School Board Proposes Building Fund Tax Levy Of 80-Cents For Three Years

The Board of School Trustees of Culver Community Schools on Monday evening passed a resolution proposing the establishment of an 80¢ Cumulative Building Fund levy to be collected in 1966, 1967, and 1968. The revenue from such levy would be used to pay part of the costs related to the erection of a new high school and development of the new school site. Among the costs would be such matters as development of walks and driveways, parking areas, athletic field, etc. No patrons were present for the hearing on the proposed levy. The proposal now will be submitted to the State Board of Tax Commissioners for consideration.

In other business, the School Board discussed certain phases of the building program with Mr. Merlin Kirchoff, a member of the architectural firm of MW Incorporated. Mr. Kirchoff explained in detail the heating and air conditioning system which has been used in the new Ellettsville High School and which probably will be utilized in the new high school at Culver.

Attorney George Stevens, legal counsel for the School Board, also reviewed the various types of financing which could be used in the building program. He explained the possibilities of issuance of general obligation bonds of the school corporation, loans from the Veterans' School Construction and Common School Funds, and use of a bond issue by a public holding corporation. Chairman Cedric White appointed a committee of Walter Johnson, Everett Dowd, and Frank McLane to work with Attorney Stevens in exploring these different financing plans and to confer with bond counsel at Indianapolis to secure information regarding available funds.

Town Board Acts On Street Repair And Annexation

A bid of $7.70 per ton for 1,300 tons, more or less, of asphaltic concrete street surfacing material was opened and accepted at Monday night's meeting of the Town Board.

The bid by McMahan Construction Co., Rochester, was the only one submitted in response to two legal advertisements which were published on March 22 and 29. The price includes both material and application.

In other business, the board waived second and third reading and passed Ordinance No. 187 which annexes property belonging to George Warner and the school corporation on the north side of town. The tract, bounded by School St., College Ave., and State St. had been left, by some legal quirk, an "island" within the corporate limits after the school property was annexed in 1930, the Methodist Church addition was annexed in 1947, and the Easter-day addition was added in 1963.

Ron McKee and Roy Nicodemus, who own property in the 500 block of Forest Place, appeared before the board, requesting how they could expedite the construction of curbs and street paving in their block. They were advised that they could arrange for the construction of curbing through private contractors provided Street Department specifications are followed.

The board agreed to share equally with Mrs. Hattie Krueger the cost of replacing water pipe entering property owned by her in the 100 block of South Main St. The pipe was replaced during repair operations in the street fronting her property last winter. Mrs. Krueger maintained that the pipe in question was not leaking at the time it was removed. Workmen who pressure-tested the pipe confirmed her claim, even though the pipe had been in the ground for many years.

The board instructed Clerk-Treasurer Ruth Lennen to prepare a letter to the Indiana Rating Bureau acknowledging receipt of recommendations concerning fire protection, and said it is studying the suggestions for possible action.

8-8-8 Maxinkuckee Shamrocks Hold Tuesday Meeting By Phyllis Jewell, Reporter

The Maxinkuckee Shamrocks met on Tuesday, March 30. The meeting was called to order by Molly Norris, after which the pledges were given and songs were sung.

The old business to be brought before the members was the fact that two of our summer meetings were found to conflict with two of the scheduled band practices. In order to remedy this, these two meetings were changed from Tuesday to Thursday. There was no new business.

The Health and Safety report was given by Janet Zechiel. This week's topic was on improving your complexion.

We played a rhythm game, which I must say, was almost impossible for some of us to grasp. I was one of those, I'm afraid.

A demonstration on the right and wrong way to sew fastenings was given by Lois Newcomb.

We talked about our future careers and what we looked for when considering a future line of work.

The meeting was adjourned at 5 o'clock for refreshments. Our next scheduled meeting will be on April 13.

8-8-8 Linda Osborn, Shirley Burns, and Wilma Osborn went to the Ernest Hartz residence in Rochester Saturday evening where they attended a stork shower for Janie Osborn.

In Memory Of Mrs. W. Hampton

Editor's Note: The following article, written by Archie Simmons, grandson of William Hampton of Culver, and the late Mrs. Hampton, was recently published in the "Literary Supplement," an Evans-ton High School paper.

MY FIRST LOVE

"In years past, more than seven, I went to a place called grandmother's house. Always, the nights before leaving, a Christ-masy excitement filled me. I would think about the cookies and candies and other goodies that only grandmother had. I would think about the boy next door; I always seemed to end up spending the summer at his house. Every once in a while I would think about the sweet girl with the brown braids who lived down the tracks.

Grandmother's house was in a small Indiana town, surrounded by an infinite number of corn-fields. A lake there was the mag-net of fun and sport. In town all of the few department stores and businesses peppered two blocks of Main Street, the spine of the town. The town was so small that its busiest intersection, State and Madison in Chicago, had no stop-light.

When I finally reached grand-mother's I was greeted with much kissing and hugging. I always had innumerable aunts and uncles to meet, who were really of no rela-tion to me. Everyone ate a dinner of sugar-brown turkey gorged with dressing, with hot blow-away, buttery rolls. On the table was a bay of sweet potatoes, stud-ded with little white islands of marshmallows. The room was so thickly enveloped in the aroma that I could almost taste the feast by sticking out my tongue.

Mornings I would wake before sunrise, to find that only the per-petual ticking of the clocks dis-rupted the quietness of the house. I put on the play clothes that had found their own way on to hang-ers over night. My feet were cat paws as I stepped over the tired steps on the way downstairs. Straight for the train tracks I would head. These were in front of the house, and they went half way around the kidney-shaped lake. I explored the huge railroad cars, whose hugeness sucked my eye balls out of their sockets. But bacon and eggs soon invited my stomach inside again.

In the afternoons, the boy next door and I went to the beach. As we walked along down the tracks on our bare feet, we were forced to dance over sun-baked stones. I dove off the high diving board and resurfaced, only to find that my trunks had been confiscated upon impact with the water. On late afternoons I went to see my girl friend down the tracks. We talked in paragraphs of giggles, and wrote, "I love you," on little notes to each other. When we kissed each other on the cheek, we had wall-to-wall grins. After kissing on the lips, we ran paths around the house.

I stayed awake at night to see if the old story of Maxinkuckee, the Indian chief, came true. The story says that on clear, star-lit nights, when the air is petrified with an uneasy stillness, the Indi-an ghost of the lake makes trips across the lake. The usually flaw-less waters are broken as though a hundred paddling canoes are on it, and the waves rush to the shores, crying for help. Some nights my imagination helped the story turn real.

Recently I went back to find that grandmother's house is just a house now. She is in her last, inevitable resting place. The town is proud of its single stoplight. Supermarkets and big businesses have sprung up like weeds. A veil of lassitude has covered the once-smiling faces of my playmates. The boy next door is a boy far away. The girl down the tracks has lost her braids, and time has covered the paths around her house."

Mr. and Mrs. Bert R. Ivey of 2220 East Shore Drive returned to Culver last Wednesday, March 31, after a four-month stay at Park City, Fla., which is near Fort Lauderdale. The Iveys reported they enjoyed wonderful weather throughout their vaca-tion and their trip to and from the Sunshine State was likewise most enjoyable. During their stay they visited many of their Hoosier friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Osborn and son, Richard, of Buchanan, Mich., visited Saturday with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Osborn, and Steven.

Father Hesburgh Speaks Friday At CMA Meeting

The Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, CSC, president of the University of Notre Dame, will deliver the main address Friday, April 9, during the annual meeting of the Independent Schools Association of the Central States at Culver Military Academy.

The three-day conference will have as its theme "Independent Education — Its Mission and Survival," and Father Hesburgh will speak at a 9 a.m. session Friday in the Eugene C. Eppley Auditorium.

ISACS is a half century old organization with a membership of 75 independent secondary schools in 13 Midwestern states. Its current president is Major General Delmar T. Spivey, USAF (Ret.), superintendent of Culver, who will be host during this weekend's meeting to 130 headmasters and other administrators of member schools.

Father Hesburgh is one of a series of educators who will address the conference on various aspects of independent school education. A member of the Notre Dame staff since he became veterans' chaplain in 1945, Father Hesburgh has served as its president since 1952. Among the 19 educational, religious, and civic organizations in which he is active, Father Hesburgh is a director of the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Corporation, a member of the Civil Rights Commission, a trustee of the Rockefeller Foundation, and a member of the U.S. Advisory Commission on International Educational and Cultural Affairs.

The conference will open at 6:30 p.m. Thursday with a banquet at The Culver Inn. Under the general theme of "areas of opportunity in independent secondary school education," Harold Corbin, headmaster of Lake Forest (Ill.) Academy, will speak on religion and moral values during the opening general session at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Panel discussion on various aspects of independent schools will be held Friday afternoon.

The conference will close Saturday morning.

April 10 Meet To Organize Group For Canoe Racing

A meeting to discuss organization of a Northern Indiana canoe racing association will be held on Saturday night, April 10, at the halfway point of Culver Military Academy's second annual 60-mile canoe race on the Tippecanoe River.

The race begins at noon Saturday from Leiters Ford, Ind., and will end at the same time Sunday in Buffalo, Ind. Racing teams will stay overnight Saturday at Beason Park, an Academy facility on the Tippecanoe some 17 miles from the Culver campus.

William Garrison, the Academy history teacher who is chairman of the canoe race, said sufficient interest has been generated to warrant discussions towards the formation of an association that might promote, sanction, or better organize other races in this area. Included among those encouraging such an association is Harold Kiehm, a veteran canoeist from Chicago and a member of the American White Water Affiliation, a national organization. Kiehm is one of the participants in this year's race.

Garrison says entries for this year's race are ahead of last year and may reach 75 teams. Men and women, all of them amateurs, have entered from Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, and it is expected that several teams will enter from Michigan. Six recent entries came from a Cincinnati racing club that did not enter last year when the Indianapolis team of 27-year-old salesman Frank Miller and 15-year-old Broad Ripple student Douglas Guion won in eight hours and 20 minutes.

While the Academy has encouraged advance entries for the race, Garrison said that participants may enter by reporting to him at the bridge in Leiters Ford by noon Saturday. The Academy is making food and overnight lodging available to participants.

Canoeists may also get a break from the weather. Sixty teams raced last year in rain, fog, and generally low river conditions. Garrison said the Tippecanoe River level is up, thus providing better racing conditions.

Herbert E. Rieke Is CMA Chapel Speaker April 11

Herbert E. Rieke, a member of the Christian Science board of lecturers, will speak on the topic "What Makes You Happy?" during 10:30 a.m. chapel services Sunday, April 11, at Culver Military Academy.

Rieke is one of a series of guest clergymen of all faiths invited to speak during weekly non-denominational chapel services attended by Culver's 874 students. He will also meet with students during an open house from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday at the home of the Rev. Allen F. Bray, III, Academy chaplain.

Rieke began full-time work in the Christian Science church shortly after his graduation from Northwestern University. He was an Army Air Force chaplain during World War II and held the rank of major. In 1958 he was appointed a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, Boston.

He has lectured in South America, Africa, and Europe, and most recently Rieke has been on a speaking tour in the Orient and throughout India and the Middle East. His home is in Indianapolis.

opened in mid-March just outside Los Angeles, to meet after-hours postage and mailing needs of suburbanites.

The first unit was installed recently at a shopping center just outside Washington, D.C. It offers around-the-clock facilities for buying stamps, postal cards and envelopes at cost, mailing letters and weighing and mailing parcels. In the new model, the vending machines dispensing cards, envelopes, etc., have five times as much capacity, and a larger roof over the vending devices and parcel post drops for better protection of the public.

Noting that the self-service units are designed as a supplement to service, and not as a replacement for central postal facilities or personnel, Postmaster Mattox added:

"While there has been no determination yet of how far this program will be expanded, it has a great potential for helping to meet the tremendous increases in suburban service demands more efficiently, while providing even better service."

HOG PRICES EXPECTED TO FLUCTUATE

Hog prices likely will fluctuate for the next few weeks around current levels — $17.25 per hundredweight at Indianapolis — and rise seasonally to above $20 in mid-summer, say Purdue University agricultural economists.

Continued stability in fed cattle prices is probable for the next month or so, they add. Cattle feeders are marketing their animals at lighter weights and with less finish than a year ago.

Hoosier Grade A milk producers for the next several months can expect prices five to 10 cents higher per hundredweight than a year earlier. The dairy price support for the 1965-66 marketing year has been set at a national average of $3.24 per hundredweight; this is a nine-cent increase.

For poultrymen the prospects are not so good. The economists expect Indiana broiler prices to average during the next three months slightly below the April-June, 1964, level of 14.2 cents a pound. Indiana farm egg prices during the April-June quarter will likely average 26-27 cents a dozen. This is two to three cents a dozen less than in the same period last year.

Corn prices will continue strong into mid-summer, say the economists. Much of Indiana already is a corn deficit area because of the relatively low 1964 yields. This situation is expected to spread over most of the state before the 1965 crop is harvested.

Soybean prices probably will fluctuate around $2.85 a bushel for the next several weeks. Although soybean meal prices are lower than last spring, strong oil prices and export demand are supporting the market.

THE GIFT that lasts for 365 happy days — a year's subscription to The Culver Citizen. Gift cards are FREE. Only $4 in Indiana; $4.50 out of state.

Postal Department Installs Improved Self-Service Units

More service facilities for the postal customer are receiving new emphasis in the postal system.

Postmaster E. W. Mattox commented recently after receiving word from Postmaster General John A. Gronouski in Washington, D.C. of a new improved "self-service post office."

The new experimental 24-hour self-service unit — the second —

START EARLY VEGETABLE GARDEN NOW

You can start an early vegetable garden now with radishes, carrots, peas, beets and lettuce. Late frosts — or even snow — won't kill them.

Before you start, however, consider soil condition and preparation of a seed bed, advise Purdue University extension horticulturists.

Fertilize the soil with three to four pounds of 12-12-12 or a similar analysis fertilizer per 100 square feet before plowing or spading. Rake the surface until it is smooth and mark rows with a tight string. Rows for small seeds, such as lettuce, beets and carrots, can be made with the handle end of your rake.

Large seeds must be planted deeper and rows can be made with a hoe. Planting depth should be about twice the seed's diameter.

Cabbage, broccoli and cauliflower plants can be set out in April, say the horticulturists. After transplanting, firm the soil well and water with a starter fertilizer solution high in phosphorus, such as 10-52-17.

Asparagus and rhubarb roots should be put in by mid-April. Plant both of these in a trench with asparagus about six inches apart and rhubarb roots about 18 inches apart.

Watch out for school children, especially if they're driving.

FACTS ABOUT EGGS

A neatly packaged, highly nutritious food item comes from the hen, points out Miriam Eads, food specialist at Purdue University.

To make the best use of this protein rich bundle, give eggs some tender loving care from the store to the stove.

Keep eggs cool and covered to preserve their quality. Cook them slowly with low to moderate even heat.

Eggs are heat-sensitive. Like all protein foods, they get tough and leathery if cooked at too high a temperature for too long.

That's why eggs should be hard or soft-cooked, rather than hard or soft-boiled. Cooked at simmering temperatures, below the boiling point of water, egg white gets firm, but remains tender and the yolk is smooth.

A green or dark yolk in a hard-cooked egg is not a sign of poor quality or low food value, says the specialist. In most cases, the color is the result of a chemical change caused by cooking too long at too high a temperature. Cooling hard-cooked eggs quickly in cold water immediately after cooking helps prevent the discoloration.

To avoid the same discoloration in omelets, beat the white thoroughly, mix well with the yolk and cook promptly.

The color of the yolk itself, dark gold to pale yellow, is determined by the hen's diet, and does not influence the nutritional value of the egg.

When pouring hot mixtures into beaten eggs, such as in making custard, add the hot mixture slowly and stir constantly to prevent curdling and cooking the egg.

Egg size does not determine quality, reminds the specialist. A large egg may be AA, A, B, or C quality, the same as a small egg.

Top quality eggs graded AA and A have a delicate flavor and a large proportion of thick white which stands up well around a firm, high yolk. They are especially favored for poaching, frying and hard-cooking — uses where appearance is important.

Eggs graded B and C quality are good eggs, but are not as attractive. The whites spread out and the yolks are flat and easily broken. Even so, these grades are good for scrambling, and combining with other foods in baking or general cooking.

BARROW SHOW AIDS CONSUMERS, HOG PRODUCERS

The Hoosier Spring Barrow Show continues to play a major role in familiarizing Indiana hog producers with the type, weight and finish that makes pork more attractive to homemakers.

Dick Hollandbeck, Purdue University extension swine specialist, points out that in addition to the on-foot judging, the carcass contest stresses measurements of meatiness, yield and back fat.

A 16-year summary of the top 40 to 60 barrows in this show discloses Indiana swine raisers are doing a better job of selecting hogs. For instance, the average weight of these animals in 1950 was 225 pounds. At the 1965 show the average weight was 213 pounds.

While the weight declined to a more desirable figure from the standpoint of the packers, the meat yield increased from 71.6 to 72.6 per cent during the 16-year period. During this time the length of the barrows increased from 29.4 to 30.3 inches.

Back fat of the winning barrows in the 1950 show measured 1.8 inches. Hogs in the 1965 show averaged a back fat measurement of 1.20 inches — a decrease of more than one-half inch.

Even more meaningful is the proportion of skinned, defatted ham and loins to chilled carcass weight. These are not only the most valued cuts of pork, but also the best indicators of meatiness of the pork carcass, Hollandbeck explains. The 1950 percentage of ham and loin was 33.66; this percentage had risen to 42.70 per cent by 1965, an increase of 7.53 per cent. Loin eye area in the 1965 carcasses averaged 5.15 square inches, up nearly three quarters of a square inch from the earlier years.

Fat trimmed from the carcasses also has declined sharply over the past 16 years.

CREATIVENESS SPARKS HOME SEWING

Creativeness is the big "why" behind the ever growing home sewing trend.

Women enjoy using color, line and texture to achieve becoming costumes. The feeling of accomplishment that comes with wearing the garment and receiving compliments are other important factors, says Mrs. Bonita Farmer, Purdue University clothing specialist.

Reporting on a survey by the Women's Fashion-Fabrics Association, Mrs. Farmer explores other factors behind the increased fabric, pattern and machine sales in this country.

Sewing to save money is still an important reason. By making the garment, the homemaker can select better quality fabrics and notions for a fashion design with a smaller investment than for ready-made garments.

In addition, the extra touches of workmanship increase the wear life of the garment and make care easier and less expensive (especially true for children's clothing.)

Good fit may be listed as another of the benefits.

A desire of individuality is another factor. Boredom with the sameness of ready-made clothing is relieved by unique combinations of pattern and fabric. The sewing homemaker can express her own good taste.

Men are getting into the act, too. They feel great pride in wearing custom sport coats tailored by their wives or daughters. Some adventuresome young fellows are even trying out the sewing machine themselves!

Deaf Man
Perfects Tiny
Hearing Aid

A remarkable tiny hearing aid has been perfected by a man who has been hard of hearing for nearly ten years.

This small device has no dangling cords or separate transmitting units and represents a new unusual design idea in a product to restore natural hearing.

It was developed especially for those persons who can hear but can't understand. This new hearing instrument provides "ear-level" hearing with the wearer picking up speech, sounds, television and radio at his ear.

Due to the use of transistors, the user cost is extremely low. The instrument weighs only 1/4 oz. It is about the size of a sewing thimble — hardly noticeable yet powerful.

Send your name and address on a postcard to Hearing Assistance, Box 603, LaCrosse, Wis. You will be mailed in a plain envelope information without any obligation whatever.

CMA's April 24 Soccer Clinic To Further Sport

A soccer clinic to further Northern Indiana interest in this sport will be held at Culver Military Academy Saturday, April 24. Talks by soccer coaches from Purdue University, Indiana University and Wheaton (Ill.) College, movies and a demonstration game between Indiana's undefeated team and Notre Dame University's team — public invited — will highlight the day.

The clinic sponsored by Culver Military Academy, in cooperation with Argos High School, is part of a continuing attempt to promote soccer in Northern Indiana. These two teams met in the first Indiana inter-high school competition two years ago.

Athletic director Chet Marshall of Culver and Argos coach Ralph Powell were instrumental in forming a league composed of Divine Heart Seminary, Tefft, Argos and Culver last year. After a series of letters and phone calls, the final impetus for this league's formation came from a soccer clinic held here last May, which drew over 1,000 persons including 20 high school and college coaches.

400 Club: E. Engle 441, D. Lucas 420, M. Fisher 442.

175 Club: M. DeWitt 187, L. Gunder 188, E. Engle 183.

600 Club: U. Gretter 194-192-234 - 620.

550 Club: L. McKee 577, J. Lucas 562.

500 Club: R. Gunder 515, C. Ewing 531, B. Engle 528.

200 Club: U. Gretter 234, J. Lucas 201, 213, C. Ewing 201, L. McKee 222.

Coach Chet Marshall will welcome guests to the open clinic at 9 a.m. April 24, and the first talk of the day will be by Coach Eicholtz, Purdue, on "Soccer in Physical Education."

A 24-minute movie on "Basic Soccer Skills" and a showing of the 1962 World Cup Final match between Brazil and Czechoslovakia will follow. Brazil's Pepe is called the greatest soccer player in the world, and can be described as the Willy Mays of soccer.

Indiana soccer coach Jerry Yeagley, whose teams in his two years of coaching there have won 14, lost two and tied four, will speak on "Offensive Position and Fundamentals and Goalkeeper Play."

Yeagley won three letters in soccer at Myerstown, (Pa.) High School and was on the state championship team. He also lettered three years in soccer at West Chester State College, Pa., during which the team reached the semi-finals each year and during his senior year, 1961, won the national championship defeating St. Louis. His L.U. team (8-0-1) was invited to the N.C.A.A. championships this year but was unable to compete.

Dr. Robert C. Baptista, soccer and basketball coach at Wheaton, will complete the day's talks with comments on "Defensive Fundamentals," and "Offensive and Defensive Strategy." The graduate of Wheaton earned his doctorate at Indiana University and wrote as his thesis "A History of Inter-collegiate Soccer in the United States of America."

His soccer teams have consistently finished high in the Midwest Soccer Conference which includes competition against such teams as St. Louis and Michigan State — the latter tied Indiana this year. Dr. Baptista has developed 15 All-American soccer players at Wheaton.

The Notre Dame vs. Indiana game will be held at 3:40 p.m. and the public is invited. This will conclude the activities for the day except for a supper meeting at 6 p.m.

Coaches To Sponsor County B.B. Schedule

The Marshall County Coaches Association, in an effort to raise funds for use in the association, is sponsoring a county-wide Basketball Schedule for the 1965-66 season.

Two or more schools are combining on a schedule to sell advertising space. The coaches in each community are asking merchants to hold their advertising space for the Coaches Association schedule board.

Culver merchants will be contacted sometime this week by Coach Crosley. If you have not been contacted by the end of this week and you wish to have space on the schedule contact Coach Crosley either at school or at home.

The money received from this project is to be put to use by the coaches for some worthy cause. One suggestion to this effect has been a scholarship fund for an athlete from the county to a college of his choice.

Zing into spring! Corvair by Chevrolet

The steering's crisper, the ride's flatter, the style's spicier—even the grass looks a shade greener from behind the wheel of this new Corvair

For all its finely calibrated instrumentation—tachometer, manifold pressure gauge, even an electric clock with a sweep second hand for rally buffs—the most important thing that happens when you get a Corvair Corsa out on the road doesn't register on the dash. It registers on you.

You feel it in the steering—crisp and precise—as you double back on a curve. In the flat riveted-to-the-road stability of the new fully independent suspension. In the response of the rear engine (up to 180 hp available now in Corsa's Turbo-Charged version).

Drop down to your dealer's now—while the trading's extra good—and see for yourself.
