We stopped into the Ridiculous Club Room and were greatly pleased with the geniality of the boys this other afternoon. The boys are doing all in their power to make their apartments a desirable place for the young of the vicinity. Their tables are covered with the choicest of magazines, their library has been augmented by choice literature, and social games are always at hand. The criticisms which have been urged against it, we believe are without foundation, and we believe that an honest investigation will decide that for young men it is a desirable insti-

We are pleased to note the great amount of new gravel roads that is being built this fall and winter. That is right gentlemen. Every rod of gravel road you build, not only aids you in handling your farm produce but increases the price of your land, and, by the way while you are at it, do not forget to put a few shovels full of gravel on the old gravel roads where they begin to cut through.

A serious freight wreck occurred on the Pennsylvania railroad near Plymouth Thursday. Ten cars of an eastbound train were ditched by a broken axle. They were loaded with sugar and other merchandise. Traffic was delayed for hours. The passenger trains were run on the Vandalia to the Nickel Plate and to the line at Hamlet.

The railways are expected to yield over two and a half millions of dollars towards defraying war expenses. This vast amount will be collected as taxes in the form of stamps required on bill of lading, etc. Aside from the actual war tax, a large expenditure will be necessary for extra war printing, supplies and clerical work entailed with the war tax law. Notwithstanding this enormous outlay in addition to current expenses, there has been no material increase in railway earnings, and the average per mile fare received from each passenger during the year

A SAD DEATH.

Jesse A. Medbourn's Death a Great Shock to the Community.

The news that flashed over the wires Saturday evening, announcing the death of Jesse A. Medbourn, who departed this life at Louisville, Ky., Saturday Dec. 31st, 1898, was a great shock to the community, and especially heart-rending to his parents, sister and brother, who did not even know that he was ill. The parents had heard from Jesse regularly about twice a month, but had not received a letter from him previous to his death in about three weeks. They expected him home on Christmas, and when upon Saturday evening, a message arrived addressed to his sister Myrtle, and as the message was placed into her hands, that young lady went wild with joy, supposing it was a message from her brother announcing that he would arrive upon the evening train and spend New Year's at home. But after the first ray of exceeding joy had subsided she read, the awful words, "Jesse is dead," when with a wild agonizing shriek, she sank to the floor in a faint. Instantly her parents and brother learned the awful truth, and they also were so shocked that for hours, they could not be comforted.

The fatal message only conveyed the fact that Jesse had died in the city of Louisville, being afflicted with la grippe, and that his body would arrive in Culver upon the early Monday morning train. Jesse A. Medbourn was 22 years, 8 months and 22 days old, and he was universally known in this city and vicinity, as a light hearted, jovial young man, the friend to everybody and everybody his friend. He had been in the employ of the Union News Company about six years, his run being between Terre Haute and Culver, upon the Vandalia R. R., and the past two years, his run was between Louisville, Kentucky, and St. Louis, Mo. He was one of the trusted men in the company's employ, and is spoken of in the highest terms by all of his associates upon the road, who will sadly miss his genial presence, and words of good cheer.

Funeral services were held at the M. E. church, Monday afternoon, at two o'clock, Rev. Fraley officiating, assisted by Rev. Barber. The church was crowded to its utmost capacity with sympathizing citizens of this city and vicinity. The remains were laid at rest in the Culver cemetery.

Since the funeral the following letter has been received from Mr. J. C. Murray, a friend of Jesse's at Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, KY., Jan. 3d, 1899.
Miss Myrtle Medbourn;

I will try and give you a little information as to the cause of Jesse's death. He came in off of his run a week ago tonight, and complained of being sick. I took him down to my house and sent for the doctor, and he said he had a bad case of la grippe. He stayed in bed two days and nights and seemed to be out of his head all the time. I went out on his run last Friday morning, and when I got back Saturday, at 5 o'clock, he had just died. Jesse got up Friday morning and slipped away from my house and went to the office, he was there when I got there and I sent him to his room in a cab, and the old lady he roomed with had to send him to the hospital before I had got back.

but Jesse has often spoken of you to me. We have been the same as brothers ever since I knew him, and that is about four years now. We ran side by side for three years. There is not a better boy known among the railroad men than Jesse was, and they all regret his death very much. I hope he got there all right, for I did all I could to get him away. You may let me know as soon as possible what to do about his things which are at his room, and I will do whatever I can for you. Well I will close for this time, wishing all your folks well in the future.

Yours truly,
J. C. MURRAY.

Musical Concert.

Last Monday evening Prof. Moore gave his vocal musical concert at the M. E. Church, those taking part being citizens of Culver. A fair sized audience was present, which greatly appreciated the splendid accomplishments of the class. As we have stated before without fear of contradiction, Culver has more "sweet singers" to the square foot, than any other town or city in the State, and could turn out a male or female quartet that would open the eyes of the public in general were they to travel upon their merits. Prof. Moore is a vocal music teacher of great ability, and has been giving a large class instructions during the past three or four months. Every song sung Monday evening clearly demonstrated that practice makes perfect, the excellent harmony of 25 to 30 voices filling the souls of those in attendance with rapture, and the song, "The Anvil Chorus," the words being accompanied by striking goblets and steel, were so harmonious and pleasing to the ear, that it was enthusiastically encored and had to be repeated. Miss Nellie Garn rendered, in an exceptionally cultivated and exceedingly sweet voice, a solo, which was highly appreciated, and Miss Gertrude Wiseman, who could easily rank in the near future as one of the great prima-donnas, favored the audience with a beautiful solo. The male quartettes also received due credit, especially the one entitled "Poor Old Joe" in which our "only" Stephen Chadwick, took the part of Joe. In fact the whole program was carried out without a flaw. We understand that Prof. Moore contemplates repeating the program for the benefit of the new M. E. church fund, and should he do so, the old church should be literally packed with citizens from far and near, as a new M. E. church is very much needed.

W. S. Eastorday, Culver's noted furniture dealer and undertaker, has just completed a course in the Massachusetts College of Embalming, attending the same both at Logansport and Indianapolis, and has hanging in his office a handsome graduating diploma. Thus it can be readily realized that he is now prepared to accomplish any work in his line that requires a skillful embalmer, in a manner that will meet with the approval of all concerned. Having had years of experience as a funeral director, he stands today pre-eminently at the head of his profession and guarantees satisfaction in every instance. The above college is an incorporated institution, and has as instructors, men of great ability, and who have given the matter of embalming a life-long study, hence, its graduates are classed the best, or as good as any in the land.

1898 A GREAT YEAR.

MAKES A BIG SHOWING IN TRADE.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Review Points to the Wonderful Increase in Exports of All Kinds—Writing Paper Makers Agree to Enter a Trust.

A Record in Trade. R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "The year 1898 has not only been one of victory, of important increase in territory and of incalculable expansion of the influence of the United States among other nations, but has surpassed all other years in financial and industrial results. The center of financial power has crossed the ocean. After paying debts of several hundred millions abroad and conducting a war to an honorable end the country is lending so many millions in Europe that, for the first time, banks abroad look to New York to dictate the rate of exchange. Exports have been about $1,250,000,000 and the excess over imports about $617,000,000, against $357,000,000 in 1897, and in only two previous years has the balance risen to $300,000,000. Power in the world's markets comes with a demand for breadstuffs and other necessities never before equaled. Exports of cotton have been over 7,700,000 bales, and in no previous year as much as 7,000,000 bales. Exports of breadstuffs have been in value $283,918,294 in eleven months, and have never been as large in any other year. Exports of wheat for the year, lacking a day or two, have been 218,594,686 bushels, flour included, slightly exceeded only by 225,665,812 in 1892, and of corn 200,979,077 bushels, only approached by 189,127,570 in 1897. The heaviest exports of both grains and flour in any previous year were 59,000,000 bushels smaller, only 360,220,513 in 1897. Though wheat was raised to $1.91 in May, the highest quotation, the December average has been only 72 cents, 25 cents below that of last year, but the year's average, 93 cents, is the highest since 1881."

MILLS IN NEW COMBINE. Writing Paper Makers Agree to Enter the Proposed Trust.

A $40,000,000 writing paper trust is being formed by Dean & Shibley, Providence, R. I., bankers and promoters, in conjunction with a syndicate of Boston, New York and Western capitalists, in which Lee, Higginson & Co., and Patrick McCormick & Co. are included. Dean & Shibley organized the envelope trust last summer, but only two other industries, the iron and steel and the cotton, are stronger than the paper trust will be. The writing paper combine is the most important of the four branches into which the paper is divided. Now competition is ruinous and costly machinery must be operated on various grades of paper at a considerable loss of time and labor. Under the combine each mill will manufacture a different class of goods, superfluous officers will be discharged and a saving of fully 25 per cent effected in the forty-seven plants, thirty-five of which are in New England, chiefly in the Connecticut valley. The other twelve are in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Wisconsin and Michigan, in the neighborhood of Lake Superior.

ENGINEER IS A HERO.

Though Severely Scalded, He Prevents an Explosion at Columbus, Ohio.

Lee Chalfant, substitute engineer at Wolf Bros.' shoe factory at Columbus, O., though badly scalded, leaped through blinding clouds of steam, raked the fires from under the boilers and prevented an explosion that jeopardized the lives of 500 employes in the building. Chalfant noticed there was too much water in the boiler, and so opened a valve to let some of it out. Then he went around in front to watch the gauge while the water ran into the well. He soon saw that the water was going out too fast, and in trying to shut it off he was badly scalded, but in spite of the pain he seized a shovel, sprang to the furnace doors and raked out the fires. The boiler cooled and the danger point was passed. Then Chalfant gave the alarm.

GOLD IN COLORADO DESERT.

Rumor of a Rich Find Made by Three Men Near Black Lake.

Prof. G. O. Pearce, the discoverer of large sulphur deposits in San Diego County, Cal., tells of three prospectors who, if the story is true, have made a wonderful strike out on the Colorado desert. "I was at Phoenix the other day with some friends," said Prof. Pearce, "when I met three prospectors who told me they were going over near Black lake this winter. I learned that they had been going over there for the last three seasons, and that last year they took out $4,800 apiece with a dry washer, so they said. The year before that they did even better. They finally exhausted their claim and now are prospecting for another."

JEALOUSY CAUSES A TRAGEDY.

Duluth Woman Kills the Man She Loves and Attempts Suicide.

A woman's jealousy was the cause of a frightful crime at Duluth, Minn. Mrs. H. L. Borglund shot and killed Peter Hanson, a tailor, and then cut her own throat, inflicting a serious, but not fatal, wound. Mrs. Borglund is a widow, 40 years old. She kept a number of boarders, among them Hanson, who is her cousin. He is 30 years old, but although ten years his senior, the widow was wildly in love with him. Hanson paid her considerable attention for a time, but lately had been quite devoted to a younger woman.

FIVE INJURED IN A WRECK.

Accident to the East-Bound California Limited on the Santa Fe Railroad.

The east-bound California limited train No. 4 on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad was wrecked eleven miles east of Trinidad, Colo. The accident happened on a curve and it is supposed to have been caused by the spreading of rails. The observation car, two drawing room sleepers and a composite car left the track. The wreck immediately caught fire from an explosion of the gas in the composite car and the entire four cars were burned up. No one was killed, but five were seriously injured.

Fire Loss of $500,000.

Between 1 and 2 o'clock on a recent morning the night watchman at the Semet-Solvay Company's by-product plant at Ensley City, six miles from Birmingham, Ala., discovered fire raging in the oil house. One hundred and twenty-five coke ovens escaped destruction, but the principal buildings of the plant were destroyed, causing a loss estimated at between $150,000 and $200,000, with no insurance. Otto Aust, one of the workmen who had gone up on a high trestle between the coke ovens and the main plant to connect a water hose, lost his life. The trestle burned down behind him, and he fell off into the flames. Clarence Rust, another employe, was badly burned. The plant cost $500,000 and began operations last summer. Its owners reside in Syracuse, N. Y. The cause of the fire is not known.

Allotment to Washington Indians.

The Government has encountered a difficulty in allotting lands in severity on the Colville Indian reservation in Washington State, peopled by 900 Indians. Indian Agent Anderson and Allotting Agent Harry Humphrey have been trying for some time to allot the lands, but have met with resistance, the Indians being opposed to surveys and allotments unless the Government pays them for the land as the Nez Perces and Coeur d'Alenes were paid for theirs. There are about 1,500,000 acres on the reservation, and the contention of the Government is that the Indians have no title to it. The Government proposes to allot eighty acres to each Indian in severity and give them nothing more. The Colville reservation contains a number of thriving mining towns, among them Republic, where is located the famous Republic mine.

West India Storm-Warning Service to Be Moved from Kingston to the Cuban Capital—Crazed by News of Great Good Fortune.

Secretary Wilson has directed Chief Moore of the weather bureau to move the headquarters of the present West Indian storm-warning service from Kingston to Havana, to establish complete meteorological stations at Cienfuegos and Port au Principe, and, as rapidly as possible, to extend the climate and crop service of the weather bureau over the island. Within a period of probably less than two months our people will be fully informed as to the condition of everything meteorological and agricultural in the various portions of the island, and as to the progress of the rehabilitation of the industries, which, during the recent strife, were either suspended or completely annihilated.

PASS KANSAS RAILROAD BILL.

Measure Before the State Legislature Is Adopted—Its Terms.

The purpose for which the Kansas Legislature was convened in special session by Gov. Leedy has been accomplished by the passage of the bill for the regulation of railroads. The vote in the House was 70 in favor and 39 against the bill, the Populists favoring and the Republicans opposing the measure. By the terms of the bill the Board of Railroad Commissioners is converted into a court of visitation, with full power to hear and determine all controversies concerning rates and to enforce its orders in the same manner as courts of law and equity. The decrees of the railroad court are made reviewable by the Supreme Court. The judge and solicitor are each to receive a salary of $2,500 a year and are prohibited from accepting railroad passes. The new law is to take effect March 15. In addition to its other duties the new court is empowered to settle controversies growing out of strikes on railroads in Kansas.

LEGACY DRIVES A MAN CRAZY.

Receipt of a Fortune Makes Owen Murphy, of New York, Insane.

Crazed by news of a legacy, babbling of untold wealth, a young man lies in a fool's paradise in Bellevue hospital, New York. Owen Murphy knew he had an uncle—"somewhere in the British army," he used to say—from whom he had not heard in years. "Some day your uncle will turn out to be a nabob and leave you all his wealth," his friends would remark. But Murphy replied: "Those things happen in story books. I'll never quit work to wait for it to be luck of mine." Recently the jesting prophecy came true. A letter came to Murphy's home, telling him of a legacy of $25,000 from his long-lost uncle. The prospective possession of so much money unbinged his reason and he was taken, a harmless lunatic, to the Bellevue insanity ward.

Because George R. Sastman, a member of the Twelfth infantry, took part in the celebrated charge of San Juan hill he was released by Judge Adams at St. Louis on his own recognizance. Commissary General Eagan is a gruff and somewhat profane old gentleman. That beef contract which has drawn from him a number of snappy interviews lately gave him a great deal of trouble from the outset. Swift & Co.'s bid was several cents below that of Armour & Co., but all kinds of proofs and arguments were presented to him going to show that the latter proposition was the best and that it should be accepted. Several distinguished gentlemen interested themselves in the matter and a general drive was made at the commissary general. The pressure became so heavy that Gen. Eagan grew irritated and incensed. A few days before he announced the letting of the contract he declared that no Senators or Governors or Representatives or any other persons of political influence could teach him his business and that they would do their packing friend a service by keeping away. Now he probably wishes that he had listened to some of those "blanked politicians" he so scornfully turned down.

A pretty contest is fomenting over the governorship of Hawaii. It is the expectation that the bill providing a territorial form of government for the islands will be enacted into law at the present session. Two candidates have thus far entered the list—ex-President Dole and ex-Minister Sewall. Of Dole's personality naught need be said. Sewall is the son of the late candidate for Vice-President on the Democratic ticket, and his chief claim to recognition is that he supported McKinley and Hobart as against his own father. Neither Dole nor Sewall is popular at large in Hawaii. Dole is the candidate of the participants in the movement that resulted in the establishment of the republic, while Sewall is the center around which the opposition to the present Hawaiian administration gathers.

The President has received a petition from the professional and business men of Rock Island urging that a supplementary treaty with Spain be negotiated at once for the purchase of the entire groups of the Carolines, Pelew and Ladrones Islands. The petition is based upon a ground that civilized these islands fifty years and while Spain Americano effective claim to them until 1867, when the American missionaries were expelled and their property destroyed; that Spanish control has never extended beyond the range of their cannon, and their government is not what it should be. The petition points out the advantages to the United States of the possession of these archipelagoes.

William B. Allison of Iowa now becomes the "Father of the Senate," which title was held by Senator Morrill, who died recently. As a matter of fact, Senator Allison and Senator John B. Jones of Nevada began their service in the Senate at the same time, March 4, 1873, and have served continuously since, but the Iowa father had previously served four terms in the House of Representatives, while Jones, being without that experience, came to Congress eight years after Mr. Allison, and this fact is generally taken into consideration in estimating length of service.

Anent the appointment of an ambassador to St. Petersburg, it is said that if former Gov. Merriam of Minnesota is chosen to succeed Mr. Hitchcock, it will probably be for the reason that a woman wills it. The President has told Mr. Merriam that if he can gain the support of Senator Davis he may have the portfolio. The trouble between the two powerful politicians began when St. Paul society refused to recognize Senator Davis' second wife. She was a Miss Anna Agnew, who had been a seamstress in his family. Mrs. Merriam was the leader of St. Paul's "400," and she and her daughter refused to recognize Mrs. Davis.

Gen. Miles seems to have no intention of backing down in the beef controversy. On the contrary, he is fortifying his position with reports from commanders of brigades and regiments who saw service in Cuba and Porto Rico, both regulars and volunteers. A good deal of this testimony has already been submitted to the war inquiry commission. He says, also, that he is perfectly willing to meet the commissary general before a court martial, and the beef contractors in the civil courts.

The President's plan for a government in the Philippine Islands is the same that he has for Cuba—a liberal allowance of home rule so far as he can find competent natives to administer affairs—the finance, the commerce, the customs, the schools, public works and the general direction of things to be in the hands of Americans of experience.

Consul Heenan advises the State Department that during his thirteen years' experience at Odessa he had never seen an American ship in the harbor, although the official returns show that during the year 1897 alone 1,192 steamers and thirty-four sailing vessels entered there.

WHEN YOU'RE AWAY FROM HOME.

When you're feelin' blue ez indigo,
when you're away from home,
En faces ain't familiar on the new streets that you roam, You'll find them all a-fadin' en they'll disappear from view,
When you run across a feller from the same ol' town ez you.

If you hain't been the best of friends
it softens up your heart, You feel a warnin' to him that'll kinder give a start
To a long en las'n' friendship that you'll miss cart aroun'.

With a good word for the feller from the same ol' leetle town.
You'll find his voice soun' sweeter ez he mentions some ol' name Then it uster when you'd meet him airly mornin's in the lane;
En when you say good by en part, ez somehow folks must do,
You hate to leave the feller from the same ol' town ez you.

Plain Dealer.

THE THUG.

"You fellows have a fine time of it nowadays, with your machine guns and a commissariat that knows canned meat from castor oil."

It was an Indian veteran who spoke —Colonel Carrill—to whom Myers and I returned from dacoit hunting in Burma, had been relating our exploits.
"Fifty years ago fighting was fighting," he went on, "but now—"

We smiled the smile of the young and up to date. What did he know of the vagaries of the modern savage; of the dacoit who came in the night noiselessly and parted life and death with an ugly and unnecessarily large stab in the breast?

The colonel read our thoughts.
"Dacoits may be a stealthier foe," he said, "but for undiluted vagabond-ism and downright villainy give me the thugs."

"They must have been bad," I ventured.

"At the very best, and yet I found a little grain of virtue in one," said the veteran. "Shall I tell you a yarn?
It will be like a page of ancient history now."

"It was in the autumn of 1834," preceded the colonel. "I went out from Haidarabad under Major Groves northward across the Godavery after thugs. Groves sent me off on my own account with a troop of about thirty Sepoys and a couple of noncoms. We had no success until Hosen Ali fell into our hands. He was taken with the proofs of guilt thick upon him and the spoil in his possession. Yet he denied with all the stubbornness of innocence.

"I looked long and fixedly at the man. He was a fine specimen of a fine race. If I had not been so absolutely certain of his guilt I must have doubted that one of so gallant a bearing could be that worst of all criminals, a thug."

"What are you doing here, then?"
I asked him. "What is your trade—your occupation? How did you come by these pearls?"

"If I answer the sahib at all," he replied, "it is that he may be satisfied and let me go on my journey in peace.
I am on travel honestly to my sister's wedding, and the stones are a wedding gift."

"I don't believe a word," said I.
"You are a thug and a murderer and deserve hanging a hundred times, but —make yourself useful, tell me your companions, show me their haunts, take me to the graves of your victims and your life may be spared."

"I know nothing of what you say, sahib," he repeated doggedly.

"Take him away," I commanded,
'and in ten minutes' time hang him.'

"Of course this was pure bounce, but he knew no better. I uttered the sentence sharply and rose to leave the hut. As I turned my back I heard a scuffle, and, looking quickly round, was just in time to ward the prisoner's hands from my throat.

"In another moment the men had him down, and though he struggled desperately, he was bound and dragged to his feet as I resumed my seat.

"None but the guilty would have behaved so," I said sternly. "I knew no better in those days. 'You have sealed your doom.'"

"The man took a deep breath—he was still panting from the struggle—and shouted with an excess of strength and enthusiasm:

"Jey Blowance!"

"It was the war cry of Thuggee, the invocation to the goddess. If anything more was needed to convict him it was provided in the extraordinary change in his appearance. All the signs of vice and cupidity which I had looked for in vain at first were now most prominent in the angry, passion-distorted face.

"It was plain that we had made a capture of the first importance. Such a man would, without doubt, be the leader or at least a very prominent member of any gang with which he was connected and would possess just the sort of information we wanted.

"Informers are supposed to be built of difficult material. However, I determined to try him, and as a first step I had him informed that unless he consented to give the information we wanted he would certainly be hanged in the morning. As an extra argument we built a gallows opposite the window of his cell.

"At first this only excited his derision. The small hours of morning, however, proved too much for him. I was awakened early and told he wanted to speak.

"Tell him he can say all he wants under the rope," was my reply.

"When the hour came, the man was led out. Nothing remained of the scorn and defiance of the previous day.
A night of passion and fear had broken him up.

"As he caught sight of me he called out, 'I will tell all, Sahib Bahadur.' One of the sepoy, previously instructed, began to busy himself with the rope.

"All, I said. 'Nothing kept back?'
'Nothing,' he answered eagerly. 'All I have done and my companions,'

"And their names, all of them?"

"Yes."

"And help us to take them by all means in your power?"

"He hesitated at this, but a glance at the man who held the rope and who had now made a pretty noose in it, was enough.

"I will, sahib," he muttered. 'My life will be saved?'

"On condition that you carry out your promise to the letter I will do my best to save it."

"There, within the yard of the gibbet, the prisoner told a tale of murder and robbery appalling in its extent, sickening in its cold bloodedness and deliberation. To this he added a list of some thirty or forty accomplices, and, with a remarkable effort of memory, described the position of the rude graves of over one hundred victims.

"A couple of weeks of activity passed. Thanks to Hosen, who had been shaved and otherwise disguised, we not only collected ample proof of the crimes committed, but succeeded in securing many of the culprits, who were taken to the nearest court and tried.

"So far the informer had amply fulfilled his contract. He had indeed displayed a zeal which made me at times very doubtful of his sincerity. I found out at last that this thoroughness was characteristic of the man in all things.

"Well, the further work of suppression advanced the more difficult it became. The thugs had enjoyed immunity so long that many of the bands had become careless and were taken with comparative ease, but as the news of their capture spread and the fate which met them became known, the villains became more wary and difficult of approach.

"About a month after Hosen's capture we got on the heels of a band which, by the signs, numbered about forty members. Instead of following them up we crossed the river along the banks of which they were marching, and hurrying on, got in advance of them. We knew they would have to cross later and hoped to ambush them.

"We did not move. Hosen had the whole detachment busy for some hours cutting a number of short bamboo sticks and boring holes in their ends, through which short lengths of cord were run.

"What are these things for?" I asked him.

"Food for the thugs, sir," he replied. "When they taste these they are silent."

"Then I perceived that the mysterious articles were gags.

"They will come across the ford tonight," continued Hosen. "We will be waiting, and as they land, one by one, seize them and stop their voices."

"How can you be sure they will cross?" said I.

"Shall I not tempt them?" he answered. "Shall I not light a fire and send a cry across the water as these would have done if God had not delivered them into our hands?"

"How many of them are there?"

"I should say from thirty to forty.
I know this ford well. Only one man can land at a time. If the sahib will permit, I will stand by the bank and assist them out singly. Some of your men must leave their coats and dress like thugs, and as I hand them over the first of the robbers two of them shall seize him, fill his mouth with wood and tie him up so that he makes neither sound nor motion. In like manner with the others. The jungle and the rain will help us."

"My first indistinct view of the ford renewed my previous distrust of Hosen's good faith. It seemed the last place one would select for a passage.
The banks are ten to twelve feet high, and rise sheer out of the water. But, looking closely, however, I made out a large, flat rock close to the bank, forming a natural, if somewhat difficult step. The bank was only attainable by first climbing the rock.

"The signal fire was lit, and after the proper interval extinguished, and we lay down in silence to wait for the next move. At last we saw the answering fire.

"Hosen let himself down to the stepping-stone and stood erect. At the same moment the shriek of a jackal close at hand made me jump to my feet. From across the river the cry was repeated, and then I knew it was the second signal.

"A minute or two of extreme tension followed, and then, above the whipping sound of the rain on the river, I could just hear the careful splashing of the waters. Soon the head of the first one came dimly into sight, a black, moving spot on the dark water, and behind it, in Indian file, other blots still more indistinct.

"As the leader neared the bank Hosen said a couple of words in 'Moor,' which elicited a low reply. I then saw him stoop and draw the man onto the rock beside him. It was an exciting moment, and I know I trembled—solely, I hope, from over-anxiety.

"As each one attained an upright position on the bank he was gagged, overpowered and laid out in the jungle helplessly bound. There was an anxious pause after the twelfth man, and from the rock below I heard a lot of whispering. I saw Hosen stoop, draw up a large bundle and throw it up onto the bank.

"The thugs were passing us their booty. The remainder of the band brought each a similar parcel.

"As we approached the end one or two squeals escaped, but fortune favored us and no alarm was given. By some means the last man but one to cross took alarm as he reached the bank and yelled out a warning. He was quickly pulled down and secured, but his successor, just about to reach up his hand to Hosen, hesitated and retreated.

"I heard a big splash and Hosen disappeared. He had jumped in after the man and engaged in a struggle which we could hear, but only dimly see. I climbed down the bank and slipped into the water, followed by one of my men. As we approached the thug uttered a furious sentence in a dialect which I did not understand, and the next moment he was free and hurrying away. The sepoy and I dashed after the escaping thug and held him.

"With this we had them all—thirty-three murderers and twenty bales of spoil—a fine haul.

"Following our usual precaution, Hosen traveled with the rear guard, so that the prisoners should not see more of him than was necessary, though I more than suspected that he had been recognized by the old thug. Something had changed him anyhow. He was strangely thoughtful, even morose.

"In a couple of days the case against them was presented. The proofs of their guilt were overwhelming, and as they thought more of defiance than defense they were soon convicted and sentenced, fifteen of them, including the old man who had so nearly escaped, to be hanged, the rest to transportation to Penang.

"The following morning was fixed for the execution. As they stood in the centre of the clearing before ascending the platform Hosen Ali created a sensation by slipping forward and kneeling humbly and contritely before the old thug. The latter, with an indescribable accent of scorn, uttered a couple of words and spat derisively on the informer.

"The next moment the culprits had mounted the gallows. The excitement of this scene was not over when a fresh sensation was caused by the discovery of a man lying a short distance from the gallows with a bayonet through his heart, having killed himself by falling on the blade. It was Hosen Ali.

"One of the bystanders turned toward the still swinging bodies of the thugs, and pointing to the old man said:

"That was his father!"—E. W.
Evans, in Chambers' Journal.

Three Island Cities.

The city of Ghent, in Belgium, is built on twenty-six islands. These islands are connected with each other by eighty bridges. The city has three hundred streets and thirty public squares. It is noted for being the birthplace of Charles V, and of John of Gaunt, whom Shakespeare called "time-honored Lancaster;" and as the scene of the pacification of Ghent, November 8, 1576, and of several insurrections, sieges, and executions of well known personages.

It is associated with American history by the treaty made there December 24, 1814, terminating the second war between England and the United States, known as the war of 1812.

Amsterdam, in Holland, is built on piles driven far below the water into the earth. The city is intersected by many canals, which are spanned by nearly three hundred bridges, and resembles Venice in the mingling of land and water, though it is considerably larger than that city. The canals divide the city, which is about ten miles in circumference, into ninety islands.

The city of Venice is built on eighty islets, which are connected by nearly 400 bridges. The circumference of the city is about eight miles.

The Venetians joined the Lombard league against the German emperor, and in 1177 gained a great victory in defense of Pope Alexander III over the fleet of war vessels headed by Otto, son of Frederic Barbarossa. In gratitude for this victory the pope gave the Doge Ziani a ring, and instituted the world famous ceremony of "Venice marrying the Adriatic sea."

DISCUSS INDIANA SCHOOLS.

Teachers and County Superintendents Meet in State Capital.

The teachers of Indiana, county superintendents and township trustees met in Indianapolis for their annual conference on practical work.

The county superintendents held the meeting of their section in the evening.
One of the important subjects on the program was: "What Shall Be Done With the Graduates From the Common Branches?" It was presented by W. S.
Gibbons of Fulton County and was discussed by H. E. Coe of De Kalb County, E. A. Hutchens of Hamilton County and F. E. Cooper of Lake County. The subject of "Needed School Legislation" was presented by W. F. Lanes and discussed by others. Pupils from a colored school in Madison made the music.

The mathematical section of the State Teachers' Association also held a meeting.
A. S. Hathaway of Terre Haute presiding. Two topics were discussed. One was "Arithmetic for the Common Schools of Indiana." J. F. Haines of Noblesville discussed it from the standpoint of the graded school, E. F. Allen of Indianapolis spoke for the high schools and A. M. Kenyon of Purdue University talked for the colleges. The other topic was "Some Recent Developments in Modern Mathematics," by E. W. Rettger of the State University at Bloomington. The trustees heard addresses from Mayor Taggart, Mrs. McRae of Lafayette and Prof. Ball of Franklin College.

In the evening the association had its first general meeting and heard the address of the retiring president, Prof. Ogg of Kokomo, and also the inaugural address by Prof. Stalker of the State normal school at Terre Haute.

The needs of the schools of Indiana were discussed by the association at its session of the second day. Charles R.
Williams, editor of the Indianapolis News, presented the subject from the standpoint of a citizen; Judge George A. Caldwell of New Albany, from that of a business man; Miss Frances Benedict of Worthington, from that of the teacher; Leo O. Harris of Greenfield, from that of a county superintendent, and B. K. Cramer of Lafayette, from that of the township trustee.
J. M. Coulter of the University of Chicago read a paper on "Nature Work in the Public Schools." The coming Legislature is to be asked to authorize nature study in the common schools from leaflets prepared by Purdue University.

Nine hundred members of the association heard Dr. E. Benjamin Andrews, superintendent of the Chicago public schools, deliver an address at night on "The Public School System as an Instrumentality of Social Advance." The speaker devoted much of his address to a review of the social conditions that exist in the cities. He called attention to the fact that every tenth child that dies in New York is buried at public expense, and the condition, he said, was not much better in other large cities. He said he agreed with the tenor of the writings of Henry George. It was time the world was thinking out some way for elevating the submerged tenth, he said—time that something was done to elevate the poor to higher standards of life. The poor of today lacked resolution because of want of pride. Continuing, the speaker said the laboring men could get all they demanded by standing together. The best anti-poverty specific was a high standard of life.
Effective education of the laboring classes, he believed, was the remedy in sight.

The township trustees, 800 of them, at their meeting in the afternoon, resolved to fight the movement for reform in township government. In a long set of resolutions they denounced the effort to change the present laws. They also declared in favor of the compulsory school law, in favor of placing all highways under the supervision of the township trustees, in favor of cleaning all public ditches by public contract and in favor of a reduction of the present rate charged for legal advertising. The association declined to appoint a committee to meet with representatives of the State commission on county and township reform. Gov. Mount addressed the meeting in the interest of good roads and rural free mail delivery.
The following officers were elected: President, B. F. Johnson, Fowler; vice-president, B. M. Morgan, Indianapolis; secretary, Samuel B. Ensminger, Danville; treasurer, W. F. Males, Evansville.

The librarians of the State, at their meeting, agreed upon a bill for the establishment of a public library commission.
The following officers were elected: President, William E. Henry, Indianapolis; vice-president, Albert Faurot, Terre Haute; secretary, Beile Hanna, Greencastle; treasurer, Jessie Allen, Indianapolis.

The county superintendents spent the day discussing a bill prepared by the superintendent of public instruction, providing for a county board of education in each county, this board to have authority to elect the county superintendent. The bill was finally referred to the association's legislative committee.

Fish Tabooed by Indians.

The Navajo, Apache and other Indian tribes of the far Southwest will not eat fish nor have anything to do with articles made in the shape of fish. This "taboo" which the Navajo extends to all things connected with water. A probable reason why no more children of these tribes are sent East to be educated is a fear that they might be required to overcome this cherished "taboo" superstition, which is as firmly rooted as any religion.—Kansas City World.

Sure Cure for Warts.

It is well established that toads are productive of warts, and here is the counter charm to effect their removal: Steal a piece of raw meat—it must be stolen—rub the warts, and bury the meat under the eaves of the house where water drips on it. When the meat decays and disappears so will the warts.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

RECORD OF EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK.

Hypnotism Leads to Divorce—Expert Burglars Secure Much Money at El- wood—Electric Railway Into Illinois —Wanted with a Corpse in His Arms.

David Price was granted a divorce at Anderson. Two years ago Mrs. Price fell under the alleged hypnotic influence of Dr. Cox of Huntington, W. Va. Though hundreds of miles away, he could, it was shown, control her every action and even against her will draw her to him. When the influence came on her she would set guards around her, but her pain and misery would be such that she was forced to go to him. She is a middle-aged woman and has a family. She disappeared half a dozen times and the last time was found in Virginia. Price began suit for $25,000 for alienation of his wife's affections. Her relatives will also institute suit for damages.

Boy Kills His Baby Sister.

The 6-year-old son of George Keister of Whitley County accidentally shot and killed his 2-year-old sister. During the temporary absence of their mother the boy took a revolver from a bureau drawer, and while playing the weapon was discharged, the bullet striking the infant in the head. Death was instantaneous. Upon the return of the mother she found the boy with the dead body of the little girl in his arms at the door waiting for her.

Robbers Loot Express Safe.

A daring robbery was committed in Elwood, expert burglars gaining entrance to the building occupied by the United States Express Company, and Marlatt & Claw-son's news agency, blowing the safe open.
The express company loses about $1,200, Agent Osborn $50 and Marlatt & Clawson $40. A grip belonging to Ed Caldwell of Indianapolis and containing $100 worth

Killed on Eve of Marriage.

Miss May Cloud, 18 years old, died at the Marion city hospital from the effects of burns caused by a gas explosion. She attempted to light a fire when the stove was full of gas. The case is made more pathetic by the fact that Miss Cloud was to have been married and the home over which she was to preside was furnished.

of the conclusion.

GRAIN AND STOCK.

Higher Prices Anticipated After the Holiday Season.

Although the price of wheat is 24 cents below the ruling price in the Chicago market a year ago, the large export demand continues and many dealers expect higher prices after the holiday season. Corn and oats command better prices than last year. This is due to the increased export demand, to the unusually large quantities of corn being fed to stock and a smaller crop than last year. The price of stock hogs is lower than last year and farmers are marketing earlier than usual in order to save their corn which is worth about as much now as it would be if fed to stock. Hog receipts at Chicago are the heaviest on record for the month of December. It is likely that after the great rush the market prices will tend upward.

In the matter of crops of all kinds farmers have been very fortunate this year. Besides a good wheat crop, an unusually good corn crop has been harvested. The hog crop is also larger than usual and the season has been a good one for fattening the stock. In some local ties hogs have died off with the cholera, but its ravages have not been general.

Farmers realize from corn and hogs much better returns than from wheat and oats and notwithstanding the low prices farmers will have several million dollars worth of products to market this year.—Ma.

A Good Year's Business.

While conversing with Marbaugh Bros., hardware merchants of this place, a few days ago we learned that their business for 1898 outclassed any other previous year. In 1891 it amounted to $10,000 while the past year it ran above $27,000. Why is this so? Because they are headiers and believe in using printers ink freely. They know that advertising pays and do a great deal of it. We will venture to say that they have done more business during 1898 than any two hardware firms in the northern part of the state. Following is a list of articles sold: Two engines, twelve separators, four clover mowers, twenty wagons, ninety three buggies and carriages, four riding plows, fifty-two cultivators, forty-one walking plows, thirty one harrows, six wind pumps, fifty seven sets of harness, 13 binders, 21 mowers, six Superior disk and How drills, 63 heating and cookstoves, two disk harrows, 50 planters and 23 corn planters.—Monterey Sun.

Dr. D. C. Shelburner, made his regular trip to Culver Thursday, and while here treated a large number of patients. He will come again Thursday, Jan. 26th, 1899. He is giving great satisfaction in treating chronic diseases, and invites all those troubled with a complication of ailments to call and see him. Remember that consultation and examinations are free. Don't stay away for lack of cash, as the doctor will make all arrangements perfectly satisfactory.

In a New York theatre the other night, Hobson's picture was hissed at by a large crowd and exceedingly refined audience so the papers say. Poor Hobson, just because he "smacked" 400 or 500 narrow faced girls, he is treated shamefully. Now we don't blame him; and will wager a cookie that two thirds of the fellows in that audience would just jump at the chance to have taken Hobson's place. Its human nature you know, and as long as the dear girls will make fools of themselves, well you can't blame the man.

WHAT THE WAR COST

WASHINGTON OFFICIALS SAY IT WILL REACH $250,000,000.

This Is About the Amount Estimated by Careful Observers at the Time the Protocol Was Signed—Mexican Ambassador Dies from Appendicitis.

The cost of the Spanish war, including garrisons in the dependencies during the remainder of the present fiscal year, will probably fall within the limit of $250,000,000. This was about the amount estimated by careful observers at the time of the signing of the peace protocol in August, and the estimate has been sustained by subsequent events.

The signing of the protocol was far from putting an end to the expenditures, and the net cost of the military and naval service above the cost on a peace basis was actually larger in September than in August. The figures for later months have shown a gradual decline of several millions per month, and it now looks as though existing revenue laws would pay most of the expenses for garrisons until the close of the fiscal year on June 30 next.

Stated in round figures the combined cost of the army and navy service above the cost of 1897, when both services were upon a peace basis, was $19,000,000 in May, $23,000,000 in June, $29,000,000 in July, $22,000,000 in August, $25,000,000 in September, $20,000,000 in October and $17,000,000 in November. The cost during December has been about $15,000,000.

These expenditures are not entirely for the maintenance of troops now in the field, but involve the settlement of contracts entered upon in the spring, the manufacture of arms and supplies at the armories, which is still going on at a higher rate than before the war, and the payment of troops who have been mustered out of service.

The following table exhibits the warrants drawn upon the treasury for the service of the War and Navy Departments for each month since the emergency appropriation of $50,000,000 was made by Congress, the warrants drawn for the same months of 1897, and the excess of the warrants this year over those of last year, which indicates substantially the additional military and naval expense imposed upon the country by the expulsion of Spain from Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines:

Totals.	$72,688,493	$28,150,104	$44,538,389

These figures show an expense for the war amounting to $185,803,229, which is likely to be swelled to about $188,000,000 at the close of the present month. The figures for December will be between $14,000,000 and $15,000,000, but a further shrinkage is likely to occur during January and still further decline during the following months. It is not unreasonable, therefore, to estimate the average war expenditure for the remaining six months of the fiscal year at $10,000,000 per month, which would add $60,000,000 to the expenditures already incurred.

This would bring the total expenditure for the fiscal year close up to $250,000,000. What it will be in the future cannot yet be determined, but it is probable that a considerable portion of the expense for garrisons will be defrayed from the revenues of the new dependencies.

WAKE ISLAND.

Uninhabited Speck in the Pacific to Be Used as a Cable Station.

The steamship that left San Francisco last week for Honolulu is said to carry instructions and dispatches to the commander of the Bennington, now at Wake Island, directing him to proceed to Wake Island and take possession of it in behalf of the United States. The island is uninhabited and valueless for general purposes, but it is wanted by this Government as a cable station. A Pacific cable connecting the Philippines and Hawaii with the United States is one of the first necessities imposed by the treaty of Paris which has so materially changed the map of the Pacific. As the American peace commission did not succeed in obtaining one of the Carolines as a cable station, Wake Island, situated in latitude 19 north, longitude 168 east, will supply the place. The island lies about 2,000 miles from Niihau, the westernmost of the Hawaiian group, and 1,300 miles east of Guam. Being in almost the direct line between the United States and its Pacific possessions, it is admirably adapted to the purposes of a cable station.

MRS. BOTKIN GUILTY OF MURDER

California Jury Sentences Her to Life Imprisonment.

At San Francisco, Mrs. Cordelia Botkin was found guilty of murder in the first degree for causing the death of Mrs. John P. Dunning by sending a box of poisoned candy to her temporary home in Dover, Del. The condemned woman will be spared death on the gallows, however, the jury imposing the penalty of life imprisonment. The verdict was unexpected. An acquittal was confidently awaited by the defense, while the prosecution feared disagreement.

The crime for which Mrs. Botkin stands convicted is one of national interest, owing to the peculiar circumstances connected therewith. On Aug. 12, 1898, Mrs. John P. Dunning, her sister, Mrs. Dean, and a number of others partook of some candy at the home of Mrs. Dunning's father, in Dover, Del. Mrs. Dunning and Mrs. Dean died, and investigation showed that the candy had been heavily dosed with crystallized arsenic.

In the box of candy was a note signed "Mrs. C.," sending love to Mrs. Dunning and her baby. By a wonderful chain of circumstances the crime was traced to Mrs. Cordelia Botkin, who had become infatuated with Dunning during his career in San Francisco. Mrs. Dunning had, previous to receiving the candy, received anonymous letters, which Dunning declared had been written by Mrs. Botkin.

Handwriting experts declared positively that Mrs. Botkin wrote the note in, and the address on, the box of candy. Clerks at a candy store testified to the very day on which Mrs. Botkin had purchased the candy.

SEÑOR ROMERO DEAD.

Ambassador of Mexico Passes Away at Washington.

Señor Don Matias Romero, the Mexican ambassador, is dead. He had been confined to his room at the legation in Washington suffering from appendicitis.

Mr. Romero underwent a surgical operation on Wednesday, which lasted one hour, notwithstanding which the patient came out of the ordeal in a condition that was encouraging to his physicians and friends. Soon after Thursday midnight, however, the patient began to sink rapidly, and his death occurred at 4 o'clock in the morning.

Señor Romero was one of the most eminent statesmen and diplomats of Mexico. He was born at Oaxaca Feb. 24, 1837. He first entered the foreign office in 1855. In December, 1859, he came to Washington as first secretary of the Mexican legation. He returned to Mexico in 1863, and after serving as chief of staff for Gen. Diaz during the war against the French, he was, in October of that year, accredited by President Juarez as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Washington.

Señor Romero returned to Mexico in January, 1868, and was appointed secretary of the treasury. In 1880 he served as postmaster general, and in March, 1882, came back to Washington as minister, and has remained here ever since, with the exception of ten months, when he again served as secretary of the treasury of Mexico. A few weeks ago his official rank was raised to that of ambassador.

VIRGINIA FAIR TO MARRY.

Her Engagement to William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Is Announced.

The engagement of Miss Virginia Fair to William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., is announced. Current gossip has betrothed Miss Fair so many times in the last few years that the report was not credited at first, but it was soon confirmed by her sister, Mrs. Herman Oelrichs. Miss Fair is a daughter of the noted Pacific coast millionaire, from whom she inherited about $3,000,000. Young Vanderbilt, of course, has a great deal more. His father entirely approves the match. Young Vanderbilt is now a student at the Harvard scientific school. He is about two years younger than Miss Fair.

THEY DID NOT ADVERTISE.

Noticeable Fact Regarding Ten Failed New York Firms.

Since Christmas there have been over a dozen failures of New York concerns that made a specialty of goods intended for holiday presents. Some of these carried large stocks and were entitled to the designation "big." In one or two instances the stocks were valued at more than $250,000. The noticeable thing about each of the collapsed concerns is that it did not advertise in the newspapers. The stores that did advertise were crowded with customers from the commencement of the holiday season to the hour of closing the night before Christmas. They all report the greatest holiday business in years.

The refusal of the standing committee of the Episcopal diocese of Nebraska to give its consent to the consecration of Dr. Morrison of Chicago as bishop of Iowa has created a sensation. The committee also charges, "political double dealing of the enemies of Dr. Greene, in charging him with conduct to disgrace the church and cloth."

Senator Justin S. Morrill of Vermont, the venerable "father of the Senate," died at 1:25 o'clock Wednesday morning at his residence in Washington. There were at the bedside the Senator's son, James Morrill, Miss Swan, the sister of his deceased wife, and Senator Proctor, his colleague. He was attacked by grip about a week previous, but as the disease was mild in form, he attended the sessions of the Senate up to the holiday adjournment. His condition was not considered serious until the day before his death, when pneumonia developed. He grew rapidly worse, and Monday night became unconscious, in which state he remained except for a few short lucid intervals. The Senator suffered a severe attack of pneumonia last winter. His wife died last summer just before the adjournment of Congress, and Mr. Morrill had been visibly failing since. Justin S. Morrill was born at Strafford, Orange County, Vt., on April 14, 1810. He received an academic education and engaged in mercantile pursuits until 1848, when he took up agriculture. He was elected to Congress in 1855 as a Republican, and represented his native State in the Thirty-fourth, Thirty-fifth, Thirty-sixth, Thirty-seventh and Thirty-eighth Congresses. During his several terms in Congress he always took a leading part in all financial and economic legislation, and was the father of the famous tariff bill of 1861. This bill became known as the Morrill tariff bill.

in legislation. Mr. Morrill's career as Senator exceeded in length that of any other Senator in the history of this nation. Thomas H. Benton, the first Senator from Missouri, served thirty-one years in the Senate.

Senator Morrill was widely known in educational circles because of his successful advocacy of the act of 1862 granting land to the various States for educational purposes. The act came to be known as the Morrill land-grant act. It was from the proceeds of this fund and from his private resources that Ezra Cornell founded Cornell University. At that university and at many others Mr. Morrill's name is held in high honor, and a building at Cornell is named for him.

The Senator had been for some years the patriarch of the Senate and held a warm place in the affections of his associates. He likewise enjoyed the fullest confidence of his constituents, who, notwithstanding his years, re-elected him in 1896 for a fifth consecutive term, which would not have expired until March 3, 1903.

Milwaukee Girl's Strange Trance a Puzzle to Physicians.

For five months Tiny Broesch of Milwaukee has not spoken a word and lies in her little room entirely oblivious to her surroundings. Every effort to attract her attention or make her so much as raise an eyelid has completely failed. She is gradually wasting away; death is the only thing which her family and friends think will relieve her from her suffering. She has become greatly emaciated, takes but little food and seems simply to exist without interest in the outward and apparent world. She is not in a trance, for during the greater part of the day her eyes are wide open and fixed with a wistful glance upon one corner of the room, where she seems to see things that other people cannot see.

Hypnotists are experimenting with the girl and claim to have made progress in reviving her. They expect to ultimately succeed. Physicians, however, find no change in the girl's condition.

RIOTERS AT HAVANA.

Deeds of Violence Precede Hoisting of Stars and Stripes.

Serious rioting occurred in Havana Tuesday night. Before it was quelled American regulars had to be called for. They did their work so well that one Spanish sailor was killed and a dozen Cubans and Spaniards injured, some fatally.

The trouble started through the resentment of some Spanish soldiers and sailors because the American and Cuban flags were flying everywhere in the city, which event the Cubans were boisterously celebrating. A Spanish soldier, marching with his company to the wharf, tried to pull down a Cuban flag in Bomba street. He was shot at and dangerously wounded. Desperate fighting followed between Spaniards and Cubans.

Lieut. Miller of the Tenth United States infantry, whose company had been brought into the city for just such an emergency, and was stationed three blocks away, sent Sergeant Adams with a detail of a dozen men to preserve order. The regulars soon reached the narrow street and forming in line swept all before them at the point of the bayonet. Midway in the block is a cafe. When the Americans reached there they were fired upon. A quick order from Sergeant Adams and a dozen rifles rang out as one. Nearly every shot told, for eight or ten persons were seen to drop. One Spanish sailor was killed and the rest, Cubans and Spaniards, were wounded. That single volley scattered the crowd like so many sheep. The American soldiers captured four of the ringleaders in the disturbance and marched them back to their quarters. None of the American regulars was injured. The city Wednesday was practically in the hands of the Americans.

A PRESIDENT'S PALACE.

A Movement for the Erection of a $10,000,000 Executive Mansion.

A movement is on foot for the erection of a new executive mansion for the President. Paul J. Pelz, the architect of the Congressional Library, has prepared elaborate drawings and diagrams for the proposed mansion. The projectors want the Government to build a home for the President that will be a credit to the nation. They have found an ideal site on Meridian hill, bounded by West Sixteenth and Fourteenth streets. The crest of the hill is 202 feet above the Potomac, while the Capitol site is only 90 feet above the river. They say fifty-two acres can be secured at moderate cost by condemnation, because there are few buildings on the land. The White House grounds have twenty-one acres. Mr. Pelz's plan is drawn on a scale of striking grandeur.

The proposed building is in the form of the letter H. One wing is set aside for the living apartments of the President and his family, and the other is devoted to social and state functions. The connecting structure is to have a roof garden. In the rear of the building is an elaborate system of conservatories inclosing an enormous court that is to be covered. The site is a mile or more north of the White House, which is to be retained for office purposes for the President. The new mansion is to face south toward the

As the shadow of the earth has swung about its tremendous circle during 1898 the moon has three times passed through it. Jan. 7 there was a total eclipse that, like the one of Tuesday night, was visible throughout the Americas, Asia, Africa and Europe. The eclipse Tuesday followed the second a schedule that was calculated fully fifty years ago by the astronomers of that time.

CUBA AT LAST IS FREE

STARS AND STRIPES RAISED OVER HAVANA.

Spanish Authority Is Relinquished in the Island and the United States Assumes Control—Captain General Weeps—Cubans Frantic with Joy.

Spain's rule in the new world is ended. On the first day of the new year the Stars and Stripes went up over Morro prison, over the Fortress of Cabanas, and over the palace, which has represented Spanish royalty in this new world. Spanish transports loaded with Spanish soldiers and a steamer carrying the captain general and his staff dropped down Havana harbor and stood out to sea while the Seventh army corps was marching along the Prado in the heart of the Cuban capital. From the one tall mast that protrudes from the tangled wreck of the Maine the American flag was flying. Captain Sigbee, who had commanded the ship when treachery destroyed it, himself rigged up a flag and flew it from the wreck to show that America had "remembered the Maine."

The event so long and eagerly looked for has occurred and Spanish sovereignty in the island of Cuba is forever ended. At noon a detachment of American troops occupied the Plaza de Armas, the square in front of the palace, and stood silent and immovable as the ceremony of the transfer of sovereignty took place. The American commissioners rode in on horseback from La Vedado and proceeded direct to the palace. Captain General Castellanos, whose official life was rapidly drawing to a close, received the commissioners in the main hall of the palace, surrounded by the members of his staff, all of whom were attired in gorgeous uniforms. After a brief exchange of salutations Gen. Castellanos said: "According to the protocol of peace, signed Aug. 12, 1, obeying the orders of the Government of her Catholic majesty, the Queen Regent of Spain, in the name of her son, his majesty, the King, deliver the island of Cuba to the Government of the United States, represented by your commission."

Gen. Wade made a brief reply, and immediately turned the island over to Gen. Brooke, the military governor. Just at this moment the Spanish flag, which had floated over Cuba for 400 years, was lowered from the palace, the Cabanas fortress, Morro Castle and all the public buildings. As the red and yellow emblems sank from their staffs Senor Castellanos was profoundly moved. He turned pale and said, with tears in his eyes: "Gentlemen, I have been in many battles. I have seen death near me several times, but I never felt such profound emotion as I feel now."

With that he turned and went to his room. Shortly afterward he appeared carrying a small satchel. He was followed by his son and his staff. Gen. Brooke took him by the arm and said a few kind words to him, walking with him to the door of the palace. As he entered the Plaza de Armas from under the porch of the palace the American soldiers, in response to a quick word of command, presented arms and the officers saluted with their swords. As the ex-captain general walked toward the water front from across the plaza an American military band played the royal Spanish march. Gen. Clous accompanied Gen. Castellanos to the Muelle de Cavalleria, where a boat was waiting to convey him to the steamer Rabbat.

American Flag Raised.

As the Spanish flag was lowered it was replaced by the Stars and Stripes, and as the latter floated to the breeze it was saluted with twenty-one guns. Tears choked the utterances of Gen. Castellanos as he heard the deep-voiced guns roaring a welcome to the flag of the conqueror. After a while he controlled himself and said: "This is the most bitter moment of my life. I wish that no one of you will ever suffer what I am suffering now." Gen. Clous embraced him and shouted "Viva Espana!" Gen. Castellanos, with a trembling voice, answered: "Thanks, you are too kind." Then he jumped into the boat, which immediately started for the steamer.

The Cuban generals, Mayla Rodriguez, Mario Menocal and Rafael de Cardenas, who had been invited by Gen. Brooke, were present at the palace during the ceremony of surrender. Gen. Castellanos saw them there and asked that he be introduced to them. The British consul introduced them, whereupon Gen. Castellanos said: "I am sorry, gentlemen, that we have been enemies, having the same blood." "Sir," answered Gen. Menocal, "we fought for Cuba. Now that she is free we are no longer enemies." Gen. Castellanos shook hands with the three Cuban leaders, and all animosity seemed to have been forgotten.

After the American flag had been hoisted the bands played the American national hymn, and this was greeted with tremendous cheering by the crowd that had assembled in Obispo and O'Reilly streets, near the palace, and in the Plaza de Armas itself. Along the Prado and the other main streets a hundred thousand persons frantically cheered the Americans and the United States. All the houses occupied by Cubans were decorated, the flags, etc., that had been taken down after Gen. Ludlow's order forbidding demonstrations having been replaced. The Cubans, who at last saw the realization of their dreams of many years, were frantic with enthusiasm.

After all the formalities had been completed with and receipts had been exchanged for the forts and other properties that had belonged to the crown, and after the flag had been raised at Cabanas by Lieut. Fitzhugh Lee, Jr., and at the Morro by Lieut. Wade, Gens. Brooke and Ludlow and the members of the commission proceeded to the Central Park and the Hotel de Inglaterra, where the troops under Gens. Keifer, Williston, Hasbrouck and Col. Armfield were reviewed by Gen. Lee, the military governor of the city.

"I could not sleep at night, had to walk the floor, I suffered so with pain in my side and small of my back. "I sincerely thank you for the good advice you gave me and for what your medicine has done for me."

"Cannot Praise It Enough."

Miss GERTIE DUNKIN, Franklin, Neb., writes:

"I suffered for some time with painful and irregular menstruation, falling of the womb and pain in the back. I tried physicians, but found no relief.

"I was at last persuaded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and cannot praise it enough for what it has done for me. I feel like a new person, and would not part with your medicine. I have recommended it to several of my friends."

MANITOBA'S CAPACITY.

Can Raise Enough Wheat to Supply Britain All She Requires from Abroad.

Toronto, Nov. 10.—The World comments on the report of the United Empire trade league on the capacity of Canada as a granary for Britain. The report refers to Manitoba as follows: Manitoba has an area of 47,000,000 acres. Deducting 10,000,000 for lakes, rivers, town sites and waste land, 37,000,000 acres are left for farm cultivation or homes for 116,000 families on 320 acres each, and as up to now there are only 27,000 farmers there altogether, that leaves room in one province for 89,000 more wheat growers. Supposing then we got them there and each one of them out of his 320 acres grew on an average 100 acres at 20 bushels to the acre. If you figure it up you will find it is quite possible for Manitoba alone to supply us with all the wheat we require from abroad. It is only a question of money and, comparatively speaking, not money either. The cost of one first-class battleship (about $750,000) would put 5,000 families on to farms in the Northwest, allowing $150 to each to find them in implements, seeds, horses, etc., and would keep them until their first crop was harvested. Five thousand farmers, averaging 100 acres of wheat each at 20 bushels to the acre, means an extra 10,000,000 bushels, for if that scheme is not liked Britain would put a duty on foreign wheat.

In addition to the wheat lands of Manitoba there are the millions of acres in Assiniboia, Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Labouchere says: "Documents of no importance are never mislaid. We invariably meet the people whom we are anxious to avoid and miss those we especially wish to meet. A woman generally loses her heart to the wrong man; a man generally marries the wrong woman."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. DISEASES THAT KILL

Consumption is catarrh of the lungs. Certain complications make consumption incurable.

Most cases of death from consumption are the direct result of neglected catarrh.

Pe-ru-na works harmoniously with nature to eject the tubercles from the lungs, and works so successfully that if there is a cure for consumption Pe-ru-na is the remedy.

Read this letter from Mrs. H. A. Tyner, of Four Oaks, N. C., about her daughter, Mrs. L. Keene. She says: Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

DEAR SIR:—"My daughter had every symptom of consumption—suppression of menses, night sweats and great emaciation. She was so low that none of our neighbors thought she could live. In May Mr. C. R. Adams, of this place, who had taken Pe-ru-na, told me if anything would help her Pe-ru-na would. I got a bottle of it and some rock candy and began giving it to her. During the first few days she was so weak she could only take a half teaspoonful at a time, but I gave it to her as often as she could bear it. In less than a week she could walk two hundred yards and back without resting; she kept getting stronger, and in twelve months she seemed to be as well as she ever was in her life. I feel, and so does every one that knew about her sickness, that Pe-ru-na saved her life. My daughter's name is Mrs. L. Keene."

EDITOR OF HERALD.—Please allow me space in the columns of your paper to thank all the good people of Culver City for the great kindness and my family have received by their generous deeds and christian kindness, which was a great support to us through the greatest bereavement we have ever encountered thus far in our lives, that of the sudden death of our son Jesse, of La-grippe, he having died at Louisville, Kentucky, Dec. 31, 1898, the news having been wired to us without any particulars after which his remains were forwarded to us by express Jan. 2, 1899, which caused great sus-pense of mind to my family, the burden seeming almost more than we could bear. But, we feel that God through his loving kindness tuned the hearts of the Christian people of our town especially for the occasion, to which they responded so nobly. Our pastor, brother Fra-ley and brother Barber pastor of our sister church both gave us such kind words of encouragement that we felt truly the Lord had not for-saken us, as his great love was man-ifested toward us by all who so kindly helped us with loving hearts and loving hands to lay away our loving boy Jesse, for which in spirit and in truth we thank you kindly, and may God's blessing rest and abide with each and everyone is our prayer.

New School Building.

Leher's Food has now probably the finest grade school building of any town of its size in the state. It is built of brick with slate roof, size being 50 by 74 feet, nicely ornamented and presents a beautiful appearance. Two stories besides the base-ment, four large rooms 25 by 31, capable of accommodating fifty pu-pils, plenty of blackboard, comfort-able seats, large halls, and two en-trances. In the basement is a well, two furnaces and dry closets. The building being heated by the Peck-Williamson hot air dry-closet system, which is nearly the same as the Smead system in use in the Argos public school, and the Central school building of Rochester. These are the finest systems of heating and ven-tilating, especially in towns where there is not a system of sewers. Trustee Guther deserves much credit in taking this advance step he has in building such a building. Jones and Bawell did the plastering, and Cal Rash aided in doing the finishing of wood work. Architect Ault, of Rochester, furnished the plans. He also planned the new building at Rutland, and the one at Hibbard which was built last year.

Ross House, Plymouth

John Bowell, proprietor of the Ross House, at Plymouth, is never easy unless he is planning some method whereby he can improve his already famous hotel. At present he is putting in a large furnace and radiators, hence every room in the house will be heated by steam, also furnished with hot and cold water. Aside from this, he will have a bath room in connection with every room, thus affording his guests an oppor-tunity of taking a bath whenever de-sired without additional expense. This last move on the part of this ap-to date landlord, will put the finish-ing touches upon this hotel and make it equal in point of convenience to any other house in the state. The culinary department has been per-fect for years, which has been one great factor toward drawing its im-mense patronage. Then the sleeping ap-paratus are superb, in fact the traveling public can bask in the sun-shine of perfect contentment while sojourning at this magnificent "Travlers Rest."
