BIG PLANT IN ASHES.

GREAT FIRE IN CLEVELAND CAUSES HEAVY LOSS.

Five of Seven Ruildings of Brown Hoisting Machine Company's Plant Are Destroyed-Minneapolis People Look for End of the World.

Fire almost entirely destroyed the big plant of the Brown Hoisting and Convey ing Machine Company at Cleveland. Five out of seven buildings used by the company are in ashes, and property estimated to be worth over $500,000 entirely consumed. Eleven hundred workmen are thrown out of employment as a result of the fire. The company, which is probably the largest concern of its kind in the world, has many contracts with the government for hoisting apparatus to be erected at coaling stations that are being established in various parts of the world. The flames started in the varnish room of the Elwell-Parker Electric Company, which occupied a part of one of the Brown company's buildings. The loss to the Elwell-Parker company is about $100,000, covered by insurance. Hundreds of employes were compelled to jump from windows in order to escape with their lives, as a result of the rapid spread of the flames. No one, however, as far as known, was seriously injured. The loss to the Brown company is largely covered by insurance. The plant will be rebuilt at once.

EXPLORES CANADIAN WILDS.

Professor Tyrell's Latest Trip-Captive of Eskimos Rescued. Prof. J. W. Tyrell, the celebrated explorer of Canadian wilds, has returned from an expedition through the barren lands of northern Canada. He traveled over 5,000 miles on the tour. His expedition, which was sent out by the Canadian government, met with many perils in the long journey to the northwest of Hudson Bay. Prof. Tyrell made the important discovery that the barren lands, generally supposed to be treeless prairie, were covered in many places with rich northern forests, and there were stretches of timber land 200 miles in extent. In August Prof. J. W. Bell of the goological survey, who was second in command of the expedition, went on a side tour of 500 miles up one of the branches of the Thelon. There he rescued an Englishman named Charles Bunn, who had been held in captivity by the Eskimos for five years. Prof. Bell was in the lead of the party when they entered a village just before nightfall, and was amazed when a tall, well-built man, dressed like an Eskimo, ran up and addressed him in English. Bunn told a marvelous story. He said he had gone out from Edmonton in 1895 and had wandered far into the interior, shooting and trapping. He ran short of provisions and applied to an Eskimo family. They took him to their village, where he was compelled to remain, living as one of them. He had several thousand dollars' worth of fur. He joined Bell's party and came out to Edmonton with the explorers.

Instantly he was seized and forced stajurrender. The burglars he bank and there tied his hands and feet so that he was helpless and demanded that he keep quiet. Leisurely the burglars went to work at the safe, drilling holes in it taking them nearly four hours, and blew it open with dynamite. In the safe was $2,130, which they secured, $1,000 in gold escaping their search among the packages. Some valuable papers were destroyed. It is the first case in police records there where a man or boy has confessed to having stolen money and has stood ready to take all the punishment which could be given for the offense, without making restitution and trying to escape the full penalty. MORRISON JURY DISCHARGED do, Kan., Murder Case. After deliberating nearly four days, the jury in the famous Jessie Morrison case at Eldorado, Kan., was discharged without giving a verdict. The woman who fatally cut Mrs. Oin G. Castle will have to be tried again.

Jealousy and unrequited love have been the elements which the prosecution has brought prominently before the court since the trial began. Miss Clara Wiley was the belle of Eldorado. She was popular with all classes and was courted by many of the young men, but her affections centered in Olin G. Castle, who was a stylish young clerk in the leading store of the town. Miss Jessie Morrison, the daughter of a retired judge, was employed in the same store with Castle. The young man of many accomplishments won the heart of his fellow clerk. Miss Morrison was thrown constantly in his company, and loved the young man with a fervency that was soon to pass beyond all restraint. Castle did not respond to the love of Miss Morrison, and shortly before his marriage with Miss Wiley Castle requested that Miss Morrison leave the store, her attentions, as he averred, having become so annoying that he was compelled to threaten to resign if Miss-Morrison was not discharged.

Castle and Miss Wiley were married June 13, and June 22, nine days after the wedding, Miss Morrison called on the bride. Accounts vary as to what occurred during her brief stay in the home of the Castles. However, the two women had a duel with a razor, the young bride's throat being cut. When the neighbors rushed in they found Mrs. Castlelying in a pool of her own blood and Jessie Morrison bending over her with a razor clasped in her hand. Miss Morrison's story was to the effect that she had called on Mrs. Castle, had that she cused of being ars. Castle, had been acquarrel. Sheg an enemy and led into a went t. She claimed that Mrs. Castle went to a bureau drawer, took out a razor and advanced with it open. In the struggle which followed, Miss Morrison said, she was cut by Mrs. Castle in the neck and arm. What became of the razor she said she did not know. Immediately after the trouble Miss Morrison was arrested and released on bail. After Mrs. Castle's death she was again arrested and charged with murder.

GROWTH OF THE OLEO BUSINESS

During the Year 104,000,000 Pounds Were Sold in the United States.

More than 5,000,000 farmers signed petitions asking that the Grout bill governing the sale of oleomargarine be passed by Congress, while the makers of imitation butter, who are both rich and inflaential, did their best to defeat it,

As indicating the enormous growth of the oleomargarine business in the last few years it is stated that during the last year 104,000,000 pounds of "oleo" were sold in the United States, much of it under false pretenses as genuine butter. This was a jump of 25,000,000 pounds over the sales of the previous year. During the last year also the number of oleomargarine factories in the United States has increased from seventeen to twentysix. In thirty-two States of the Union there are now in existence laws which absolutely prohibit the manufacture of oleomargarine colored to imitate butter, Notwithstanding these laws, however, no less than 80,000,000 pounds of the imitation butter were sold in the States referred to during the last year.

The Grout bill makes the tax on oleomargarine a part of the internal revenue tax of the Federal government. Where the State laws are not enforced it is safe to say that the Federal statute would be, as the tax would be collected at the factory. Under the provisions of the Grout bill it is not proposed to hinder or interfere with the sale of "oleo" when offered on its own merits and without any attempt to deceive people into thinking they are buying butter. With this idea in view the present tax of two cents a pound which is collected on all olcomargarine is to be reduced to one-quarter of a cent a pound on oleomargarine which is put on the market in its uncolored and natural condition. On oleomargarine which is artificially colored yellow to imitate butter the tax is to be raised, on the other hand, to ten cents a pound. This provision will make it unprofitable for manufacturers and dealers to sell colored oleomargarine as butter, which is a fraud on the consumer and on the farmer and dairyman as well.

BY FRANCIS A. DURIVAGE. でなべるがらぶるできたるかのできだりだ

Q O, you're not afraid of being left alone in the church," said Deacon Bradstock.

"Afraid! no." answered Luke Bridgely, boldly; "what should I be afraid of?" "Many a man is afraid of his own evil conscience," said the deacon. Luke Bridgely made no answer.

This conversation passed in the vestry of a small city church. The room had been lately plastered, and as it was cold winter weather that 31st of December, a large fire had been kindled to dry the walls against the coming Sunday. Luke Bridgely had been once a thriving mechanic. Like many a man whose conviviality has been his ruin, there were many good traits in his character; he was kind-hearted, generous, charitable, but guided by impulse rather than principle. The deacon had known him in better days, and when that afternoon Luke, haggard, weary and wan, had asked him for a job, he had ventured, for the sake of the applicant's wife and children, to engage him to watch the fires. Luke had not entered a church for years, and it was with a certain awe that he had crossed the threshold.

Luke or said the deacon, as he lingered near the door

"Not a on of it," answered Luke, with an uneasy laugh. "I should only break It, as I have done so many promises to poor Martha."

"Well," rejoined the deacon, with a eigh, "at least you will pledge me your word not to drink a drop to-night?" "That I will, deacon; my word of honor and I give you full permission to turn the key on me."

"Luke bade him good night and threw himself in an armchair before the rednot stove. The light glowed ruddily on the walls, lit up the pine trees and festoons that were bound about the pillars, touched the trembling drops of the chandelier, gleamed on the dial of the clock in the gallery, and burnished with gold the pipes of the great organ. Against the windows the wind dashed and the arrowflights of sleet fell harmlessly, though

The music ceased directly under the windows of the vestry. "Ah, jolly Jack Finchley!" said Luke to himself; "I should know that bass among a thousand! And Billy Martin, too! no tenor voice like his. Confound the deacon for mewing me up here, when my jolly cronies are seeing the old year out and the new year in."

A sound at the window attracted his attention, and a rubicund visage peered in on him, like the full moon from the face of an old-fashioned clock.

"Hullo! old fell," said the full moon. "You ought to be hamstrung for desert- and a happy new year to you, and a ing us on a night like this. We want you | thousand to boot! Good night!" to sing. "You won't join us?" "No-I tell you I can't."

"Then stay and be hanged to you," said the full moon, as it set in an angry cloud. Luke was left to himself. After a he was in a strange country-strange but beautiful. The sky was deep blue, uncheckered by a cloud. All at once there came gliding towards the dreamer, from a cluster of magnolias, an old man, with two fairy children. As they drew nearer he recognized with awe the features of his father and of the two young children.

"Worthy or not, I make the effort," said the unhappy man.

"To strive is to succeed!" answered the voice. With this Luke Bridgely awoke.

"You are a sound sleeper, Luke," said Deacon Bradstock, standing by the armchair.

"Where am I?" asked Luke, gazing wildly round him. "O, I remember."

"You can go home now," said the deacon. "I'll take my turn. And look here, Luke, as I prevented you from doing your marketing, I thought it to be but fair to be your caterer for to morrow's for a good set down in this basket."

"Deacon Bradstock," said Luke, taking his hand, "you are a good and generous friend to me. How shall I ever repay you?"

"There is one thing that would repay me amply," said the deacon; "but that you'll never do, I'm afraid."

The Mistletoc.

There are some pretty traditions connected with the use of the mistletoe at this season of the year that date back to the ancient celebrations. The ancient Britons worshiped the god Tutanes, the god of the sun. Of course the winter solstice, or the turning point of the sun in its course, the change from decreasing to increasing length of days, was an occasion for rejoicing among that people. Their customs, practiced by the Druid dinner. You'll find everything needful priests, were therefore appropriate. They went out at this season of the year to gather the revered mistletoe and it is significant that they cared for none but that which grew upon the trunk of an oak tree which was sacred to the sun god. Two white bullocks were led out and tied to the oak tree upon which the plant was found. When the mistletoe had been "And what is that?" asked Luke, with | detached by the priests the bullocks were sacrificed. The mistletoe was hung up

SCHOOLS OF INDIANA.

SUPERINTENDENT JONES TELLS OF THEIR GROWTH.

Shows How the Compulsory Education Law Operates-Statute Has Its Strong Points and Its Weaknesses-Growth of High Schools in the State,

Indianapolis correspondence:

An interesting article on the operation of the compulsory education law appears in the biennial report of Superintendent of Public Instruction Jones, which will soon be issued:

"Indiana's compulsory education law hos been in successful operation three complete school years and parts of two other school years. In this time something of its merits and demerits may be seen as to its operation and enforcement. In the first place, we can say that, in view of its newness, its weaknesses and, in a few places, its inoperation, due to local opposition or neglect of officers, it has done more for the schools than was originally anticipated. A careful study of the school statistics collected by the department of public instruction, not. however, with a view of testing the law, shows the following:

them. The data is as follows:

"The showing made by these figure: makes it impossible to dispute the fact that the law has made a remarkable increase in school attendance. The figures on attendance, based upon enrollment. show an addition of 25,000 to the rolls of the schools, which number is in substantial accord with the reports upon the item of "number of pupils brought into school," as exhibited in the reports of the truancy officers to the State Board of Truancy. "The larger per cent of gain of 'attendance 8H enumeration,' when compared with gain of 'attendance on enrollment,' the former being 9.4; the latter, 6.3, is due to the character of the pupils thus added to the schools. The law brought many pupils into the enrollment whose attendance it could not wholly regulate, thus showing a very large increase in enrollment, but not a corresponding increase in attendance. This exhibits one of the weaknesses of the law.

"The Department of Public Instruction publishes for the first time a full table of statistics relative to the high school. From the table, school authorities may obtain data with which to compare their local expenditures, per capita cost, and the salaries of teachers. The most important points for the year closing June 30, 1900, are as follows:

Number of graduates from the eighth grade (the basis of the high school). .10,716

Number of township, town and city high schools, not including many grade schools doing some highschool work ..... Number of commissioned high schools. Then the words of illustrious personages were clumsily recorded on the printed page or on written parchment, and notable deeds were only roughly sketched; now not only words, but the tones and inflections of the human voice, can be preserved on the rolls of the phonograph, and in the ages to come the great actors in to-day's life drama may be reproduced in form, feature and action from the films of the Ecinetoscope. We can live and associate in the past only through the imagination; future generations will listen to our voices as they were in life and see us in action as we lived. In all lines of human endeavor the progress of the century has been phenomenal. No line seems to have lagged or been neglected. The strides of Drogress have been long in mathematics, insurance, both fire and life, music, literature, medicine, law, theology, agriculture and all the sciences. The methods of warfare on both land and water have been revolutionized. On the water steam has taken the place of sails, metal instead of wood is used in the building of the ships, and the paddle wheel has passed for the screw propeller. These changes have caused a great advance in the speed of the vessels. There has been a wonderful increase in the caliber and power of the guns and in their rapidity of fire. The safe use of high explosives has brought the fleet little torpedo boat into use as one of the principal features of naval warfare. On land the breech loading, rapid-fire guns have compelled radical changes in military tactics. There are now no massed formations in dense columns such as were hurled against each other in the last and preceding centuries.

ALLEGED VICTIM OF HAZING.

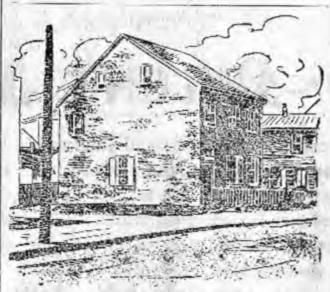

Oscar Booz's Death Charged to Maltreatment at West Point. If it be true that Oscar L. Booz, the former West Point cadet who died at his home in Bristol, Pa., was a victim of hazing it remains for the United States authorities ly, once and forever OSCAR I., BOOZ. should be stamped out of American schools and colleges.

Booz was 20 years of age and was the son of a prominent citizen of Bristol. He was admitted to the Military Academy at West Point June 20, 1898, and resigned from the institution Oct. 31, 1898. His health began to fail him, but not until Aug. 3 of 1900 did he consult a specialist, who found that the membrane had all been eaten away from his throat and stomach and the case had been neglected so long that the physician could do nothing for him. It was not until then, according to the story of Booz's father, did the young man say anything about being bazed at West Point. Mr. Booz says his son told him he was hazed several imes at that institution. Tobasco sauce was poured down his throat, red pepper was thrown in his eyes, hot grease was poured on his bare feet and other inhuman methods indulged in. Young Booz was obliged to resign his cadetship because of his physical condition, according to his father, and he grew steadily worse, but he would not divulge the names of the endets who committed the fiendish acts, even to the end. Throat consumption resulted and to this his death is attributed. The young man could not eat anything for weeks without the greatest pain and died in agony.

New York. -Pending the January interest and dividend disbursements, money lately has been working somewhat closer, the rates this week having been firmly held at 51/2 to 6 per cent for both call and time loans. A higher money market is always to be expected in December, owing to the necessity on the part of the banks at all the large financial centers to accumulate funds in preparation for the disbursements referred to, and the present year the demands on this account are much greater than usual. The amount to be distributed next month in the way of interest on bonds and dividends on stock is variously estimated at from $125,000,000 to $200,000,000. Business sentiment continues rather conservative. Prices for all commodities are being well held. Trade and manufacturing reports indicate a slow but steady and healthy growth in all directions.

Chicago-Speculative markets on the Board of Trade suffered during the week for lack of business and at the end of Friday's session prices were not changed materially from those ruling at the close of the week preceding. The trade was in large part confined to those handling the spot commodities, purchases or sales of the futures to an extent equal to their spot transactions being a necessary part of the business as it is now conducted. Speculation pure and simple disconnected with the movement from producer to consumer was perhaps never for the same length of time so restricted as at present. Still the current price of wheat scems sufficient to attract supplies adequate to consumptive requirements. There would probably be no great alarm for the future should the rate of farmers' deliveries diminish to some extent, as is usual toward the end of the calendar year, seeing that any discrepancy in the movement from first hands can be made good readily from the liberal seserve in the visible supply. Searcity of contract corn has continued to keep the price of the nearer deliveries at a premium over the more remote, contrary to regular custom, and although the grade usual shipping quality. Provisions ruled steady in spite of heavy receipts of hogs, the consumptive demand, both foreign and domestic, keeping pace with the manufacture of the products.

RECORD OF EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK.

Strange, Barren Spot in Steaben County-Parent Prosecutes His Son-Convicted Murderer Faints at Ve di t-Woman Burned by Flaming Mixture.

Steuben County claims the distinction of being the only county in the State having a spot of land upon which vegetation absolutely refuses to grow, while the surrounding soil is apparently the same and very productive. This place is located about a mile south of the Michigan line and near Clear lake, and is the subject of a strange tale told by many old settlers. In a grove at the head of the lake is a circle of earth about fifteen feet in diameter, on which no vegetation will grow. The cause assigned by tradition for this is that this grove was the torture ground of the Bawbeese Indians and that it was in this circle that the stake was set up. It is believed that the ashes of so many murdered human beings has rendered the place accursed and hence this dearth of vegetation.

Son Forges Father's Name.

John Reddington was convicted at Anderson of forging certificates of deposit belonging to his father, Patrick Reddington, and was sentenced to the penitentiary for two years. The father filed the affidavit against him. Young Reddington has been a school teacher at Elwood and bore a good reputation. His father is a well-to-do farmer. It developed that the young man had forged his father's name before and the latter had always paid to save the son. For the last offense he was very vigorous in the pros-

The House also adopted a resolution for of five members to investigate the death of Oscar L. Booz of Bristol, Pa., while a cadet at West Point. This course was taken over the head of the military committee, which reported in favor of allowing the War Department to conduct the inquiry. The Speaker appointed the following members: Marsh (Ill.), chairman; Wanger (Pa.), Smith (Iowa), Driggs (N. Y.) and Clayton (N. Y.).

Wednesday was devoted to the Washington centennial celebration.

upon the war revenue reduction bill. Those who spoke were Messrs. Grosvenor (Ohio), Bartholdt (Mo.), Hill (Coun.), Boutell (Ill.), McClellan (N. Y.), Newlands (Nev.) and Underwood (Ala.), Mr. Bartholdt gave notice that he would offer an amendment to reduce the tax on beer to $1.50 a barrel. It was agreed to close general debate on the bill Friday afternoon. Resolution was adopted for a holiday recess from Friday, Dec. 21, to Thursday, Jan. 3, 1901.

Beer sustained a defeat in the final round-up of votes in committee of the whole House Briday evening, first, when Mr. Newlands of Nevada offered an amendment cutting the war tax on that product to $1.20 per barrel, and again when Mr. Barthold of Missouri officeed | pointment by the President of the Senate an amendment making the fax $1.50 flat. The Newlands amendment was defeated by a vote of 74 to 119 and the Barthold amendment by 64 to 139. The ways and means committee provision for a reduction of 20 per cent, or a flat tax of $1.60 per barrel, as reported by Chairman the District of Columbia. The resolution Payne, was adopted. The most startling action of the committee in its discussion of the war tax bill was the adoption by a vote of 123 to 106 of an amendment introduced by Representative Henry C. Smith of Michigan providing for the restoration of the stamp tax on express receipts, and also providing that the express companies should pay the tax.

Ten millions a minute was the new record established by the House on Saturday in disposing of appropriation bills. The bill providing $145,245,000 to pay pensions during the fiscal year, 1902, was considered in committee of the whole, reported to and passed by the House in fifteen minutes. There was no debate, save a brief statement by Barney (Rep., Wis.) to the effect that the bill contained no new legislation, and was, in fact, a literal copy of the law for the current year. Earlier in the day the new delegate from Hawaii, R. W. Wilcox, appeared and was sworn in. Then the bill to reduce war revenue taxes was passed, the measure leaving the House as it was recommended by the committee on ways and means. The reimposition of the tax on express receipts made Friday in the committee of the whole was not approved by the House, the amendment wing rejected on a yea and nay vote, 125 to 139, A motion to recommit, with instructions to frame the revenue by $7,000,000, and to frame an income tax, was defeated, 131 to 155,

The Senate has referred the credentials of W. A. Clark and Martin Maginnis, contesting Senators from the State of Montana, to the committee on privileges and elections.

The first speech in opposition to the ship subsidy bill in the Senate was delivthe war taxes was begun. Mr. Payne of ered on Tuesday by Mr. Clay of Georgia, New York, chairman of the committee on one of the minority members of the committee on commerce, which reported it to Swanson of Virginia, a member of the the Senate. He is recognized as one of the most vigorous opponents of the bill in | Pills were all used, I could sleep all the Senate and during nearly two hours was accorded close attention by Senators the appointment of a special committee on both sides of the chamber. The Senate then in thirty minutes passed fortyfive of unobjected pension bills on the calendar. An act providing that entrymen under the homestead laws who served in the United States army, navy or marine corps during the Spanish war or the Philippine insurrection shall have certain service deducted from the time required to perfect title under homestead laws was passed. The Senate then at 4:20 p. m., on motion of Mr. Lodge, went into executive session. There were no The House devoted Thursday to debate set speeches on the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

The Senate transacted no business of public importance on Wednesday owing to Washington's centennial celebration. Made Mr. Hanna's speech on the ship subsidy bill a special order for Thursday morning.

By special order the Senate convened at 11 o'clock on Thursday. The announced purpose of the early convention was to enable Mr. Hanna of Ohio to address the Senate on the ship subsidy bill before taking up the special order of to-daythe further consideration in executive session of the Hay-Panncefote treaty. Mr. Fairbanks of Indiana offered a joint resolution from the committee on public buildings and grounds directing the apof three members of that committee and by the Speaker of the House five members of the same committee of the House to constitute a joint commission to ascertain a feasible location and the probable cost of a hall of records, to be located in was adopted. Senator Money introduced a resolution in the Senate providing authority for the abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty by diplomatic negotiations. At the conclusion of the routine business Mr. Hanna was recognized to speak upon the subsidy bill. He spoke for nearly two hours and a half and at the conclusion the Senate, at 2:05 p. m., on motion of Mr. Allison, went into executive session, during which the Davis amendment to the Nicaragua bill was adopted by a vote of 65 to 17.

Soon after the Senate convened on Friday Mr. Allison, chairman of the committee on appropriations, reported from that committee the House resolution providing for a holiday recess of Congress beginning Friday, Dec. 21, and extending to Thursday, Jan. 3, and it was passed The President pro tem., Mr. Frye, and nounced the appointment by authority of the resolution adopted two days before of Senators Hanna of Ohio, Spooner of Wisconsin and Jones of Arkansas to make the necessary arrangements for the inauguration of the President of the United States on the 4th of March next. In the Senate on Saturday notice was given by Nelson (Rep., Minn.) that he would on Jan. 12 next submit resolutions as to his deceased colleague, Mr. Davis. After some routine morning business the Senate at 12:25 o'clock went into executive session on the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

The Senate was in executive session practically all day Monday over the Hay-Pauncefore treaty, and Senators Money and Mason occupied the time in making speeches upon the treaty. Senator Money's speech was a flat protest against the entire proceeding in connection with the treaty. He talked for two hours, contending for the right of the United States to act in this matter independently of other nations. Senator Mason spoke in support of his suggested amendment authorizing the United States to defend the canal as it may deem proped in case it constructs the canal. Just before adjourning an agreement was reached to take a vote upon the treaty on Thursday.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 17.—(Special.)-At No. 2115 O street, this city, is the B. & M. Wall Paper House. "B. & M." are the initial letters of the proprietors, Mr. A. C. Bonsor and Mr. O. E. Meyers. The senior partner, Mr. Bonsor, is a well-known and highly respected citizen, and no one has ever doubted his truthfulness. It is, therefore, the pronounced opinion in Lincoln and the State generally that the significant and very strong statements made in Mr. Bonsor's letter will go unchallenged. After explaining his willingness that the matter be given the fullest possible publicity in the public interest, Mr. Bonsor proceeds:

I have suffered untold misery and pain for over ten years. My kidneys were diseased. I tried many so-called remedies, but they did me no good. I saw an advertisement of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I bought some, and commenced to use them at once. I had not had one good night's sleep, and before the first box of the Dodd's Kidney night without pains. I am now completely cured, and have not a pain or ache left. Mr. Isaac Brock, the Oldest Man in the United States.

Mc. Isaac Brock, of McLennan County, Texas, has attained the great age of 111 years, having been born in 1788. He is an ardent friend to Peruna and speaks of it in the following terms:

"During my long life I have known & great many remedies for coughs, colde, catarrh and diarrhoea. I had always supposed these affections to be different diseases, but I have learned from Dr. Harte man's books that these affections are the same and are properly called catarrh.

"As for Dr. Hartman's remedy, Peruna, & have found it to be the best, if not the only reliable remedy for these affections.

"Peruna has been my stand-by: for many years, and I attribute my good health and my extreme age to this remedy. It exactly meets all my requirements.

"I have come to rely upon it almost entirely for the many little things for which I need medicine. I believe it to be especially valuable to old people.
