ASSAULT

Is the Charge Placed Against Carlos Inskeep By Miss Merle Nethercutt, of Logansport.

The people of this community have been considerably surprised by the occurrence at the Assembly grounds last Sunday. Something over two weeks ago, it is reported, that Carlos Inskeep, an editor of Swayzee, Indiana, and Miss Merle Nethercutt, of Logansport, both spending the season at cottages in the Assembly grounds, went out boat riding. No one thought anything of this harmless amusement for Mr. Inskeep had the permission of his wife, who, by the way, was a Miss Booher of a highly respectable family living at Darlington. Last week it is said that Miss Nethercutt wrote to a friend, Mr. Zern Williams, of Indianapolis, saying that Mr. Inskeep had insulted and made improper proposals to her during the boat ride of two weeks ago. Mr. Williams came here at once bent on getting satisfaction from Mr. Inskeep and her father Mr. M. E. Nethercutt, a prominent grocer of Logansport, was made aware of the condition of things here. Sunday the two parties came together and in the melee Mr. Inskeep received a black eye. Mr. Inskeep contends that more than one jumped on him and that they also injured his wife by striking her on the arm. Mr. Nethercutt and the Williams boys contend that Mr. Nethercutt alone was in the fight with Mr. Inskeep. Be that as it may—there was a fight and directly after it Mr. Nethercutt gave himself up to the authorities and was fined $5.10. Mr. Inskeep had warrants sworn out for Walter Williams, Zern Williams and John Doe. Walter Williams was arrested at the Vandalia park as he was coming to give himself up to the authorities. Zern Williams returned to his school duties at Winona and John Doe cannot be found. Mr. Nethercutt had a warrant sworn out for Mr. Inskeep and he was arrested and Mr. Booher gave bond in the sum of $200 for his appearance before Clerk Cook next Monday at 10 o'clock. We presume everything will be made plain there. It is rumored that something sensational and involving some of our own young people will come out at this trial. Mr. Inskeep will have his attorney come from his home to represent him and the state will be represented by the county prosecutor.

The grounds are located at the Chadwick hotel and Mr. Chadwick carries a supply of standard loads and guns to accommodate any and all that wish to indulge in the manly sport at any time. Steamboat landing at the door.

Thos. Medbourn delivered 20 cases of pop to Bass Lake last Saturday. Although he has received 25 gross of bottles extra for the season, the increase of business has been so great that he experiences no little difficulty in filling all orders and has been compelled to work considerable over time.

AN ENJOYABLE EVENING

Two Hundred Invited Guests were Present.

On Friday evening a ball was given at the Arlington to two hundred invited guests. Among those present were Mrs. Bockman Zaring a noted artist who several years ago won the first medal at the "Academy of Art" in Paris, and Dr. W. T. Selfridge, a cousin of Commodore Selfridge, of the U. S. Navy. The first hour of the evening was devoted to entertaining the children. A cake walk was given in which many endeavored to win the prizes. The first prize a box of candy, was won by Miss June Rollins, the second by Mr. Samuel Greenburg, a basket of caul-em-flowers. The third prize was a bottle after passing through the hands of Mr. Edward Sparks, it became a temperance bottle. The cork was awarded to Mr. Wm. Retz; the bottle to Mr. Louis Duenweg, the emptiness of the bottle to the editor of the Logansport Chronicle. Ted Howe was awarded a lamp chimney for remaining out of the contest. It was feared his formidable height would cast a shadow over the others and make them look small.

The music was furnished by the Terre Haute quartet composed of Messrs. Samuel Greenburg, Edward Sparks, C. Martin, H. Hedges and E. Bishop, a talented pianist. They will long be remembered by those fortunate enough to meet them.

Excursions of the Last Week.

On last Sunday there were two excursions run in to this place. One was from Logansport under the auspices of the I. O. O. F. and was accompanied by the Odd Fellows band and the other was a large double header from Terre Haute. There were close to three thousand people here. In the afternoon the Odd Fellows band gave a fine concert in the stand at Vandalia park. It was a fairly good natured crowd, but little scraping going on. The one fight at the depot park, in which the police were conspicuous for their absence, amounted to no more than a few blows and a lot of blasphemous talk. At the time a considerable portion of the police force was busy making arrests in the other end of town.

TUESDAY'S S. S. EXCURSION.

Three heavily loaded trains consisting in all of thirty-six coaches from Tipton, Elwood and Alexandria bearing a crowd of Sunday school excursionists arrived about one o'clock Tuesday. They were accompanied by the Tipton city band and the Tipton Catholic band. It was the largest crowd of the season and took our hotel men by surprise. One train of ten coaches carried 1,175 people. They were packed in the isles, on the steps and anywhere they could get a hold. Eighteen hundred tickets were sold from Tipton alone. They all appeared to have a good time. The steamboats, boat house, merry-go-round, bath house, hotels and midway all did a good business.

A Picnic.

Last Friday a picnic was given in honor of Miss Hazel Barber at the grove across from the depot.

Those present were: Misses Bessie Medbourn, Myrtle Medbourn, Clista Easterday, Hazel Barber, Esta Cromley, Minnie Schilling and Edna Peeples; Messrs. Chester Zechiel, Clark Ferrier, Louis Garn, Harry Menger, Will Osborn, Willard Zechiel, and Philip McLane. All present report a most enjoyable time.

AN ENJOYABLE MEETING.

The Ladies of the All Saints Guild Enjoy Themselves as in Their Youthful Days.

The All Saints Guild of the Episcopal church was delightfully entertained by Mrs. James Shugrue last Tuesday afternoon. Those present were: Mesdames Slattery, Meredith, W. H. Porter, Elsie Curtis, J. H. Koontz, Edwards, Ralston, Lord, Cretcham and J. F. Koontz, of Crawfordsville. After the usual work and business of the society dainty refreshments were served.

The ladies all seemed bent on spending the remainder of the afternoon pleasantly and after the adjournment of the guild they all went to the depot park. They were attracted in that direction by the sweet strains of the "Honey-suckle and the Bee" and variations as played by the merry-go-round. Mrs. Lord was dared to take a ride and as she was never known to refuse to take a dare said she would go. She was a little too quick for the remainder of the party and succeeded in getting two rides and though her horse was rather hard to manage she did not regret going.

The ladies all acknowledged that they enjoyed the ride fully as much as in days gone by. Most of them are planning to go to the "big circus" Thursday and from the demonstrations Tuesday we predict a fine time for them.

All present were sorry that Mrs. Ketcham had to leave early on account of taking the boat. She kindly invited the guild to meet with her in two weeks at her cottage on the east side of the lake.

Porch Gave Way.

While the large crowd were taking shelter under the porch at the boat house last Tuesday the platform gave way and a number were let fall about three feet. The railroad company brings large crowds here but they do nothing to amuse them or keep them dry when it rains. More sheds should be built and more seats placed upon the depot grounds.

Henry Platt is now a news butch on the Vandalia.

Mrs. Guy S. McCoy will leave Sunday for a week's visit at Frankfort.

POPE LEO XIII IS DEAD

Head of the Roman Catholic Church Expired at the Vatican July 20—End of a Long Career Filled With Brilliant Achievements.

Pope Leo XIII is dead. The last flicker of life expired at four minutes past 4 o'clock on the afternoon of July 20, and the pontiff now lies at rest.

Cardinal Oreglia, senior member of the sacred college, is for the time being, the pope, and is in absolute command in the vatican.

The period of over two weeks that Pope Leo passed in the shadow of death was no less wonderful than his life. His splendid battle against disease was watched the world over with sympathetic admiration, and ended only after a series of tremendous efforts to conquer the weakness of his aged frame by the marvelous will power of his mind. The pleuro-pneumonia with which his holiness had been suffering was scarcely so responsible for his death as that inevitable decay of tissue which ensues upon 93 years of life. The tested steel which had bent so often before human ills was bound to break at last.

The emaciated and lifeless frame which held so brave a spirit lay on the Boniface VIII. He was a member of an old and illustrious family of Siena.

His youth was a series of academical triumphs. Perhaps he might have remained a scholar and nothing more, but in the third decade of his life he fell under the influence—one would rather say rose to the influence—of the famous Cardinal Odescalchi, a man who in another age might have played the great part of Ignatius Loyola. He was ordained priest on December 23, 1837, being already a lay prelate in the household of Gregory XVI. He was appointed one of the domestic chaplains to Pope Gregory on March 16, 1837.

In 1838 he was sent to govern the delegations (province) of Benevento. From Benevento Pecci was transferred to the important province of Perugia, where he conducted himself with similar boldness and integrity. He was then nominated to be apostolic delegate at Spoleto, but never entered on that charge, for he was dispatched to Belgium in 1843 to act as nuncio to Brussels. At the same time he was created archbishop of Damiana in partibus infidelium. On and in putting the holy see into friendly relations with republican France showed his skillfulness and rare diplomatic sense. As prince of peace he was called upon to settle the most difficult problems. Under his guidance the bitter Kulturkampf that raged in Germany since the year 1870 was ended.

Pius IX. had left the Vatican at war with almost every foreign power. Leo XIII. set to work to restore amicable relations with them. Besides ending the "Kulturkampf" in Germany and securing repeal of all objectionable features in the Falk law, he made his church a power in Lutheran Prussia as well as in southern Germany and gained such a footing that Emperor William, who several times visited him at the Vatican, had to appeal to the holy see whenever he needed in the reichstag the votes of the powerful Catholic party.

In April, 1888, Leo XIII issued a decree against the Parnette "plan of campaign" and against boycotting, the cardinals of the supreme congregation of the inquisition having decided adversely to such means of warfare.

BORN MARCH 2, 1810

bed in the vatican beside which almost all the world has prayed. The red damask coverlet rested lightly over the body, the cardinal's scarlet cape was about the shoulders, while on his head had been placed the papal hood of velvet, bordered with ermine. A white silk handkerchief was bound about his chin, and in the hands which had blessed so many thousands had been placed a crucifix. He was watched by uniformed officers of the noble guard and rough-clad Franciscan penitentiaries, who keep a ceaseless vigil until the burial ceremonies.

The sacred college of cardinals assembled Tuesday for the ceremony of officially pronouncing Pope Leo dead. After this sad function had been performed, the body was taken to the small throneroom adjoining the death chamber, where it was embalmed. The funeral ceremonies will extend over nine days, the remains being removed to the Cathedral of St. Peter's, where they will lie in state. The ultimate resting place of the dead pontiff will be in the magnificent basilica of St. John the Lateran.

LONG ACTIVE LIFE ENDS.

Wonderful Career of Late Occupant of the Papal Throne.

The Pope was stricken with his fatal illness on July 2. Report of it was denied at first, but two days later it was admitted by the Vatican physicians with an announcement that he had pneumonia. Since then physicians have fought with death every hour of every day.

Leo (Gioachino Pecci) ascended the throne of St. Peter at the age of 68. He was born on March 2, 1810, at Carpineto, Italy, already famous as the birthplace of four Popes—Innocent III, Gregory IX, Alexander IV, and

Dec. 10, 1858, Pecci was created cardinal. On July 8, 1877, he succeeded Cardinal de Angelis as camerlengo, or high chamberlain of the Roman church. In this position he displayed the same firmness and activity that had characterized his lifelong connection with the church.

Pope Pius IV. died on Feb. 7, 1878. Pecci, in his capacity as camerlengo, acted as head of the church in temporal matters, made the arrangements for the obsequies of Pope Pius, received the Catholic ambassadors and superintended the preparations for the conclave. Sixty-two cardinals attended the conclave which was held Feb. 18, 1878. The sacred college was divided into two parties. One, called the "zealots," was led by Cardinal Billo, and the second, the "moderates," by Cardinal Pecci. There were three ballots. On the third ballot Cardinal Pecci received 44 votes, two more than the necessary majority.

After 1888 Leo XIII. appeared to have abandoned hope of achieving much by a conciliatory attitude toward the Quirinal. There was no marked reaction from the former policy, but only a cessation of effort. Many of the good results of the former policy remain and the death of Leo XIII. leaves the Vatican and the Quirinal nearer than they have been at any time since the Castle of San Angelo was captured by the troops of the first Victor Emmanuel.

Leo XIII. gained for the Catholic church a proud position in the world, not only as prince of the church, but as prince of peace. Europe acknowledged that for many decades no such far-seeing head as Leo XIII. had worn the triple crown, and that, excepting Prince Bismarck, no statesman in Europe had shown such skill in the most delicate diplomatic negotiations as the late pope. His successes in his negotiations with the German chancellor and the remarkable foresight shown in his dealings with Spain

The promulgation of this edict called forth a strong protest from Ireland. In July, 1888, he issued his famous encyclical on "Liberty." In 1889 he issued his encyclical against socialism and on the labor question. In 1880 he pleaded for church unity, and in 1891 he gave forth his famous encyclical on labor.

In January, 1895, the pope's long expected encyclical to the church in this country was made public. Mgr. Satoll was appointed apostolic delegate to America in January, 1893, which position he held until his election as cardinal, when he was succeeded by Archbishop Martinelli, and in his encyclical the full scope of his work was defined. In this document his holiness also expressed disapproval of labor riots, and further discussed the relations of Catholics to secret societies and of journalists to the bishops.

In February, 1899, the pope started the entire Roman Catholic world in his open letter to Archbishop Ireland, then in Rome in response to a papal summons, wherein the holy father expressed disapproval of what the French and Italian clergy had termed "Americanism" among the faithful in the United States. A translation of "The Life of Father Hecker," founder of the Paulist order in New York, had given occasion to the charge that a portion of the American hierarchy leaned too much toward a liberal policy in church discipline and to innovations in religious rule that seemed to threaten the integrity of Roman Catholic doctrine. The friends of the Paulists insisted that the French translations had done serious injustice to the views really held by Father Hecker and his biographer, as well as by those members of the Roman Catholic hierarchy who had approved of them. They claimed that there was nothing in the pope's letter which really condemned their teachings, but only the French misunderstanding of those teachings.

FINSEN'S GIFT TO THE WORLD.

He Has Done Much for the Good of Humanity.

Niels Finsen, the discoverer of the surgery of light, was born in Iceland and lived there until he was 21 years old. His experiments with light and discovery of its therapeutic value arose out of his own personal needs. He was an invalid and poor.

He discovered that by the use of concentrated rays of violet light lupus, a terrible and hitherto incurably fatal form of scrofula could be successfully treated. The Finsen rays, as they are called, are deadly to bacteria, and along this line wonderful things are expected to develop in the future.

When Finsen had made sure of the great healing power of the rays, he saw two courses open to him. He could apply the secret in his private practice and reap enormous wealth; or he could give it to the world for the good of humanity. After lying awake all one night reflecting on this problem he chose the latter course and all the world owes him a debt of gratitude.

Found a Friend.

Valley City, N. Dak., July 27th.—Mrs. Matilda M. Boucher of this place tells how she found a friend in the following words:

"For years I suffered with a dizziness in my head and could get nothing to cure me till about two years ago, when I was advised to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. These pills cured me before I had used the whole of the first box, and I haven't been troubled since.

"In January of this year I had an attack of Sciatica that made me almost helpless, and remembering how much Dodd's Kidney Pills had done for me before, I sent and got some and began to take them at once. "In three weeks I was well, and not a trace of the Sciatica left, and I have been well ever since.

"Dodd's Kidney Pills have certainly been of great benefit to me. I have found them a friend in time of sickness, and I will always recommend them to every one suffering with the troubles that bothered me."

Storekeepers report that the extra quantity, together with the superior quality of Defiance Starch makes it next to impossible to sell any other brand.

HORTICULTURE

Valuable Fruit Lists.

Many mistakes are made in the planting of fruit trees because the planters do not take advantage of the opportunities they have for the securing of reliable information on varieties. Our state experiment stations and state horticultural societies have at great expense and after years of labor prepared lists of the fruits that are reasonably certain to do well on the soils of the state. One of the states, Indiana, has prepared this list according to counties, and this is a very great help when the farmer is preparing to set out an orchard of any kind of fruit. The lists are of course not complete, as it is manifestly impossible to include varieties that will do well in a part of the state, but are not certain to do well in all. Except where lists are fitted to suit counties instead of states, the varieties recommended are such as will give good results within the limits of the state for which they are made. In a state like Illinois, nearly 400 miles in length, the variation of soil and climate is very great. This has led the Illinois State Horticultural Society to divide the state into three portions known as the northern, the central and the southern parts. For each of these three sections there is a different list. The tree planter has a very difficult problem to handle when he tries to choose between varieties. He needs to make careful and continued inquiry. Especially must he study the varieties that are grown in his neighborhood, if there are any such.

The states differ enormously in their fruit lists. Thus east of Indiana the Baldwin is found among the number of recommended varieties. Of it the Ohio list says: "One of the best winter apples for the northern part of the state, but is a fall apple in southern counties. Very prolific; bears every other year, not seriously affected by apple scab." It would be a great mistake for a Wisconsin grower to take this as suitable for his state. If he planted an orchard of Baldwin trees he would doubtless have cause to regret it. His orchard would be killed out by some of the dry winters and he would pronounce apple growing a failure. But the fault would be with himself in not having selected the proper variety or varieties. This is especially true of piums. The Ohio list puts Abundance (a Japanese variety) at the head of recommended piums. This might do for any locality south of Chicago and north of Tennessee, but it would be misleading if applied in Wisconsin or Minnesota.

Incidentally it may be remarked that some of our states are behind in this work and some that have completed lists have admitted varieties that are in dispute as to their adaptability. Thus we notice some of the Japanese piums in the Wisconsin list, while some of the leading plum growers in that state declare that Japanese piums there succeed only in very favorable locations and do not do well as a general thing.

Michigan Fruit Prospects.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture reports the fruit conditions of the state to be as follows: Prospects for an average crop of apples, 60 per cent; peaches, 35 per cent; pears, 38 per cent; grapes, 71 per cent; black raspberries, 85 per cent; orchards that are cultivated, 38 per cent; trees alive from last spring's setting, 36 per cent. Fourteen counties are included in the Michigan fruit belt. The prospects in these for a full crop of peaches are as follows: Allegan, 28; Berrien, 27; Ionia, 10; Kent, 21; Ottawa, 29; Van Buren, 24; Muskegon, 43; Newaygo, 44; Oceana, 68; Benzie, 40; Grand Traverse, 62; Manistee, 92; Mason, 60; Leelanau, 51; average for Michigan fruit belt, 36.

In many localities it is the practice of the merchants buying butter to pay the same price for all butter, good and bad. This is one of the hardest customs with which the progressive dairyman has to deal. The custom is a bad one, as it discriminates in favor of bad butter and against good.

Sequel to "The Bow of Orange Ribbon."

A LOVE STORY BY AMELIA E. BARR

(Copyright, 1900, by Amelia E. Barr)

CHAPTER XI.

We Have Done With Tears and Treasons.

"Here is a letter from Arenta!" repeated the Doctor to his wife, who was just entering the room. "Come, Ava, and listen to what she has to say." Then Cornelia read aloud the following words:

"My Dear Friend Cornelia: If today I could walk down Maiden Lane, if today I could see you and talk to you, I should imagine myself in heaven. For as to this city, I think that in hell the name of 'Paris' must have spread itself far and wide. Do you remember our learning in those happy days at Bethlehem of the slaughter of Christians by Nero? Very well; right here in the Paris of Marat and Robespierre, you may hear constantly the same brutal cry that filled the Rome of the Caesars—"Death to the Christians!" Famine, anarchy, murder, are everywhere, and I live from moment to moment, trembling if a step comes near me.

"As to religion, there is no longer any religion. Everywhere the Almighty is spoken of as the 'sol-dan-tant God.' The monarchy is abolished, and yet so ignorant are the leaders of the people, that when Brissot mentioned the word Republic in Petion's house, Robespierre said with a grin, 'Republic! Republic! What's a republic?' Spying, and fear, and death penetrate into the most private houses; above all, fear, constant fear of every one with whom you come in contact.

"I have told you the truth about our condition, because I have just had a letter from my father, and he talks of leaving his business in Claos Bergen's care, and coming here to look after me. You must convince him that he could do me no good whatever, and that he might do me much harm. Tell him not to fear; Arenta says is here I have a friend that can do all that can be done.

"Ask our good Domine to pray that I may soon return to a country where God reigns. Never again do I wish to spend one minute in a place where there is no God; for whatever they may call that place, its real name is hell.

"Arenta, Marquise de Tounnerre." "Poor Arenta!" said the Doctor when Cornelia had finished the wretched epistle. Suppose that you go and see Van Ariens, and give him all the comfort you can."

Cornelia crossed the street and was going to knock at the door, when Van Ariens hastily opened it. When Cornelia told him her errand, he was in a hurry of loving anxiety to hear what his child had written.

"I understand," he said, when he had heard the letter. "She is frightened, the poor little one! But she will smile and say 'it is nothing.' However, I yet think I must go to her."

"Do not," urged Cornelia. You may see by Arenta's letter, that she does not fear the guillotine. Come over to-night and talk to my father and mother."

"Well then, I will come." Then he took both Cornelia's hands in his and looking earnestly at her said:

"Poor Rem! Impossible is it?" "Quite impossible, sir," she answered.

"I am very sorry," he said, simply, and let her hands drop. In an hour or two to your house I will come. There is plenty to talk about."

The next day Cornelia walked down Broadway to Madame Jacobus' house. It was closed and desolate looking and she sighed as she compared its old bright spotless comfort, with its present empty forlornness. The change typified the change in her heart and love.

One exquisite day as they went up Maiden Lane the Doctor said: "My friend, Gen. Hewitt sails for England to-day, and we will go and wish him a good voyage." So to the pier they went, and the Doctor left his carriage, and taking Cornelia on his arm walked down to where the English packet was lying.

Soon Cornelia became conscious of the powerful magnetism of some human eye, and obeying its irresistible attraction she saw George Hyde steadily regarding her. She was enthralled again by his glance, and never for one moment thought of resisting the appeal it made to her. With a conscious tenderness she waved him an adieu whose spirit he could not but feel. In the same moment he lifted his hat and stood bareheaded looking at her with a pathetic inquiry, which made her inwardly cry out, "Oh, what does he mean?" Then the Doctor touched her:

"Why do you do that?" he asked angrily. "Because I must do it, father; I cannot help it. I desire to do it." "I am in a hurry; let us go home." She turned away with a sigh. The Doctor drove rapidly to Maiden Lane and did not on the way speak a word, and Cornelia was glad of it. Henceforward she was resolved to love without a doubt. She would believe in Joris, no matter what she had seen, or what she had heard. There were places in life to which alas! truth could not come, and this might be one of them. Though all the world blamed her lover, she would excuse him.

Now a woman's intuition is like a leopard's spring, it seizes the truth—if it seizes it at all—at the first bound, and it was by this unaccountable mental agility Cornelia had arrived at the conviction of her lover's fidelity. She reflected that now he was so far away, it would be possible for her to call upon Madame Van Heemskirk.

She resolved therefore to call upon Madame Van Heemskirk the following week. She expected the old lady might treat her a little formally, perhaps even with some coldness, but she thought it worth while to test her kindness.

One morning Mrs. Moran said, "Cornelia, I wish you to go to William Irvlin's for some hosiery and Kendall's cottons."

"Very well, mother. I will also look in at Fisher's," and it was at Fisher's that she saw Madame Van Heemskirk.

"Good morning, madame," said Cornelia, with a cheerful smile.

"Good morning, miss. Step aside once with me. A few words I have to say to you," and as she spoke she drew Cornelia a little apart from the crowd at the counter, and looking at her sternly, said:

"One question only—why then did you treat my grandson so badly? A shameful thing it is to be a flirt."

"I am not a flirt, madame. And I did not treat your grandson badly. No, indeed!"

"Pray then what else? You let a young man love you—you let him tell you so—you tell him 'yes, I love you' and then when he says marry me, you say, 'no.' Such ways I call bad, very bad. Not worthy of my Joris are you, and so then, I am glad you said 'no.'"

"Madame, you are very rude."

"And very false are you."

"Madame, I wish you good morning," and with these words Cornelia left the store. Her cheeks were burning, the old lady's angry voice was in her ears, she felt the eyes of every one in the store upon her, and she was indignant and mortified at a meeting so inopportune. Why had Joris lied about her? Was there no other way out of his entanglement with her?

She could arrive at only one conclusion—Annie's most unexpected appearance had happened immediately after his proposal to herself. He was pressed for time, his grandparents would be especially likely to embarrass him concerning her claims, and of course the quickest and surest way to prevent questioning on the matter, was to tell them that she had refused him. And then after this explanation had been accepted and sorrowed over, there came back to her those deeper assurances, those soul assertions, which she could not either examine or define, but which she felt compelled to receive—He loves me! I feel it! It is not his fault! I must not think wrong of him.

One day at the close of October she put down her needlework with a little impatience. "I am tired of sewing, mother," she said, "and I will walk down to the Battery and get a breath of the sea. I shall not stay long." On her way to the Battery she was thinking of Hyde, and of their frequent walks together there, and ere she quite reached the house of Madame Jacobus she was aware of a glow of fire light and candle light from the windows. She quickened her steps, and saw a servant well known to her standing in the open door. She immediately accosted him.

"Has madame returned at last, Ameer?" she asked joyfully.

"Madame has returned home," he answered. "She is weary—she is not alone—she will not receive to-night."

The man's manner—usually so friendly—was shy and peculiar and Cornelia felt saddened and disappointed. She walked rapidly home to the thoughts which this unexpected arrival induced. They were hopeful thoughts, leaning—however she directed them—toward her absent lover. She went into her mother's presence full of renewed expectations and met her smile with one of unusual brightness.

"Madame Jacobus is at home," said Mrs. Moran, before Cornelia could speak. "She sent for your father just after you left the house, and I suppose that he is still there."

"Is she sick?"

"I don't know. I fear so, for the visit is a long one."

It was near ten o'clock when Doctor Moran returned and his face was sombre and thoughtful—the face of a man who had been listening for hours to grave matters and who had not been able to throw off their physical reflection.

Cornelia at once asked: "Is madame very ill?" "She is wonderfully well. It is her husband."

"Captain Jacobus?" "Who else? She has brought him home, and I doubt if she has done wisely."

"What has happened, John? Surely you will tell us!"

"There is nothing to conceal. I have heard the whole story—a very pitiful story—but yet like enough to end well. Madam told me that the day after her sister-in-law's burial, James Lauder, a Scotchman who had often sailed with Captain Jacobus, came down to Charleston to see her. He declared that having had occasion to go to Guy's hospital in London to visit a sick comrade, he saw there Captain Jacobus. He would not admit any doubt of his identity, but said the Captain had forgotten his name, and

She waved him an adieu, everything in connection with his past life."

"Oh, how well I can imagine madame's hurry and distress," said Cornelia.

"She hardly knew how to reach London quickly enough. But Lauder's tale proved to be true. Her first action was to take possession of the demented man, and surround him with every comfort. He appeared quite indifferent to her care, and she obtained no shadow of recognition from him. She then brought to his case all the medical skill money could procure, and in the consultation which followed the physicians decided to perform the operation of trepanning."

"But why? Had he been injured, John?"

"Very badly. The hospital books showed that he had been brought there by two sailors, who said he had been struck in a gale by a falling mast. The wound healed, but left him mentally a wreck. The physicians decided that the brain was suffering from pressure, and that trepanning would relieve, if it did not cure."

"Imagine now what a trial was before madame! It was a difficult matter to perform the operation, for the patient could not be made to understand its necessity; and he was very hard to manage. Then picture to yourselves, the terrible strain of nursing which followed; though madame says it was soon brightened and lightened by her husband's recognition of her. After that event all weariness was rest, and suffering ease, and as soon as he was able to travel both were determined to return at once to their own home. He is yet, however, a sick man, and may never quite recover a slight paralysis of the lower limbs."

The Right Place to Begin.
When the political history of Maryland is written there will be a paragraph or two for the McComas-Mudd feud. It is now in progress, bitter and unrelenting. McComas was a United States senator until March 4 last, and Mudd is a Representative in Congress. Both are Republicans. In the old days, though, they were bosom friends. McComas was the leader and Mudd a follower. One day they were dining together. Sydney, asked McComas, "how old is your boy?" "Sixteen," replied Mudd, proudly. "My, my," said McComas, "I didn't think he was so old, but I tell you, Sydney, when the time comes I'll do something handsome for that boy." Mudd leaned over the table. "Mac," he said, "when you want to do anything for the Mudd family you forget the boy and begin with the old man." —Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

Women and the Looking Glass.
How much time does a woman spend before her looking-glass? A German estimates that a girl of six to ten spends an average of seven minutes a day before a mirror, from ten to fifteen a quarter of an hour is consumed daily, and from fifteen to twenty, twenty-two minutes. Ladies from twenty to twenty-five occupy twenty-five minutes; from that age to thirty they are at least half an hour at their toilette. Thence there is a decline in coquetry. From thirty to thirty-five the time occupied comes down to twenty-four minutes, from thirty-five to forty it is only eighteen minutes; from forty to fifty, twelve minutes; and from fifty to sixty, only six minutes. A woman of seventy has thus spent 5,862 hours before the glass. In other words, eight months, counting night and day.

As a Subscriber Sees It.

An exchange article in last week's CITIZEN headed "Will Be a Good Law," deserves more than passing notice.

While I am not the owner of an automobile and do not know that I ever will be, I think it would be a gross injustice to compel the driver of an automobile to "get out and hold every horse that shows signs of fright." Automobiles are not to be compared to traction engines either in weight, shape or appearance. After they are once started, the noise is practically nil—the same can not be said of a traction engine and its accessories.

Go out into the country and hear what the farmer says about a prospective railroad or inter-urban line near the roads. The same argument about searing horses is used. Yet the legislature is not asked to stop a railroad train or an inter-urban car and hold a horse. In cities, no such legislation is demanded. Horses become accustomed to such machines in a very short time. Perhaps one horse in fifty would never become accustomed to the "jauntily soaring" automobile.

The time has arrived when the automobile is not used for pleasure alone but is a necessity. The great reduction in price, the light weight and extreme convenience will in a short time make them more common on the country roads than teams.

I fail to see the logic in the article to which I referred.

A Surprise.

Last Friday being Harley Davis' eighteenth birthday, over forty of his friends gave him a pleasant surprise. As he was going home from labor he and his friend called at the store to get a dish of cream but Harley received word that his father wanted him so he hastened home leaving the cream. Entering the house he asked for a light and matches were lighted. Harley was very much surprised to see so many faces. Ice cream and cake were served and a pleasant time was reported by all.

It's absolutely guaranteed to cure coughs, colds, lagrippe, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00 Trial bottles free at T. E. Slattery's drug store.

Southern Fruit and Vegetable Growing.

The fertile lands along the Louisville & Nashville R. R. in Alabama, West Florida and Mississippi are veritable bonanzas for the fruit grower and truck gardener. One man sold from one single acre, 100 barrels of radishes for $900 gross; another patch of 4 acres radishes yielded $1,463 net. In the spring of 1902, another truck gardener sold 300 barrels of potatoes in Pittsburgh from 3 acres of ground for $1,548, and after paying all expenses, cleared $892 or $297.33 per acre. Within two weeks after selling his potatoes, corn was up and watermelon vines were running on the same land. He harvested his corn, sold his melons, and afterwards cut two crops of hay off of the same land, and on January 20, 1903, was planting it again in potatoes. Strawberries yield from $300 to $550 per acre; as high as 12,480 quarts of luscious berries have been grown on a single acre. Address

Obituary.

Angeline Ebling, nee Merckel, was born January 4, 1829, in Jordan township, Northumberland county, Pa. A year later she was baptized by Rev. George Eistor, pastor of the Reformed church at that place. In April 1845 when 18 years of age, she was received into full communion and fellowship of the church by the rite of confirmation at the hands of Rev. Rudolph Dinger.

She was married to Benjamin D. Ebling, May 7, 1854. Six children were born to this union, three sons and three daughters, two of the sons died in infancy and the third reached the age of 17 years, when he was taken. The daughters remain to mourn for mother, but only two were permitted to be present. In April 1861, she came with her husband from Pennsylvania to Indiana and settled near Bruce Lake, and in December, 1866 they moved to their newly acquired home in Marshall county, two miles south of Culver. Here with labor and hard struggling she helped to transform the virgin soil into fertile fields. Of the nearly 50 years, which she was permitted to live with her companion she spent 35 on this farm. It was home for her in the full sense of the word. But not for her only, but also for many others. The young people of the community for many years found no where a warmer welcome than her voice and smile gave, or nowhere a better laden table than prepared by her willing hands. Her home also became the home of children besides her own, one of whom, Wm. Tyson, who is among those who mourn, as he received at her hands, the care of a mother. It also became the home of the aged parents of her companion, ministering cheerfully to the end of the life of one, and to the other till her own hands grew feeble and trembling. Her life was a life of ministration and service, and only when burdened with great infirmity, did she finally, but even then very reluctantly lay aside active duties and in the spring of 1901 consent to live with her children, spending most of the time with the oldest daughter.

Through all her years her faith in God never gave way, and her loyalty to the church never wavered. By the sacrament of baptism she became a nominal member of the Reformed church the first year of her life, and for 58 years stood in good communion with the same. She suffered much for years though seldom bedfast and her end came quite suddenly Sunday, July 19, 1903, having reached the age of 74 years, 6 months and 10 days. Her last Sabbath on earth was changed to the eternal Sabbath of heaven. She leaves husband, three daughters, and thirteen grandchildren and other relatives and friends to mourn.

An Enjoyable Day.

Sunday was very pleasantly spent at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Rogers, when all the children and grand-children gathered at their home and spent the day. It was the first time in about six years that the family had all been together and the occasion was greatly enjoyed. Those from a distance were: E. L. Rogers, wife and son, of Logansport; Clark Griffith, wife and son, of Huntington, Richard Hogan, and family of Kewanna; Ray Rogers, of McKeesport and Don Rogers, of Peru.

Working Night and Day.

The busiest and mightiest little thing that was ever made is Dr. King's New Life Pills. These pills change weakness into strength listlessness into energy, brain-fog into mental power. They're wonderful in building up the health. Only 25c per box. Sold by T. E. Slattery.

Argos Victorious.

Parasols That Are Toilet Bottles.
The newest parasol and umbrella has more than one mission to fulfill. Those of latest importation have richly and exquisitely carved art nouveau handles of whitest ivory. They are long and heavy and screw on to the wooden shaft that supports their silken mounting. These handles are low and contain a tiny six-inch vial to be filled with cologne or toilet water. By pressing an ornament in the carving of the handle, the top of the vial opens and sends out a spray of its fragrant contents to moisten a handkerchief or dampen the temples of a fatigued or fainting lady. Sometimes the handle of the parasol is filled with delicious Russian salts instead of cologne.

Pretty Theater Waist.
Blouse of straw-colored silk trimmed with lace and with bunches of grapes in a raised, white applique embroidery. The lace forms a sort of yoke, with points extending down on the sleeves, and a waistband bordered with a band of the silk and fastened with passementerie straps and brass buttons over a plastron of straw-colored mousseline de soie, which is shirred and pulled and covered at the bottom with ruffles of white lace. The sleeves are made and trimmed to correspond. —Wiener Mode Album.

The Curvature of the Earth.
At the latest reception and exhibition of the Royal Society in London, H. Yale Oldham showed how one could demonstrate the curvature of the earth with a camera having a Dallmeyer telephoto lens. A canal in Norfolk is crossed by two bridges six miles apart; marks were fixed on both bridges and half way between them, all three at the same level above the water. The camera permitted of photographing the three marks from the one end, and the middle mark appears above the others.

Pretty Door Drapery.
Abolish the cheap, trashy, musty, disease-breeding cosy corner out of your hall. The art of drapery began long before the birth of Christ, in the days of semi-barbaric people, and yet, when it comes to furnishing a house, some of us are semi-barbaric yet. Let us not fill our rooms too full; far better have fewer furnishings, and the few of better quality. Most important of all, have your color schemes harmonious in their general effects, and do not try to make impossible combinations. The accompanying sketch shows an arched door leading from hall to library. The drawing sufficiently explains the method of treatment. This and a couch with a ka-zak cover thrown over it is sufficient drapery for any large hall. —Los Angeles Times.

Needed for a Picnic.
A spot on the edge of the woods, with water near. Several persons with a sense of humor. A camp fire where corn and potatoes may be roasted and coffee boiled. A red tablecloth and little red-fringed napkins. Wooden plates, knives, forks and spoons. All sorts of sandwiches, carefully packed and wrapped in waxed paper. Rye bread with chopped peppers, brown bread with cream cheese, lettuce and chopped and seasoned meat sandwiches are best. Lettuce in a pail and dressing in a bottle. Tiny buttered biscuits. Devilled eggs in waxed paper wrappers. A roast chicken, defrosted and ready for slicing. Ice cream in bricks and whole cakes. A nice picnic menu is: Sandwiches cold breast of chicken, cold veal loaf watercress, potato salad and stuffed eggs, cake, coffee and ice cream.

Exercise Brings Beauty.
Every woman who wishes to retain her health and beauty should walk at least two miles a day. As soon as breakfast is finished the woman who knows the proper way to care for her health rests for half an hour and then starts out for a long walk, the longer the better. She chooses the sunny side of the street and starts off at a smart trot. If she is seeking for slenderness she covers five miles without resting.

Fancy Waist.
Blouse of gray louisine, made with box plaits and trimmed with bands of cerise liberty. The front is ornamented with motifs and pendants of passementerie. The shoulder collar, tucked all over, is bordered with the cerise band and trimmed with applique motifs of black chantilly. The sleeves are plaited on the outside, the plaits opening out to form cuffs trimmed with the cerise bands. The skirt is of the cerise liberty. —Neuzeit Blusen.

Here is Something Nice.
Savory Cheese—Put six ounces of grated cheese and a tablespoonful of fine cornmeal into a basin, mix thoroughly, flavor with a pinch each of ground mace and cayenne, add the yolks of two eggs, a tablespoonful of cream and one ounce of melted butter; work the mixture till smooth, pour into a saucapan, and stir over the fire until it begins to thicken, then let cool. Take some light rough paste-roll it out into two even-sized pieces, spread one with the mixture, moisten the edges, brush over with beaten egg, cut into even-sized squares, and bake for fifteen minutes. Serve hot.

Claret Jelly With Cream.
Soak an ounce of gelatine in a gill of water, and then pour over it half a pint of boiling water and stir till the gelatine has dissolved; add one pint and a quarter of claret, the juice of half a lemon, and sufficient sugar to taste. If you have it, also a little noyau. Place the jelly in a wetted border mold, and when set turn out. Fill the cavity with flavored whippea cream tinted a delicate pink.

To serve with meats:
With roast beef, grated horseradish.
Roast veal, tomato or horseradish sauce.
Roast mutton, currant jelly.
Roast pork, apple sauce.
Roast lamb, mint sauce.
Roast turkey, chestnut dressing, cranberry jelly.
Roast goose, tart apple sauce.
Roast canvasback duck, apple bread, black currant jelly.
Roast quail, currant jelly, celery sauce.
Roast chicken, bread sauce.
Fried chicken, cream gravy, corn fritters.

Sandwiches You Will Like.
Sandwich a la Mars.—Take equal quantities of almonds and walnuts and chop them fine. Moisten with a little French dressing, then spread on thin slices of buttered bread. Add a crisp leaf of lettuce to each slice, cover with the other buttered slice, press together gently, trim off the brown crust and cut diagonally in two.
Celery Sandwich.—Chop and then

pound to a paste the yolks of five hard-boiled eggs, a small piece of butter, a little salt, a teaspoonful of anchovy sauce, a teaspoonful of curry powder, a teaspoonful of bread crumbs and a tablespoonful of French dressing. The paste should have the consistency of butter. Spread it between thin slices of buttered bread, placing a lettuce leaf in each sandwich. Trim and cut in the usual manner.

Dainty Floral Muslins.
Floral muslins and delaines will make prettysummer dresses later on, and there are many daintily embroidered Indian muslins to be seen, with elaborate floral designs worked in white soft thread upon cream-colored grounds. With touches of black or of vivid emerald green upon the bodices these Indian muslin gowns will be charming for garden parties.

Blouse of Ecu Tussier Silk.
The yoke and tops of the sleeves are plain and trimmed with tabs of the material piped with red taffeta and striped diagonally with red and yellow galloon. To this yoke the blouse is plaited in fine plaits which open out about half way down. In the middle of the front is a wide box plait. The full sleeves are plaited at the top in the same way and are finished with deep cuffs trimmed with the tabs. —Wiener Chic.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS
Dampen the clothes for ironing with hot water. This dampens them much more evenly than cold; also the things will be found ready for the ironing more quickly.
A wooden rolling pin, without handles and covered with flannel is used by one woman when pressing sleeves and wristbands. The pin is inserted into the sleeve, which, she says, will then press as readily as if it were a flat surface.
The care of gold decorations on china has been a source of debate with housekeepers. Many believe that it should not be put into hot water. A dealer says that it will stand unlimited washings in hot water if soap is omitted.

Hot Winds Threaten Crop.
Kansas City, Mo., July 24.—Hot winds have been blowing in southern and southwestern Kansas and in western Oklahoma for the first time this season and corn growers in those regions are somewhat concerned. Very little damage has been done yet, but the extreme heat, the mercury being well above 100 for days at a time, has dried the ground out pretty thoroughly and corn will not stand many days of hot winds.
Reports that corn is suffering already from the dry weather come also from Leavenworth, Phillips, Geary and other as widely separated Kansas counties, but the conditions in all these regions are local, there being large areas between of abundant moisture and booming corn.
Over the greater corn growing area of Kansas the need of rain is seriously felt and the crop is now at a critical stage. The weather of the next two weeks will determine in great measure what the harvest will be.
Reports from several counties in western Kansas indicate great heat. In Rice county the thermometer reached 107 in the shade, the highest ever known there. Harvey county reports high temperature, and corn, which is just tasseling, damaged 50 per cent by drought and hot winds. Pawnee county reports 110 in the shade. Corn and feed crops damaged. As far east as Reno county hot winds were blowing, but the corn is not yet damaged.

Pirates Are Beaten.
San Francisco dispatch: Advice from Canton say that Lam-Ching Wa, the wealthy Honolulu Chinese, who was captured by river pirates on June 17 and held for ransom, has been released by government troops.

Kills Son, Then Self.
Memphis, Tenn., dispatch: George Churchill, a well-to-do planter living near this place, ended a family difficulty by fatally shooting his son and then blowing out his own brains.

Injury to Fire Chief.
Louisville, Ky., special: Fire Chief James Meyer of the Covington Fire Department was caught under the falling walls of a burning warehouse here and suffered a broken leg.

Dies of Broken Neck.
New York special: Daniel L. Stevens of the Equitable Life Assurance Society was found dying in his home and died on the way to a hospital. County Physician Kedzie said death was due to a broken neck.

Prince Flees from Throne.
Rumors Say Ferdinand Is Scared by Revolution in Bulgaria.
Vienna cablegram: The Stampa and other Belgrade papers publish rumors of a revolution in Bulgaria, which say that Prince Ferdinand, on the advice of his government, is about to flee, or has fled, to Belgrade. The rumors have not been officially confirmed. It is said at Belgrade that there have been fifty-four night assassinations, mostly of soldiers on duty in Prince Ferdinand's palace guard.

Magnate Drops Dead.
New York dispatch: E. W. Bliss, of the E. W. Bliss company, the largest machinery firm in Brooklyn, who was one of the ninety-two "captains of industry" who took luncheon with Prince Henry on his visit here, dropped dead in his library at Owl's Bay Head Ridge.

KANSAS CORN MAY BE RUINED

Hot Winds Threaten to Destroy the Crop in That State.

MERCURY REACHES HIGH MARK

Thermometer Registers Well Over 100 Degrees in Many Places—Bounteous Rains May Yet Save Grain—Fifty Per Cent Loss Is Reported.

Topoka, Kan., special: Cool weather and slight rains have temporarily saved the corn crop of Kansas from destruction, but even so, the crop is greatly damaged. It is estimated that half a crop on an average is all that can be expected.

Most of the damage has been done in the vicinity of Pratt. There has been no rain there for six weeks and the corn crop is ruined, but, fortunately, wheat is the staple of that section. The thermometer registered 103 there Wednesday afternoon and thrashing was delayed, as the laborers were unable to stand the extreme heat. Wheat, however, will average twenty bushels to the acre.

Only Fit for Fodder.
Hutchinson, Wellington, Alma, Abilene, Florence and other places in the central portion of the state report that a careful examination of the cornfields revealed the fact that the corn had been badly fired in spots. The leaves of the early product are beginning to shrivel badly and cannot make anything much better than fodder.

It will take the most favorable kind of weather for the next six weeks to make anything like a corn crop in most of the Kansas counties. The flood in May made it necessary for most of the crop to be replanted. The corn had barely started to grow, when the ground baked hard around it. The weather since then has been excessively hot most of the time and the plants have had no chance to grow.

INOCULATES HIMSELF WITH TETANUS GERMS

Needle Slips and Young Bacteriologist Is Not Likely to Recover From Lockjaw.

St. Paul, Minn., dispatch: Assistant City Bacteriologist Herman Schenberg will die as the result of accidental inoculation of tetanus germs while working in the city laboratory in connection with an accident case on the Fourth of July.

While he was trying to inject the germs into a live rabbit the needle slipped and penetrated the index finger of his left hand to the bone. The first symptoms of lockjaw have developed in spite of the most energetic action on the part of city health officials and the best medical skill obtainable.

Considering the manner in which he was inoculated with the deadly poison, it is not thought he can recover. Attempts so far made to counteract the poison have met with discouraging results. He is a young man who has made a brilliant record as a bacteriologist, and has been in the service of the city for nine years.

BARBERS TO FIGHT STATE LAW

Milwaukee Men Allege Examining Board Will Benefit the Politicians.

Milwaukee, Wis., special: The barbers of the city are concerned in a movement to make a concerted fight on the law requiring barbers to take out a license and creating a barbers' board. William Schaller, who has a shop on Wisconsin street, says the law is a farce and that the Barber's Benevolent Association would take action looking toward making a legal contest.

"It is not at all the law we sent to the legislature," he said, "and the only people who can possibly benefit by it are a few politicians who have places on the barbers' board. We propose to raise a fund and test its constitutionality."

He was imprisoned in 1886 and served seventeen years for a crime which he did not commit, and was pardoned too late to see his mother.

UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME, Notre Dame, Indiana.

We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Notre Dame University, one of the great educational institutions of the West, which appears in another column of this paper. Those of our readers who may have occasion to look up a college for their sons during the coming year would do well to correspond with the President, who will send them a catalogue free of charge, as well as all particulars regarding terms, courses of studies, etc. Private rooms are given free to students of the Sophomore, Junior or Senior years of any of the Collegiate Courses.

There is a thorough preparatory school in connection with the University, in which students of all grades will have every opportunity of preparing themselves for higher studies. The Commercial Course intended for young men preparing for business, may be finished in one or two years according to the ability of the student. St. Edward's Hall, for boys under thirteen, is a unique department of the institution. The higher courses are thorough in every respect, and students will find every opportunity of perfecting themselves in any line of work they may choose to select. Thoroughness in class-work, exactness in the care of students, and devotion to the best interests of all, are the distinguishing characteristics of the University of Notre Dame.

Sixty years of active work in the cause of education have made this institution famous all over the country.

Was It Original?
The person giving us the following incident does not vouch for its originality, but, he is original or quoted, the child made a pretty good hit: A geography lesson was being indulged in and happened to be on the far east. Among other things, the teacher asked this: "What is the chief product of the Malay peninsula?" Quick as thought, a dancing-eyed girl replied, "Malaria."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists. See Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Mrs. Anderson, a prominent society woman of Jacksonville, Fla., daughter of Recorder of Deeds, West, says:

"There are but few wives and mothers who have not at times endured agonies and such pain as only women know of. I wish such women knew the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is a remarkable medicine, different in action from any other I ever knew and thoroughly reliable.

"I have seen cases where women doctored for years without permanent benefit who were cured in less than three months after taking your Vegetable Compound, while others who were chronic and incurable came out cured, happy, and in perfect health after a thorough treatment with this medicine. I have never used it myself without gaining great benefit. A few doses restores my strength and appetite, and tones up the entire system. Your medicine has been tried and found true, hence I fully endorse it." —Mrs. R. A. ANDERSON, 225 Washington St., Jacksonville, Fla. —$5.00 profit if original of above testimonial proving genuineness cannot be produced.

The experience and testimony of some of the most noted women of America go to prove, beyond a question, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct all such trouble at once by removing the cause, and restoring the organs to a healthy and normal condition.

It Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by druggists everywhere. Large bottles 50 cents and 50 cents.

Nearly every one living in this community will doubtless want to visit Plymouth, on Thursday, July 30th, when the Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers' great consolidated shows, comprising double circuses, double menageries, double museums, double hippodromes, will appear here. The menageries contain the greatest number of rare wild beasts ever seen in one collection. In the circus there are three hundred star performers, and in addition to all the standard circus acts there are a score or more of sensational features. There is not space enough to enumerate them here, but prominent among them may be mentioned the world-famous Diavolo, who performs the exceptionally wonderful feat of looping the loop on a bicycle, an act which has astonished the world; then there is mintage the unicycle marvel; the famous Aurora Zouaves, wonderfully drilled soldiers; La Belle Leona, the renowned equestrienne; twenty-three champion bareback riders; Starr, the shooting star, and the seven Ryan-Zorrellas world's greatest aerialists and numerous other great features. All other lines of travel will offer especially low rates of fare and provide all the necessary accommodations for the throngs who wish to go to see them. The agent of these lines of travel will furnish all necessary information as to time of trains and rates of fare. There is one thing certain and that is that these excursion arrangements will enable people who live here to see identically the same show as seen by those who live in the metropolitan cities.
