TROOPS IN DANGER

Total Obliteration of Shafter's Men Threatened.

WHOLE ARMY IS SICK.

Not a Perfectly Well Man Among American Troops at Santiago.

War Department Finally Awakens to Necessity of Action—Suffering Soldiers to Be Sent North as Rapidly as Possible—Are to Be Transported to Montauk Point, L. I.—Sensational Petition Signed by All the Leading Officers at Santiago.

Washington special:

Gen. Shafter's army will be brought home to the United States as rapidly as possible. Information that the division commanders at Santiago, led by Col. Theodore Roosevelt, had addressed a letter to Gen. Shafter urging the immediate withdrawal of the Fifth corps from Cuba, was contained in a dispatch which was carried to the White House after 1 o'clock Thursday morning, and a council of war was held at once when the full purport of the letter became known.

In the statement presented to Shafter by Roosevelt, and which is indorsed by all the general officers at Santiago, it is the declared belief that half the army will die if kept in Cuba, and that the men must be sent north to save their lives.

For some days back Gen. Shafter's reports of the sickness in his army have been alarming. Nearly one-fifth of his men are in the hospitals. Most of them are disabled by malarial fever. Fortunately there are not many cases of yellow fever as yet, but Col. Roosevelt alleges that these figures, distressing as they are, do not give an adequate idea of the condition of the army. He states that not 10 per cent are fit for active work, and that the men are so weakened by malarial fevers that if a genuine yellow fever epidemic were to break out it would sweep through them like fire through stubble. The opinion has been generally held that if the army were moved to higher and healthier camps in the interior its sanitary condition would improve at once. Col. Roosevelt is of a contrary opinion. He asserts that "every shifting of camp doubles the sick rate in our present weakened condition." That is, the men are so run down that the labor involved in moving camp is too much for many of them. He states also that "the interior is rather worse than the coast," and that "our present camps are as healthy as any camps at this end of the island can be." The sick lists show that those camps are most unhealthy.

Col. Roosevelt declares that if the Santiago troops, with the exception of the immunes, are sent north, in six weeks the malarial will be out of their systems and they will be ready for a full campaign. From present appearances there will not be one, but in either event the army should be moved.

If had been intended for some time that the Santiago troops should be withdrawn as soon as the yellow fever should be stamped out, the War Department believing that the disease could be overcome without too great cost of life. Steps had been taken for the immediate movement of a part of the troops, an order having been prepared directing that all of the cavalry forces at Santiago, and all of those at Tampa, except the Fifth regulars and the First Ohio volunteers, be moved to Montauk Point without delay.

The council of leading officers of the War and Navy Departments held at the White House was called to consider the withdrawal of all the military forces in Santiago as promptly as possible, in the light of the revelations made by Col. Roosevelt and the other officers. It was decided after some discussion that the Santiago troops should be transported to Montauk Point with as little delay as possible.

In accordance with Secretary Alger's order Gen. Shafter's corps, numbering 21,000 men, exclusive of the 4,000 suffering from fever, who will have to remain in Cuba until they are convalescent, will be moved to Montauk Point as soon as transportation can be secured, and until the evacuation by the Spanish will permit of a reduction in the garrison of Santiago. The camps at Montauk Point are in readiness for occupation.

When Shafter's army has evacuated the province Santiago will be turned over to the First and Second United States volunteer infantry regiments (immunes), commanded by Col. Roche and Hood. The Third and Fifth immune regiments, Col. P. H. Ray and Col. Herbert Sargeant, have also been ordered to Santiago, and will soon depart. Two other immune regiments yet to be selected will be ordered to embark in a few days. Four more immune regiments are in process of organization, and will be sent to Santiago

MEETING OF GENERALS SHAFTER AND TORAL AT THE CAPITULATION OF SANTIAGO.

TO INCREASE DEWEY'S FLEET.

Oregon, Massachusetts and Newark Are Likely to Be Sent.

On account of their protracted stay in equatorial waters, some of the ships of Admiral Dewey's command need overhauling, and before long they must be cleaned and otherwise put in order. The Navy Department is considering the question of withdrawing some of Dewey's vessels to Mare Island and Port Orchard for dry docking and assigning other vessels to take their places. The probability ties are that the Asiatic squadron will be greatly increased in the number and character of ships. When the Spanish Government has complied with the terms of the United States concerning the evacuation of Cuba and Porto Rico, there will be no necessity of keeping so large a fleet in West Indian waters. The sending of re-enforcements to Dewey will begin as soon as vessels have been cleaned and overhauled at New York, Norfolk and Port Royal. The cruiser Newark and the battleships Massachusetts and Oregon are likely to be the selections for service on the Asiatic station, forming, with the vessels now at Manila, a powerful fleet of four armorclads and seven other fighting ships, not including supply and dispatch boats and the Spanish gunboats picked up by Dewey in the Philippines.

WADE MUST WAIT.

Proposed Expedition to Porto Rico Has Been Postponed.

"According to the present understanding there will be a suspension for the present of the proposed expedition to Porto Rico under the command of Maj. Gen. Wade." This statement was made by an official at the War Department. Gen. Corbin denied that any such order had been issued in writing, but it was said by others that a verbal order thus understood had been repeated to officials in charge of some of the departments. One reason given was that the removal of the sick from Santiago was the first object now. Another reason stated was that the peace negotiations might render unnecessary a second Porto Rican expedition.

SHAFTER FREED FROM BLAME.

Alger's Statement Defends His Connection with Transport Concho.

Gen. Shafter is released from all blame in sending convalescent soldiers from Santiago in the filthy transport Concho. In a statement signed by Secretary Alger it is said that the commander of the Concho did not report to Shafter that he needed water. The transports were given no shelter from the storms while at anchor off the Cuban coast, and this accounts in a measure for their bad condition. Secretary Alger's statement is based on the report of Col. Charles Heyl of the inspector general's office. Col. Heyl made a personal investigation of the matter.

MONTAUK POINT, WHERE SHAFTER'S ARMY WILL CAMP.

FOR BIG EUROPEAN SQUADRON.

Uncle Sam Will Soon Be Well Represented in Foreign Waters.

The naval officials are considering the formation of a big squadron to be stationed in European waters after the war is over. The intention is to reform the European squadron, but to make it much stronger than ever before. Just before the war began all the American warships were withdrawn from foreign stations except the Asiatic for service in the West Indies, and since then the officials have not had time to bother about arranging for a resumption of naval representation in alien waters. In late years the European station has dwindled in importance to the United States, until only three ships, none armored, were kept there. With the end of the war believed to be near, however, the navy officials have begun to talk over the character of the new European squadron and have practically reached the conclusion that a strong and formidable force should be sent there, not because of any likelihood of trouble with European nations, but to show the people over there the ships that whipped Spain's navy.

FALLING SICK BY HUNDREDS.

Delay in Transporting Prisoners Causes Embarrassment.

The delay in transporting the Spanish prisoners from Santiago to Spain is embarrassing the Government in many ways, as it interferes with the carrying out of plans in regard to our own troops and involves the Government in increasing daily expense. The contract for transporting the Spanish prisoners was awarded to the Compania Trans-Atlantica Espanola, but at the end of two weeks not a prisoner had been embarked for the voyage to Spain. The contract provided that several of the ships be delivered at Santiago within five days. Meanwhile, the prisoners have to be fed at great expense to the Government. They are falling sick by hundreds.

WATER POISONERS EXECUTED.

Treacherous Spanish Sympathizers Caught in Gomez's Camp.

News has been received in Washington that four Spaniards have been executed in the camp of Gen. Maximo Gomez, after a court-martial, for poisoning the water in several cisterns in the village of La Reforma, and that several others supposed to be in the conspiracy have been turned over to the Cuban civil authorities in that part of the island, to be given a civil trial. Several families were made seriously ill from drinking the water, and a number of deaths are reported. The men executed were "presentados," who had deserted from the Spanish camp and entered the Cuban lines, ostensibly to join their army.

ROOSEVELT IS REBUKED.

Secretary Alger Thinks the Colonel Unjustly Criticized Volunteers.

Secretary Alger has made public correspondence between himself and Col. Roosevelt, in which the latter asks to have his regiment of rough riders sent to Porto Rico. Roosevelt makes reflections upon the merit of the State troops as a whole. Alger's reply is curt and cautions Roosevelt against making invidious comparisons. He says the State volunteers are as brave and capable as the rough riders or any other troops.

CAMP ALGER WILL BE MOVED.

First Step Is Taken Toward Changing the Location.

Orders have been issued for the movement of the second division of Camp Alger to Manassas, Va., twenty-five miles south of the old camp. This makes the first step toward the abandonment of Camp Alger, made necessary by an increasing epidemic of typhoid fever.

THIS IS A BURNING SHAME!

Horrible Treatment of Sick Soldiers on Their Voyage to New York.

There are many bright pictures in the present war, and some, unfortunately, that can create no other feeling than that of stern condemnation. Of the latter class is the incident of the transport Concho, which reached New York with 172 invalids from Siboney, Cuba. The misery which these unfortunate men endured during the voyage is almost incredible. Before the vessel sailed from Siboney 177 sick and wounded had been shipped aboard and it never occurred to any one to find out what accommodations there were for that number. Hardly had the vessel got to sea before the men began to suffer with seasickness and fevers of various kinds. Dysentery, diarrhoea and other diseases also broke out and the vessel was a pest ship from the first day. Within twenty-four hours all the ice had been used up. There was no fresh water, the water in the storage tanks being nearly putrid, and there was not sufficient distilling apparatus. There was not even food for the sick to eat, the vessel having been supplied with army rations, something which even well men do not greatly relish. There was also a lack of surgeons and nurses to care for the sick and almost no medicine to administer.

From the first the men suffered horribly. They lay in bunks between the decks, in a heavy atmosphere that was almost intolerable. Some had no blankets and none had mattresses. Their compartments after the first day's sickness were reeking with filth and the odor was enough to sicken a healthy man. Members of the Red Cross Society endeavored to clean the bunks, but the former were so few and the latter so many that on the second round the condition was as bad as on the first, and while the nurses were thus engaged there was no one to minister to the sick and suffering. There was not even a disinfectant on board except a few ounces of creolin and in this foul atmosphere the men who had risked their lives for their country were forced to live or die. Before reaching Fort Monroe three had died and this fact was reported to the quarantine doctor early Thursday morning. That official could do nothing without hearing from Washington, and he went ashore after examining the ship to telegraph the authorities. No answer was received. The dead lay on the second deck, with the living lying around them, until Friday afternoon, when the captain went to sea and buried them in the waves. That evening another death occurred and another sea burial. Meanwhile some supplies had been ordered and when the Concho started for New York she carried a few necessary supplies for the sick. Even then the vessel left under Government orders before opportunity had been given for the purchase of many necessities.

MEN ON YALE FARE POORLY.

Officer of the Ship Tells of the Voyage to Cuba.

An officer attached to the auxiliary cruiser Yale, which recently sailed for Cuba with a regiment of troops aboard, stated that the troops were detained aboard the crowded decks for three weeks, two weeks of which time was spent after the ship had reached Cuban waters. He said the men got soaking wet every time it rained and were herded like sheep on board; that there was but a ton of ice aboard, which was kept for the sick and the captain's table; that water was scarce and its use restricted, and that there were sixty cases of typhoid fever aboard, resulting in several deaths.

SPAIN WILL SUBMIT.

Sagasta's Cabinet Accepts the Terms as Dictated.

PEACE IS ASSURED.

Belief that the End of the War Has Practically Been Reached.

Principal of the American Conditions Accepted To by the Spanish Government—Answer Is Forwarded to Washington Through Paris—Labors of Mixed Commission May Delay Actual Signing of the Treaty, but the Preliminaries Are Full of Promise—Hostilities May Cease Immediately.

Madrid special:

Spain accepts the principal conditions of peace set forth by the American Government and only the peace details are needed to cause all hostilities to cease at once. The war is now over, so far as the two countries are concerned, and a peace delegation will be chosen at once to confer with the representatives of the United States.

The peace conditions set forth by President McKinley were discussed at length Tuesday by Premier Sagasta and the cabinet, and at the conclusion it was given out officially that the terms of the United States would be accepted. Their only reservation was with regard to the method of putting the conditions in force. Spain is in the mood to grant everything, and merely hopes to save herself some slight degree of humiliation.

The news of the Sagasta cabinet's determination to accede to the American demands was permitted to leak out, evidently with the intention of testing the temper of the people. The populace, where not apathetic, seemed heartily glad that the strain is over.

TOOK TWO TOWNS.

Stars and Stripes Raised Over Arroyo and Guayama.

Arroyo and Guayama, two Porto Rican towns, were seized Tuesday and the American flag hoisted by Captain Goodrich of the St. Louis. A detachment landed at Arroyo from the Gloucester and the Wasp and met with no opposition. After entering the town and placing it in charge of his men he moved on to Guayama, four miles west. Here he found that the Spanish troops had abandoned the place several days before. Guayama may be used as a supply depot for our troops.

SPANISH MALTREAT WOMEN.

Troops Burn Property and Shoot Down Porto Ricans.

Spanish troops retreating to San Juan left behind them a path of ruin and desolation. Angered beyond control by the American invasion, the Spaniards wreaked vengeance on the inoffensive natives by burning property and maltreating women and children. In many instances the natives were shot down in cold blood.

Gives Wheeler Credit.

A correspondent of the Associated Press says that but for Gen. Joe Wheeler the American forces would have retreated from before Santiago on the evening of July 1. He was advised to do so by many brave regular army officers, but he replied: "No, the Spaniards are worse off than we are. Pass that word along our lines."

Colonel Compelled to Beg.

El Herald de Madrid says that Don Pedro Verde, a lieutenant colonel in the Spanish army, has been compelled to stand on the street corners in that city and beg for alms in order to keep his wife and children from starvation. He commanded a regiment in Cuba, and, having been severely wounded, was sent home. Being unable to collect his pay, he was reduced to beggary.

War Assessment Is Levied.

The fraternal beneficiary order, the United Workmen, has issued a call on each full-rate member for a war assessment of 50 cents to provide for payment of the certificates of members who have died or may die in the service of the United States during the war with Spain.

Spanish Prisoners Escape.

Eleven Spanish prisoners overpowered their guards and escaped from the Santiago jail. The Cubans claim the keepers, who were also Spanish, set the prisoners free.

If the blood is impure then you are weak and languid; your appetite is poor and your digestion is weak. You cannot sleep well and the morning finds you unprepared for the work of the day. Your cheeks are pale and your complexion is sallow. You are troubled with pimples, boils, or some eruption of the skin. Why not purify your blood?

Baltimore and Ohio engine No. 99, which has just been laid aside at Grafton, W. Va., and will be consigned to the scrap pile, has quite a history. It is one of the Ross Winans camel engines and was built in 1851. There are only four of this class of engines now remaining. During the late war this engine was one of several captured at Martinsburg by the Confederates, and hauled across the country by pike to Staunton, Va., under direction of Col. Thomas R. Sharp. President John W. Garrett, after the war was over, hunted up Col. Sharp and appointed him master of transportation, in recognition of the ability displayed in that unparalleled achievement.

The Cigarette in Diplomacy.

An attaché of one of the legations in Washington said to me the other day: "Diplomacy couldn't get along without the cigarette. For hundreds of years ambassadors used the snuff box as a discourager of impulsiveness and temper. You can't think of Talleyrand, for instance, without his precious snuff box. Recall the paintings and prints of the picturesque old fellow; he seemed to be always offering a pinch of snuff to some other smirking chap. When passions became strained, or things that ought not to be said were likely to be forced out by a sly remark of one's adversary, or a unexpected situation developed, the passing of snuff always gained time. The cigarette does the same business now. The cigar is too big and too heavy for many men, but the cigarette is dainty and harmless, and if it does anything, it steadies the nerve for the time. It is a graceful thing to offer; it affords a chance for a polite smile; it helps a fellow to get an impassive face; and most of all it makes him careful in speech. Why the world never will know how often even war has been averted by the cigarette. There is always a war of diplomats before the open war of nations, and that little roll of tobacco has again and again during the last ten years been a spell of peace among ambassadors when irritation had got the better of them and any moment might hear the irrevocable words which would precipitate war. All the sensitiveness of a whole nation is sometimes tingling in the person of its one ambassador during a critical interview, and I could tell you strange stories, were I at liberty, which I have gathered among the diplomatic corps of various capitals of how international anger has been soothed by the smoke of a cigarette."—Illustrated American.

BEAUTIFUL HOUSES.

The Tendency of the Age is Toward Mural Decorations.

Probably at no time in the world's history has so much attention been paid to the interior decoration of homes as at present. No home, no matter how humble, is without its handiwork that helps to beautify the apartments and make the surroundings more cheerful. The taste of the American people has kept pace with the age, and almost every day brings forth something new in the way of a picture, a draping, a piece of furniture or other form of mural decoration. One of the latest of these has been given to the world by the celebrated artist, Muville. In a series of four handsome porcelain game plaques. Not for years has anything as handsome in this line been seen. The subjects represented by these plaques are American wild ducks, American pheasant, American quail and English snipe. They are handsome paintings and are especially designed for hanging on dining room walls, though their richness and beauty entitles them to a place in the parlor of any home. These original plaques have been purchased at a cost of $50,000 by J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., manufacturers of the celebrated Elastic Starch, and in order to enable their numerous customers to become possessors of these handsome works of art they have had them reproduced by a special process, in all the rich colors and beauty of the original. They are finished on heavy cardboard, pressed and embossed in the shape of a plaque and trimmed with a heavy band of gold. They measure forty inches in circumference and contain no reading matter or advertisement whatever.

Until Sept. 1 Messrs. J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., propose to distribute these plaques free to their customers. Every purchaser of three ten-cent packages of Elastic Starch, Flat Iron Brand, manufactured by J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., is entitled to receive one of these handsome plaques free from their grocer. Old and new customers alike are entitled to the benefits of this offer. These plaques will not be sent through the mail, the only way to obtain them being from your grocer. Every grocery store in the country has Elastic Starch for sale. It is the oldest and best laundry starch on the market and is the most perfect cold process starch ever invented. It is the only starch made by men who thoroughly understand the laundry business, and the only starch that will not injure the finest fabric. It has been the standard for a quarter of a century and as an evidence of how good it is twenty-two million packages were sold last year. Ask your dealer to show you the plaques and tell you about Elastic Starch. Accept no substitute. Bear in mind that this offer holds good a short time only and should be taken advantage of without delay.

Didn't Believe It.

"Goshdurn you an' your old grocery!" shouted the man who had backed up against the fresh paint.

"Didn't you see the sign, 'fresh paint?'" asked the grocer.

"Of course I did, but I've seen so many signs hung up here announcing something fresh that I didn't believe it."—Indianapolis Journal.

The Obstacle.

Wife—If Will goes to college you will have to support him for four years before he finishes, dear.

Husband—I don't mind that so much.

"Then why do you hesitate?"

"I was thinking of the four years after he gets through."—Life.

It Must Be Golden.

The Fair One—I suppose you will marry, though, when the golden opportunity offers, won't you?

The Cautious One—It will depend upon how much gold there is in the opportunity.—Tid Bits.

The greatest homage we can pay to truth is to use it.—Emerson.

AIDED BY MRS. PINKHAM

Mrs. W. E. PAXTON, Youngtown, North Dakota, writes about her struggle to regain health after the birth of her little girl:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—It is with pleasure that I add my testimony to your list, hoping that it may induce others to avail themselves of your valuable medicine.

"After the birth of my little girl, three years ago, my health was very poor. I had leucorrhoea badly, and a terrible bearing-down pain which gradually grew worse, until I could do no work. Also had headache nearly all the time, and dizzy feelings. Menstruations were very profuse, appearing every two weeks.

"I took medicine from a good doctor, but it seemed to do no good. I was becoming alarmed over my condition, when I read your advertisement in a paper. I sent at once for a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking two-thirds of the bottle I felt so much better that I sent for two more. After using three bottles I felt as strong and well as any one.

"I think it is the best medicine for female weakness ever advertised, and recommend it to every lady I meet suffering from this trouble."

Maternity is a wonderful experience and many women approach it wholly unprepared. Childbirth under right conditions need not terrify women. The advice of Mrs. Pinkham is freely offered to all expectant mothers, and her advice is beyond question the most valuable to be obtained. If Mrs. Paxton had written to Mrs. Pinkham before confinement she would have been saved much suffering. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass.

Lost His Life Saving Others.

A country boy visiting New York stopped a runaway team that was about to dash on the sidewalk where there were hundreds of women and children. He saved their lives, but lost his own. Hundreds of lives are saved every year by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. People with disordered stomach, liver and bowels are brought back to good health by it.

He Didn't Quit.

The Gray-Haired Man—Yes, I once made over $50,000 inside of three hours, dealing in wheat.

The Innocent Maiden—Goodness! What did you do with it?

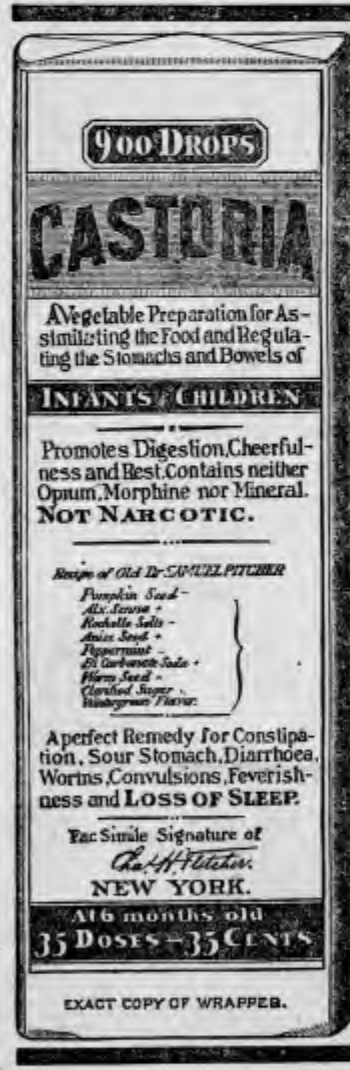

The Gray-Haired Man—Lost it in another deal next day.

AT RATIO OF 22 TO 1.

FREE COINAGE TO BE RESUMED IN INDIA.

Assertion that the Indian Mints Are to Be Reopened to Silver Upon a New Basis of Value—War on a Kansas Teacher.

Indian Mints to Reopen to Silver. A special to the Denver Times from Washington says: "Information has been received here from London through private channels to the effect that the Indian mints are to be reopened to free coinage, and the assertion is made that this will occur at an unexpectedly early date. The report of the Indian commission is to be published before Sept. 1, and this is expected to throw some light upon the details of the matter. The announcement that the important step of reopening the mints will take place comes from a source which is usually reliable. There is a strong effort to have the ratio changed from 16 to 1 to 22 to 1, and it is asserted that a willingness to assent to this change has been evinced by both the United States and France. The establishment of a ratio of 22 to 1 would have the effect of increasing the present price of silver, but it would, on the other hand, probably prevent forever the restoration of the ratio of 16 to 1. There is some disposition to doubt the accuracy of the information, but this doubt appears to arise largely from the fact that it is unexpected."

WAR ON A WOMAN.

Kansas Men Complain of a Bright Female Teacher.

The young men of Kearney County, Kan., have waged war on Miss Tillie Davies, the county superintendent of schools, because in addition to her salary she is trying to make some money on the side by teaching. Miss Davies lives with her parents on a farm in a school district practically depopulated. Miss Davies, her father and mother compose the school voting population and they regularly meet in accordance with law and elect themselves as the three members of the school board. Then the board elects Miss Davies as the teacher of the school and votes a nine months' term at $40 a month on the non-resident taxpayers of the district. Miss Davies' school consists of two pupils. The complaint filed by the men of Kearney County with the Attorney General is based upon the proposition that the young woman cannot draw two salaries from the State at the same time.

TOO BASHFUL TO MARRY.

Girl Who Caused Her Lover's Suicide Cuts Her Own Throat.

At Columbus, Mo., Cora Havens cut her throat with a butcher knife at the home of her father, a farmer, and the attending physicians say that she cannot live. She is the young girl who, because of her extreme bashfulness, several times refused to marry C. L. Falt, a young farmer living near her home. On their wedding day, July 5, she flatly refused to allow the ceremony to proceed after the guests were present, and Falt went home and killed himself by swallowing morphine.

INCREASE IN PENSION LIST. MANY APPLICATIONS ON ACCOUNT OF PRESENT WAR BEING FILED.

Applications for pensions as a result of the Spanish-American war are already coming into the office of Commissioner Evans in Washington. Lida M. Hook, widow of William H. Hook, Company F, Second Wisconsin Infantry, asks for $12 per month. She is the first applicant. Seventy-one others have also filed their applications. Mrs. Hook was bereaved early in the conflict. Her husband enlisted May 12, 1898. Two days later he was taken sick, and on May 15 died at the military hospital of Camp Harvey, near Milwaukee. Three days later Mrs. Hook executed her application for a pension. There are probably already 3,000 cases with such a basis for a pension claim. The second name on the list at the pension bureau is that of Eliza J. Tunnell, who executes a claim for pension as the widow of Elijah J. Tunnell, killed on board the Winslow in Cardeñas harbor. Chief Clerk Bayley said there were 255,000 applications ahead of those who want pensions on account of service in the Spanish war. If all those were adjudicated in the order filed, soldiers, widows and dependent relatives of this war would have a long time to wait. That is not probable, as Commissioner Evans will soon create a special division for the consideration of pension claims growing out of this war.

NO RUPTURE WITH GERMANY. Von Diederichs Will Think Twice Before Provoking Dewey.

In spite of the fears entertained in some quarters that Germany may interfere in the Philippine pie, there seems to be little actual foundation for such belief. The German Government has time and again, according to Washington advices, disclaimed any such intention and despite alarming reports, now and again received in this country from Manila, the Washington authorities are inclined to believe in the German protestations of neutrality. Even should Vice-Admiral von Diederichs, commanding the German fleet at

VICE-ADMIRAL VON DIEDERICHS.

Manila, be rash enough to endeavor to thwart the plans of Admiral Dewey, this country need have no fears of the result. Dewey is strong enough, with the latest naval re-enforcements, to carry out any policy he may elect in the teeth of German interference, and should the two nations go to war it is satisfactory to think that we are much stronger on the sea than Germany. A London paper thus summed up the situation recently: "As for German and American navies, there can, of course, be no comparison. The Germans are fine sailors and brave men, but a naval struggle between the United States and Germany would be short and complete." There is no danger of any rupture, however, between the countries. The German Government knows better and Vice-Admiral von Diederichs may be depended on not to commit his country in the matter.

GOLD FROM SEA WATER.

Scheme by Which Easterners Were "Done" for $2,400,000. The Electrolytic Marine Salts Company, organized for the purpose of extracting gold from sea water, which has been brought into great prominence on account of the alleged course of its vice-president and general manager, Rev. P. F. Jernegan, in buying thousands of dollars' worth of Government securities just previous to his departure for Europe, has suspended operations. Its force of 600 men has been discharged, and no one about the place can tell anything as to the future. The company was organized last year, and it is claimed that 2,400,000 shares of the stock had been disposed of at $1 a share. Jernegan, the originator of the scheme, is a Baptist minister, and he sailed with several hundred thousand dollars' worth of United States bonds, purchased with the funds of the duped stockholders.

Saturday. Madrid advices said the Spaniards are entrenching themselves at San Juan de Porto Rico.

The Navy Department received a dispatch from Admiral Dewey, saying that our forces may have to fight the Philippine insurgents, owing to the attitude assumed by Aguinaldo, their leader. All quiet at Manila. Gen. Merritt arrived and assumed command of our army there. M. Cambon, French ambassador in Washington, on receiving President McKinley's reply to the Spanish note, presented credentials empowering him to act for Spain in the matter of peace negotiations. In consequence the terms as proposed by President McKinley were discussed at once, and when M. Cambon left the White House terms had practically been agreed upon.

Sunday. Gen. Wade relieved of the command at Camp Thomas to lead a provisional brigade to Porto Rico.

Retreating Spanish soldiers in Porto Rico indulged in gross atrocities. Defenseless women and children were their victims. Battleship Texas arrived at New York for repairs, having suffered to a considerable extent in the engagement with Cervera's fleet.

Latest advices from Manila said that Admiral Dewey had received word from the city that the Spaniards were ready to surrender whenever called upon to do so. A direct cable dispatch from Ponce, Porto Rico, said Gen. Miles' troops were gradually and cautiously making their way northward on the military road that extends from Ponce to San Juan. Gen. M. Cambon, French ambassador, was in conference with the President regarding the terms of peace. Reported that the President denied Spain's request for modification of the terms.

Manzanillo ready to surrender to Garcia on condition that the Spanish troops be allowed to march out with their arms. Garcia's army, having captured Wayari, reported marching on Holguin.

Thursday. Third Illinois regiment landed with Gen. Brooke at Arroyo and engaged in skirmishing with the Spaniards.

Gen. Miles formed practically a new plan of campaign in Porto Rico, his object being to hem in the Spanish troops at Alsenita, as well as to avoid mined roads.

In consequence of an appeal by the commanding officers in our army at Santiago, the President ordered Gen. Shafter's troops brought home as soon as possible.

Sagasta summoned political leaders to a conference in Madrid, presumably to discuss the peace terms. All information as to the progress of the negotiations withheld from the people of Spain.

Friday. Captain Edgar Hubart, Eighth Infantry, died of brain fever at Ponce, Porto Rico.

Cape San Juan, Porto Rico, captured without opposition and the American flag raised. A schooner and a sloop captured as prizes.

Sagasta issued orders to the Spaniards in Porto Rico not to resist the Americans to the utmost. He realized that San Juan must fall and he would avoid unnecessary loss of life.

We'll sail away by morning,
At the day's first dawn of light,
When the guns are loudly booming
And we're stripp'd to win the fight.
So cheer up, my own sweet dove,
Let not grief thy beauty stain;
As a proof of faithful love,
Wear this gem and golden chain.
Then farewell to home and wife,
I go where my duty guides;
'Tis a proud and gallant life,
The mate of a sailor's bride.

If I should fall, my darling,
'Neath the foeman's deadly hand,
Remember I died fighting
For freedom's glorious land.
So chase away all sorrow
While the merry bugles play,
Though darkness veils to-morrow,
The light will come next day.
Then farewell to home and wife,
I go where duty guides;
'Tis a proud and gallant life,
The mate of a sailor's bride.

Running the Gauntlet.

I found myself, a few years ago, in a port on the west coast of South America during one of those revolutions which seem so characteristic of the South American republics. I was then an assistant engineer on the United States cruiser San Francisco. The port was still in the hands of the forces of the recognized government; but the revolutionists had been making recent gains in places not far away, and our admiral, in order to protect American interests, had brought his little fleet, consisting of the San Francisco, the Baltimore and the Pensacola, into the harbor. English, French and German men-of-war were also present.

The city lies on the shore of a broad, deep bay. Across the harbor lies a summer resort, once very popular, but at the time of which I write little frequented. The distance from the city to the summer resort is only four or five miles in a direct line, but twice as far around the coast of the bay. A railroad connected the two places and it is of a remarkable ride that I took on a locomotive over this road that I wish to tell.

I had a considerable leisure while we were in port, and as I wished to acquire a knowledge of the Spanish language, I spent as much time as possible ashore, mingling with the inhabitants and soldiers, noting their accent and idiom. Among the men whose acquaintance I made in this way was William McDougal, better known as "Scotty," a grizzled, hard-headed, muscular and well-preserved Scotchman, who, although he had been in the country twenty years, still spoke Spanish badly. He was engineer in charge of one of the locomotives running between the harbor and the old summer resort.

I had frequently ridden with him on his engine, and had derived considerable amusement from his gruff talk and the picturesque vituperation he showered upon his native fireman, who, however, understood not a word of it all.

For several weeks there had been a daily fright on shore over the expected attack by the revolutionary fleet, which was known to be only sixty miles away. The troops were drilling, and a gun had been mounted on a point commanding the harbor. To restore public confidence, the government officials decided upon a grand review of the troops, to be held at the old summer resort, and on the appointed day I rode over there from the port with Scotty, his engine slowly pulling a long train of flat cars crowded with soldiers.

The men were good looking fellows, well uniformed, the very flower of the government army, many of them being veterans of an earlier war. I remarked to Scotty that they should make a good fight.

"A good fight, d'ye say?" replied Scotty. "Ye dinna ken the cattle. If the Donna Maria shows her nose aroun' yon point," indicating the northern entrance of the bay, "there'll be a great scattering."

The Donna Maria as well as nearly all the other vessels of the republic, was in the possession of the revolutionary party.

After the review in the afternoon was over I hurried back to the station, and caught Scotty's engine just as it was starting back to the port with the first train-load of returning troops.

On the engine was a government colonel and some of the field officers of his regiment. I was in civilian clothing, and as I swung up into the gangway, the colonel, in a pompous and bombastic manner, inquired of Scotty why I was there.

"Amigo de mio,"—friend of mine,—said the laconic Scotty, and further explained in very poor Spanish that I was an "Oficial abordo el buque de guerra San Francisco."

At this the colonel relaxed. He and I were soon engaged in conversation—an opportunity of which he availed himself to impress on me the absolute absurdity of any naval force attacking with any hope of success a place garrisoned by soldiers so brave as his own, especially when commanded by an officer so valiant as himself. All his fierce gesticulations and grandiloquent expressions were closely followed and tacitly applauded by his fellow officers; but while these terrible warriors were boasting of their valor, Scotty sat silently on his cab seat.

The pull was up-grade for the first two miles, and the train moved slowly. The track was but a few feet above the water of the bay, which it skirted all the way to the port station. Looking seaward, I noticed the smoke of a steamer rising from behind the north point of the bay, and I called the attention of my companions to it.

"Es of vapor del norte," said the colonel, and the conjecture was plausible, for the mail steamer was expected; but just then a ball of smoke swelled into a cloud from the gun on the south point of the bay, where the steamer could be seen. Then, even as a moment later we heard the report, a low, ugly, lead-colored, two-masted war-vessel appeared from the north.

A flash from her bow, and instantly we saw the dust rise from the redoubt on the south point where the gun was located.

The fireman with a yell of terror, "La Donna Maria!" took a flying leap from the engine on the land side.

"La Donna Maria!" echoed the colonel, turning pale. "La Donna Maria!" yelled the other officers in chorus.

"It's sure La Donna Maria," said Scotty, coolly, adding, with reference to the day.

It was indeed the dreaded Donna Maria, built by popular subscription in the republic, and believed by the lower classes there to be the most formidable vessel afloat.

She paid no further attention to the gun on the point, but steamed straight into the bay. Her commander had seen our train of soldiers. We were in a critical position. It would require fully twenty minutes to take the train the rest of the way to the port station, and, nearly all the way we should be under fire. The Donna Maria dared not shell the town, for if she had attempted it, the foreign war vessels present would immediately have opposed her. A train load of troops was a different matter. She could shoot at them so long as the shells did not endanger anything else.

Room! went her bow gun again. The shell striking the water a few hundred yards off shore without exploding, skipped up a few feet above the car next behind the engine. That settled the colonel. The business-like snarl of the missile set him wild. Drawing his sword he approached Scotty, and in a volley of commands, threats and entreaties, ordered him to back the train to the summer resort.

Scotty paid no attention to him, but glanced at the steam gauge, which already showed a considerable reduction in pressure, owing to the desertion of the fireman. We had reached the top of the grade, and the remainder of the run would be on level track. Shorty kept the train moving ahead.

Again came a shot from the Donna Maria, and this time the shell exploded over the train, wounding some of the men on the fourth car from the engine.

Once more the colonel stepped up to Scotty, with his sword drawn back for a lunge. He seemed crazy either with fear or with nervousness, and liable to do anything. Quick as a flash the engineer drew a big Colt's revolver, covered the colonel, and said coolly, "Stand awn' ye cowardly cur! Dinna ye ken that aither train is following us, and that if we stop, we're lost? My orders are to go ahead, and I'm gann to obey orders. Gie a hand, laddie, and stoke the fire a bit," he said to me.

I pulled open the fire-box door, threw in some coal, took the big poker and stirred up the fire.

The colonel seemed impressed either by Scotty's manner or by his pistol, which was still ready cocked in the engineer's hand. Certainly the colonel had some reason to be excited. His men were perfectly helpless on the cars; behind us was a train, on the seaward side the Donna Maria. Our engine, a poor affair at best, was fast losing her steam. The soldiers on the train were wildly excited, furiously angry at Scotty for not stopping and backing, and only prevented from firing to the cab by the fact that their officers were there and in the tender.

Scotty looked back at the yelling troops with calm contempt; many of them were uselessly firing their rifles in the direction of the enemy, more than two and a half miles away. I was doing my best with the fire, and soon saw a gain in the steam gauge.

"Stek to it lad," said Scotty, never taking his eyes off the others. "How's her steam?"

"It reads one hundred and five. It's going up?"

Scotty pulled out the throttle another notch, and our speed began to increase. We had about five miles to go. If the Donna Maria's shells did us no serious damage, we should make it.

Another puff and a roar from her broadside battery! She was now about two and a half miles away, and could use her smaller guns.

Bang! a shell exploded not fifty yards ahead of the engine. Smasa! a piece of it struck the copper feed-pipe of the left injector! Instantly the whole side of the engine was in a cloud of steam.

"She's all right, Scotty, it's only the pipe!" I yelled; and Scotty never turned his head. The heroic officers were covering in the coal space.

Thud! went a shot into the bank on the land side; it had passed but a few feet over the engine. The steam-gauge showed one hundred and twenty pounds. The old engine was teetering up and down like a yawlboat in a short sea.

Then from the bluffs right over our heads came the roar of a field battery. The government artillery was taking a hand. I looked toward the Donna Maria. Water was splashing high between her and the shore. The range was too long for the light battery.

We had yet a mile to safety. The Donna Maria redoubled her efforts; her sides blazed; but the aim of her gunners was poor. Scotty grinned as he pointed toward them. "They're rattled, lad," he said. "They canna hit the side o' South America this noo!"

And so it was; the faster they fired, the wider from the mark went their sneezes.

When we drew into the port station and safety, Scotty, still protected by his pistol, said to me, "Tell them hombres to go, and go quick!"

I translated, and the officers went—and went quickly, too!

Then, as they left, Scotty stepped over to me, and grasping my hand in a vice-like clasp, said, "Aye, lad, but it's a pity ye're in the navy. Ye'd mak' a gran' engine-driver—in time. An' lad, next time ye're prayin' on yer knees, dinna ye forget to thank God that ye come from a race of men that can keep their wits about them in the time o' danger."—Free S. Bowley, in Youth's Companion.

VILLAMIL A MAN OF NOTE.

The Dead Admiral Well Known in New York Society.

Admiral Fernando Villamil of the Spanish Navy, the torpedo boat expert, whose death in the sea fight off Santiago has been reported by Captain-General Blanco to Madrid, was no stranger in New York. He made a number of visits to the city, the last being in 1894, when he made a tour of the world with 500 cadets for the purpose of giving them instruction. He was a man of much tenacity of purpose, a martinet on board ship, but of pleasant personality when met in a social way. He was born in Asturias, where his wife and daughter are living.

Up to four years ago, when he was a Commodore, he was almost unknown, as he had won his rank by hard work, and was but seldom seen around the court. In that year he was ordered to San Sebastian to act as guard for the youthful King and the Queen Regent. His appointment excited the envy of other Spanish naval officers, who desired the opportunity of being near the royal family.

At that time Villamil commanded the torpedo boat Destructor, a boat of his own designing. It was the laughing stock of the navy on account of its small size and low freeboard. The Queen Regent, however, was greatly interested in this new fighting machine and paid frequent visits to it, causing much heartburning among the other officers. In the middle of summer she and the King decided to take a trip to Bilbao, and chose the Destructor as their vessel. This caused a great outcry, and the Minister of Marine begged the Queen Regent to send the King on another boat, so that in the event of an accident at least one of them would be saved.

"Commodore Villamil," asked the Queen Regent, "is there the slightest danger?"

"None, your Majesty," was the reply.

"Then we will both sail with you," replied the Queen Regent, much to the discomfiture of the Minister of Marine. The trip was made in safety, and Villamil was shortly afterward raised to the rank of Admiral.

At one time when Villamil was giving a dinner on board the Destructor, an incident occurred that illustrates how the vessel was regarded by the Spanish people. An artist, who was one of the guests, was asked to draw a picture of the vessel. He complied with the request, and when he exhibited his sketch it was seen that he had merely put a number of splashes of ink, representing driftwood floating in the sea. Beneath the sketch he had written the words, "Puzzle picture; find the Destructor."

A Lepor Colony.

In a Basque village in the southwest of France lives a family named Cagot. For centuries the members of it have been lepers. They lived in little houses on the outskirts of the town and were under all the restrictions common to their kind in the old days. One of them once presumed to use the general holy water in church and for this crime had his head nailed to the front door of the church.

Indianapolis special.

The Republican State convention met in Tomlinson Hall Wednesday afternoon. The preliminary session lasted but two hours, and after listening to a long address by Senator Fairbanks the convention adjourned until Thursday.

The convention was probably the largest Republican convention that ever assembled in this State. The body was called to order by Charles S. Herrly, chairman of the State committee, who, with a few brief remarks, opened the meeting by calling upon the committees of the convention for their reports. The first of these was the committee on permanent organization, which had selected Senator Charles W. Fairbanks for permanent chairman. His address was looked forward to as expressing in a large measure the views of the administration. Senator Fairbanks' speech, which took an hour to deliver, was pregnant with commendation of President McKinley and his war and foreign policy. He touched on nearly all the important subjects and renewed the promise that Congress will very soon enforce the money plank of the St. Louis platform in a much stronger manner than was contemplated at the time of its passage.

It had been arranged to receive the report of the platform committee at the close of the Senator's speech, but the delegates were anxious to get back to the hotel and learn how their friends, the candidates, were faring, and so it was decided to postpone the reading and adoption of the platform until Thursday.

The convention reassembled at 10 o'clock Thursday morning and was called to order by Senator Fairbanks. Before proceeding to make nominations a resolution authorizing the chairman of the convention to send to President McKinley a telegram of greeting and congratulations for his "wise administration of affairs, both in war and in peace," was adopted.

Republican Platform.

The platform indorses the State and national administrations, the Moll law and the arbitration commission, and promises reform in primary election laws and township and county business. It praises the soldiers and sailors of the present war, and upon the war question says:

While we sincerely deplore the necessity of war, we believe the President and Congress acted wisely in demanding the complete withdrawal of Spanish sovereignty from the island of Cuba and in proceeding to enforce the demand with the military and naval power of the Government.

The subject of territorial extension is not directly treated, but referred to as follows:

Having achieved its manhood, the republic under God is entering upon its greatest period of power, happiness and responsibility. Realizing the safety, future of wealth, prosperity and duty which is even now upon us, we favor the extension of American trade, the reformation of the consular service accordingly; the encouragement by all legitimate means of the American merchant marine; the creation of a navy as powerful as our commerce shall be extensive, and for public defense and security; and the establishment of coaling stations and naval rendezvous wherever necessary.

We most heartily approve the wisdom of the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands as a wise measure, and recommend the early construction of the Nicaragua Canal under the immediate direction and exclusive control of the United States Government, the importance and necessity of the canal having been emphasized by recent events connected with the present war with Spain.

Following is the financial plank:

The Republicans of Indiana are unreservedly for sound money and are therefore opposed to the heresy to which the Democratic party is wedded—of the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1—which we regard as absolutely certain to debase our money and destroy our private and public credit and cause general business disaster.

We recognize the necessity of comprehensive and enlightened monetary legislation, and we believe that the declaration in the St. Louis national Republican platform for the maintenance of the gold standard and the parity of all our forms of money should be given the vitality of public law and the money of the American people should be made, like all its institutions—the best in the world.

We felicitate the country on the fact that in the exigencies of war it became necessary to issue $200,000,000 of Government bonds to meet the extraordinary expenditures, a Republican administration had the good sense and wisdom to put the loan within the easy reach of the people, where it has been wholly absorbed, furnishing a splendid security for their savings, awakening a new interest in the permanency of our government and the soundness of its financial system.

The tariff plank is as follows:

We reaffirm our belief in the doctrine of reciprocity and protection to American labor and home industries, and condemn the Democratic doctrine of tariff for revenue only as unsound and unsuited to the best interests of the country; a doctrine whose falsity has been demonstrated by our experience under the Wilson revenue bill that plunged the country into commercial and financial distress, from which it is fast recovering since the change from the Democratic policy.

Nominations Made.

The following were presented for Secretary of State: Joseph C. Chaney, Sullivan County, the Seventh district, Charles F. Coffin of Marion, and the Eighth district, Union B. Hunt of Randolph. Hunt was nominated on the first ballot, receiving 809 votes.

For Auditor, the Ninth district presented the name of William H. Hart of Clinton, and the same district named David E. Sheerick of Hamilton.

RECORD OF THE WEEK

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

Young Man Sues to Recover an Engagement Ring—Expert Counterfeiter in the Toils—Woman Uses a Horsewhip—Convicts Jump a Train.

To Charge a Lover for Fuel.

Albert Smith of Jeffersonville, book-keeper for the McFutosh Millinery Company of Louisville, has applied to the courts to recover an engagement ring from Miss Nellie Stuart. They were both employed by the same firm and after a year's acquaintance became engaged. A month ago the young woman broke the engagement and Smith demanded his ring. Miss Stuart refused to give it up and suit was instituted in Justice Adams' court. The young woman went to Franklin County, Kentucky, to avoid process. When she returns the case will be tried. Both sides have engaged counsel, and Mrs. Stuart, the mother, has made out a bill for fuel burned while Smith was a caller at the house, and will present it as an offset.

Horsewhipped by a Woman.

Mrs. Della Baugher Nixon horsewhipped Joshua S. Wood, secretary of the Humphrey Smelter Company at Upland. It is alleged that Wood made statements detrimental to Mrs. Nixon's character. Mrs. Nixon purchased a buggy whip and walked a mile to the factory, where she found Wood, and gave him a severe whipping. The blood flowed freely from the wounds upon the defenseless man and he offered no resistance. Wood came to Upland from Quincy, Ill.

Maj. Carter Catches Counterfeiter.

After trailing the maker of counterfeit dollars for four years Major Carter of the Government secret service rounded up Frank McCormick and he is in jail at Anderson. He was arrested while driving out of the city for the Middleton fair. Stacks of the counterfeit dollars and the dies were found on his person. He has been turning out the coin for five years. He hid them in his mother's cellar. The coins have turned up all over the country.

Convicts Escape from a Train.

Charles Neal, Edward McCoy and Edward Janson, en route to Jeffersonville prison with Sheriff Weddle of Jay County, jumped from the car windows while Weddle was temporarily absent, making their escape. The train was stopped and chase given the men, without success. One or more of the men were shot, as blood was found in their path. They are desperate characters and were convicted of highway robbery.

Drops a Basket of Dynamite.

D. Kinnaman, a young Washington farmer, was instantly killed by dynamite. He was carrying a basket of dynamite sticks preparatory to blowing up some stumps. He dropped the basket and the dynamite exploded, almost tearing off his head. David Armors, who was working with Kinnaman, was seriously injured.

Within Our Borders.

The Terre Haute car works are now giving employment to about 800 men.

The First A. M. E. Church of Anderson was dedicated by Bishop Arnett and Elder Townsend.

Mrs. W. R. Brainer, wife of a machinist at Warren, was accidentally shot in the breast by her 14-year-old daughter.

Valentine Vest of Westphalia accidentally shot and killed Fred Kinte while carelessly handling a revolver. Vest was exonerated by the coroner's inquest.

The body of a man named Evans, who lived at Terre Haute, was found on the Chicago and Eastern Illinois tracks near Otter Creek Junction. He was employed at the Terre Haute agency of the Indianapolis Brewing Company.

In a room not frequently used in the residence of her sister, Mrs. William Schoonover of Argos, Mrs. Anna Rich of Zanesville committed suicide with a revolver. Mrs. Rich was a widow, nearly 70 years old, and was considered wealthy, living on the interest of money loaned. The failure to always keep her money loaned worried her.

Burglars blew open the safe in Woodrow's store in Coffey. They got $25 in money and $25 in postage stamps from the postoffice, which was located in the same building. The store was then set on fire, but the blaze was discovered in time to prevent serious loss. The burglars stole Woodrow's horse and buggy and were traced toward Terre Haute.

A cave-in of the walls of the central district storm sewer at Marion caught two workmen, George Canard and William McGowan. Canard was seriously and probably fatally injured, having his collar bone and several ribs broken. McGowan was not seriously injured. Prompt work of their fellow workmen in digging them out was all that saved their lives.

Andrew Ferguson of Gilman claims to be the oldest man in that State. He was born in County Tyrone, Ireland, in 1792, and consequently is 106 years old. His sister, Bettie Carrolton, who lives near Franklin, is 100 years old, and his brother, who died ten years ago, was 112 years. His mother died at 93, and his father lived over 100 years. Ferguson is strong and remarkably active and expects to live ten or twelve more years.

The Indiana oil fields show a healthy increase for July over June. During July there were eighty-three wells completed, of which fifteen were worthless for oil, the rest showing a daily output of 1,910 barrels, or an average of twenty-eight and one-tenth barrels per day. There were twenty-six wells abandoned during the month, and August starts in with good prospects, as there are seventy-one wells drilling and fifty-seven rigs up and ready. This is an increase over June of twenty-one in completed wells, and 850 barrels of new production, a net increase in new work of twenty.

AWFUL COLLISION ON A CURVE.

Two Vandalia Trains Collide Near Waveland, South of Colfax.

Last Friday afternoon at 5:30 two trains ran together upon the Vandalia south of Colfax. The trains were passenger train No. 8, due here from Terre Haute at 9:49 p.m. and an extra composed of empty coaches on its way to Terre Haute. The accident was due to the forgetfulness of Engineer Battersdorf, who forgot that the regular train, No. 8, was upon the road. The locomotives were wedged together and crushed into shapeless mass.

Engineer Higley of the regular was fatally injured and died in a few hours. Engineer Battersdorf's right side was frightfully scalded and will die. One of the firemen was also fatally injured, but the treatment escaped injury. The coaches upon the train were more or less damaged.

A Letter From Santiago.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, July 19, 1898.

MR. EDITOR:—Once more I have the pleasure to write to you and friends, and let you know that I am well now from the fever. I had no time to write letters while the soldiers were fighting and, right after the battles we took sick and a large number had to be quarantined and were not allowed to write. I was sick nine days. Did not get hurt in battle. Had very close call, as near as I want to have them. A person has a funny feeling in battle when shot and shell are whizzing all around him. We are camping on the mountains near Santiago on account of sickness and can see all over the city. We received orders today to prepare to move out of Cuba, where I do not know.

My regiment was in all the battles and engagements. HEDMAN SEYFERTH.

Lucky Escape.

Last Saturday Alvin Easterday drove a load of little folk to the Leiter's Ford picnic and all went well until nearly all of the home journey had been accomplished, when the team became frightened at a cat which was in the road and ran under the horses' feet, causing one of the mags to kick one of his legs over the tongue. The horses then ran away and was pulled into a fence by one of the boys, thus giving the children an opportunity to jump from the wagon. The team then broke loose from the wagon leaving that vehicle a total wreck. It is a wonder that some of the children were not seriously injured and should teach parents that their children are not safe in the hands of a boy.

A Tribute.

We are pained to chronicle the departure of an estimable citizen, Oliver Morris. He is one of the oldest residents of this community when our present city was but a handful of meager dwellings. He has seen this district transformed from a wilderness to one of the pleasant and fertile spots in hoosierdom. He has always been an influential citizen and has lent his aid in all things tending toward the development of the community. He has held membership in the M. E. church longer than any present resident, and for years has acted in the capacity of class leader and Sunday school superintendent. In an official capacity he has acted as Notary Public and Justice of the Peace. It is in the latter official capacity that he has become known far and near for his impartiality and justice. He weighs all evidence and when once he made a decision he was firm in his convictions and could not be induced to change his decision for pecuniary gain or otherwise. In the lucrative affairs of the office, his sympathies often compelled him to abstain from assessing heavy costs, and oftimes the suppliant of justice was made happy by the remission of his official fees. We are sorry that he has decided to depart from our midst and our best wishes go with him and his amiable wife, who has also been a great factor in promulgating the social purity of the community by her gentle, sympathetic manners and ever living upon the principle that noble woman is the greatest gift of God.

A Patriotic Notice.

A barber of a neighboring city has closed his shop and posted the following notice on the door:

To the Public: This barber shop will be closed for a brief period, as the proprietor has gone to help a few of Uncle Sam's barbers (better known as soldiers) scrape the face of the western hemisphere clear of an obnoxious growth of whiskers, commonly called Spaniards. I shall not be gone long as Dewey and Sedley are applying the lather and everything points to quick job and a clean one. I wish to thank the public for past patronage and on my return hope to have a share also.—E.
