Split Visit Bloodmobile For Culver

The Marshall County Bloodmobile will be at the Culver Grade School (old) Gym on Wednesday, October 1, from 12 noon to 6 p.m. Mrs. Lloyd Holfield in charge.

The Bloodmobile will also be at the Tyner United Methodist Church on October 1, from 1 to 5 p.m. Mrs. Ray Jacobson is in charge of the Tyner Bloodmobile visit.

New regulations announced by the National Red Cross allows all persons in good health to give blood from age 18 until their 66 birthday, instead of restricting the age limits from age 18 to the 61st birthday.

Donors are invited to call for an appointment.

The next Bloodmobile visit will be at Plymouth November 7. All county residents, except those planning to donate blood at Plymouth, are invited to join the Culver area residents and the Tyner area residents in filling the quota of 151 pints of blood.

Culver May Lose Railroad Freight Service

A legal notice appeared in last Thursday's Plymouth Pilot that may be of interest to local residents. Culver is about to lose their freight station and the Public Service Commission of Indiana has scheduled a public hearing in this cause in Room 707, Oct. 9, at the State Office Building, Indianapolis at 10 a.m. EST. If this action is approved, all local freight will be routed to the Plymouth freight station and the local station building would be removed or disposed of.

CMA To Begin Theatre Series

Area residents are invited to attend productions in Culver Military Academy's eleventh annual concert-theater series. Nine nationally known troupes will appear this year and there will be a bonus of a festival of early movies.

Most of the programs in Eugene C. Eppley Auditorium are slated to begin 45 minutes earlier — at 7:30 p.m. — this year. This will make trips to Culver more convenient for patrons from surrounding communities, according to Harvey E. Firari, director of theater.

The first show on the schedule is a return performance of the Indianapolis Symphony Oct. 15. "This orchestra, led by Izler Solomon and his exciting young associate Thomas Bricecetti, has won world-wide acclaim and produces a sound to rival the best in the land," Firari commented.

Nov. 20 will be a concert by the Paul Winter Consort, a group of seven young musicians who believe that rock, jazz and classical music can be integrated in a contemporary way. Their show features be-bop, Bach, and the Beatles.

Indiana University's touring company returns Nov. 28 to present "The Importance of Being Earnest," an English comedy.

Jan. 25, as part of her first nationwide tour, legendary star Lillian Gish will take the audience back to the days silent films first awed the country. A festival of Lillian Gish movies will be presented Jan. 23, Jan. 24 and Jan. 25.

Korean violinist Young Uek Kim, who first gained national fame with his televised appearance with Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic, will play at Culver Feb. 6.

A Company of 45 actors, singers, dancers and musicians will perform "Show Boat" Feb. 19 and Firari says "This dazzling musical spectacle promises to be the coming season's most event on tour."

The Pennsylvania Ballet March 12, Rod Colbin's unique fencing show March 18 and a concert by the US Army Field Band will round out the spring schedule.

Again this year Marshall County public school students will be invited to attend afternoon performances of three of the programs in a continuation of the Program of Education in the Performing Arts (PEPA). PEPA, financed by the E. M. Morris Foundation of South Bend, will permit students to see the performances by the Indianapolis Symphony, Paul Winter Consort and Rod Colbin.

Groups may purchase blocks of tickets for the season or for individual programs. More ticket information is available from Harvey E. Firari, Director of Theater, Box 11, Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind. 46511.

Season ticket holders are admitted free to all Culver student productions throughout the year. These include "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!" Nov. 8; "USA" Jan. 17; and "The Star-Spangled Girl" March 7.

To Appeal Eight Cent Cut In Budget

The Culver Community Schools Corp. will appeal an eight-cent cut made in its proposed 1970 tax levy by the Marshall County Tax Adjustment Board.

Supt. of Schools Robert Rust said the Board of School Trustees had voted unanimously to appeal the cut to the State Tax Board.

The state board, on appeal, can restore reductions made by county tax adjustment boards.

The appeal, which was to be sent Friday to the state board, asks the board to restore the cut so that the school program will not be hindered.

Cuts $47,000 in Needs

The appeal says that to stay within the maximum as cited to the Tax Adjustment Board, $47,000 had been cut from the needs of the corporation to meet the statutory limits.

The county tax board last week reduced the general fund levy of the corporation eight cents, to $4.60 per $100 of assessed valuation, bringing the total school levy for 1970 down to $5.38.

The cut was made in connection with plans of the school to purchase the Culver Clinic for $25,000 for use as a school administration building.

Fears For Balance

The reduction in the levy made by the board would not interfere with plans to purchase the building or to pay for it this year, but would have the effect of replenishing the budget over a three-year period.

The cut in the levy would reduce the general fund's operating balance from the requested $95,000 to about $80,000.

Following the tax board's action, Rust said the action of the board might be a good way to handle the purchase if the operating balance was larger, but that the $95,000 requested was not actually large enough, and that he did not believe the operating balance could stand the cut.

We've always marveled at the straight forward manner in which some politicians dodge issues.

Have faith in your future, or it's bound to be a failure.

Mike Holloway Awarded Medal For Heroism

Michael L. Holloway of the U.S. Army has been awarded the Army Commendation Medal with "V" device for heroism in connection with military operations against a hostile force in Vietnam on May 19, 1969. Private Holloway was serving with his unit at Fire Support Base Aachen II when the friendly encampment was suddenly subjected to an intense rocket and rocket-propelled grenade attack. With complete disregard to personal safety he left the relative security of his bunker and proceeded through hostile fusillade to his units howitzer parapets. Continuing to ignore the flying shrapnel raking the area, he assisted the gun crews in maintaining a constant and devastating barrage of artillery fire on the aggressor positions until the enemy harangues ceased. His courageous initiative and exemplary professionalism significantly contributed to the successful outcome of his unit's mission. Private Holloway's actions are in keeping with the finest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, the 1st Infantry Division and the United States Army.

Son Of Former Resident Killed In Action

Lt. Moore was a platoon leader with the 31st Infantry and had just been assigned to combat after a tour of duty in Berlin. He was a graduate of San Juan High School, American River College and Fresno State College, and enlisted in the Army March, 1967. His wife, Mrs. Barbara Moore, lives at 1044 Charles Street, Broderick, Cal. Burial was at Mount Vernon Memorial Park, Fair Oaks, Cal.

CHILD-REARING ADVICE HAS LONG BEEN POPULAR ART

DR. SPOCK has had many predecessors and some contemporaries in the business of writing about the art of rearing children. A recent study shows that about 2,000 popular books on child-rearing have been circulated in the United States since 1802. There have been significant changes in the advice contained within them, and probably the biggest change is in the recommendations on parental authority. Where formerly such authority was assumed, or claimed by the parent on the ground of his being "morally superior," now the advice is to justify the authority on the ground of superior knowledge. At the same time, corporal punishment has been downgraded, superseded by the psychological weapons of inducing guilt and shame for wrongdoings.

NATURE'S DELICATE balance has been upset in New York State, where the deer is becoming overpopulated as predatory wolves have disappeared. Studies are under way now to determine just how many deer a given tract of land can support when laws of predatory population control are voided.

UNDERGROUND RESEARCH of outer space has brought forth new class about neutrinos, mysterious particles created by the interaction of other particles from outer space. The evidence is being "dug up" in a laboratory set up in an underground mine in Utah. Tons of rock filter out unwanted particles, while the remainder are caught and tracked by a detector in the lab consisting of four huge water tanks, light-collecting tubes and gas-filled cylinders rigged as spark counters.

GRAVITATIONAL ASSISTANCE

is not the reason lowering is easier on the muscles than lifting, say University of Pennsylvania researchers. Rather, the difference is tied to chemical reactions in the muscles. Lifting uses up more ATP, the chemical energy source in the body. Even when you are lowering at a controlled speed, you are using ATP, but at a lesser rate because of the activities of filaments of protein which make up the muscles.

SEVENTEEN-YEAR LOCUSTS

are not paying attention to the calendar in some areas of the United States, according to cicada researchers. In the Chicago area, numbers of the insects emerged this year, four years ahead of schedule. Too many were involved to be tossed off as individual mistakes, which have occurred in other years. Similar 13-year emergences have been recorded in the South. Extreme weather conditions may be a clue, the researchers hypothesize.

EARTH HITS 360,000 MPH

IN CELESTIAL TRAVELS

HURTLING THROUGH space at 360,000 miles an hour, the earth is heading toward the northern constellation of Canes Venatici (Hunting Dogs), reports a Stanford University radio astronomer. But the nearest star in that constellation is 100,000 years away and traveling on its own course, the astronomer points out. The earth's movement, of course, means that the whole solar system and our galaxy are moving in the same direction and at the same speed.

PHYSICAL EXERCISE is good for the heart, but too much exertion for those not accustomed to it may lead to "oxygen debt," a heart attack and death. "Oxygen debt is what an individual owes his body when it is not able to take in all the oxygen it needs. Out of shape, a person can incur the debt in the simple act of climbing stairs, and a denial of oxygen to the blood can lead to heart damage and death," reports a West Coast medical center. The center is conducting a program of carefully measured and observed physical training for a group of men who either have had heart attacks or have been identified as potential victims.

The object is to strengthen weak or damaged tissue in heart muscle and to reduce the danger of a first or recurring coronary attack.

ACID WASTES from color pigment production will soon be pumped into a porous, sponge-like sandstone reservoir far beneath the earth's surface through a mile-deep well near Holland, Mich. It is similar to another deep disposal well at the Chemetron Corporation facility and will provide additional capacity if that one become inoperable or overloaded.

PILOT-TO-PILOT is the new approach to aircraft accident prevention being tried by the Federal Aviation Administration. It has assigned 31 specialists in central and southwestern United States who are going hanger-to-hanger getting to know general aviation pilots and talking up safety and better flying skills.

RADIOCARBON DATING, which has had profound effect on archaeology and geology since its introduction 20 years ago, has developed a credibility gap. It seems. Discrepancies have been discovered between Carbon-14 analysis and other dating techniques. So a study is under way by University of Pennsylvania researchers to try to find out if Carbon-14 is fallible and why.

4-H Proves Old Adage

"You'd scarcely expect one of my age to speak in public on a stage," recited a 7-year-old school boy. "Don't view me with a critic's eye, but pass my imperfections by... tall oaks from little acorns grow. These thoughts inspire my youthful mind to be the greatest of mankind..."

This lad was not a 4-H'er, but he could have been. He lived in New Ipswich, New Hampshire in 1791.

Fifty years before a poet had written "Tis education forms the common mind; just as the twig is bent the tree's inclined."

Today's 4-H youngsters exemplify those often quoted lines, as did the first Head-Heart-Hands health youth of the early 1900's.

Boys and girls work on projects that frequently shape their lives and future careers. Millions of 4-H alumni say early 4-H training was a big step toward their success.

"Learning-by-doing" has always been the 4-H way. Showing and sharing new knowledge gained and skills learned is part of the 4-H pattern. The steps to growth are unflinching.

A pre-teen girl enrolled in a clothing program starts out by making a simple item and progresses according to her ability. By the time she is in high school, she makes most of her own clothes. As a teen 4-H leader she teaches younger members how to sew.

Like the New England boy and the poet, 4-H youths find plenty of inspiration for mind-stretching and using their hands to master skills. Projects are designed to arouse their curiosity and raise questions. The more they learn, the more competent they become to experiment, explore and find the answers, believes the Cooperative Extension Service which supervises 4-H.

And there are rewards both intrinsic and material.

More than $1 million contributed annually by private sources is channeled to 4-H members through the National 4-H Service Committee. Funds are used for county, regional, state and national awards ranging from certificates and medals to $1,000 scholarships. And educational aids covering many subjects are published and distributed to 4-H leaders and members.

For nearly 50 years, private funds have augmented the public-financed 4-H program. Some of the oldest and largest business enterprises in the U.S. have supported 4-H work since its inception.

Among the scores of 4-H sponsors are: Allis-Chalmers, Armour and Company, Carnation Company, Coats & Clark Inc., The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, General Foods Corporation, General Motors, Illinois Central Railroad and International Harvester Company.

Also, Kerr Glass Manufacturing Corporation, Montgomery Ward, Moorman Mfg. Co., Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation, Ralston Purina Company, The Singer Company, Santa Fe Railway System, and Wilson & Co., Inc., A Subsidiary of Ling-Temco-Vought Inc.

1970 Hemi-Cuda.

This year, there are 10 new Barracudas. And we've changed the looks substantially. (We've packed a 426 Hemi engine under a "Shaker" hood on one of them and called it the Hemi-Cuda.)

However you look at it, our Barracuda is all-new. We've moved it two inches closer to the ground. Pushed the wheels farther apart on our standard torsion-bar suspension. Put a tough optional bumper on the front that comes in most paint colors. And given the interior the design and comfort of a jet cockpit.

If you want a car that makes it . . . Plymouth makes it.

1970 Sport Fury Brougham.

Here's our luxury model. (One of 28 Fury models with a new wide stance.) It's big enough inside to carry six adults in comfort. It's plush. But the price is still Plymouth. Of course, the carpeting is thick, the headlights are hidden, and the price is still Plymouth.

KNOW YOUR INDIANA LAW

By John J. Dillon, Attorney at Law (This is a public service article explaining in general terms a provision of Indiana law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their legal affairs should consult a private attorney.)

TRUTH IN LENDING

Earlier this year, I discussed with you the care you should take to read and understand any document by which you become obligated to make payments for buying on credit or to make time payments on installments contracts. As I stated then, reputable businessmen have always been ready to explain to you the provisions of such documents, and all of the terms upon which they extend credit. The federal Truth in Lending Act, effective July 1, 1969, now requires that all businessmen regularly extending consumer credit fully disclose their charges for such credit. Congress intended not only to protect consumers from the unscrupulous practices of some, but to make it possible for you to shop for credit a you for groceries or an automobile.

Advertising of credit sales and of loans is also regulated. The purpose is to prevent advertisers from luring customers into their stores by promises of no down payment and low installment payments so their salesmen can high pressure the customers into buying merchandise on less advantageous terms to the customer.

The information which must be disclosed and the manner of its disclosure are regulated in detail by the Act and a regulation of the Federal Reserve Board. Subsequent columns will consider these matters in more detail as they affect both the businessman and the consumer. Any businessman regularly extending credit and covered by the Act should immediately contact his attorney for advice as to the effect the Act will have upon him, if he has not already done so.

The Act protects only natural persons who are incurring debt for personal, family, household or agricultural purposes. The Act does not apply to loans made or credit extended to such individuals for business or commercial purposes. The financing of more than $25,000 is included only in the case of real estate transactions. In addition, Congress has excluded credit transactions of individuals with stock brokers otherwise regulated by the federal government and public utilities which are regulated by a state.

The Act contains specific requirement of disclosure for several different types of credit extensions, including direct loans (whether or not secured by the debtor's personal or real property sales on credit, and sales on an "open end" credit plan. An "open end" credit plan is one in which the customer is authorized time to time with the privilege with the addition of a finance to run up an account for merchandise of either paying the balance in charge. andise or to borrow money from full or on paying by installments

SAFETY EXPERTS URGE PERIODIC DRIVING TESTS

Because years ago you could get a license without ever taking a driving test, many an older driver today can say: "I never passed a driving test, but I've had a driver's license for more than 40 years."

Such a driver may be among the safest who ever set foot in a car.

Or perhaps the deadliest. Nobody knows.

What's worse, nobody may ever know until it's too late.

Because there are still many states where some people may never have to prove they can drive. Or at best only once. Even if that once was 20, 30, 40 or even 50 years ago. Even if the car they took the test in was a 45-horsepower job. And even if the speed limit then was 45 miles per hour.

But now there are 400-horsepower cars racing about at speed limits up to 70.

On top of all that, people change too. And not always for the better.

This is one reason why many safety-minded organizations, notably The Continental Insurance Companies, urge us to write our legislators so we can be sure of having driving tests which really test, given often enough to weed out drivers who are better off not driving.

In any age group, not every one should drive.

Paul Robbins To Speak At Outlook Meeting

Paul Robbins, Purdue University Agricultural Economist, will be the discussion leader for the Annual Outlook Meeting. It was announced today by Cooperative Extension Agent Dwight E. Miller. The meeting will be at 8:00 p.m. (EDT), on Tuesday, September 30, at the LaVelle High School, two and one-half miles south of Lakeville on U.S. 31.

All area farmers and farm-related businessmen are encouraged to attend this meeting. Record carry over supplies of soybeans and another billion bushel crop coupled with lower price supports has resulted in lower soybean prices. Export demand for our corn and wheat has been disappointing this past year; what are the prospects? Livestock prices have fallen sharply from summer highs in response to changes in hog and beef output and some slackening in the strong demand experienced earlier this year. Mr. Robbins will help you analyze what changes can be expected and will comment on their impact on the individual farmer and farm-related businesses.

In addition to the short-range outlook for general business and major farm commodities, special emphasis will be given to the outlook for farming for the next several years, particularly for real estate prices and net income.

The national economy is still moving upward, partly due to areal growth and partly due to real growth and partly due to inflation. The objective of recent fiscal and monetary policy was to slow down the inflation. What has been the impact and what are future prospects? What adjustments in business plans are indicated? What does this mean to agriculture?

Questions about wages, employment levels, and effects of Government fiscal and monetary policy will be dealt with at the Outlook Meeting. Any individual with an interest in Indiana agriculture will find useful information at this meeting, and is cordially invited to attend, said

Mr. Miller.

Candelight Ceremony Unites Couple

A candelight ceremony at the Wesley United Methodist Church united Miss Phyllis Lee Jewell and James L. Alderfer in marriage on Saturday, Sept. 20 at 7 p.m. Rev. John Krueger, pastor of the Grace United Church of Christ of Culver, officiated before an altar flanked with candelabra, yellow glads and bronze chrysanthemums. The pews were marked with single branch candelabra and white bows. The ceremony featured a candle lighting service with the bride and groom lighting a central candle together. Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Carl Ebert of Waterloo, Ind.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Jewell of Culver. Mr. and Mrs. Lester Alderfer, Route 2, Rochester are the parents of the groom.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, designed and made the bridal gown and maid of honor gown. The bride's A-line gown of organza over satin was fashioned with an Empire waist, highlighted by lace, with long bridal point sleeves. Her train was chiffon, edged in lace and secured at the waist with velvet bows. She carried a white Bible with an arrangement of phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis flowers.

A college roommate of the bride, Miss Becky Fritz of Freeport, Ill., served as maid of honor. She was attired in a gown of white lace and yellow satin with a velvet trim, fashioned with a high rise waistline and a A-line skirt.

Bridesmaid was Miss Barbara Boatright, Addison, Ill., a college friend of the bride, and the bride's matron was Marcella Lowery, sister of the groom of Granger, Ind. They wore matching dresses of orange bonded lace with velvet trim, fashioned like the honor attendant's dress. All had shoulder chiffon panels of matching color falling to the hemline. The attendants carried cascade bouquets of yellow and orange miniture chrysanthemums.

Laurie Baker, niece of the groom, Mentone, Ind., was the flower girl and she wore a dress of yellow dotted swiss trimmed in velvet and fashioned like the attendant's dresses. The ring bearer was Scott Rowe, cousin of the bride, Lakeville.

The bride's attendants all had matching headpieces of bows and net.

The groom's best man was Wayne Haney of Union, Michigan. Attendants were George Jewell, brother of the bride, and John McKee, uncle of the groom of Rochester. Ushers were Weldon Baker, Mentone and Richard Lowery, Granger, both brother-in-laws of the groom; John Jewell, brother of the bride; and Mahlen Wise, Jr., cousin of the bride.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the social room of the church for approximately 130 guests. The wedding table featured a three-tiered cake and bride and groom cakes in white with yellow rose trim. The cake was topped with a silver cross with two rings entwined. Yellow and orange miniture chrysanthemums and leatherleaf fern decorated the table. Serving were Mrs. Lawrence McKee, Argos and Mrs. Mabel Alderfer, Akron, both aunts of the groom. Also Miss Linda Wise, South Bend, and Mrs. Robert Keyser, Plymouth, both cousins of the bride. The gift table was in the charge of Mrs. Paul Rowe, Lakeville, assisted by the Misses Nancy Keyser, Sandra Keyser, Sandra Keyser, Lisa Rowe, all cousins of the bride, and Miss Sharon McKee, Rochester, cousin of the groom. Mrs. Weldon Baker, Mentone, sister of the groom, was in charge of the guest book.

The bride's going away ensemble was a blue and white suit and she wore a corsage of white miniture carnations with accents of deep orange and brown star flowers. After a wedding trip to Michigan and Wisconsin the couple will be at home at 1069 Lincolnway East, Plymouth.

The bride graduated from Culver High School and Ball State University with a BS in Elementary Education. The groom graduated from Richland Center High School, attended IUSB and is employed at Kaiser Jeep, South Bend.

MODERN FARM "MAGIC" TURNS CORNSTALKS INTO BEEF

Cornstalks used to be plowed under as waste, but cost-conscious farmers these days are putting them to better use. They're using cornstalks for animal feed to help beat the increased cost of livestock production.

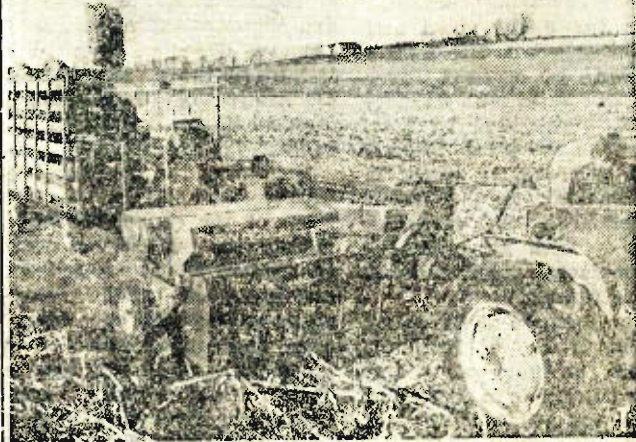

Although retail food prices continue to rise, it's the "middle man" food processor (rather than the farmer) who has generally benefitted most from the increases over the past few years. Most farmers are caught in the same cost-price squeeze that's been haunting segments of our industrial business community — soaring production costs and diminishing returns.

Cornbelt farmers are helping relieve their squeeze, though, by converting cornstalks to beef. It's been discovered that cornstalks can be used as the basis for a beef cow ration. According to agricultural researchers, the stalks aren't good enough nutritionally to fatten beef-producing steers; but, they can provide a substantial amount of the feed requirements of the cow that produces the steer calf.

And this has led some observers to speculate about the Cornbelt becoming "cow country" in the future. The potential, at least nutritionally, seems to be there: Nearly half of the nutrients from a corn crop are in the cobs, stalks and leaves.

Specialists at the University of Iowa, feeding cornstalks from a 40-acre field, successfully wintered 10 beef cows and 10 first-calf heifers in a recent test. The wintering period covered 112 days, and total feed cost for a supplement mix was only 63¢ per animal.

The mature animals maintained their weights, and the heifers gained an average of 100 pounds. In the Iowa experiment, the calves were big and healthy, the dams milked well and birth problems were minimal.

Of course, say the researchers, farmers planning to winter beef cows on cornstalks must make certain they're giving the animals enough mineral-salt-vitamin A supplement. And, depending on the quality of the stalks, some supplemental protein might also be needed. Naturally, during the last month of gestation and the entire nursing period, the animals should have feed with a higher energy content than that in cornstalks.

In the Cornbelt and elsewhere, production of 3½ tons of cornstalks to the acre is not unusual. A farmer could expect to get roughly one bale of stalks for every bushel of grain taken from the field. He can prevent mold or heating in storage by baling stalks when they contain not more than 20 to 25% moisture.

About the easiest way farmers can bale cornstalks is with a special flail attachment made to fit right on a hay baler. The New Holland Division of Sperry Rand Corporation food makes such a flail attachment, one that has a 60-inch cutting width, which is wide enough to handle two rows of widely spaced corn. And the New Holland attachment mounts without removal of the baler pickup.

Cornstalks also make an excellent bedding material for cattle, especially when the stalks are finely chopped — which is easily done with a flail attachment like New Holland's. The stalks compare favorably with straw for keeping animals clean and dry.

Cornstalks are normally the better choice, though, as straw can be a scarce item, and more expensive when available — sometimes $20 a ton or more in some areas.

Putting byproduct material such as cornstalks to good use is typical of the economy-mindedness of the North American farmer. Already the world's most efficient food producer — and despite commonly insufficient monetary reward for his labors — he's still at it, finding ways to keep down the cost of producing

Futures Trading Club Meeting September 29

A public meeting on organizing Commodity Trading Clubs to be held on Monday, September 29, 8 p.m., at the Farm Bureau Insurance Agency Office in Plymouth, has been announced by Aaron K. Schmidt, Area Extension Agent for Management and Marketing. The Farm Bureau Insurance Agency Office, 900 Lincolnway East in Plymouth is about a mile east of the junction of old U.S. 30 and U.S. 31.

All farmers, agri-business people, professional people, and anyone interested in learning more about futures trading clubs is invited to attend. Ladies are also invited to attend.

Commodity Trading Clubs have been successful in teaching farmers and agri-business people what influences prices, and to what extent, on farm commodities as corn, soybeans, wheat, cattle and hogs.

Area Extension Agent Schmidt

emphasizes that the purpose of organizing Commodity Trading Clubs is for educational reasons only. These clubs have given agricultural producers and owners of agricultural commodities a better understanding on when to sell their products and how to use hedging to minimize risks on price declines.

Extension Agent Schmidt explains that clubs meet periodically and do a minimum amount of trading and trade in the smallest amounts allowed. The clubs also always use a feature called "stop-loss" orders to keep any losses to a minimum. The broker maintains close contact with the clubs to advise them on market outlook, trading techniques and procedures.

After the clubs are organized, they will get together for a couple of general meetings, to have presented to them basic principles in futures trading. Marketing specialists will be available from Purdue University at later dates also to explain procedures in future trading.

Those people who enroll will have a sponsored marketing tour to marketing facilities at Chicago. After they have participated in a club, they will understand better what happens at such places as the Mercantile Exchange and the Board of Trade.

It is hoped that several clubs can be organized in the Marshall County area. These clubs will meet wherever is most convenient to them, which could be Bremen and other locations, in addition to Plymouth.

The program, at 8 p.m. on September 29 in Plymouth, will include Russell Zell, Area Extension Agent from Newton County, who will summarize what Commodity Trading Clubs have meant to people in that county. R. E. Schneidau, Marketing Specialist from Purdue University, will explain how clubs have operated in other areas and what resource information can be supplied from Purdue University. Two brokers will be present to explain "stop-loss" orders and what they will do in servicing commodity trading clubs.

Aaron Schmidt states that many people should attend this September 29 meeting at the Farm Bureau Insurance Agency Office in Plymouth to find out what this business of Commodity Trading Clubs is all about. There is no obligation to join by merely attending the meeting. People from surrounding counties such as Elkhart, Kosciusko, and St. Joseph are also definitely invited to attend this important meeting.

Monterey Public

Library

The regular monthly Story Hour was held at the Monterey Tippecanoe Public Library on Saturday with 36 children attending. The children were given a dog name tag, along with a picture of a dog to color, cut and take home with them. Mrs. Lavonne Peterson was the most gracious story teller. She kept the children engrossed with dog stories, showed them various dog story books that they may check out to take home. A film was shown, "Training your dog obedience", compliments of the Ralston Purina Company. Treats were enjoyed by all. Mary Allen and Brenda Reinhold assisted with the children.

Next story will be held at the Library on October 25 with a Halloween party in costume. Everyone should be preparing their costumes for that wonderful occasion of goblins and witches.

The birthday children were Jeff Hunneshagen, Eddie Keller, David Talcot, and Susan Keller. Some of these had birthdays earlier but were unable to attend at that time.

What we look for in life will shape our entire experience, Martin Broones, C.S.B., of Beverly Hills, California, told a Plymouth, Indiana audience Thursday Sept. 18.

To the sick person, to the unemployed person, to someone in search of a stable sense of home, Mr. Broones said, Christian Science asks, "What are you looking for?" The question served as the title of his lecture.

The good that men really need can be found in their true identity as God's children, Mr. Broones told the audience. The need for everyone, he explained, is to find and value this true identity by drawing nearer to God.

Christian Science teaches one how to find his "at-one-ment" with God through prayer, Mr. Broones stated. "When we are at-one with God we are 'at home!'"

He said that Christian Science "shows that our at-one-ment with God gives us health; it gives us employment; it gives us happiness and security."

The Bible, Mr. Broones commented, is full of accounts of men who knew what to look for and found it through prayer. Their experiences, he added, forwarded the spiritual progress of the human race.

As an example he gave the story of Jacob and Esau. Jacob, fearful of an encounter with his brother Esau, whom he had wronged, turned to God in prayer. The prayer led to a change in what Jacob looked for and expected, Mr. Broones said, and his actually changed his nature.

Jacob found love, peace, and good in his brother Esau, Mr. Broones pointed out. The first expectation was of hatred and strife, but the change in Jacob's expectancy saved his life, Mr. Broones observed.

In the course of the lecture Mr. Broones gave several concrete examples of how individuals today have found the same kind of help from a better understanding of God.

He told of a former college wrestler who had been disabled in military service. The man was healed instantaneously of paralysis, Mr. Broones said, when a Christian Science practitioner explained that according to the Bible God had made man in his image and likeness. The veteran glimpsed the fact that his true identity was not disabled or impaired and this healed him. The experience also was the beginning of a fuller and happier life for the man, Mr. Broones added. It was this spiritual concept of man, he continued, that Jesus looked for and found in others when he healed and helped them. The lecturer quoted from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Jesus beheld in Science the perfect man, who appeared to where sinning mortal man appears to mortals. In this perfect man the Saviour saw God's own likeness, and this correct view of man healed the sick."

Mrs. Eddy discovered and founded Christian Science and wrote Science and Health as a textbook to be studied with the Bible. Mr. Broones concluded: "There are many human concepts of being but there is only one view that allows for the living of abundant life. That is the view set forth in the Bible where we are told that God made man in His image, and God saw every thing that He had made and it was good."

Mr. Broones is on tour throughout the United States and Continental Europe as a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship. He spoke in First Church of Christ, Scientist and his lecture was sponsored by First Church of Christ, Scientist.

Shake Up A Frosty Party

Make a party for the sabbath set in just a shake... with a frosted shake. Serve "as is" or fancy up in various shapes.

For the beverages, put out icy-cold cans of the frothy, vitamin-rich shakes. The quintet of flavors—vanilla, strawberry, chocolate, chocolate fudge and coffee—comes in pull-tab cans. Just pop and pour.

If the mother of the house has just a bit more time, she might adventure with these two simple suggestions from the Borden Kitchen for freezing and shaping the shakes. One's an idea for a snowman or other favorite cookie shapes; the second is a tri-color pop from a cup. Here's the how-to-do:

SHAKY, THE FROSTY SNOWMAN: Pour three cans of frosted shake (any flavor) into a jelly roll pan lined with waxed paper. Freeze until very firm; then turn onto a chilled cookie sheet. With a cookie cutter, cut out shapes; then decorate with chocolate chips or shot, coconut or raisins to make gingerbread men or snowmen.

Return to freezer. To serve, transfer from cookie sheet to plate with a pancake turner.

TRICOLOR POP (makes six): You'll need three different flavored cans of frosted shake—chocolate, vanilla and strawberry are the most colorful—six wooden skewers and six 5-ounce paper cups.

Fill one-third of each cup with a layer of chocolate. Freeze just firm enough to hold a skewer. Insert skewers into this first layer, pour in vanilla shake to fill another third of the cup. Freeze until firm and pour in a layer of strawberry. Freeze until very firm. To serve, simply peel off the paper cup.
