"HOOSIER AT LARGE"

By Al Spiers
The Citizen's Columnist Gives A Few Pointers To Young Get-Rich-Quick Writers

IF THE BLITHE young bucko who cornered me at a recent dull social affair typifies his Hoosier generation, many jarring let-downs are in the offing.

Joe, an Ivy-clad college senior about to assault the cold, cruel world, is the horn-rimmed, go-getter type with a head full of confidence — and cliches.

A MUTUAL FRIEND led him to my quiet nook. I knew what was coming when he made with the corny old Dale Carnegie jazz like this:

"I read your stuff in The Culver Citizen. Real good! Understand you write for magazines too. That's my aim. Would an old pro give a young tyro some advice. How do I start?"

"Get a solid, secure bread-and-butter job," I said dryly. "New writers usually starve."

Joe's chuckle was polite and artificial. "Please, sir — I'm serious," he protested.

"So am I!"

PATRONIZING SKEPTICISM showed in Joe's eyes. He had me figured, all right — a tired old hack bent on discouraging competition.

He also had his future figured. What Joe really wanted was a pro's approval of the ginger-bready Plan of Progress he'd worked out and which he now unveiled.

"I'll spend a year writing confession stories to learn the trade," he said. "I'm told it's a good-paying field for beginners. Right?"

"YEP — NICKEL A WORD," I said dryly. "About $250 per yarn. It's a big market that always hungers for new talent."

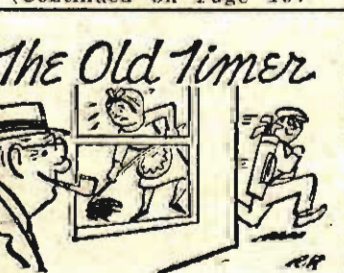

Joe smiled happily. "Right now," he said. "I'm building a file of plots. After graduation, I'll write a story a week. In a year I'll have a stake and enough experience to tackle the slicks . . . then TV, books, the movies. . ."

"WHOA," I smiled. "First things first. You're reading and studying all the confession magazines now, of course?"

Joe's eyes wondered if I'd flipped my lid.

"Me read that trash?" he gasped. "Lord no! I haven't the time or inclination. Why should I? Anybody can write that gunk!"

At that point, Joe and I parted mental if not physical company. Why fight it, I thought. Next

"Wives can find spring-cleaning aids at the grocery, the hardware store and out on the golf course."

L. G. Balfour Day Is A Highlight Of Academy Year

Honored For 50 Years Of Service

Cadets of Culver Military Academy have presented L. G. Balfour, founder and president of the nationally famous, Attleboro, Mass., jewelry manufacturing firm, with a sabre honoring him for nearly 50 years of service to the Academy.

A beautiful sabre was presented by Maj. Gen. Delmar T. Spivey, superintendent, during special ceremonies on "L. G. Balfour Day," Sunday, May 21.

The silver sabre carried the engraved inscription: Balfour Day, presented to Lloyd Garfield Balfour by the Cadets of Culver Military Academy at a parade in his honor on Balfour Day.

Greeted By Old Friends
The presentation during the special garrison parade was a climax of a three-day visit to the Academy by Mr. Balfour. He arrived in Culver last Thursday and spent his time inspecting classrooms, cadets, and barracks, visiting with General and Mrs. Spivey, along with several old friends including Henry Henning, Mrs. Robert Rossow, Miss Anne Elsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Chester W. Cleveland, and Col. C. A. (Jerry) Whitney.

During the presentation, Col. Edward Stephenson, commandant, speaking in behalf of the Academy and the Corps of 828 cadets, said:

"For his personal concern, dedication to fine craftsmanship, and general spirit of cooperation, Culver is proud to honor Mr. Lloyd G. Balfour. Academy Lancers In "500" Parade Saturday Night

Forty members of Culver Military Academy's famous Lancer Platoon will defend the "500 Mile Festival Trophy" during a spectacular parade Saturday in Indianapolis.

The Lancers, honor organization of the Black Horse Troop, won the trophy as the outstanding organization among 119 units in last year's huge parade.

The large traveling trophy, which is open to bands, marching units, floats, and all organizations that take part in the parade, has been displayed in trophy case at the Academy's Riding Hall since last May.

Two Hoosier Officers

Culver's Lancers will be headed by Cadet Captain Martin Strand, Dearborn, Mich., the squadron commander. His officers will be Robert S. Marvin, Mexico City, Mexico; Steve Z. Ardussi, Rocky River, Ohio; Dale W. McMillen, Fort Wayne; Samuel C. Dunlap, New Canaan, Conn.; and Ralph A. Lindgren Jr., LaPorte.

The "500" Parade Saturday will climax one of the most active years in the history of the Lancers. The Lancers took part in the eight-day American Royal Horse Show at Kansas City, escorted the King and Queen of Denmark in Chicago, joined with the rest of the Black Horse Troop in the President's inauguration parade in Washington, along with participating in several horse shows and exhibitions.

THE REX MAWHORTERS VISIT RUFUS WILHELM, FORMER CULVER RESIDENT

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Mawhorter called on Rufus Wilhelm at the Muscatatuck State School, Butterville, Ind., recently.

Rufus will be remembered by older Culver residents, as he grew up here before being committed to the School about 25 years ago. He remembers faces and names, and knew the Mawhorters immediately although he had not seen them for 30 years. He was so glad to see them again. He asked for tobacco as they had always taken him his favorite chewing tobacco when calling on him years ago.

"Ruffie" seems in good health, works on the School's farm, was clean, well fed, and well-housed. He and others of his unit were in their dormitory's spacious lounge watching a baseball game on a lovely large T-V on Saturday afternoon. All the "boys" of his unit came out on the porch to see Ruffie greet his Culver friends, enjoying his visitors as much as Ruffie did.

Anyone wishing to remember or visit him may contact Rex Mawhorter for details. Rufus is allowed chewing tobacco, candy, and snacks, also a small amount of spending money for such items. He is in unit 18, Muscatatuck State School, Butterville, Ind. Anything by mail will reach him addressed thus.

VISITORS CALL AT HOME OF MRS. RUSSELL CROY

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur (Bud) Lockridge, daughter, Tamara, and grandson, Thomas Arthur, of Stuart, Fla., arrived in Culver, called here by the death of the former's brother-in-law, Russell Croy.

Saturday evening guests with them at the home of his sister were Andrew Lockridge and son, Robert, of Hammond; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lockridge, Debra, and Rodney of Gary; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Evans, Steve, and Peg, and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Redman, Diane, Nancy, and Roger, all of South Bend; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Croy and Tracy of Oseeola; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Croy, Linda, Tom, and Mary of near Leiters Ford; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Croy, Christine, Sherry, and Scott of Culver; Mr. and Mrs. John Croy, Joan, and Janice of North Liberty; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Crum, Reute 2, Culver; and Mrs. Sylvia Lombardi of Mishawaka.

New "500" Book Available Now

A tremendously interesting and authentic history of the Indianapolis 500-Mile Race, with particular emphasis on the drivers and other individuals responsible for making it the world's greatest sports spectacle, now is available in book form.

The title is "500 Miles To Go" and it is being published by Coward-McCann, Inc., New York, N. Y., in connection with the golden anniversary running of the "500" on May 30.

Al Bloemker, Speedway publicity director and former sports writer for the Indianapolis Star, is the author; and he completed the manuscript this spring after more than five years of painstaking research. The 210-page book includes 32 pages of historical Speedway photos dating from 1909.

Race fans, living in communities lacking a regular book store, may obtain copies of "500 Miles To Go" by sending a check or money order to the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, Speedway, Indiana. The price is $5.00 plus 25 cents for postage and shipping container.

Who will OWN the REMC Generating Plant?

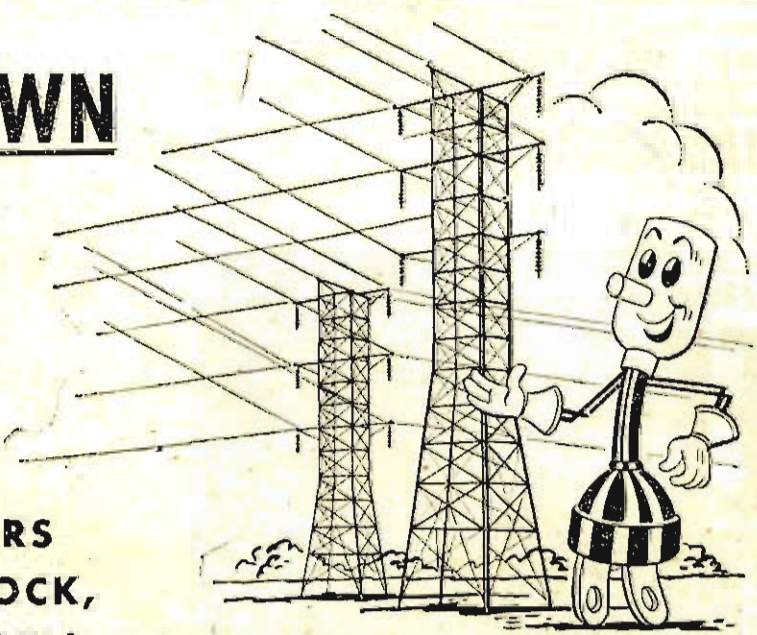

RURAL CONSUMERS WILL OWN IT...LOCK, STOCK AND BARREL!

Ever since 17 REMC's in southern Indiana applied for a loan to build a plant to generate their own electricity, many people have wanted to know who will own it.

This question of ownership is based upon rumors that if the Rural Electrification Administration approves the loan to build, then the government will own the generating plant.

These rumors are unfounded and untrue. When a bank loans money to a manufacturing corporation, it doesn't own it.

The REMC generating plant actually will be owned by more than 75,000 rural families.

Every year, the U. S. Government loans millions upon millions of dollars to both big and little privately owned businesses, and doesn't own them.

Let's set the record straight. When the loan is approved to build an REMC generating plant in southern Indiana, that plant will be owned by the 17 REMC's who have applied for the loan. They are in turn owned, operated and completely controlled by more than 75,000 family-members. One of those 75,000 is you, if you have REMC service.

Principal's Thoughts As The End Of The School Year Draws Near

By Kenneth L. Cole, Principal
Culver-Union Township School

I naturally realize that I am but the third new principal the Culver-Union Township School has had in some thirty years, and I fully aware that I am in few, if any, respects like the two who preceded me. This, however, is no startling fact for anyone reading this article certainly knows that every person at birth is a unique individual and becomes even more unique as his experiences vary from those of others. Far be it from me to be like any other administrator, because the moment I start mirroring another I might as well be dead — I would have lost life's most precious gift, my individual identity.

I am different; I have had different training; I have had different life experiences; I have known many disciplines; I am relatively notional where this school and this community is concerned — else could I be since I have only lived and worked here less than a year. I believe along with the social scientists that fairly long relationships make for better marriages, and after all Culver and I certainly no more than courting at present. I must state firmly I did pledge myself professionally to do my very best when I signed a contract to come here and be your principal.

I think that my newness to the school system has some advantages and some disadvantages; however, I feel fairly certain that the advantages outweigh the disadvantages. For example, I believe that as a veritable outsider I am in the rare position of being able to observe and review or criticize your school with as much freedom from the cloudiness of emotional bias as is humanly possible to

I am of the opinion that we had a good school year. Not that there is not room for improvement, but in general the youngsters are given their fair share of good, wholesome, challenging learning experiences by a staff of generally competent, youth loving teachers. I do not pretend that the administration, teachers, students, or school in general was perfect for this would be purely an hallucination — no school is all of this. There is little doubt that the overall level of aspiration is high enough that the school is continually bettered, never standing still or going backwards. I know that I am not satisfied with the school and I don't ever intend to be, nor would any of the patrons of the school ever be completely satisfied. I do not interpret this to mean that the school is fair game for what the school should be made the scapegoat of the many inadequacies and near sins of the home.

I have paddled a few; expelled one or two; punished a few by taking them at some mental task; talked to many who needed disciplinary counseling; called by phone and in person upon some parents for consultation; and had some successful in-office counseling sessions with parents and of course have had the unsuccessful counseling experience with a parent or two who didn't really come down for counseling in the first place. This is not alarming, for anyone who has ever served the public soon finds out that there are always a few in any given community who seem to delight in raising hell as a few inches every once in a while and driving a wedge under the door to serve as the head disciplinarian for the school and I will not deny that I think discipline, be it self-administered or otherwise, is the key to successful and wholesome living. As a matter of fact, I would go so far as to say that in my vocabulary discipline is education and education is discipline.

Being strictly critical I would like to start on the positive side of the ledger and compliment the patrons of the school for the way they back the school by turning out for events and participating whenever asked — this leaves little to be desired. For the most part, students are fairly well self-disciplined but here, like everywhere else, are the very few who seem to have a complete disrespect for themselves as well as for other people. On the absolutely negative side of the ledger I will have to admit that I sometimes pray that some great change will take place in the hearts of some few students who completely disrespect the values of punctuality and consistent attendance and hence allow their children to be tardy and absent way beyond what could be legitimate.

You have had a good school over the years, and I think you have a good school now. I am confident that your school will continue to improve, and I am dead certain that you should always demand and expect a good school — a school that is moving ahead, being bettered, never standing still and stagnating. I ask you just remember one last point and that is that there is one man in your school system who does, or at least should, know more about your school than does any other person in the community, and this man is your high school principal. You pay his salary. He is hired to serve you and yours. Why don't you drop in some time and air your problems. You may find out to your surprise — after what you are told by your offspring — that the man is human and more times than not makes quite a lot of sense. Certainly the Cole policy is an open door policy.

Thumbnail Tale of a Topsy

Centralism in this country was born of terribly poor parents during the '30's.

Self-made, Centralism didn't get a chance to go to Harvard. But in high school, observing classmates figured that Centralism — voted, "Most Likely To Take Over" — was some day going to deal, dole, and dominate.

Centralism first was called the New Deal. Time passed. Then the name was changed to the Fair Deal, and later to Liberalism.

Actually, Centralism isn't new — just a throwback to the all-powerful governments of other ages.

Nor fair — for it discriminates among citizens and deprives them of many freedoms.

Nor liberal in the historic sense — for the liberals originally were those who combatted oppressive and all-pervasive government.

Many members of both political parties have embraced Centralism — provided, of course, that they have command. Centralists advocate more government direction and control of the activities of people and business; more spending and taxes; and the steady expansion of the size, power, and cost of the Federal Government.

Centralism is at the height of power today. But there's a way to cool the octopus off. It's up to us as Hoosier citizens and taxpayers to understand that Centralism is a perilous path for America — and to give determined support to state and local efforts to solve state and local problems.

Let's get this done in '61!

TV BY THE TOX — Enough television transmitting equipment to stock six television studios was dispatched 3,000 miles from the ABC-TV New York studios last week to Los Angeles by an Indiana-based moving company. The equipment was used in ABC-TV's coverage of the Democratic Convention, July 11. Total weight of the equipment was 6½ tons. It consisted of six cameras, six camera control units, eight camera power supply units, tripods, thousands of feet of miscellaneous cables and other transmitting equipment. The shipment was insured by ABC-TV for $2 million.

Fast Field Ready for Golden Anniversary "500"

With several of auto racing's outstanding pioneers scheduled to participate in the program, arrangements are complete for the golden anniversary 500-Mile Race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway next Tuesday.

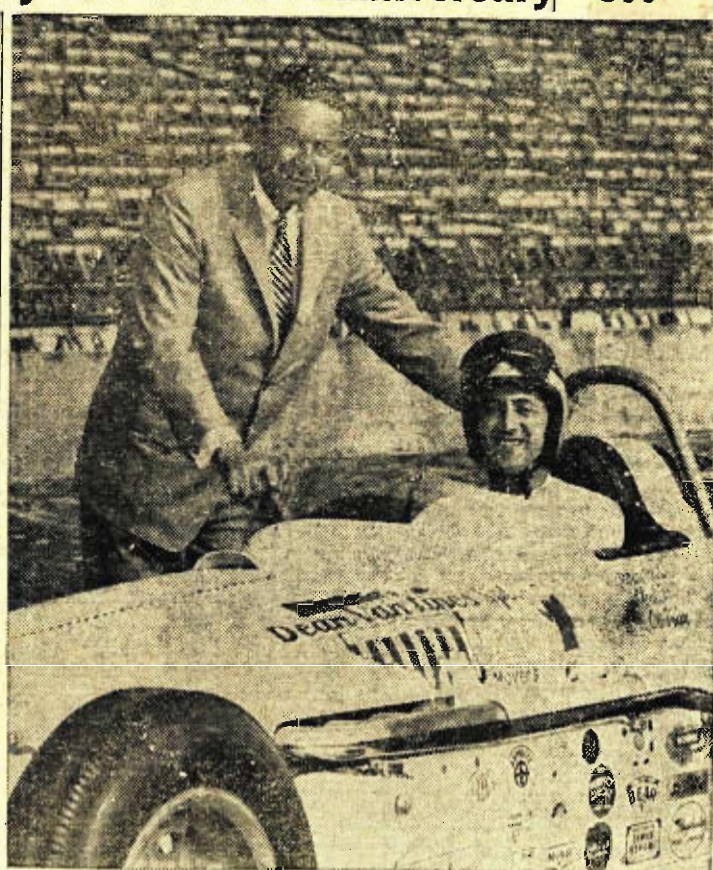

The finest field ever assembled for high-speed competition is ready to respond to Speedway President Tony Hulman's traditional command: "Gentlemen, Start Your Engines."

Eddie Sachs, Jim Hurtubise and Don Branson will form the front-row lineup behind the Ford Thunderbird pace car when the field of 33 circles the track prior to the spectacular "flying start" at 11 o'clock (CDT). But they probably will be challenged immediately by Jim Rathmann and Rodger Ward, whose stirring duels have featured the last two Memorial Day Classics.

Troy Ruttman, another former winner, also is expected to work his way through heavy traffic in an effort to win some of the lap prize money and a great deal of interest will be focused on Jack Brabham in his rear-engine Cooper-Climax from England. Jack has held the world's road racing championship for two straight years and has been outstanding in pre-race practice at the Speedway.

National Champion A. J. Foyt is another prominent contender and the capable Parnelli Jones heads the group of young American drivers making their first "500" appearance this year.

Prior to the race, Ray Harroun will circle the track in the 1911 Marmon Wasp which he drove to victory in the first "500" at a speed of 74 miles an hour. The race record is 138.767. Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker will drive his 1914 Duesenberg and Earl Cooper will join the Speedway "pioneers" at the wheel of his 1915 Stutz.

The parade of bands will feature the marching unit from Purdue University and Mel Torme will sing "Back Home Again In Indiana" as thousands of multi-colored balloons float skyward. Diane Hunt, queen of the "500" Festival, will present the Borg-Warner trophy to the winner. Prize money is expected to exceed $350,000 for the second straight year. Gates to the grounds will be opened at 5 o'clock and the pre-race ceremonies will get under way at 9:30. Ten thousand unreserved bleacher seats will be placed on sale the morning of the race and free parking space is available in the infield for 25,000 cars.

Win REMC Essay Contest and Trip To Wash., D. C.

Students in the junior classes of Tyner High School and West High were winners in the Marshall County REMC-sponsored essay contest on the subject: "What Rural Electrification Means to My Community."

David Thompson, a Tyner High School junior, received top honors. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Thompson, of Walkerton. David is a member of the Tyner High School Band and Chorus. He is also active in F.F.A. and will be Tyner's delegate to Boys' State this year.

Sally Hang, of West High School, was also a winner in the contest. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Art Hang, of Route 3, Plymouth. Sally is a member of the Sunshine Society at West High.

As winners of the essay contest, David and Sally will accompany a group of high school juniors on an all-expense trip to Washington, D.C., in June.

How individual rights are defended through spiritual perception of God's complete power and wisdom will be brought out at Christian Science churches this Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" is the Golden Text from Proverbs (21): "There is no wisdom nor understanding nor counsel against the Lord."

Selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include (pp 234, 235): "Evil thoughts and aims reach no farther and do no more harm than one's belief permits. Evil thoughts, lusts, and malicious purposes cannot go forth, like wandering pollen, from one human mind to another, finding unsuspected lodgment, if virtue and truth build a strong defense."

From the Bible will be read these verses from I Peter (5): "Be sober, be vigilant; because your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may devour: Whom resist steadfast in the faith, knowing that the same afflictions are accomplished in your brethren that are in the world."

Bible School Starts May 31 At Bible Church

The U.S. Navy recently received an atomic clock which varies no more than one second in 1500 years. Pupils at the Culver Bible Church Daily Vacation Bible School will be learning to live by an even more accurate clock. "Living By God's Time" is the theme of this year's DVBS, which starts Wednesday, May 31. The school will be held each morning 9 - 11 through June 9.

Directing the school will be the pastor, Maynard G. Tittle. The teachers and assistants are Mrs. Marion May, Mrs. Walt Braunkner, Mrs. Roy Fritz, Mrs. Virgil Binion, Mrs. William Riemen-schneider Jr., Mrs. William Henry, Mrs. Joe Boetsma, Mrs. David Burns Jr., Mrs. Ray Kline, Mrs. Earl Johnson, Miss Sandra Boetsma, and Mrs. Maynard Tittle.

The school is not restricted to the Culver Bible Church congregation. Any parents interested in sending their children should contact the pastor. Transportation is being arranged for a limited number within five miles of Culver.

"Hoosier At Large"

he'll be collecting $2,500 for a Reader's Digest "personal experience" piece — an "easy" buck a word.

"YEP! IT SOON OZZED through his chatter. . . I'm surprised more pros don't go for that Digest dough. I've got a natural . . . a sure click!"

I didn't waste time and words pointing out that the Digest gets thousands of these personal narratives, many from top pros — and buys scarcely a dozen a year.

Why bother? Joe had a Plan and a closed mind. He'll have to learn the hard way, poor boy!

AND SO, IT seems, will many of Joe's comrades in the class of '61. Norma Lee Browning, the Chi Trib's talented newsgal, described a similar experience after addressing journalism students at her alma mater, the University of Missouri.

Two student photogs calmly told Norma they'd be big-city picture editors after graduation. No not working lensmen! Editors!

THEY'D START with these top jobs, they said, because most picture editors are stupid. How many stupid editors did they know? None — but they'd noted how "stupidly" pix eds use photos in newspapers. They could do the job infinitely better.

Ergo, they'd be picture editors — just-like-that!

Many other college kids nourish the same naive notions. Sheepskins in hand, they figure to fall promptly into $10,000-a-year jobs — with 30-hour weeks, stock options, pension programs, fringe benefits, etc., etc., and etc.

A FEW GENIUSES will no doubt — but the vast majority will soon discover to their dismay that book learning is one thing and real life quite another.

The wise college student knows that his real education begins the day he gets a diploma — and a job. Hard, grim experience — is still the essential ingredient of firm, lasting success in Indiana and the other 49 states!

Academy Sports

Culver Military Academy will cross out its 1960-61 athletic schedule Saturday when the Eagle crew and baseball teams will be in action.

The crew, seeking to preserve its unbeaten season in dual competition, will meet tough Ecorse Boat Club of Detroit in a 2 p.m. race on Lake Maxinkuckee. Ecorse, comprised of oarsman older than high school age, defeated Culver last year.

Crew Defeats Michigan State
Coach LaLryr Bebout's crew added Michigan State's freshmen to its list of victims in a one-sided race here last Friday. Culver put three boats in the water against the first-year Spartans, and all three defeated the Michigan State crew easily. Culver's first crew flashed across the finish line far ahead of the visitors and the only test it got was from the Academy's second boat.

The third team got two boat lengths between its shell and Michigan State to make the victory a clean sweep. Culver's varsity posted a time of five minutes, 42 seconds for the mile course, a time slightly below what the first boat has turned in for other races.

Baseball Squad Meets Niles
For the baseball squad, it will be another chance to break the victory column after a dismal season of six defeats and inadequate practice due to bad weather. Niles High School will provide the opposition beginning at 1:30 p.m.

The golf team closed its season last Saturday by losing for the second time this season to the Notre Dame freshman by the identical score of 10-8. The match was played on the Academy course, and medalist honors went to Tom LeFevre, of Notre Dame, with a 72.

OVERDUE — A book entitled "A Short History of International Affairs, 1920-1924" that was checked out of the Gary Library Aug. 12, 1937, made a long journey before it was finally returned. The book was mailed back to the library recently from Washington, D.C. Frank L. Shick, assistant director of the library branch of the Health, Education, and Welfare Department, explained in a letter that the book had been found on a wash stand in the men's room of the department's headquarters in Washington. There are no records to show who took the book from the Gary library 24 years ago.

Gates & Calhoun To Establish Chevrolet Agency

The most important automobile news to affect Culver in some time is that the well known firm of Gates & Calhoun Chevrolet, Inc. of Argos is the Chevrolet new car dealer for this area.

The prominent owners, Otto Gates and Don Calhoun, have announced plans to establish a new and used car sales lot here along with light service facilities.

Announce Building Program
In Argos they will soon erect a new building to accommodate their increasing number of new customers. The new structure will house newer and larger showrooms and service facilities.

When the new Argos and Culver sales and service facilities are completed Gates & Calhoun will have the distinction of being one of the largest nonmetropolitan area Chevrolet dealers in Indiana and Southern Michigan.

The highly successful automotive company was founded by L. O. Gates in 1948. Its present ownership took over in 1953 and now are looking forward to greater business success than ever before. Since that time the firm has grown to 17 full time employees.

CORN FIELD SAILOR — Operation of a 200-acre Elkhart County farm is a part time job for a man who much of the year is at sea as second engineer of the Sun Oil Company's supertanker, the S.S. Western Sun. The man who combines agriculture and seamanship is Bill Diener. He and his father, Andrew Diener, own a farm six miles south of Nappanee on which they grow corn and soybeans. The son arranges his vacations so he can leave the sea and get back to Indiana to help with Spring planting on the farm. While at sea he studies books on agriculture.

Democrats Keep On Stealing, Roush Wins

Chambers Counted Out In Congress

Many people, notably Mrs. Richard M. Nixon, are of the opinion that the Democrats last November stole the national election in the big cities of the nation, including Chicago, CROOK County, Illinois.

Moreover, hundreds of Hoosiers are certain that the Governorship of Indiana was stolen from the Republicans in Lake County.

Well, anyway, the Democrats kept their 1,000% batting average intact yesterday by purloining the 5th Indiana Congressional seat from George O. Chambers of Anderson, whose election by 12 votes had been certified by both the outgoing Secretary of State (a Democrat) and his Republican successor.

Any political observer with a soupcon of brains knew that Chambers didn't have a chance with the "loaded" House Elections Subcommittee which took 6½ months to determine that Democrat J. Edward Roush of Huntington had won in a recount by a margin of 99 votes among the 314,615 votes cast.
