Main Street In Culver Over 60 Years Ago

Mrs. McLane stated that, "Where the original bank building stands, there was a small green building with two steps, which were on the side walk entering what was then Dr. Wiseman's office. The house with the porch was where the Morris Boarding House was located. I think the tall man standing on right foreground was W. S. Easterday."

Anyone having other pictures of historical interest is invited to bring them to The Citizen for publication.

Early rising motorists often find they must drive through fog
before the sun rises very high.
The Chicago Motor Club says
that even though the foggy situation may be temporary, it still is a treacherous period. Fog of any kind reduces visibility more than we like. To help ease the situation, reduce your speed and use headlights — not parking lights — in the fog.

The Chicago Motor Club offers
these tips for night driving:
Check all your lights; keep windshield and faces of dashboard
gauges clean; dim your headlights for oncoming traffic and when you come up behind a car,
should the oncoming driver fail
to dim his lights, guide yourself
by the right edge of the road;
when dusk comes, use headlights,
not parking lights.

An extensive statewide "Lights On For Safety" program will, again, be promoted by the Indiana Traffic Safety Foundation for Hoosier and out-of-state vacationing motorists during the entire 78-hour Labor Day weekend, according to Albert E. Daughters of Indiana

The "bird woman" who made an Indiana swamp famous!

GENE STRATTON PORTER, BORN 1863, HOPEWELL, INDIANA

RATTLESNAKES silently slithered aside. Clouds of gnats and hungry mosquitos swarmed about her head. Yet on and on, she slipped and slogged through steaming, murky pools and quagmires.

It was Gene Stratton-Porter. On a nature hike through a giant swamp in northeast Indiana!

There was much more than discomfort and danger in her beloved Limberlost Swamp. There were so many of the wild things of nature—untouched, unharmed by man. And it was these things that this gentle Hoosier housewife put in her books. Books that brought enduring fame to herself and to the Limberlost.

For, in her day, Mrs. Porter was one of the most popular and widely-read authors in America. Her books, A Girl of the Limberlost, Freckles, The Harvester, The Keeper of the Bees, among many others, forever established the Limberlost and its people as a part of American literature.

Gene Stratton-Porter was born on an Indiana farm in 1863 when the Limberlost area was a wild and isolated region. As a matter of fact, most of Indiana was more or less isolated at that time. For the telephone didn't arrive on the scene until 1877.

And what a boon the telephone became to Indiana farmers. Contact with the nearest village or town was accomplished now in minutes. Communication between families and friends was so much easier, so much surer. A doctor could be on his way, moments after a call.

Over the years telephone service has made great strides. Indiana Bell and the Bell Telephone Laboratories have made it possible for almost every Hoosier to call—across the street or across the nation—in a matter of seconds. And new advances will continue to emerge to maintain your telephone service as the finest in the world. Watch for them from Indiana Bell.

Betty Maull is of the considered summertime opinion that she is running a "Teen Age Malt Shop" with all of the comings and goings (that she wouldn't do without) at her house. The Bryants had their two sons aboard for the first time in some months and Betty is at her position behind the old cook stove instead of the library desk. Some change of pace. The Smiths are back from a family reunion in the south, the first they have attended in years because of conflicting summer schedules. Virginia Bays headed east again for classes at Connecticut College. Congratulations to Mrs. Harold Bays for her Woodcraft "Gold C Beaver" award made at Council Fire last week. The Three Sisters again was the scene of revelry as the Detachment had another dinner party, this time in honor of Capt. and Mrs. Lo Re on the occasion of their departure for Germany. The party was held on July 28. The Lo Res left Culver on Aug. 2, en route to Florida on leave. On July 30 Col. and Mrs. Scruggs entertained the Detachment at their home. Once again, honoring the departing Lo Res, a gala Hawaiian Luau with all the trimmings beautifully done by Ethelynde left us all aghast. Col. Scruggs returned from a short trip to Georgia Aug. 6. He was gone five days.

Maj. Prouty returned July 26 after a hectic two weeks evaluating the Michigan National Guard at Camp Grayling, Mich. The Proutys are having visitors from Chicago this weekend and are also expecting Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, BJ's parents, next week for the remainder of the Summer Schools session. # Conservation Dept. Buys Portion Of Kingsbury Depot

The State Conservation Department recently reported it had completed arrangements to buy 4,500 acres of the unused Kingsbury Ordnance Depot, a Federal property located near LaPorte, about 40 miles northwest of Culver, which will be developed into a public hunting and fishing area.

A check for $366,675 was delivered to the Department which will cover the cost of 3,700 acres. The Department was given 822 acres which has been considered contaminated through testing of weapons during World War II. The Department has been considering the area since the prior administration.

Under the plan, money from fish and game fees used to develop the area, will be reimbursed about 75 per cent with Federal Funds under the Pittman-Robertson Act.

The section which the State Conservation Department will take over is in the eastern portion of the Kingsbury property and includes a 100-acre lake. A two-mile section of the Kankakee River flows through the area.

The Chicago Motor Club reminds drivers that traffic signs are there for a purpose. It's a sign of good judgment when you obey all traffic signs and signals.

The weather didn't keep the doughty Juniors from the races on Saturday morning. Wearing ponchos and swimsuits, Charles Ray and Jeff Michels fought for the lead in the sailfish race, with Charles coming in first.

Those sparkling Skylarks with the red slash across the sail had a great race in the brisk wind on Saturday morning. Steve Speer was first across the line. Phil Schmoll was second, followed by John Knisely, Joan Schilling and Julie Hollowell, in that order.

Sunday was another rugged sailing day. The lead changed many times. The Beckers in T-18 got off to a good start, Tad Lauderback in T-24 had the lead for awhile, but Jerome Zechiel skippered his T-21 to the first salute, with Tad in second place.

C.M.A. WRESTLING TEAM RECEIVES AWARD FROM NORTHWESTERN MEN'S CLUB

The Culver Military Academy wrestling team was recently awarded a plaque for their outstanding achievement during the 1964 season by the Northwestern University "N" Men's Club.

The team, coached by Colin Stetson, compiled a 11-1 record and was recommended for the award by "N" Men's Club member Robert Osborn of Culver.

The "N" Men's Club was founded at Northwestern in 1914 to honor outstanding athletes and, in so doing, to further the meaning and purpose of varsity athletic competition.

A WHAT'S IT — Many readers of The Nappanee Advance-News were puzzled recently by an article telling of a PTA contribution of $200 toward the purchase of a portable "visn etiostrer" to be used by the school nurse. The following week the editor informed the readers the contribution was for a "vision tester." He said neither he nor the proof readers noticed the garbled spelling until the press run was completed. "The editor of this newspaper," he wrote, "will act as the first subject for the device because, obviously he needs his eyes tested."

If you buy a "bargain", carpet, you'd better take steps to protect it

Maybe it looked great in the store . . .

You fell for the colors . . .

The pile felt thick.

When the carpet was down, you took good care of it . . . used extra pieces.

But the carpet didn't hold up anyway.

It pulled, snagged, raveled, began to wear thin, and even smelled bad.

Don't laugh.

It happens all the time to otherwise level-headed Buying-Guide type people who for some reason can't seem to resist a "bargain" carpet.

The sad truth is, this kind of a carpet never pays.

That's why Lees doesn't make one.

That's why we sell Lees.

Prepared by American Foundation for Animal Health

The threat to livestock and the heavy loss to the farm economy caused by leptospirosis is generally recognized. But the threat this disease poses to people often receives little attention.

A study of recent figures shows why more attention should be given to this livestock disease and its threat to humans. During the years 1958-60, some 18 per cent of the persons stricken by leptospirosis died. Authorities blame this rather high death rate on lack of proper recognition of seemingly mild infections and their possible consequences.

In humans, lepto may cause headaches, fever and jaundice. Among animals the disease primarily affects cattle, hogs, sheep, horses and dogs. Since lepto is so widespread in our animal population, it is easy to see why there is concern for the threat it poses to people.

The disease is often spread through the urine of carrier animals. Humans or animals coming into contact with equipment, ground, streams or ponds which may have been contaminated in this way may well contact lepto. A case in point was an incident in a midwestern state not too long ago when 40 persons became infected after swimming in a slow-moving rural stream Unfenced farm ponds may become sources of leptospirosis infection for both people and livestock.

Thus the warnings: stay clear of slow-moving streams, and ponds which are not fenced, do not drink raw milk, and be especially careful around animals sick with lepto and around equipment the sick animals may have contaminated.

One way to help blunt the threat of lepto to people is to do everything possible to control the disease in animals. The best and safest assurance against it is to have a veterinarian vaccinate animals in areas where the disease has been a problem. This can stop it at its source.

Prompt treatment of animals which may become infected also will help.

Symptoms of lepto in animals generally include loss of appetite, abortions and fever.

Are you a summer outdoor fan? If so, chances are you will sooner or later have a brush with poison ivy or oak. The Institute for Safer Living warns that extra care should be taken when in timber and brush areas. Also, never assume that you won't find it lurking in your own backyard or in hedges and unused nearby land areas.

Bicycle riders are drivers too. And as drivers, says the Chicago Motor Club, they are subject to the same rules of the road as motorists. If your children ride bicycles, be sure they know obey all traffic laws. Their knowledge and practice of safety regulations will contribute much to your peace of mind.

Holy Communion observed the first Sunday of each month during the morning worship service.
A cordial welcome is extended to all to worship with us.

Sometimes the future looks black; we can't see a glimmer of light anywhere . . . and we wait for help without really expecting an answer. But we are wrong. Even that small word, "help" means that we have realized our own inadequacy and turned to something outside ourselves for guidance.

Called, or not called, "God is an ever-present help in trouble." And whenever we ask Him to intervene, our lives are filled with new hope and inspiration.

He does not ask us to worry about the future. In fact, He doesn't intend us to worry at all. Worry indicates uncertainty and fear, and these have no place in Christian living.

Perhaps you are thinking "That takes more faith than I'll ever have!" But you forget God's perfect trust . . . serene peace of mind . . . birthright. And your Church will teach them.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Babson Discusses Retail Trade Prospects

Stress Quality And Services

Roger W. Babson
gains in our retail outlets. We are seeing such a situation at the present time, and I think we will continue to see mounting retail sales at least well into 1965.

Better Year-To-Year Gains Expected

Business executives closest to the retail scene look for stores, on the whole, to chalk up gains over a year ago through the autumn months and the holiday buying season. This seems reasonable to me since the impact of the tax cut should become stronger, further boosting already favorable business conditions. Some economists expected an immediate upward push to business as soon as the tax-cut bill was passed. My study of the comparable situation in England, however, teaches me that the effects of tax-cutting gain cumulative strength as time goes by.

It is my opinion, therefore, that retailers will not enjoy the full favorable force of the tax cut until the latter months of this year, — and even beyond. My optimism should be justified, then, in looking for the best retail turnover in our history from the end of summer-vacation time until at least early 1965. Inventories on dealer shelves are on the rise, reflecting the high hopes, and I think they will set some sort of record by fall.

and that said petition will be heard and determined at 7:30 o'clock P.M., C.D.S.T., on Tuesday the 1st day of September, 1964, at a regular meeting of the Board of Trustees at its meeting place in the Town Hall in the Town of Culver, Indiana.

Competition Will Be A Problem

The fact that I look for very brisk retail business does not mean that it will be clear sailing for store managers. The competition, already sharp as a razor, will grow even keener. To hold lead positions, store operators will have to make the most of advertising and promotion possibilities; they must use their display space with the greatest imagination and ingenuity. They will need also to give customers much more personal attention and service.

Only the front-rankers, the go-getters, will manage to keep their "take" well above 1963 levels during the remainder of this year. Supermarkets will have a rough time outdoing their year-ago totals, particularly where they have expanded too rashly into already well served localities. The same goes for discount houses; many of these have gone out on limbs that may not be able to hold them up too long under the weight of the bitter rivalry that exists. It is my feeling that many discounters will founder in the period ahead, and that the field will eventually narrow to perhaps a dozen or so soundly operated chains.

Good Markets For Quality Products

Executives of retail organizations should keep in mind that today's buyers are probably more willing than ever to buy high-quality goods, big-tag items. It is certainly true that consumer tastes are being raised through superior education and more prosperous conditions. Spendable money is exceptionally plentiful in most parts of the country, and buyer resistance is low in the face of superior wares. Luxury merchandise is already moving easily, and the pace may be even smarter in coming months. The government will surely do everything it possibly can to keep things prosperous until after the November elections.

What stores need to stress now is the quality of the goods they offer and of the services they provide. The demand appears to be turning much stronger toward quality and service. It has been a surprise to me, in fact, to learn how far a good many customers will drive to shop at a store where the merchandise is select and the service personal and friendly. This might even indicate a swing back toward the

HINTS ON HEALTH

by the

INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

UNINVITED GUESTS

EVERYONE said it was a most successful picnic. Two days later, they weren't so sure.

Most of the picnickers noticed small, red eruptions appearing on their legs. They also became aware of a terrible itching that increased as more "spots" appeared.

The cause of all this trouble was the common chigger or harvest mite. Of microscopic size, the chigger inhabits open fields, underbrush, berry patches and the leaves of small trees. It attaches itself to the skin and can even penetrate through clothing of ordinary thickness.

While chigger bites are usually below the knees, they can occur higher and often do if one happens to sit or stretch out on the ground where chiggers abound.

There are repellents that can be applied to the body to minimize the likelihood of being bitten by chiggers.

People are pestered by a variety of parasites.

Scabies is an infestation often called "the itch," and the head louse infests the scalp. Then there are common fleas, ticks and bedbugs. Mosquitoes, gnats and flies produce irritating bites and can transmit certain diseases to man.

smaller specialty shops. But the principles involved are something every retailer — big or small — can adopt to his own particular merchandising. I predict that retailing in this country has a bright future, both near term and long term, for those concerns that keep in tune with the times and at least a step ahead of the crowd.

EAVESDROPPER — The editor of The North Vernon Sun, Richard Mayer Jr., explains apologetically he "just couldn't help" overhearing an exchange between two farm women shopping in a North Vernon store. They were, said the editor, taking turns telling about assisting their husbands by driving tractors during the plowing season on their respective farms. One woman asked the other if she drove a car. "No," was the answer. "Neither do I," said the first woman. "It's funny, isn't it, why our husbands have taught us how to drive the tractor but not how to drive a car?"
