Literature to aid them in their work may be obtained of Amos W. Butler, Indianapolis. At the recent meeting of the national conference of charities and corrections this resolution was passed: "Be it resolved that this conference strongly urges upon the Christian ministers of the nation the importance of their consideration of the subject of prisoners and prison reforms and ask them to unite in setting aside the last Sunday in October of each year as 'Prison Sunday,' and preach an appropriate sermon on the occasion.

It has been said that republicans were scarcer than hen's teeth in this section, but on Saturday a goodly number appeared in Culver and attended the township convention. The meeting was very enthusiastic and everyone present seemed to be happy in the belief that their party would win the great fight that is now being waged with their opponents, who support William Jennings Bryan. After preliminaries had been attended to the convention nominated J. F. Behmer, who lives north of Burr Oak, for trustee, Ben Curtis, who lives near Maxinkuckee, for assessor, and for advisory board L. C. Dillon, Frank Gam and Leonard Williams. Oliver Morris and Jacob Coleman were nominated for justices of the peace. Mr. Behmer is a representative man in the township, is thoroughly well known and if elected will fill the office in a very credible manner.

DIED.

On September 20th, after a long and painful illness with that dreadful disease typhoid fever, which terminated in brain fever, Miss Hettie Mabel Grubb answered to the final "roll-call" and her soul took its flight to a better world than this. She was 19 years seven months and 14 days old, and leaves an indulgent mother, a kind and sympathetic brother, and a host of relatives and friends to mourn her untimely demise. She was born near Culver in Union township and had passed her life in this city and vicinity. She was a member of the M. E. church and an active member of the Epworth League. She was a graduate of Culver's high school, and was a very bright and amiable young lady, and will be greatly missed by a large circle of young friends. The funeral services were held at the M. E. church Sunday at 11 a. m., and the house was densely packed with sympathizing friends and relatives. The occasion was most pathetic, as all realized that a young and useful life had suddenly ceased to exist. But as the flowers bloom in their beauty, they must fade and die.

Rev. Taylor preached a most interesting sermon entitled "Taking a Journey," and pointed to Him who can relieve all sorrows, as the only medium to go to in times of deep trouble. Her remains were interred in Culver cemetery by Undertaker Easterday, and as the sorrowing friends gazed for the last time upon her earthly bier, they have the consolation that they shall meet again, for Christ said, "In my father's house there are many mansions, and I go to prepare a place for you."

WHEREAS, The Epworth League has thus been deprived of one of its members, be it

Resolved, That we extend to the bereaved mother and brother our heartfelt sympathy, and point them to the Divine giver of all comfort, who is best able and most willing to console them in this, their great bereavement.

BOY IS NOT GUILTY.

MRS. FERRICK'S CONVICTED SON IS INNOCENT.

Did Not Kill Special Policeman Duncan McKee During Recent Street Car Strike—Many Vessels Lost on Fishing Banks of Newfoundland.

The happiest woman in St. Louis is Mrs. Jane Ferrick, whose son was convicted of a murder which he did not commit, and whose innocence has now been proven by the confession of Joseph Kiely. The news of Kiely's confession and the assurance that her son would soon be free was a godsend to the poor woman, who has scarcely slept a wink since her boy was arrested over two months ago, charged with the murder of Duncan K. McKee, a special policeman. She had worried herself sick and the doctors feared she would become seriously ill. Mrs. Ferrick worked day and night trying to secure her son's exoneration, but witnesses identified young Ferrick as McKee's slayer, and on their evidence he was sentenced to ten years at hard labor in the penitentiary. At the coroner's inquest, when the witnesses, one after the other, pointed out her son as the murderer, she created a scene, declaring her son's innocence. McKee was killed during the street railway strike on the afternoon of May 23, while he was guarding a car of the Cass avenue line.

A number of other vessels were greatly damaged and many fishermen, who were away in boats overhauling their trawls when the gale arose, were drowned.

ASSUMES HIS WIFE'S NAME.

His Own Is Not Euphonious and His Spouse's Brings a Fortune.

Harry A. Stanley of East St. Louis, by a decree of court a few days ago, has been permitted to assume his wife's family name of Haines. There are two reasons assigned by the friends of the couple for this desire to change their name. One is that Stanley was not euphonious enough to suit their tastes. The other is to the effect that the change involves an estate which the woman will inherit provided she always retains the name Haines.

MOUNT AND DURBIN IN DANGER.

Accident to Indiana's Governor and the Nominee to Succeed Him.

Gov. Mount of Indiana and W. T. Durbin, Republican nominee to succeed Mr. Mount, had a narrow escape from death in front of the Denison Hotel in Indianapolis. They came out of the hotel hurriedly, and, jumping into a cab, ordered the driver to make all possible haste to the union station, as they wished to catch the train to Peru, where the Governor was billed to speak. The driver turned his horses rapidly upon the street car tracks, and just as he did so the gong of a College avenue car sounded an alarm. The car was upon the cab before the driver could turn from the track. One of the horses was knocked down by the rapidly moving car, the driver was knocked from his seat and the cab was partly overturned. Gov. Mount and Col. Durbin were thrown from the cab as it careened under the strain from the collision and both fell to the street. They quickly regained their feet, neither being badly hurt, but both being severely shaken up. Gov. Mount received a few bruises upon his arm and Col. Durbin a slight scratch on the face.

AERONAUT DASHED TO DEATH.

Electricity from a Trolley Wire Responsible for the Accident.

Prof. L. J. Kahler, the young aeronaut who had been making daily ascensions at the street carnival in St. Joseph, Mich., was hurled from his balloon in the presence of 5,000 people and dashed head first to the pavement below. Doctors examined the boy and discovered a crack in the head running from the right ear almost to the left. He died. The car of the balloon struck against the trolley wires of the street railway line. A moment later, and the loop of the parachute had caught around the same wires, the balloon swinging clear and continuing its upward course. The sparks from the wires severed the ropes connecting the parachute, which was suddenly carried up and swung in an immense circle around the trolley. When the parachute had reached the utmost point in its circle Kahler fell.

MASKED MEN ROB A BANK.

Bold Daylight Hold-Up Is Committed in a Nevada Town.

At Winnemucca, Nev., the First National Bank was robbed of about $15,000 at noon the other day by three men who entered the front door and with revolvers made all present throw up their hands. There were five persons in the bank. One robber at the point of a pistol made Cashier Nixon open the safe and take from it three sacks of gold coin. The bandits threw this in an ore sack, together with all the gold coin in the office drawer. They then marched the five men through a back door to an alley, where three horses were waiting. The men were kept covered with guns until the desperadoes mounted their horses and escaped. The whole affair occurred in but five minutes. An alarm was quickly given and several shots were fired at the desperadoes as they sped through town, but without effect.

The entire crew and passengers of the Carrier were on board when the fire started, but all were aroused and got to shore safely. Nothing else was saved. On the War Eagle all the crew except Bill Clerk Schultz escaped. The fire is supposed to have started from hot ashes dropped from the pipe of one of the colored firemen, who was smoking contrary to orders.

Chaffee Wants Winter Forces—Indications Foreign Troops Will Return—Viceroy's Plea for Peace.

A Taku dispatch reports that the attacked the Pei-tang forts on Thursday. The cannonading heavy.

Gen. Chaffee expresses a preference for tents for the winter campaign than unsanitary buildings. The indications are that 10,000 of the allies winter at Pekin. The German force will be the largest. Some of the troops will probably be distributed in the surrounding cities to relieve the strain. The Japanese will withdraw the most of their force to Nagasaki. The Russians will retain at least 2,000 men in Pekin. The Dowager Empress has expressed her willingness to return to Pekin if guaranteed protection. The generals in command and the ministers of the powers are unwilling to assume such a responsibility.

The Chinese minister at Washington has received a dispatch from the viceroy of the southern provinces of China making an appeal for the opening of peace negotiations without further delay. They represent that a prolongation of the present unsettled condition is a serious disadvantage to China and all parties concerned.

Russia Proposed Punishment.

It now appears that Russia first put forward the proposition for the punishment of the leaders of the Chinese uprising. This was in a paper offering a general program for conducting the peace negotiations. The first item of the program was the punishment of the Chinese offenders. The proposal came some time prior to the German note and seems to have been concurred in by France and some of the other powers, although it did not receive such general concurrence as to amount to an agreement. The German note now takes up this first item of the Russian program and makes it an indispensable prerequisite to any negotiations. If materially differs from the Russian proposal, in that the latter made punishment a part of the negotiations, while the German proposition now pending is to make the punishment precede the negotiations.

BOER FORCES IN PANIC.

Lord Roberts Announces Complete Collapse of the Transvaal War.

Lord Roberts cables from Nelspruit, on the Pretoria-Delagoa Bay Railroad, not far from Komatipoort, the frontier station, as follows:

"Of the 3,000 Boers who retreated from Komatipoort before the British advance from Machodorp 700 have entered Portuguese territory, others have deserted in various directions, and the remainder are reported to have crossed the Komati river and to be occupying spurs of the Lohombo mountains, south of the railway. A general tumult seems to have occurred when they recognized the hopelessness of their cause. Their long toms and field guns have been destroyed and nothing is left of the Boer army but a few marauding bands. Kelly-Kenny is dealing with one of these, which occupies a position at Doornberg."

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

A fund is being raised in the diocese of Canterbury for a memorial to the late Archdeacon Maidstone.

The late Archdeacon Furze was a personal friend of Mr. Gladstone and Lord Rosebery, and was a strong Liberal.

The Bishop of Liverpool visited Walsley jail recently, the occasion causing remark from the fact that it was the first official visit a bishop had ever made to the prison.

Bishop John W. Hamilton, one of the new bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, has arrived in San Francisco, which was made his official residence. He is said to be the youngest bishop of his church. He is now 55 years old.

The death of Prof. E. P. Gould, D. D., removes one who as professor at the Newton Theological Institute, and later at the Protestant Episcopal Divinity School, Philadelphia, had gained a high place among American New Testament scholars.

Bishop William B. Derrick of New York, resident bishop of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, favors the establishment of schools throughout the South for the care and education of the young men and women of his race who are imprisoned for petty crimes. Many of these offenders are now sentenced to terms in the penitentiaries when their reformation might be accomplished if there were schools or reformatories to which they might be assigned. The bishop is working on plans for the establishment of the reformatories which he recommends.

LIKED THE POORHOUSE.

Would Not Leave It to Go For Money That Belonged to Him.

"I won't go out! I won't leave here for anything!"

Such was the amazing declaration of a pauper attendant in an east end London workhouse on being told by an agent that he was entitled to some money. And the man—the son of a post captain in the navy—meant all that he said. Not an inch would he budge, nor would he sign any paper, and it was only by taking a commissioner down to him that the fund could be recovered.

Whether because it was only a comparatively small sum or whether because he was a worker, the guardians made no claim on it. Accordingly, at his request, it was split, and two accounts were opened on his behalf in the Postoffice Savings bank. But, for all that, he continued to remain in the workhouse.

Meanwhile he was very anxious that his wife should not know he was alive—in fact, he denied that he was married. His life partner, however, called at the agent's office to inquire about the case, though she begged that her husband might not be told of her whereabouts. She was in a fairly good position, earning as she did a living by keeping a ladies' school, and once or twice her reprobate husband had turned up in an intoxicated condition and raised a commotion that had scandalized her pupils. The ill sorted pair were, therefore, not brought into communication.

Never would the pauper legatee leave the workhouse. He remained there till his death, whereupon, having left no will, the money he had scorned to use passed to his wife.—Cassell's Saturday Journal.

How to Give a Cat Medicine.

A New York gentleman has a very fine Angora cat, and so fine a specimen of her kind that she is famous in a large circle of fashionable folk. She is not rugged in health, yet she cannot be persuaded to take physic. It has been put in her milk, it has been mixed with her meat, it has even been rudely and violently rubbed in her mouth, but never has she been deluded or forced into swallowing any of it. Last week a green Irish girl appeared among the household servants. She heard about the failure to treat the cat. "Sure," said she, "give me the medicine and some lard, and I'll warrant she'll be eating all I give her!" She mixed the powder and the grease and smeared it on the cat's sides. Pussy at once licked both sides clean and swallowed all the physic. "Faith," said the servant girl, "everybody in Ireland does know how to give medicine to a cat!"

That Boy.

"Mamma, does money make the man?"

"I am sorry to say it does sometimes, Tommy."

"Money will make a man go anywhere, won't it?"

"I suppose so."

"If it was down in Cuba, would money make a man go to raising mangoes?"

"Don't bother me."

"Do monkeys eat mangoes, mamma?"

"I presume so. I wish you wouldn't talk so much."

"Then, if money makes the man go to raising mangoes, and monkeys eat mangoes, don't the monkeys make the mango go?"

Whack! Whack!

"Ouch!"—Chicago Tribune.

Made Its Own Funeral Toilet.

There are certain insects that have such a respect for Mrs. Grundy and are endowed with such an innate love of neatness and order that not even death, or rather decapitation, can prevent them from making one grand final toilet, which is clearly designed to give them a sedate and respectable appearance after death.

Dr. Ballion, a skilled entomologist, discovered this remarkable fact. "During one of my recent horseback rides," he says, "I frequently caught one of those large flies which annoy cattle and horses so much, and I promptly got rid of it by crushing its head. One day, instead of throwing the mutilated insect away, I placed it on the back of my hand and indolently watched it. For some seconds the insect remained motionless, but then, to my unbounded surprise, it moved its front legs forward to the place where the head should have been, and, after it had rubbed them nervously together, apparently in anguish, it began to brush its body and to smooth its wings with its hind legs. Under the gentle pressure of these limbs the body gradually became extended and the extremity curved, while the wings gradually changed their natural position and left the upper part of the body exposed. Meanwhile the hind legs continued to brush each other from time to time.

"Naturally I watched this extraordinary sight with great interest, and, in order to see the finale, I took the insect into my study, where it lived an entire day, spending the time at the ungrateful task of making its own funeral toilet."

TO SEND FOR MINERS.

TRANSPORT WILL BE ORDERED TO CAPE NOME.

Disappointed and Penniless Gold Seekers Will Be Brought Home—Hoped This Will Prevent Much Crime—Failures for August Are Few.

At a meeting of the cabinet in Washington the administration decided to send a transport to Cape Nome, Alaska, to bring away the several hundred or thousand gold hunters who are stranded there. It is believed that most of those who rushed into the great gold district last spring have been disappointed; that they will require help to get back to their homes, and that if this help is not forthcoming there will be a carnival of crime and death at Nome during the winter. Clothing and food will also be taken to the Alaskan Indians, who are reported to be stricken by plague and starvation. The miners, it is reported, have gathered for their own use nearly all of the drift wood which the Indians have been accustomed to depend upon for their winter fuel, and in some instances the cabins of the Indians have been torn down by the miners and the wood used by them regardless of the suffering Indians.

BEST MONTH OF 1900.

August Makes Best Showing in Matter of Failures—The Figures.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "Commercial failures during August were 735 in number, with liabilities of $7,323,903. Manufacturing were 174, for $2,945,607; trading, 519, for $3,585,607, and other commercial 42, for $792,629. There were only two banks, with liabilities of $146,000. This is the best monthly statement for 1900 thus far, but shows an increase over the corresponding month in the two preceding years. Failures for the week were 175 in the United States, against 141 last year, and 19 in Canada, against 25 last year."

BIND WOMEN WITH SHEETS.

Robbers Loot an Ohio Farmhouse and Secure Considerable Money.

Robbers entered a farm house six miles north of Ashland, Ohio, and robbed the occupants, Mrs. Mary Leidigh and her daughter, Arvilla. The men first secured oil in an outhouse for their torches, and then with a lake broke in the door of the dwelling. Going to the bedroom of the women, the robbers bound and gagged them, with strips of the sheets on their hands. The bandits secured a considerable sum of money, after which they took a horse and buggy from the barn and fled, driving north toward the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The girl was standing on the wall of the race, she says, when her companion pushed her over and ran away.

POSTOFFICE IS ROBBED.

Cracksmen Enter Federal Building at St. Joseph, Mich., and Get $5,000.

Professional safe-blowers operated in St. Joseph, Mich., the other night and after visiting one or two other business places, entered the Federal building through a skylight and robbed the post-office. It is thought that the men escaped to Michigan City or Chicago on an early morning train. According to the best reports the robbery must have occurred about 1 o'clock. Several clerks were in the building until midnight, and one of them noticed a man hanging around the building. He did not notify the officers, however. The next morning the office was the scene of great confusion. There was a hole two feet square in the ceiling, directly over the vault. The marauders bored a hole in the floor above and cut through the steel ceiling. They then used a rope and delivered themselves down to the main floor of the office; then drilled the safe and worked the combination. They took all of the stamps and postal cards in the vault, so the city was for a few hours without postage. This is the third big burglary of this kind in a month. Postmaster Woodruff has taken an inventory of his loss and states that the same is $5,000. He would have made his return to the Government on Sept. 1, and on that account had more money on hand than usual.

HAWAII HAS LIQUOR PROBLEM.

Congressional Territorial Bill Absolutely Prohibits Any Selling.

The discovery has been made that by the wording of the territorial bill Congress has made an enactment that absolutely prohibits the sale of intoxicating liquors in the territory of Hawaii. In section 55 of the territorial bill are the words, "nor shall spirituous or intoxicating liquors be sold except under such regulations and restrictions as the territorial legislature shall provide." The territorial legislature has not met yet and cannot meet for some months unless there is a special session, hence no regulations at all have been made or provided. If the old rules and restrictions are void, the penalties for violating them fall with them, and Hawaii is for the time being a "wide-open country."

HITS PREACHER WITH HER FISTS.

Cincinnati Woman Thrashes a Man Who Eloped with Her Niece.

Because her niece eloped with Spruce E. Rawlings, a preacher whose attentions to the girl she objected to, Mrs. Mary Lucas of Cincinnati, in her indignation soundly thrashed the groom with her fists. She landed dozens of hard blows on the back of his neck, punctuating them with various expressions of indignation. Rawlings, who is a six-footer, quietly submitted, while his bride wept. The bride will remain with her husband. Rawlings is aged 28, formerly of Louisville, Ky. He met the niece, Miss Blanche Kuhn, at Louisville about eighteen months ago. Rawlings went to Cincinnati recently and the pair became engaged and eloped to Covington.

MASKED MEN ROB AN AGENT.

Shoot at Him and Take $95 from Safe—Outlaws Get Away.

A daring robbery occurred at Larimore, N. D., just before the "flyer" pulled in from the west. Two masked men entered the Great Northern express office and held up Agent Harry Nelson. They took a shot at him, and by the light of matches and at the point of a gun compelled him to open the safe. They secured about $95, after which they disappeared, presumably going out on the morning train. Some think the robbers are local parties; others that they are traveling outlaws.

Scar Saves Negro from a Mob.

Charles Wilson, a negro from Greenville, Miss., was caught at Moon's Landing by a band of men who were searching for Dick Johnson, the alleged murderer of Contractor Tom Mike. The noise was around Wilson's neck and ten determined men were about to hang the negro when the discovery was made that Wilson had a scar on his face which was absent from the face of Johnson. Wilson was then released.

Mob Stones an Evangelist.

Hoots, jeers and other demonstrations of hostility on the part of a mob gathered outside of Donk's Hall in Philadelphia brought an evangelistic service to a summary close. As the worshippers and their spiritual advisers made their way toward the cars many emphasized their disapproval of the work of the evangelists by throwing stones or decayed vegetables at the retiring forces.

SUNK BY FLATIRONS.

TWO OF THEM TIED TO WAIST OF A CORPSE.

Body of James Rankin, Machinist, Is Thrown Up by the Tide at Fort Wadsworth—Grief Causes Suicide of an Aged Man.

The body of James Rankin, a machinist, was found on the rocks off Fort Wadsworth, New York, by two sentries. It had been left there by the outgoing tide. When the coat and waistcoat had been removed two flatirons were found tied with picture wire to the waistband. A single turn with the wire had been taken around the neck and there were several turns about the body, which kept the irons in position. There was a cut over the left eye. It was at first believed that the man had committed suicide and that to make certain that he would drown had fastened the weights about his body. The body was identified as that of James Rankin by Walter Bateman. From what Bateman told Coroner Sever, the latter is of the opinion that it may not have been a case of suicide, but of murder. Rankin worked in a shipyard in Bay City, Mich., several years ago. A strike was ordered and Rankin refused to go out with the other employees. Subsequently he was compelled to quit the town. It was charged that he had revealed secrets of the union to which he belonged.

GRIEF CAUSES A SUICIDE.

Cousin of the Late Vice President Hobart Kills Himself.

After praying by the side of his dead wife William Winters, 80 years old, a cousin of the late Vice-President Hobart, jumped to his death out of the second-story window at his home, 16 Kearney avenue, Kearney, N. J. Mrs. Winters, who was only a few years younger than her husband, died a few days before. Her death affected Mr. Winters so much that it was feared he would do himself violence. A relative watched him, but at 4 o'clock in the morning the watcher's attention being diverted for a few moments, the heart-broken old gentleman climbed out of the window and threw himself head foremost to the ground.

TRIES TO ROB COIN COLLECTION.

Thief Caught While Filing Lock to a Case at Omaha.

An attempt to rob the coin collection in the Omaha city library building was frustrated. The case which the would-be thief sought to tamper with contained coins of the Byron Reed collection worth over $5,000. The culprit covered the case with newspaper files, and while ostensibly reading he filed the padlock, the breaking of which short-circuited the electric-alarm current, and before the man was aware of it the doors of the room were blocked and a special officer took him to the station.

Rich Silver Mine Burns Out.

The buildings and machinery of the Weldon mine, one of the richest silver producers in Leadville, Colo., were burned. The money loss is $60,000. The mine engineer stayed heroically at his post until nearly all the men in the mine had been hoisted from below; the rest made their way out through other contiguous mines.

Decides Against Picketing.

A ruling against picketing during strikes was made by Justice Farwell of the High Court of Justice in London, who enjoined General Secretary Bell of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants and Organizing Secretary Holmes from watching and besetting the Great Western Railroad stations.

Indian Tribes Increasing.

The census of the Osage and Kaw Indian tribes shows an increase in population over 1899, which is probably true of most Indian tribes in Oklahoma. The statistics just compiled by O. A. Mitchener, Indian agent, are as follows: Osages, total in 1900, 1,783; in 1899, 1,768. Kaws, total in 1900, 217; in 1899, 208.

Yaquis on Warpath Again.

The steamer Curacao, from Guaymas, brings news of the activity of the Yaqui Indians in Mexico. "The Yaquis had another uprising about two weeks before we left Guaymas," said a passenger on the Curacao, "and they were on the warpath when we left."

Thomas J. Powers Killed.

Thomas J. Powers, commissioner of banking for Pennsylvania, was killed by falling from a train in the outskirts of Philadelphia. His badly mangled body was found under the Pennsylvania bridge spanning the Delaware river by three men gunning in the marshes.

Chinese Are Routed.

It is rumored that the Japanese gained a great victory over the Boxers and Chinese troops from Pei-tsang and Ho-Si-Wu at Teh-Chou. The story says that 1,500 Chinese were killed, including Prince Tuan, and that all the Chinese were driven back into Chce-Lee.

DYNAMO WHEEL BURSTS.

Panic on an Excursion Steamer and One Woman Injured.

Near New Albany, Ind., while the excursion steamer Sunshine was carrying a crowd of 500 Elks and their friends down the Ohio river, the governor belt which operated the big wheel in the electric light plant flew off and the dynamo went to pieces with a loud crash. The wheel broke into a thousand pieces, which crashed through the lower floor, stairway and second floor, where the dancers were. Fortunately no one except Mrs. James Barbee of Indianapolis was hurt. She received a slight wound in the cheek. The boat was instantly in darkness and the excursionists were in a panic.

SAYS HE IS CHARLEY ROSS.

Tramp in Poughkeepsie Jail Avers He Is the Long-Lost Boy.

A tramp in jail for vagrancy in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., startled the recorder's court by asserting that he is Charley Ross, kidnapped from his parents at Philadelphia nearly twenty-five years ago. The man produces documents intended to substantiate his assertion. Ross says that he has been tramping about the country for ten years without money or work. He carries with him a picture of young Ross taken just before the kidnapping occurred. There is a strong similarity between the photograph and the tramp's face. Ross does not explain why he did not long ago clear up the famous mystery.

McKinley and Wilhelm Talk.

Direct telegraphic communication between the United States and Germany was opened the other day through the new German cable, in conjunction with the Commercial Cable Company's system, from New York to Fayal and thence to Emden, Germany. Messages of congratulation on "this significant work of peace" were exchanged between the German emperor and President McKinley.

MOVE TOWARD PEACE.

RUSSO-AMERICAN COMPACT IS EFFECTED.

President and the Czar Stand Together and Oppose Powers' Proposition to Restrain Li-Hung-Chang—Report of Big Japanese Victory.

A Washington dispatch on Thursday declared that the United States and Russia have formed a compact for the settlement of the existing Chinese question. This compact was concluded at the second meeting of the cabinet, which lasted from 3 till 5:30 p. m. Wednesday. The cabinet had been in session all day and the news became known after midnight.

Russia, according to trustworthy though unofficial reports, has unreservedly placed herself by the side of the United States. The Czar consents to negotiate with Li-Hung-Chang as the representative of the Imperial Government, and disclaims any desire to retain Chinese territory either as compensation or under the title of conquest. He offers to withdraw his troops, not alone from the capital, but from every district of China now occupied by them. In other words, Manchuria is not claimed by Russia as her province and is to be returned to China.

That this coincides exactly with the plans of our own government is apparent at a glance. Russia's note means, therefore, that she is anxious for the restoration of the status quo as it existed prior to the invasion, and ready to second the efforts of the United States in accomplishing that purpose. Her sole condition is said to be that there shall be practical unanimity among the allies in executing the disinterested and pacific program.

The main features of the convention between Russia and America are:

FIRST—That, although accomplished by force of arms, the rescue of the ministers and foreign residents has been effected, for which purpose solely the allied armies seized the Chinese capital.

SECOND—That Emperor Kwang Su is the de facto and de jure ruler of China.

THIRD—That Li-Hung-Chang is the duly accredited envoy for peace of the Chinese government.

FOURTH—The powers are requested to co-operate with Li-Hung-Chang and the government for the restoration of order throughout the empire.

FIFTH—That this restoration of order and the status quo as to the open door and the arrangement of all proper indemnity, can be secured by the accredited envoys of all the nations having grievances against China by reason of the recent outbreak.

SIXTH—That the integrity of the empire be preserved and that no territorial compensations be demanded.

BRESCI SENTENCED.

Slayer of King Humbert Given a Life Term in Prison.

Gaetano Bresci, the assassin of King Humbert, was found guilty of murder at his trial in Milan, and was condemned to imprisonment for life. Bresci escaped with life imprisonment, as that penalty is the most severe which can be imposed under the laws of Italy for murder, on which charge the anarchist was tried. It was at first believed he would be tried on the charge of assassination of treason, in which case the penalty would have been death.

Bresci shot and killed King Humbert on July 29, at Monza, Italy, where the king was spending the season at his summer palace. Humbert had just finished awarding prizes to the competitors in an athletic contest and was leaving the grounds in a carriage. Bresci approached and fired three shots at the king, who was killed instantly. The murderer was surrounded by the police and saved from immediate death at the hands of the crowd. He had been a workman in a silk factory at Paterson, N. J., and sailed for Italy in May, leaving his wife and child in destitute circumstances in his home at Paterson.

DEFEAT OF BOXER FORCE.

Japanese Said to Have Killed 1,500 Near Pei-tsang.

Native runners brought information to Shanghai that a great battle was fought between the Japanese and the Boxers and Chinese near Pei-tsang. It was reported the fight took place on Thursday, and that 1,500 Chinese were killed, Prince Tuan among them, and that the enemy was driven back into the province of Chi-Li.

CROST THE WHEAT.

Come a-trippin' 'crost the wheat,
Lookin' sweet, an' mighty sweet!
My! but I wuz glad to meet
Mary o' the meadows!

Let the sheaf fall at my feet;
Heard my heart—an' how it beat;
Jest a-sayin': "Ain't she sweet—
Mary o' the meadows!"

Wild winds tossed her tresses sweet—
Gleamin'—streamin' at her feet;
Nothin' could the winds repeat
But "Mary o' the meadows!"

Yet, jest like a shaft o' light
Quick she faded from my sight,
An' the whole world sighed "Goodnight!"

To Mary o' the meadows!

tution.

The Tragedy of Room 12.

By Prof. James Ramarefz.

In the winter of 1893, while travelling on business connected with the paper I represented, I put up at the hotel in Chicago, which had been recommended to me by the journalistic fraternity for its comfortable beds, substantial meals, and best of all, its moderate prices.

I was assigned to Room 14, a neatly furnished apartment that had two doors, one of which opened into the hall, while the other (which I found on examination to be tightly locked, communicated with the adjoining chamber.

The connecting room bore the ominous and much dreaded number 13, and I was informed by the loquacious porter that it had been unoccupied for a long time in consequence.

On the second night of my arrival, when, after a hard but profitable day's work, I reached the hotel, I found a new guest had registered during my absence who seemed to possess so little of superstitious fear that he had taken the much shunned Room 13.

The newcomer was a singular looking man, dressed in a funeral like suit of deepest black, and with a clean shaven face, the almost deathly white pallor of which formed a marked contrast to his eyes, that were dark as stormy, summer midnight skies and as full of their thrilling electrical gleams.

When a little later I went up to my room I met the porter on the way bringing up of new guests luggage.
It consisted of a small valise and a long, deep, coffin-shaped box, made of highly polished ebonylike wood.

As I watched this strange looking box carried into the room, bearing the fatal number so much feared by the superstitious, a strange sense of impending evil which I could not well define took possession of me, and although I was not much given to curiosity, I could not help wondering what the coffinlike looking receptacle contained and why the stranger seemed so anxious it should be handled with the utmost care.

But wearied with my day's exertions
I managed at last to dismiss both man and box from my mind, and after extinguishing the gas and retiring was soon in a sound sleep.

I had slept scarcely an hour (I found by consulting my watch) when I was aroused by the sound of voices in the adjoining room.

One of them was a man's voice, harsh and angry, while the other seemed to be that of a woman, shrill and pleading.

My first thought on awakening was that I was still dreaming, knowing as I did that it was a strict rule of the house to let rooms to men only.

But, as I became more thoroughly awake and listened intently, I was convinced that it was unmistakably a woman's voice I heard.

"How had she obtained entrance to the new comer's room? How had he managed to smuggle her in there?" I asked myself, while again I wondered what the strange, coffinlike box contained I had noticed among his luggage.

To further satisfy myself that I was really awake, I arose from my bed and steadily creeping to the door of the adjoining room applied my eye to the keyhole that the new comer had not taken the precaution to plug up on his side.

As I did so I started back in astonishment too great for any words to describe.

For, looking through it, I distinctly beheld a woman seated on the one chair near the foot of the bed, a woman who was so wondrously fair to look upon that she seemed more like some artist's or poet's vision of the unearthly beautiful than a flesh and blood creation.

She wore a robe of deepest blue, matching in hue her eyes that swept in billowy seelike waves about her, while amid the foamlike laces at her bosom sparkled a cluster of star-shaped diamonds.

At her feet rested the strange coffin-shaped box with its lid now thrown back, and I had just time to notice this, and take in the details of her face, form and dress, when I heard the new comer, who stood close beside her, his hand roughly resting on her shoulder, exclaim in the same harsh,
angry tones that had awakened me:
"It is useless Marie for you to beg for mercy. Your guilty life must pay the forfeit for your sin. Like your sweetheart you—"

"Oh, Jules! listen to me for the love of heaven," the woman interrupted, in the same shrill, pleading tones I had heard before.

"Oh, Jules!" she went on, "I am innocent, I swear'd I—"

"Enough," the man broke in fiercely, while his eyes gleamed upon her like those of some wild beast about to spring upon its prey.

"I wonder at it," he sneeringly continued, "after all I have seen and heard that you dare talk of innocence and beg for forgiveness."

Then, after a moment's silence, he savagely shouted:

"Forgive you? By heaven, no?"
Pray, pray, while you have yet time, for in one minute more your guilty soul will be hurled into eternity."

The next instant, while too paralyzed for the time with horror to speak, I continued kneeling there at the door looking and listening. I saw the new comer draw a long knife that he had concealed somewhere about his person, and then, while he uttered a demoniacal cry of rage, catch the woman by the throat and plunge the gleaming blade up to the hilt in her breast.

As he did so a wildest scream of terror broke from the woman's lips, that died away in muffled choking gasps as the tightly gripping hand and sharp weapon did their cruel, deadly work.

The sound of her dying cries broke the spell of horror that had held me helpless for the time.

And with a loudest cry of "murder! murder!" that might have waked the dead, I dashed madly out into the hall.

In a moment, that seemed like an age to me, the landlord came dashing up the stairs.

His appearance was followed by a scene of wildest confusion, as all the guests and servants came rushing in in all stages of undress from their rooms to inquire the cause of the commotion.

Among the former came the occupant of Room 13, who was still fully dressed in his funeral-like suit of deepest black, and whose face it seemed to me wore even a still more deathly pal-lor.

As I caught sight of him, with chattering teeth I pointed in his direction and gasped:

"The murderer! Don't let him escape!" the woman he killed is in his room.

"The woman!" echoed mine host,
with a look of indescribable amazement on his round, florid face.

By this time as many of us as could enter had all crowded into Room 13.
The woman, whose death cries I had heard through the keyhole, was no where to be seen.

But the coffin shaped box, with its lid now closed, was standing still at the foot of the bed.

As I caught sight of it, with trembling limbs and voice, I exclaimed:

"Gentlemen, you will find his victim, the woman he has murdered is in that box."

"Yes, gentlemen, you will," answered the newcomer with an air of deepest resignation as of one prepared to meet his doom.

Even at that terrible moment I could not help but admire the man's coolness and courageous demeanor.

Mine host was the first to raise the lid of the box.

As he did so, and peered down into it, a loudest laugh broke from his lips.

Fearing that he had become suddenly insane at the awful blood-stained sight within, as well as the disguise the tragedy would bring upon his hotel, I gazed in consternation at him, while some of the guests and servants pressed about him to also get a glimpse of the contents of the box.

When the others had looked they too followed suit by loudly laughing.
Believing myself to be the victim of some horrible jest I at last managed to peep into the box myself.

It were impossible for words to picture my feelings as I did so; also my regret at having acted in such a hasty manner in rousing the hotel with my cries of "murder."

The woman I had seen through the keyhole was no delusion of the senses.
She was lying there within the box reposing as quietly as one in the sleep of death.

But, alas, for me! and the merciless chaffing I was forced to undergo from my fellow salesmen.

She was a woman of wax.
The occupant of Room 13, his card informed us) was a clever hypnotist, magician and ventriloquist, and the seeming tragedy I had witnessed was a rehearsal of a short drama of ven-triloquism, entitled "The Jealous Husband."

But it was a most gruesome experience for me, as much as if it had been a real tragedy, and, I suppose, will prove an equally gruesome tale for those who read before they become aware how badly I was sold.

From the Bottom of the Ocean.

The material brought up from the bottom is of great value as indicating the state of the water and sea floor.
Over a large part of the ocean the bottom is covered with a light powdery mass called ooze.

It is made of the shells or tests of little animals that can hardly be seen without a microscope, that have died and settled to the bottom as snowflakes settle through the atmosphere to the earth. This is the sort of deposit that made our beds of limestone ages ago, and it is the best kind of resting place for a cable, for it sinks into the soft, fluffy mass and is protected from harm. Ooze shows still water, for a current would wash it away as a wind blows snowflakes, and if the floor sloped steeply the ooze would slip down like sand on a roof, so when the rod shows ooze it indicates calm, still water and a nearly level floor. A hard bottom of gravel, rock or clay shows a current that should be avoided if possible. Near shore the refuse from the land may heap up into piles of rotting matters that may be injurious, and some kinds of sea weeds are said to have done damage, perhaps by the iodine they contain.—Washington Star.

A Hazardous Undertaking.

Our readers will remember the Carnegie library at Pittsburg, Penn., which is not long completed, and will be interested to learn that it is proposed to move the structure bodily to another location, about 1,000 feet distant. The building stands at the entrance to Schenley park, and the improvements now being made around it will, it is feared, injure its appearance, so that its removal is desirable.
The weight to be moved is calculated at about 58,000 tons. The construction is of steel, cased with stone, and the question whether the thin stone casing will hold properly to the metal skeleton during the trip is a very important one, and the problem is further complicated by the fact that a ravine 100 deep and 200 feet wide intervenes between the present site and the one proposed, and must be bridged or filled in some way before a building 150 feet wide and 400 feet long can be safely transported across it.—American Architect.

Latest Thing in Dentistry.

Paper teeth are the latest thing in dentistry. For years some substance has been sought for which could replace the composition commonly employed for making teeth, and a fortune awaited the man who was lucky enough to hit up the right material.
Although paper has some disadvantages, they are small compared to its many qualifications, and paper teeth are likely to be used exclusively—at least until a more perfect material is found.

Up to this time china has been used almost entirely, but it presents so many disadvantages that dentists always have been on the lookout for some other substance which could replace it. Not only does china not resist the action of saliva and turn black, but china affects the nerves of the jaws.

People who wear false teeth often complain of suborbital neuralgia, and this is put down by many dentists as being caused by the heat or cold acting on the china or porcelain. Porcelain or mineral composition also is liable to chip or break, and for these reasons has never been satisfactory.

The paper teeth are made of papier mache, which is submitted to a tremendous pressure until it is as hard as required. Their peculiar composition renders them cheap, and the price of a set of teeth will go down considerably owing to the new invention.

Where Almonds Are Grown

Almonds grow well in the middle and southern part of France, and while the shell is soft, green and tender the nut is sold largely as a table article. The meat is white and creamy. Hazlenuts are always high priced and are a luxury. The peanut is rarely eaten in France, though the taste for it is growing. It is imported in enormous quantity for its oil.
A few years ago there was a good deal of talk about the merits of bread made of peanut flour, and it was thoroughly tested in the German army, where,
for a little while, it was a part of the ration issued to a number of regiments. It was declared to be too highly concentrated and an irritating kind of food, and the soldiers didn't like it. The use of peanut flour was accordingly discontinued.

The Biggest Ever Built.

The great pyramid of Cheops in Egypt is the largest structure ever erected by the hand of man. Its original dimensions at the base were 764 feet square, and its perpendicular height in the highest point 460 feet.
It covers 4 acres, 1 rood and 22 rods of ground, and has been estimated by an eminent English architect to have cost not less than $185,000,000.

RECORD OF THE WEEK

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

Clear Title Obtained at Last—Wife's Sickness Causes Husband to Steal—Little Daughter Sees Him Killed—
Dies Rather than Live in Town.

Thirty years ago Jeremiah C. Tullis, an eccentric Englishman with wealth, was the owner of some 700,000 acres of land, distributed in at least twenty States in the Union. By carelessness, however, he allowed these lands to be sold at tax sales and permitted a fortune to dwindle away. Within the past ten years John Danielson, an extensive land owner of Starke County, has come into possession of a great amount of the Tullis holdings.
He was unable to give clear deeds of sale,
the titles being clouded in every case.
A few days ago attorneys from St. Joseph and Laporte counties went to Cincinnati in the hope of establishing clear titles. They found that Tullis has been dead for many years and that his three daughters, too, had passed away. The children of the daughters, however, thirty-six in number, are still alive. The signatures of all these were obtained and the titles to the Tullis lands, in Indiana at least, have thus been legally established.

Steals for Sick Wife.

Because his wife was sick and suffering the pangs of hunger, Charles Frey at Terre Haute committed theft, and then, overcome by remorse, he confessed his guilt and asked to be delivered to the police. Frey was at one time clerk of the National House, and bears an excellent reputation. He had been working with the Prudential Insurance Company for the last four years, but has been out of employment recently. Frey collected $3.07 from a patron of the company and used it to buy provisions and medicine for his sick wife.

Sleeps in Arms of the Dead.

William B. Cox, chief engineer at the Muncie city electric light works, was killed by falling on a live wire in the power house. He was alone except for his 6-year-old daughter. She saw Cox fall, went to him, lay down in his arms and fell asleep. When the child did not come home her brother Vernon, aged 10, was sent after her. He made the discovery of the child asleep in her dead father's arms. The machinery was pounding away unattended, with natural gas under the boilers making steam.

Prefers Death to City Life.

Mrs. McKinley, wife of a wealthy Jackson township farmer, killed herself with carbolic acid rather than rent the farm and move to town. A sale of farm goods and stock was advertised. Mrs.
McKinley declared there would be no sale, but a funeral in its place. The sale was called off.

Business Troubles Cause Suicide.

Morphine was the agency by which James H. Blaine committed suicide at Goshen, owing to despondency over money matters. He was 45 years old, a bachelor, and prominent socially and in business affairs.

State News in Brief.

to use natural gas meters.

Four oil tanks in Wabash County were destroyed by fire from lightning.

Albert Walker, Henry Smith, James Black and Alexander Brook broke jail at Brownstown.

Lake Erie and Western passenger train was stoned near Rochester, and several passengers injured.

Morgan Hutton, 26, well-known Muncie steel worker, killed himself with paris green in Cincinnati.

Francis Sablin, Hartford City glass worker, is heir to an estate in Belgium valued at 1,000,000 francs.

American Window Glass Company and flatteners failed to agree on wage scale and the flatteners struck.

A big organized gang of thieves near Oakland City takes a wagon out into the country and steals grain, meat or chickens.

George Sperling, 12, Rochester, got beyond his depth in the water and was drowning, when his mother waded in and saved him.

James Southwick, alleged to be employed to take men from the Kelly ax factory, Elwood, to work for the trust, was drummed out by workmen.

Fire at Terre Haute did $5,000 damage in Paige's music house, $1,000 in Hana-ford's upholstery factory, $500 in Long's jewelry store and $500 in Ed Hulman's photograph supplies.

Another effort is shortly to be made to obtain the release of William E. Hin-show, the former La Porte preacher, who is serving a life sentence at the Michigan City prison for the murder of his wife.

Frank A. Webb, prisoner in the Anderson jail, and Miss Martha Peer, an employee of the sheriff, were married in the jail. They courted through the bars.
Webb will serve a term in the State prison.

The new continuous flint tank just completed at the Muncie glass works was completely demolished by an explosion of gas while being fired. General Manager Jacob Yarnire, who applied the torch, was seriously burned.

A boiler explosion on an oil lease six miles northeast of Hartford City, owned by Father McMahon of Cleveland, Ohio, wrecked the power house and fatally injured the pumper, Tim McMahon, a brother of the owner of the lease.

Elizabeth Smith, a prominent young lady of Brazil, was returning over the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad to Mokena, Ill., when she fell asleep, and while in a somnambulistic state deliberately jumped from the train. She received only slight wounds.

COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL

New York—There has been no change of importance in the business situation.
No great amount of activity is ever expected in August for the reason that it is one of the "between seasons" months in trade, and this year there has been an added adverse influence in the shape of political uncertainty. General trade is said to be somewhat better in the West, but signs of improvement in the New England States are still scarce. The most important factor in the situation just now is the better tone to the iron and steel markets. In this industry the buying movement is spreading in a number of directions. Considerable new business is being done in bars and prices are again showing an upward tendency. The sheet trade, too, is more animated and in better shape. There are some encouraging features in the speculative situation—features which in ordinary times would bring about a sharp advance in values.
But at the moment these are entirely ignored and politics treated as the principal consideration. The consequence of this is that the trading is on a limited scale and prices, as a rule, are barely holding their own. People evidently do not want to buy stocks, and, on the other hand, those who hold them are not disposed to sell. It is not believed this condition of affairs can continue much longer.

Chicago—Wheat was generally firm during the week, although at the close Saturday the market price showed little change compared with its value at the end of the week previous. The causes of the improved feeling among speculators were various, but for the most part based upon conditions rather expected than at present existing. One quite tangible and present factor, however, was the export demand, which, although not to be characterized as urgent, was of dimensions sufficient to be recognized by the bears and restrain them from selling short to a degree that might result disastrously to themselves in case some of the other bull anticipations should suddenly be realized. The looked-for reduction in the winter wheat movement was not sufficiently apparent to begot confidence in its reaching within a short time a falling off that would be recognized as a sign of the predicted coming of the bull's days of undisputed preponderance.
Neither did anything in the movement of spring wheat toward the markets of Minneapolis and Duluth indicate the exceeding smallness of the Northwestern spring wheat crop, as generally claimed of it.
The shipments of wheat to Europe from other than United States, Danubian and Argentine ports continue to run small;
notably from Russia, whose competition menace to the bulls. The Danubian countries promise to make amends to European consumers for any possible shortcomings on the part of Russia, the heavy movement to market in that region of the wheat-producing world being in accordance with what has been heard of the excellence of its wheat crop. The problem of the season's supply is yet sufficiently obscure to warrant cautiousness as well by the bear as by the bull speculators.
Favorable weather for the speedy maturing of the corn crop has had the double effect of causing farmers to part more freely with their old corn and of inducing purchasers in the Eastern States and foreign countries to defer their orders for shipment to the last possible moment in expectation of an early movement of the new grain.

DIE IN A WRECK.

Thirteen Killed and Forty-five Injured on an Excursion.

Thirteen persons were crushed to death and forty-five others were injured, some fatally, in a rear-end collision on the Philadelphia and Reading Railway at Hatfield, Pa. The first section of an Atlantic City excursion train, on which there are supposed to have been in the neighborhood of 500 persons, plowed its way through a milk train which was being loaded for Philadelphia.

Of the five cars on the latter train three were reduced to kindling wood and bent iron. The next car was smashed beyond repair, while the forward car and the engine practically escaped injury.
The engine on the Atlantic City excusion section was totally wrecked, thrown across the north-bound track, with the pilot pointing in the direction from which it had come.

The first two cars of eleven composing the excursion train were splintered and several following were wrecked. The train was torn up for a quarter of a mile and the wreckage was piled up by the force of the collision to a height of twenty feet and extended for several hundred yards south of the station.

The wreck is one of the worst with which the railroad has had to contend within years. Instructions disobeyed seem to have caused the disaster.

Killed by a Horse.

Last Saturday, Thomas Houghton who lives one mile north of Culver, received a telegram announcing that his brother William, who lived in Warren county near Attica, Ind., had been accidentally killed on the day he received the telegram. Sunday evening Thomas and wife departed for the home of the deceased, and found that his death was caused by being kicked by a horse directly over the heart, which killed him instantly. The deceased was helping his neighbors thresh, and at the time of his death was driving a team under a straw carrier for the purpose of hitching it to a wagon, when one of the horses became frightened and hung back, when Mr. Houghton struck it with one of the lines and was kicked as aforesaid. Funeral services were held Monday. Deceased was 64 years of age and leaves a wife and four children to mourn their loss. He resided in union township until he was nearly 20 years of age.

The Prohibitionists are making much political capital out of the fact that Albert Lieber, president of the Indianapolis Brewing Company, and heretofore a prominent Democrat, has declared his purpose to support the McKinley administration. In his interview in the Press, Mr. Lieber stated as one of his reasons for supporting McKinley, "Looking at the situation from a business standpoint, he has opened new markets for this company in Cuba, Porto Rico and Manila." The Prohibition committee is having this statement of Mr. Lieber's printed for wide-spread distribution. They quote government statistics showing that the exports of malt and spirituous liquors from the United States to the new possessions has been greatly increased since American occupation. The amount sent to the Philippines in 1898 was $337 worth the first seven months of 1900 it amounted to $192,653. The Prohibitionists expect by this exhibit to gain many voters from the temperance element of the two old parties.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Thirty Years of Suffering.

"I suffered for thirty years with diarrhoea and thought I was past being cured, says John S. Holloway, of French Camp, Miss. "I had spent so much time and money and suffered so much that I had given up all hopes of recovery. I was so feeble from the effects of the diarrhoea that I could do no kind of labor, could not even travel, but by accident I was permitted to find a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after taking several bottles I am entirely cured of that trouble. I am so pleased with the result that I am anxious that it be in reach of all who suffer as I have." For sale by T. E. Slattery, druggist.

THE ROUNDNER.

What He Hears, Sees and Thinks About.

They were from Logansport, one was the wife of a saloon keeper. When they arrived in Culver, they repaired to a certain hotel and were assigned room No. 1 for the night, and took an option on room No. 2, claiming that they expected that a party of friends would arrive on the late train and would want a room. The ladies (?) went to said train, but returned to the hotel alone and told the landlord that their friends must be in town. Just as the proprietor was about to close the parlors for the night, a man appeared and asked for room, 2, claiming that he occupied it once on a time. The landlord told him he could have it. The stranger said he would go for a friend who would occupy the room with him. Soon the man appeared carrying a bundle which contained bottles which were filled with beer. They were shown to their room—but the landlord was suspicious that something was wrong in "Denmark" and played the spy, and when one of them entered the room occupied by the ladies (?) the landlord appeared on the scene and ordered the whole "job lot" to leave the house. Of course there was a kick, but when the landlord threatened to call the Marshal, the ladies (?) went into hysterics, and said they would fly and flew out into the damp and dreary night.

The Roundner learns that the School Board is about to place a furnace in the Culver City public school building. We would suggest that the School Board should be very explicit in its contract with the manufacturers. Furnaces fail often to give satisfaction in new brick buildings; so it will certainly be difficult to get one that will heat our school building properly, and the contract should fully specify a furnace of sufficient power to heat the building at the required temperature even in the coldest weather.

It is reported that the last excursion of the season arrived in Culver Sunday. There were several train loads, and it was estimated that in the neighborhood of 5,000 people were here from Indianapolis, Terre Haute and other cities. The day was not a very favorable one for visitors to enjoy themselves, as there were occasional showers, hence the people remained under the dilapidated railroad sheds, which gave them but poor protection from the storm as the roofs "let in the sunshine and the rain." As usual, hundreds gathered around the measly little attempt at a flowing well near the steamboat landing and clamored in vain for a drop of water to quench their burning thirst, scores emphatically declaring that it was an outrage for the railroad company to land the people where there is so little opportunity to quench thirst, or protection from storms, and although the universal verdict was that this is the most charming lake in the state, they would give Culver a wide berth hereafter. Now this is no idle newspaper talk, as such sentiments were freely expressed by a large number of people, and should be a warning to the railroad company, and cause that corporation to make decided improvements before the opening of another season. The "Big Store Band," of Crawfordsville, accompanied the excursionists from said city and furnished the large crowd with most excellent music. The band consisted of 20 pieces, and every performer was master of his instrument.

Now that the secretary of the school board has urged all patrons to see that their children are ready to begin school at the commencement of the term, he should also see that the truant officer looks after his duties. Last year there was one family in Culver in which there were five children of school age who attended school but a very small part of the specified time. These children are all bright, and capable of learning, and should certainly be given a chance.

WEDDING BELLS.

Sunday afternoon at five o'clock, a very pretty wedding occurred at the Grace Reformed church, when Mr. Charles Marrow of Terre Haute and Miss Viola Jones of Culver were united for life.

The church was comfortably filled by citizens of Culver and vicinity, who eagerly listened to the words spoken by Rev. F. O. Fraley, pastor of the M. E. church, which made the happy couple man and wife. After the wedding ceremony, the bride and groom repaired to the Reform church parsonage where the young couple received the congratulations of their many friends, after which they departed for Terre Haute on a special excursion train from said city. The groom is a most estimable young man and is shipping manager of Bement, Rhea & Co's wholesale grocery establishment. The bride is a young lady of rare traits of character, and is especially fitted to make a man a noble wife.

The following from abroad were in attendance:

Mrs. Dr. Loring of Valparaiso.
Mrs. J. Woolpert, Mrs. Mart Jones, and Allen South and wife, of South Bend.

Mrs. Daniel Miles and family of Plymouth, Mrs. Lura Keith of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Mrs. Anna Butler of Terre Haute. The above were relatives and friends of the bride. The relatives of the groom who were in attendance were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Marrow, and his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Brown, all of Terre Haute.

Last Saturday a young gentleman who lives near Mentone arrived in Culver, but as scores upon scores arrive here every day, nothing was thought of the matter. But in the evening it was reported within social circles, that said gentleman, whose name is Levi Henderson, had been united by holy bonds of wedlock to Miss Eldora Keen. The ceremony was performed at the M. E. parsonage by Rev. F. O. Fraley, in the presence of a few select friends. Miss Keen is one of Culver's most estimable young ladies, and has a large acquaintance who wish her a long and happy life. She has been for several years an earnest worker in the M. E. church and Epworth League. The groom is a prosperous young farmer. The happy couple left Sunday evening for the home of the groom's parents where they will visit a few days before commencing housekeeping.
