes, however, a court will put indirect pressure on the performer by at least forbidding him to "do his thing" for anybody else. Thus, a basketball star who broke his contract was ordered by a court not to play for another team.

But even this lesser form of pressure is used only if the performer's services are unique—that is, if his employer cannot find a reasonably satisfactory substitute. For example:

A piano company went to court to prevent a disgruntled salesman from going to work for another firm. But the court decided that the circumstances did not justify such a drastic order. The court said the company was not facing any "irreparable harm," since it could hire another salesman to do pretty much the same job.

Time Trials Scheduled Saturday

Five veteran drivers who have earned the pole position for an Indianapolis 500-mile race on one or more previous occasions at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway are among the leading contenders for similar honors this year in time trials starting Saturday morning at 11 o'clock.

They are A.J. Foyt and Mario Andretti, both two-time "pole" winners; the Unser brothers, Al and Bobby; and Johnny Rutherford.

Some "railbirds" concede Foyt a slight edge because his qualifying speed for the recent California '500, only USAC championship race so far this season on a two-and-a-half-mile paved course, was almost five miles an hour faster than all rivals. There has been so little practice time to date, however, that no driver has established himself as a firm favorite.

Among the rookies in the field this year, Tom Sneva is the only one who has earned a front row starting spot in any of the three 1974 championship events to date.

In anticipation of another tremendous crowd for the first time trial day, Speedway officials will

JOHNNY RUTHERFORD
1973 Pole Position Winner

open all gates to the winners at 6 a.m. (EST). Practice will get under way at 9 a.m., with opening ceremonies at 10:30, and the first qualification attempt scheduled at 11. Eileen Fulton, who plays the role of "Lisa" in television's "As the World Turns" will sing our National Anthem. Admission will be $2 with all seats available on a first-come first-served basis.

Qualifying speeds are expected to be six or eight miles an hour slower than a year ago, when Rutherford earned the pole with a four-lap average of 198.413 miles an hour. This is due to new rules restricting the amount of turbocharger "boost" and reducing the size of the stabilizing wings.

These changes, however, probably will make the battle for starting positions more competitive with a spread of only six or seven miles an hour between the slowest and fastest cars to qualify.

As in recent years, the Speedway again will pay a total of $19,500 in qualifying prize money, but the formula has been altered because trials will be held only on the two Saturdays. Instead of paying $3,500 on each of four days, plus $5,500 for the ten fastest over-all averages, $3,500 will be paid for each of two periods on May 11 and again on May 18. The first period on each of those days will be from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and the second from 2:30 p.m. to 6 p.m.

BAYH LINES

American Consumer Will Take Rap

Senator Birch Bayh (D-Ind.) recently warned that "the high multi-national oil companies may be able to divert millions of barrels of Alaskan oil to Japan and other foreign markets, where they can reap higher profits than they can in the U.S., while at the same time selling expensive foreign-produced oil back to the U.S."

The warning is a reiteration of arguments Bayh presented last year to the Senate in an unsuccessful attempt to gain approval of a Canadian rather than an Alaskan route for a pipeline to ship Alaskan oil reserves to the lower 48 states. In spite of assurances by the administration and oil companies that Alaskan oil reserves would never be exploited in such manner, Federal Energy Office administrators now report that the pipeline would supply more oil than the west coast of the U.S. could use, and that the oil companies would undoubtedly ship the remaining millions of barrels of oil to higher priced foreign markets.

The result would be that the rest of the country would still be short of oil and would have to import it from other foreign sources, such as the Middle East and Venezuela, at a price of at least $5 a barrel more than domestically produced oil.

That translates into higher prices for the American consumer, as much as $9 billion more in fuel costs over the first five years the Alaska pipeline is in operation or $1.8 billion a year, according to Bayh. The oil companies would profit twice: first, by selling Alaskan oil for higher prices overseas, and second, by selling their own higher priced foreign produced oil back to Americans.

Recognizing this potential for overburdening the already-harassed American consumer, Bayh has proposed that Congress pass legislation to ensure that any oil exports do not result in higher prices to domestic consumers. He also asked Sen. Henry Jackson, chairman of the Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee, to begin a probe of the entire matter.

A related problem is a proposed natural gas pipeline from Alaska to the lower states. Bayh wants this pipeline to go through Canada and intends to make every effort to see that it does. Bayh contends that the pipeline must go through Canada to facilitate distribution to the Midwest and other parts of the country and to prevent it from being shipped overseas.

So far, Bayh has the support of 20 Senators, including Minority Leader Robert Griffin and Senator Robert Taft in a bi-partisan effort to secure administration support for a trans-Canada route for Alaskan natural gas. The gas pipeline controversy has the same implications for the hard-pressed consumer as the oil pipeline situation. Bayh's proposal is designed to prevent a repeat performance of "the great Alaskan oil switch."

NEW YORK YACHT CLUB TO DEFEND AMERICA'S CUP FOR 22ND TIME IN 1974

On September 10, 1974, the New York Yacht Club will defend the famed America's Cup for the 22nd time against a foreign challenger.

Since 1870, the American club has proved redoubtable against all comers for the "Auld Mug," but the next match is bound to be a much greater test for the defender than ever before.

For one thing, the contest probably will be sailed in aluminum yachts for the first time. Secondly, clubs representing up to three countries may compete in match racing to select the best challenger. For the first time the committee that will conduct the match will be an international jury, selected to avoid the possibility of a challenge to committee decisions based on national interest.

The America's Cup was originally known as the Royal Yacht Squadron One Hundred Guineas Cup. It was won by the schooner America in 1851, which participated in the Royal Yacht Squadron's annual open regatta around the Isle of Wight, sailed without time allowances. The Cup was decided to the New York Yacht Club (since the schooner's owners were members) and shortly thereafter took on its present name.

Of all the prizes in sport, none has had so much money spent for its possession; none has been so zealously defended. Tens of millions of dollars is the measurement that must be used to estimate the cost of challenging and defending the Cup since 1870.

The 1974 match will be held off Newport, R.I., in a four-out-of-seven series over an olympic sailing course. During the coming summer off Newport, foreign challengers will compete for the right to meet the defender, and the New York Yacht Club will conduct trials to select its best cham-

LET'S HAVE A NATIONAL FLOWER

One of the most interesting gardening discussions is over the choice of flower to serve as America's National Floral Emblem. America has a national bird (the bald eagle), but not a national flower.

There seems little doubt, however, that whatever the national flower eventually selected, it should meet the following qualifications:

a—It should be native to the American continent.
b—It should not be the floral emblem of any other country.

c—It should be colorful, easy-to-grow, long-lasting, a popular garden flower, inexpensive to grow from seed and plants, and useful both outside for garden display and indoors as a flower arrangement.

Among popular home garden flowers native to the American continent there are four flowers with these qualifications. In alphabetical order they are: marigolds, petunias, sunflowers and zinnias.

Petunias are native to South America, but American breeders have been largely responsible for their huge popularity. Before 1950 there was no such thing as a red petunia until an American breeder created one, and since then so much improvement has been made to them there are now more varieties of petunias than any other class of annual flower.

Zinnias are the most popular flower grown in America's home gardens. These spectacular flowering annuals are native to the southwestern states, and they are another fine example of how American breeding experience has done more to improve a flower class than any other country in the world. Its color range and brilliance in the garden is unmatched by any other annual flower.

Marigolds are native to the southwestern United States. They are the second most popular flower grown in American gardens (second only to zinnias). They grow in every state, and in India they have a special religious significance, also serving as symbols of friendship. American hybridizing and breeding expertise has done more to improve the marigold as a garden flower than any other country.

Sunflowers are native American plants. They are not only decorative, they have food and oil-producing qualities. Indeed, in parts of Russia the American sunflower is vital to the economy, not only producing food for humans and livestock, but also providing oil for indoor lighting. Sunflowers are a symbol of self-sufficient living.

City Club Style Show

The Installation meeting of the Culver City Club was held last Thursday evening, May 2nd, at Zion Hall of Grace United Church of Christ. The program for the evening was a Style Show presented by The Kelly Shop of Culver, and featured members of the club as models.

During the meeting, it was announced that the club's annual picnic for patients at Beatty Memorial Hospital would be June 11th at the Town Park. The club received a check for $231.95 from Project Concern, the group in charge of the annual Walk For Mankind sponsored by the club this fall. The check represents the club's share of the proceeds of the walk.

A communication was received from Town Clerk Mrs. Marizetta Kenney, thanking the club on behalf of the town for eight grills which the club recently donated to the Town Park. The grills have been delivered, and poles are currently being sunk to support them.

They are, from left, club members Ann Schultz, Helen Heiser, Lovina Wesson, Bertha Mae Rust, Naomi Kaiser, Yearl Sharp, Connie Ervin, and Esther Boswell. The show featured styles for all occasions, from casual sportswear and summer sleepwear to elegant formal wear. Examples of home sewing, featuring materials from The Kelly Shop's Fabric Barn, were shown as well as examples of the Kelly Shop's large line of ladies' ready-to-wear clothing. Boetsma Home Furnishings of Culver donated the summer patio furniture that served as a useful as well as decorative centerpiece for the evening. CITIZEN Photo
