DESPITE YEARS.

Enos Neal is a Great Swimmer and a Fancy One.

"Uncle" Enos Neal, of Kokomo, who is hovering around the four score mark, gave an exhibition of fancy swimming last Sunday, which greatly delighted the crowd, who made him a flattering offer of a tempting purse of money if he would repeat the exhibition.

This Mr. Neal scorned, not caring to go on exhibition as a freak, in order to make a few paltry dollars, when he could already buy and sell the fellows who were bantering him and then have a good surplus left.

Mr. Neal is an expert in the water and is a graduate from the old-time school of swimming. He makes a habit during the hot months of summer to test his prowess in the waters of some neighboring city. Two weeks ago he bathed in the limpid waters of the St. Joe, and St. Mary's, and the Maumee where they all flow together at Fort Wayne. It's a good way to go to take a bath, but Mr. Neal does not mind it. The time is his own. He has an ample supply of this world's goods, and in following his harmless inclination to swim he infringes on the rights of no man.

He can float like a cork, and "treading water" is easy for him. While floating out in front of the bath house he sucked two raw eggs.

Married.

Saturday evening at 4 o'clock at the home of Samuel Frye occurred the marriage of their daughter, Bessie, to Mr. Frank Ulery, Rev. McConnehey officiating. They left for Mishawaka on the evening train, where they will make their future home.

Notice.

Parties wishing to make the World's Fair Excursion trip to St. Louis on the rates that I am offering must deposit the $22 at the Exchange Bank of Culver, or the First National at Plymouth, or the Citizens' Bank at Argos, subject to my order, not later than the 10th of September, and notify me by postal card as to what station you will start from. Will take on passengers from Plymouth to Delong. W. E. HAND.

DIED.

Mrs. Peter Keller died at her home in Culver, last Thursday, of consumption. Funeral services were held at Plymouth, Saturday, with interment in Catholic Cemetery.

FOR SALE—One Palace Round Oak stove; one air tight heater. Both stoves in good condition. Call at Chas. Hayes' residence.

A fashion paper says "bugs" will be popular as ornaments on ladies' hats this fall. Probably the popularity will not extend to the sort of bug Robert Burns noticed on a lady's hat, and which inspired one of his greatest poems.

Mr. and Mrs. James Green returned Saturday from a ten day's visit at their old home in Jennings county. They attended the Baptist Association and while they saw many relatives and friend they had not seen for forty-four years.

You can get your cider made at the Best Cider Mill in the country on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of each week. Boiling down cider and manufacturing apple butter a specialty. Come and see us.—Alfred Alspach, Prop.

The excursions last Sunday did not bring many people. About two hundred people came down from Plymouth accompanied by the Plymouth Band. This band, by the way, is one of the best, if not the best, that has been here this year.

John Spittler is around interviewing the business men in regard to his assuming the duties of night watch this winter. It is needless to say that we need a night watch, and it is to be hoped that all Culver business men will help to pay for one.

STOLE DRAY TEAM.

Harley Landis Makes Away With Jake Landis' Best Dray Outfit.

Last Saturday morning Jake Landis hauled a load of household goods to Plymouth. A cousin of Jake's, Harley Landis, of Canton, Ohio, went along. After unloading the goods, Jake came back on the train, telling the boy to drive the team home. As they had not arrived by Sunday morning, Mr. Landis suspicioned something wrong and drove to Plymouth to see what was the matter. He found that the boy had come on his way home as far as Twin Lakes, but from there he went to Teggarden. Mr. Landis came home that evening, but started out early the next morning, and enlisting the sheriff of Starke county, has been on the track ever since, apparently with no success. They were around Hamlet yesterday.

A peach buyer driving from South Bend said he saw a boy and team answering the description of the stolen outfit near South Bend on Monday. Orrin Hudson of Culver, and Mr. Ditwiler, liveryman of Plymouth, were sent up yesterday to look up the crew.

Young Landis is but 17 years old, and if caught it will likely go hard with him. Some people seem to think that other parties were interested in the steal. One of the horses stolen was a bay the other bay and white spotted. The wagon was practically new, that with the hay rack, should make them easily identified.

Heaviest Rural Route in Indiana.

The August report of Carrier D. H. Smith, R. R. 14, Culver, shows his to be the heaviest rural route in Indiana. During August he hauled 15,011 pieces of mail or nearly 600 pieces per day. The heaviest route in Cass county handled but 7759 pieces of mail in August, or about 298 pieces per day, less than half the number of pieces handled on route 14, of Culver. Following is the report in detail:

Judging from the way the czar is acting, there is nothing in that story of its being a borrowed boy.

There is a shortage of 40,000 servant girls in New York. Verily the policeman's lot is an unhappy one.

Now that he has a son and heir, the czar will be affectionately referred to by his faithful subjects as the old Nick.

JEALOUS MAN SHOOT PAIR

Stepfather, infatuated With His Wife's Daughter, Uses Revolver.

SWEETHEARTS HIS VICTIMS

Wished His Spouse to Die So That He Could Marry Young Woman, Whom He Had Learned to Love—Ends His Own Life.

Chicago dispatch: While seated at the piano playing an air which he had requested Augusta Guth, 20 years old, was shot and probably fatally wounded Sunday night by her stepfather, Lawrence Lentsch. Turning, Lentsch fired a bullet into Edward Moeller, the girl's fiance, and then committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart. The tragedy, which was the culmination of an infatuation for the girl on the part of her stepfather, took place in the Lentsch home, 21 Aubert street. Moeller, who is 21 years old, lives at 1036 Nelson street. Both Miss Guth and Moeller were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, where they were operated on. At midnight it was said the young woman was still alive. Her fiance was not dangerously wounded.

Asks Girl to Play. Miss Guth was seated at the piano in the parlor of her home and her sweetheart sat on the sofa near by when Lentsch entered the room. The young woman was going for a walk with Moeller, but the father asked her to play once more. The shooting followed.

Lentsch was married to Mrs. Antonia Guth fifteen years ago. The daughter Augusta was then 5 years old. When she was 15 her stepfather showed signs of preference for her. According to Mrs. Lentsch, as told her many times:

"You are too old and fat and ugly. Why don't you die so Augusta and me can get married?"

Seeks Reconciliation. When he found that Miss Guth avoided him, Lentsch is said to have extended his abuse to her, many times threatening her life and finally forcing her to leave home, which she did a week ago. She went to the home of her sister, Mrs. Henry Feiler, 558 Wieland street, but Sunday afternoon, at her stepfather's urgent request, returned. Lentsch, through the girl's mother, told her that he would thereafter "treat her all right." He also said he would withdraw his objections to her keeping company with young Moeller.

Carries Wounded Fiancee. Immediately after the shooting the girl and Moeller both ran from the house, but the girl fell as she reached the sidewalk. Fearing, however, that her father would follow them, Moeller, despite his own injury, picked her up and carried her to the home of August Aubert, 2524 North Western avenue, a block away.

Aubert called his wife, and the two young people were placed on couches, while Aubert ran to Harm's Grove, a block south, and called Officers Jackson and Connor of the Town Hall police station, who were stationed there. Meanwhile, Lentsch had turned the revolver on himself. He was taken to Alexian Brothers' Hospital, but when he was placed on the operating table he was found to be dead.

RACES FOR LIFE FROM FLAMES Road Supervisor Has Thrilling Escape in Montana Forest Fire.

Missoula, Mont., dispatch: One of the fiercest forest fires on record is raging southwest of here in the main range of the Bitter Root mountains. The fire has burned over a radius of many miles in Montana and Idaho, where there is much fallen timber. Byrnes Casner, a road supervisor, had a race for his life with a forest fire in the canyon of the Bitter Root range. Casner was driving a team and in ten minutes' time the fire swept a distance of over a mile. Many other large fires in Montana are still burning and great quantities of timber and underbrush are being destroyed. This is the driest season in the history of Montana.

CONTEST OVER BURDICK WILL Widow of Slain Man Sues for Guardianship of Her Children.

Rochester, N. Y., special: Papers were filed in court here which recall the sensational murder of Edwin L. Burdick in his home at Buffalo on the night of Feb. 27, 1903. The papers represent an appeal in the contest over Burdick's will, and were filed by his widow. Although the instrument cuts Mrs. Burdick off without mention and leaves the bulk of the property to the children she is satisfied, except that she is not named as guardian.

CITY MAKES ITS PROMISE GOOD Votes to Issue Bonds to Reimburse Loss in Beet Crop.

Owosso, Mich., special: A year ago the business men of Corunna guaranteed 500 acres of beets for the Owosso Sugar company in lieu of Owosso giving Corunna the new court house. The crop proved a failure and parties interested have lost heavily. At a special election held to bond the city of Corunna for $12,000 to reimburse them the proposition carried by 100 majority.

EXPERTS REDUCE THE ESTIMATES ON CROPS

Opinions of Well Informed Men Place Yield of Wheat at 500,000,000 Bushels, Causing Higher Prices.

Chicago dispatch: Further cutting down of the northwestern crop totals by the experts was mainly responsible for the strong wheat market Monday. Private messages reporting frost at a number of points in Manitoba over night helped to keep prices on the up grade. Much of the new buying was of the professional sort, and looked very much like a reinstatement of wheat lines that the bulls had previously sold out. There was, meanwhile, selling that was credited to the Watson party of Minneapolis. The market absorbed it all and closed at practically the highest prices of the day. The start was weak, with selling heavy and fairly influential. It was influenced by the large world's shipments for the week, which were nearly 1,200,000 bushels greater than for the previous week, and had been greatly swelled by large shipments from Russia and Argentina. Although officially quoted temperatures Northwest and in Manitoba were low, there was no frost shown on the map, thus relieving anxiety for a time on that score. Ware-Leland, Kneeland-Clement-Curtis and S. C. Love were heavy sellers of the May and succeeded in carrying the price down a full cent from Saturday's closing price. The publication of the Jones report, indicating a total wheat crop of 504,000,000 bushels, was supplemented by the Snow report a short time later, estimating the total at 500,000,000 bushels. Both were confirmatory of the Inglis figures, indicating a total of 516,000,000 bushels.

FATHER LEAVES GREAT WEALTH TO DAUGHTER

Mrs. Anna M. Walker Becomes Sole Heiress to Weightman Estate, Figured at $50,000,000.

Philadelphia dispatch: Mrs. Anna M. Walker of Germantown is made one of the richest women in the world by the terms of the will of her father, William Weightman, which has been offered for probate. Mr. Weightman was the richest man in Pennsylvania, his estate being estimated at $50,000,000. Every penny is given to Mrs. Walker, who is the widow of Congressman Robert J. C. Walker of Williamsport. Mrs. Walker becomes sole proprietor of the extensive chemical works owned by her father, and will assume active management of the business, besides looking after the real estate left her by her father, who was one of the largest holders of real estate in the country. Mrs. Walker has considerable business ability, having managed her father's vast affairs for many years.

SEA OF SALT SWALLOWS A MAN

Murderer in Escaping Mob Perishes as if in Quicksand.

Newark, N. J., dispatch: Nunzio Morani, 23 years old, was shot and killed by his brother-in-law, Giuseppe Marmanno, who also shot Mrs. Morani, perhaps fatally. Marmanno in his efforts to elude a crowd of pursuers ran into the salt meadow at the south end of the city, where the salt, covered by four feet of water, is in many places ten feet deep and more yielding than quicksand. The meadow has been searched by men in boats, but no trace of Marmanno has been found and it is believed that he perished. The quarrel that led to the shooting was over a sum of money sent by Morani to Marmanno in Italy to enable the latter to come to America.

WOMEN EXILE WHISKY SELLER

Keeper of a Raided Kansas "Joint" Is Driven Out of Town.

Cuba, Kas., dispatch: One of the keepers of the four illicit saloons that were raided Saturday by local women has been driven out of town by the crusaders, after he had attempted to reopen his place of business. Several kegs of beer found buried in the cellar of the place were destroyed by the women and formal notice was served on the proprietor to leave town within three hours and never to return. He departed by the first train. A delegation of the women called on the mayor and the police judge and warned them that the crusaders would stand no more "trifling" and that the policy of allowing "joints" to run would not again be tolerated.

USES GUN ON SUNDAY RIOTERS

Workman Is Shot by Railroad Construction Superintendent.

Menominee, Mich., dispatch: Paul Pavicic of Chicago was shot in a fight at Nathan. A dispute arose between 150 men working on the construction of a road. Supt. Gillvay of Lorimer, Gallagher county, attempted to interfere and was obliged to use a gun for protection. Four shots were fired and Pavicic received one shot in the thigh. His chances of recovery are good. No arrests as yet. Nathan figured in another sensation recently, the Adams murder, for which Charles Erickson is now being tried.

Mob Wounds Negro Slayer.

Macon, Ga., special: J. B. Bishop, a farmer of Wilcox county, was murdered on an Atlantic & Birmingham train by a negro, who escaped. The murderer was located near the village of Rebecca. The house was burned by the mob and the negro, running out, was shot, though not fatally.

RUSSIANS HOLD THEIR OWN

Japanese Unable to Force Positions Stubbornly Held by Kouropatkin's Men—Greatest Battle of Modern Times.

The mightiest battle of the far eastern war, perhaps the greatest battle of modern times, is raging about the walls of Liaoyang. Between 300,000 and 400,000 men are opposed in the struggle under the banners of the mikado and the czar, the former under the leadership of Gens. Kuroki, Oku and Nodzu, and the latter under Gen. Kouropatkin. The fight will doubtless settle the fate of the campaign.

Thus far the Russians have more than held their own. Not only have the islanders failed to dislodge the enemy from any of its position, not only have the Muscovite soldiers successfully resisted all attempts to turn the flank of the czar's forces, not only have the Japanese losses been heavy out of all proportion to those of the Russians, but so fiercely were several of their charges hurled back that ten guns are reported to have fallen into the hands of the defenders of the forts of Liaoyang.

participated in the battle and that the fighting was continuous along the entire Russian line, a distance of about nine miles.

The Japanese opened their attack as soon as the eastern sky began to show the first gray streaks of dawn. The rain of the night had left the plain sodden with mud, but this did not cause the Japanese to falter. The sky was clear, and this fact gave the gunners on both sides their opportunity.

From their 1,000 cannon the Japanese poured a deadly shrapnel fire into the Russian intrenchments. As soon as possible after morning broke the Japanese sent up a big war balloon. This searched the plain in an effort to locate the Russian trenches. The Russian mortar batteries hammered away at the aerial craft, but were unable to wreck it.

The balloon remained immune from hostile shells and when its mission

NUMERALS REPRESENT ELEVATIONS IN FEET

Dispatches from Chefoo say the Russians soon will find untenable the whole line of forts except those on Golden Hill, White Marble hill and Laoti mountain. Some days ago it was stated the Russians would retreat to Laoti mountain when driven out of Golden hill, and make their final stand on that, the greatest height in the vicinity of Port Arthur.

For the fury of the fighting the battle has never been surpassed—perhaps not even equalled. Opening with their batteries on the Russian positions at 5 o'clock on the morning of Aug. 30, the ground before them was laid out by the Japanese gunners in a checker-board pattern, and into each of these squares in succession was poured such a murderous hail of shell and shot that the earth was torn and furrowed, small trees worn down, and larger ones fairly riddled with lead.

After raking the entire field in this manner with mathematical precision for nearly an hour, the commander of the mikado's army gave the order for a general advance along the entire line. By noon the two armies met in a hand to hand fight. From an artillery duel at long range the conflict was transformed into a furious revolver and bayonet fight.

Charging repeatedly back and forth across the field, the Russian cavalry beat the Japanese down by the thousand. The czar's cavalry has not before had an opportunity to maneuver in the open field, and the manner in which it responded when the chance came won the admiration even of the Japanese themselves.

Neither Side Wins Advantage.

Reports from the scene of battle between Gen. Kouropatkin and the Japanese around Liaoyang are meager, but a study of the various dispatches shows it is developing into the most sanguinary struggle of modern times. Already in two days of fighting it appears that 20,000 lives have been sacrificed. The losses are about evenly distributed between the Japanese and Russians, according to all available accounts of an unbiased nature. Russian correspondents, however, agree on declaring that by far the heavier losses have been suffered by the Japanese.

When darkness closed over the gory battlefield Aug. 31 neither combatant, apparently, had gained a decisive advantage. Gen. Kouropatkin's men on the south and southeast still held their trenches. On the extreme left flank, however, it was reported that Gen. Kuroki had found a weak spot, that the Russian line was wavering and that the Japanese seemed about to get around it so as to strike the main Russian position in the rear.

All accounts agree in saying that all of Kuroki's, Oku's and Nodzu's troops had been accomplished it was lowered. Soon thereafter the Russians felt the effect of its service, for the Japanese cannon and mortars hurled a doubly effective fire into the Russian positions on the south and in the center.

Fierce Fighting at Liaoyang.

News comes of fierce fighting around Port Arthur and Liaoyang. The latter point continues to overshadow the former. It is realized that the fate of Port Arthur depends essentially upon the power of Gen. Kouropatkin to resist the combined forces of Gen. Kuroki and Nodzu.

Under what is described as an "infernal artillery fire," Gen. Herschelmann, who is in command of the tenth army corps, forming the left wing, has lost nearly all his officers and a large number of men. After very severe fighting, failing to receive reinforcements, he retired under great difficulties owing to being wedged in a narrow defile.

Meanwhile the Japanese in unexpected numbers attacked the Russian center, causing the retreat of the latter to their main position. In the course of this attack a shell burst, causing many deaths, the victims including Gen. Routkovsky and Col. Von Raaben. A dispatch received here describes the effect as volcanic. It is believed that Shimose powder was used.

The Japanese are adopting entirely new tactics. Possibly owing to lack of ammunition they made a bayonet charge of most fanatical nature, no quarter being given or asked. A most sanguinary scene followed.

Learning Japanese.

Several of the idle American war correspondents in Tokio are learning Japanese. Opinion is divided as to why they are doing so. Some say it may be because they hope to make their way to the front disguised as Japs, and others think it may be that they wish to thank the military censor in his own language for his many attentions to them, their own language not being expressive enough.

Lake Lucerne Traffic.

The most frequented lake in Europe is the Lake of Lucerne; last year twenty steamboats plied on it and carried 1,529,000 passengers and over a thousand tons of baggage and freight.

CORN IMPROVES DURING THE WEEK

Windswept Fields Are Resuming Normal Condition in Illinois and Indiana.

FAVORS THE WHEAT HARVEST

Lack of Rain in Minnesota and Dakotas Affords Opportunity to Farmers to Harvest and Thresh Their Grain.

Washington special: The weather bureau's weekly summary of crop conditions is as follows:

"While the latter part of the week was abnormally cool in the Ohio valley, lower lake region, middle Atlantic states and New England, the temperature as a whole was favorable for maturing crops. Freezing temperature is reported from central Wyoming and light frosts from Colorado, Montana and portions of Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York. Although cool weather has prevented rapid development of corn in the Ohio valley and lake region, the crop as a whole has decidedly improved. Much of that prostrated by winds in the previous week in Indiana and Illinois is straightening. In the Missouri valley the temperature has been more favorable and the advancement of the crop toward maturity has been much more rapid than in the central Mississippi and Ohio valleys. Early corn has matured in southern Missouri and is ripening rapidly in Nebraska and South Dakota, cutting being in progress in the first named state and in Kansas. The reports indicate that from three to four weeks of favorable weather will be required to mature the late crop.

No Rain in Wheat Region.

"The week was practically rainless in the spring wheat region of Minnesota and the Dakotas, affording favorable weather for harvesting and threshing. Some early wheat in the northern part of North Dakota is yet unripe and rust is still damaging late wheat in that state, and much of the crop will not be cut. Disappointing yields are generally reported from Idaho, Washington and Oregon.

"In Oklahoma, northern Alabama, southern Mississippi and Louisiana cotton has improved, but elsewhere has made unfavorable progress. Deterioration from rust and shedding is reported from nearly all districts.

"In Illinois the weather was cool, with scattered showers. Threshing is nearly finished; plowing progressing; corn greatly improved by rain, development slow on account of low temperature; warmth needed, much blown down in west portion; good yield of oats; pastures excellent; buckwheat, millet, broom corn, cow peas and potatoes good; grapes ripening; heavy yield; apples deteriorating."

HOPKINS AIDS A RAILWAY PLAN

Senator Gets Creditors to Accept New Paper in Indiana Case.

Portland, Ind., special: Senator Albert J. Hopkins of Illinois presented to creditors of the Cincinnati, Bluffton & Chicago railroad a plan for taking the railroad out of the hands of the receiver. At the solicitation of the senator all notes and bonds against the road were relinquished by the creditors and these are to be replaced by new paper, putting the affairs of the railroad in such shape that an extension can be made at once from Bluffton to Huntington. Senator Hopkins explained to the creditors that $250,000 had been obtained by him in Chicago to make the extension and that he had more money at his disposal when a further extension was agreed on. Eastern creditors have made all the concessions asked by Senator Hopkins and the completion of the road seems assured.

CORN MILLERS ARE HOPEFUL

High Price of Wheat Will Increase the Consumption of Meal.

Kansas City, special: Corn millers from Illinois, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas held a meeting here Tuesday. H. S. Kennedy of Chicago, ex-secretary of the National Federation of Millers; C. W. Munn of Chicago and Frank Wiedlocher of Springfield, Ill., wholesale corn millers, were among those who came to Kansas City to attend the meeting. "The corn millers have no distinct organization," said Mr. Kennedy, when he was asked the purpose of the meeting. "We have come here to talk over the business situation and the crop conditions. Corn is so high-priced and has been for so long that the millers of that cereal have made nothing out of it. Now, however, we believe that the high prices of wheat will bring about a greater consumption of corn, especially among the laboring classes."

METAL WORKERS ARE TO STRIKE

Eight Hundred Men Will Go Out Next Thursday at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Pa., dispatch: A general strike order, to go into effect on Thursday, has been issued by the Sheet Metal Workers' union as the result of the manufacturers' refusal to meet the employees in conference unless an arbitrator is first selected to decide all questions upon which conference committees might differ. The strike will affect about 800 men in this city, which is the center of the sheet metal industry.

CHAPTER XI.

How the Fates Cheated Randalin.

After that night the deep-set windows of Ivarsdale Tower looked out upon some grim sights. The first morning it was a skirmish in the meadow beyond the foot-bridge, when the three-score farmer-soldiers came loyally to their leader's aid. Though Rendred of Hazelford marched bravely at their head, they were practically untrained; with any kind of weapon in their hands and no kind of armor over their homespun. What chance had they against sixty picked warriors, led by the fiercest chief of a race of chieftains? They met, and there was a moment of clash and of clangor, a moment of awful commotion; and when the whirling dust-clouds settled, the only homespun that was moving was that which was flying, sped by Danish arrows. All the rest of the day the Tower windows looked out upon a litter of brown heaps here and there, a white face upturned, or a scarf-end fluttering in the autumn wind.

Wild with helpless misery, the Lord of Ivarsdale would have charged the Berserkers with his handful of armed servants if the old knight had not restrained him almost by force; when he spent his breath in railing at everything between earth and sky.

"It is the folly of it that maddens me," he cried over and over, "the needless folly! Had I but used my mind to think with, instead of to plan feasts—I am moved to dash my brains out when I remember it!"

"Nay, it is my judgment that was lacking," Morcard said bitterly. "I was an old dog that could not learn a new trick. I should have seen that the old ways no longer avail. The fault was mine." His wrinkled old face was so haggard with self-re-to be the only glimpses of food vouchsafed to them.

"Bread for one more meal; and the last ale-cask has been broached," the steward answered in a very faint voice when Morcard put the nightly question.

Because it was not possible for the old man's face to record more misery, the light of the guard-room fire over which he crouched showed no change whatever in his expression.

It was the young lord, who sat beside him, that answered. After a pause he said gently, "Go and try to get some sleep. At least you can dream of food."

"I have done no otherwise for a sen- night," the man sighed, as he hurried away to snatch the tongs from a serf who was spending an unnecessary fagot upon the fire. At any other time he would have shouted at him, but it was little loud talking that was done within the walls these days.

When they were left alone, the old knight threw himself back upon the bench and covered his face with his mantle. "I have outlived my usefulness," he moaned. "I have lived to bring ruin on the house that has sheltered me. What guilt I lie under!" For a time he lay as stark and rigid as though death had already closed about him. The guard-room seemed to become a funeral chamber, with a mass of hovering shadows for a pall. The fire held up funeral tapers of flickering flame, and the whispers of the starving men who warmed themselves in its heat broke the silence as dismally as the voices of mourners.

But the Lord of Ivarsdale said steadily: "Not so, good friend; and it hurts my pride sorely that you should speak as if I were still of no importance in my father's house. That which I called myself lord of, it begravely, I heard what Brithwald told you about the bread, lord. What will overtake us when that is gone? Shall we charge them, so that we may die fighting?" When the Etheling did not answer immediately, his companion looked up at him with loving reproach. "You forget that you need conceal nothing from me, dear lord. I am not as those clowns below. You have even said that you found pleasure in telling me your mind."

Sebert's hand was lifted from the red cloak to touch the thin cheek caressingly. "I should be extremely ungrateful were I to say less, dear lord. There is a man's courage in your boy's body, and I think a woman could not be more faithful in her love."

How! Are you cold that you shiver so? Pull the corner of my cloak about you."

But the page cast it off impatiently. "No, no, it is nothing; no more than that one of those men out there may have walked across the spot that is to be my grave. Sooner would I bite my tongue off than interrupt you. I ask you not to let it hinder your speech."

Again a kind of affectionate pity came into the young noble's face. "Does it mean so much to you to hear that you have been faithful in your service?"

"It means—so much to me!" the boy repeated softly; and if the man's ear had not been far afield, he might have divined the secret of the green tunic only from the tenderness of the low voice. But when his mind came back to his companion again, the lad was looking at him with a little smile touching the curves of his wistful mouth.

"Do you know why this mishap which has occurred to you seems great luck for me? Because otherwise it is not likely that you would have found out how true a friend I could be. If it had happened that I had gone with Rothgar's messenger that night, you would have remembered me only as one who could entertain you when it was your wish to laugh. But now, since it has been allowed me to endure suffering with you and to share your mind when it was bitterest, you have given me a place in your heart. And to-morrow, when we go forth together, and the Dane slays me with you because it will be open to him then that for your sake I have become unfaithful to him, you will remember our fellowship even to—"

But Sebert's hand silenced the tremulous lips. "No more, youngling! I adjure you by your gentleness," he whispered unsteadily. "You owe me no such love; and it makes my helplessness a thousandfold more bitter. Say no more, little comrade, if you would not turn my heart into a woman's when it has need to be of flint. Sit you here on the ledge while I take one more turn. You will not? Then come with me, and we will make the round together, and apply our wits once more to the riddle. Until swords have put an end to me, I shall not cease to believe that I have an answer."

Below, in the dense blackness of the forest, an occasional owl sounded his echoes cry. From still deeper in the dark, where the Danish campfires glowed, a harp-note floated up on the wind with a fragment of wild song. But it was many a long moment before the silence that hovered over the doomed Tower was broken by any sound but the measured tramp of the sentinels.

HIS GREATNESS NOT VISIBLE.

English Nobleman Evidently Displayed No Sign of Rank.

Sir R. Farrant tells a good story apropos of the late Lord Rowton's personal concern in the comfort of the houses which bear his name. They had been hanging pictures at the King's Cross house "all the morning," and wanting to finish in the afternoon went for luncheon to a neighboring public house.

"We found the place very busy, but were able to get some bread and cheese. The barmaid was very talkative, and had much to say about the large Rowton house that was to be opened in a day or two."

"Have you seen it?" she asked.

"Yes," he replied.

"Then she launched forth in loud praises of Lord Rowton."

"This is Lord Rowton," I said, pointing to him.

"Get out!" she exclaimed, with great disgust, and then went on with her work, casting a glance our way from time to time, much to the amusement of Lord Rowton.—London Answers.

Something Hard to Buy.

The late Pat Gleason, former mayor of Long Island City, was a fond and indulgent father. Nothing was ever denied his daughter Jessie that money could provide. The mayor was not well versed in foreign languages, however, and upon hearing an account read of a society belle of whom it was written she had a je ne sais quoi about her which rendered her a most charming person, said to Miss Jessie:

"Go you and get one of those things. There's nothing any of them girls can wear about them that you can't buy."—New York Times.

Condensed Horses.

Small Willie had accompanied his uncle to the circus, and was especially pleased with the antics of the Shetland ponies.

"Well, Willie, what did you see at the show?" asked his mother upon his return.

"Oh lots and lots of things," replied the little fellow, "but the condensed horses were the best of all."

Peach Liqueur.

Take mellow, full flavored peaches, wash but do not peel, slice, and put in a stone jar, which must be set for six hours in a kettle of boiling water. Cover the peach kernels with brandy and let stand till next day. Strain off the juice from the peaches, taking care not to squeeze the fruit hard enough to make the liquid muddy. Measure the juice and for each pint take a generous pound of the best refined sugar. Put sugar and juice together and let stand until next day, then bring the mixture to a boil, skim thoroughly, and strain it again through a bag of double cheese cloth. When it is cool add to it the brandy in which the kernels have been soaked, putting one pint of spirit to two of tymp. Let it settle, and if not perfectly clear strain again. It ought to be either a clear pink, a bright yellow or a white, according to the fruit used. Use clear glass bottles. Put in the kernels, also a blade of mace, tied to a bit of yellow lemon peel, and a fragment of stick cinnamon. Cork, seal and keep in a dark place. The liquor improves with age.

For Toilet Details.

A capital notion is a large case of flax linen, daintily embroidered, with different sized receptacles for holding gloves, veils, cravats, waist ribbons and the hundred and one details that nowadays go to make up a well-turned-out woman's toilet. Veils carefully handled will last a long time, whereas, tossed into drawer without being folded, and stretched out to their original width, they scarcely last a week in a condition one would term respectable. The tendency of all these open-mesh woven things is to shrink. The fancy for the long gauze veil, with deep hem border, grows apace. That these spend quite half their life thrown back over the hat in nowise affects their popularity. Indeed, for such were they apparently ordained, the smart French and American elegantes flagrantly adding an ordinary fine, ruffled veil for actual use.

Batiste With Embroidery.

The value of a tasteful wrapper that can be slipped on with ease and which invites relaxation is well understood. This one is exceptionally attractive at the same time that it is wholly simple and is adapted to a wide range of materials. As illustrated, however, it is made of white batiste figured with pale green and is combined with a collar and frills of embroidery. The fronts are plain and loose, but the back is laid in inverted plaits, which provide additional fullness, and to the lower edge is joined the gathered flounce. The quantity of material required for the medium size is 11½ yards 27, 10½ yards 32 or 6¼ yards 44 inches wide, with ¾ yards of all-over embroidery and 7 yards of edging 8 inches wide.

Design by May Manton.

Symphonies in Colors.

Color symphonies are engaging the attention of both milliners and dress-makers at the present moment, when novelties in the way of new modes are no longer forthcoming. All sorts of fantastic ideas are being employed, and so that the colors harmonize there is no limit to the quaint and lovely conceits that a true artistic modiste can achieve. One of the most original of these creations for evening wear—but it is, alas! only for the fortunate few—is a "sunrise frock," in which all the tints of the sky at sunrise are skillfully blended. The soft, cool gray of dawn, rose pink, an indescribable blue and a sort of mauve haze that trembles into white are all intermingled so softly that one is conscious of no details of the gown—only of the wonderful general effect.

Girl's Apron.

Pretty aprons are ever in demand. This one is novel and becomes ornamental at the same time that it serves the practical end of protecting the frock. As illustrated it is made of white lawn with trimming of embroidery and fancy stitching, but all the materials used for aprons are equally correct, white for the better sort, colored chambray, gingham and the like for those of harder usage.

The apron is made with a yoke, that is extended at the front to give a stole effect, fronts and backs. The main portion is gathered at its upper edge and attached to the yoke and front and the closing is made at the center back.

The quantity of material required for the medium size (8 years) is 2½ yards 32 inches wide, with 2¾ yards of embroidery to trim as illustrated.

Pretty Necklaces.

Gold beads look very pretty worn above the low collar of a summer blouse. They are confined to day wear at present, while longer chains of rare stones are liked for evening.

Coral necklaces, as well as those of turquoise beads, have come in with the reappearance of gold ones, and when becoming either of these is a very effective ornament. In one of the prettiest long chains the fine gold links are interspersed with oblong bits of cut aqua marines and swung on the end of the chain is a large locket, trimmed with the same stones, only smaller, and in the center rests a single diamond.

For Tailor-Made Gowns.

Chiffon cloth is being largely used for tailor-made gowns this summer. It is perhaps the most fashionable of all the thin fabrics, and, while it has all the suppleness and evanescent beauty of chiffon, it also possesses the durability of cloth, and works up into the most fascinating of dresses. In the soft pastel tones it is exquisite, and it lends itself so very easily to the picturesque draperies and gagings that are now the mode. Lace is a charming adornment, especially that of a fairly coarse weave, and it looks well in conjunction with galloon, or silk braid, or even embroideries.

Shepherd's Plaid in Early.

Shepherd's plaid has made its appearance earlier than usual this year. As a rule, one encounters it only when summer is drawing to a close, and the "ping-pong" of the sportsman's gun is heard echoing across the moors. But for once in her career, fashion has anticipated matters, and shepherd's plaid is included among the check patterns considered modish in the way of taffetas and voiles. Some very becoming shepherd's plaid gowns have been seen in gingham and fine lawns, but the insistent little black and white check looks at its smartest in chiffon cloth.

The Collar for Silk Frocks.

For wear with silk frocks and ribbon stocks there is a decided demand for the modified medici collar, which takes the place of the plain ruching, now rather out of date. The new medici ruffe is of net or lawn, edged with valenciennes or mechin lace, knife pleated, and is from one and a half inches to three inches deep. It stands out very stiff and somewhat saucily from the stock.

A New Fad in Ties.

Grass-green tape ties in white canvas golf and tennis oxfords are a late summer fad at the country clubs, links and tennis courts. Both men and women have taken to wearing them.

No Time Lost.

A mother, after days of preparation for a week's absence from home, suddenly remembered, after the train was well under way, that she had left a bottle of a certain well-known remedy within reach of the meddlesome little fingers of her three-year-old son. She remembered, too, that there was nothing that the child loved better than the aromatic contents of that particular bottle.

Hurriedly calling the porter, the anxious mother prepared a message to be telegraphed from the first station. It read:

"Hide bottle of Robbie's medicine. Left it on table in my room."

An hour later she received this not altogether soothing message from the boy's father:

"Too late. Robbie got there first."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Few Americans in Europe.

Travelers returning from Europe declare that the scarcity of Americans at continental resorts is very noticeable this season, and hotelkeepers are complaining that not in years have they come upon such hard times.

GIRL SAYS MEN TORTURED HER

Peculiar Story of Kidnaping Is Told to Chicago Police by Young Woman.

EXHIBITS WOUNDS AS PROOF

Alleges That She Was Taken From Home in a Buggy by Two Unknown Men, Who Prodded Her With Pins and Inflicted Burns.

Chicago dispatch: Seized, gagged, bound and placed in a closed buggy by two men who tortured her by burning her arms with matches and sticking pins into them while they drove for miles about the north side, 16-year-old Gertrude Stoder told the police that she escaped from her captors when the horse became unmanageable at Lincoln and Cleveland avenues.

To prove her story, which her father, who lives at 211 Hudson avenue, was inclined to doubt, the girl exhibited the wounds made in her arms by the pins and the burns of the matches. These were examined by the family physician and pronounced to be wounds evidently inflicted as the girl described.

Police Credit Girl's Story.

The police do not believe she would have the courage to inflict the wounds on herself to back up her story, if it were false, so they believe her remarkable tale and are searching the north side for the men she charges with kidnaping and torturing her.

The girl left her home at about noon and her relatives searched the neighborhood for her in vain. She was found by neighbors at 6 o'clock, sitting half dazed on the steps at 334 Cleveland avenue. She told the neighbors of her experience and was assisted to her home, where she repeated her story to her father, and a physician was called.

"I was in the alley in the rear of my home," she said, "when an elderly man approached and asked if a family named Robinson lived in the neighborhood. I told him they did not and he made other inquiries. We walked while we were talking toward Menominee street and had reached it when we finished."

In Grasp of Stranger.

"The stranger seized me before I knew what he was about and carried me to a buggy which was standing at the curb. In the buggy was another man, who helped the stranger lift me into the vehicle. A leather apron was then drawn over me and the front of the buggy so as to hide me and the horse started off at a run."

"The stranger kept his hand over my mouth so I could not cry out until we were started. He then placed a gag in my mouth and bound my arms so I could not struggle."

"I could not see where we were going, but while one man drove the other stuck pins into my arms and burned me with matches. I suffered agony, as I could not move or scream. We drove for ages it seemed."

Tells of Escape.

"Then we stopped, and I heard one of the men tell the other that we were at Van Buren and State streets. The other said: 'There are too many people about to take her from the buggy here. Drive on.' We drove on until the driver dropped the lines by accident and the horse became unmanageable."

"The other man released his hold on me and I sprang out of the buggy and ran. I tore the gag from my mouth after working my hands free from the cords that bound them. I found I was at Lincoln and Cleveland avenue and walked home."

Dr. Edwin G. Earle, 286 Belden avenue, was the physician who said the girl's wounds had evidently been inflicted as she described. The girl's father reported the case to the Larabee street police station.

ECCENTRIC MAN CHASES SOLON

Joe Peg Accuses Senator Clark of Carrying Grouse in Pocket.

Missoula, Mont., dispatch: United States Senator W. A. Clark was attacked here by a man known on the streets as Joe Peg, who thought the senator had been breaking the game laws and was carrying a grouse in his pocket and who threatened to take the senator's life. Peg followed the senator several blocks, persistently calling upon him to hand over the grouse. Senator Clark ran panting into the lobby of the Florence hotel and demanded protection. He was sure that Peg had a gun, for several times the latter had made motions to pull it and threatened to shoot unless the senator would give up his game bird. Several persons sprang to his assistance and the insane man was overpowered.

GOLD MEDAL FOR GIRL HEROINE

Citizens of Menominee, Mich., to Honor Plucky Gertrude Sawyer.

Menominee, Mich., dispatch: Considerable money has been subscribed by Menominee citizens to purchase a gold medal for Gertrude Sawyer, the heroine who piloted a party of five children across the waters of Green bay during a heavy sea, when the waves were thirty feet high and when all steamships remained in port. Her courage saved the entire party and she remained at the oars until her hands were raw. It is probable she will receive a Carnegie medal.

Bass Lake Overrun with the Carp.

Bass lake, in Starke county, is rapidly accumulating German carp which found entrance to the lake by passing through ditches from the Tippecanoe river. Bass lake ranks second in size in Indiana. German carp, very undesirable fish for table use, have rid scores of lakes in northern Indiana of the better class of fish and fisherman fear that Bass lake will meet the same fate unless a consignment of pickerel can be secured from the government and placed in the lake to kill off the carp.

Decided Not to "Cut Out Papa."

An ambitious and high-thinking young ensign in the navy, whose salary is $116.66 a month, recently married the daughter of a rich man. The ensign has ideas of his own about the propriety of his wife being dependent on her father and he apportioned his salary for her support.

"Now, dear," he said, "of course I know your father is rich, but that makes no difference. We must steer our own ship. We must not depend on him. I have arranged matters so that you can have $50 a month out of my salary; and I think we should not send any of your bills to him, but pay them ourselves out of that allowance."

The wife agreed and brought her bills to her husband. The first one he looked at was $62.50 for roses. He gasped and stammered. "I guess we can't cut papa out just yet," he said.

Mosaics for Stanford University.

Maurizio Camerino, an artist from Venice, has begun work on several more elaborate mosaic designs on the exterior of the Stanford Memorial church at Stanford university, California. The new mosaics will represent biblical scenes and will be placed over the entire side walls of the organ loft and the east and west transept wings. At present those walls are surfaced with smooth-faced stone, ornamented with artistically carved designs, but these will be hewn out and the mosaic work substituted. When the proposed work is completed the entire interior wall surface of the edifice will be covered with mosaic. The work will require eight months for completion.

TOO MUCH FOR HER, EVEN.

It is Wonderful What One Can Eat Before Stomach Rebels.

On a certain voyage there sat across the table from us a pleasant English lady. I noted her daring experiments with admiration mixed with terror.

On the bill the English chef gave us such American delicacies as bluefish, pompano and red snapper. I am extremely fond of all three, but not so far from their native waters; I do not care for fish as it is being carried around the globe in various stages of decomposition.

But the English lady had a magnificent digestion, and she even tackled our American backstreet cakes for breakfast—for they are found on several liners' lists.

She ate potted shrimps; she ate deviled lobster; she ate duck, grouse and snipe that had died in the dim past; she ate bloater paste; she ate apple dumplings, strawberry jam, raspberry jam, gooseberry jam, Stilton, Cheshire, Cheddar and Gorgonzola cheese.

But on the fourth day out she ate some Welsh rarebit. Then even her sturdy stomach gave way. The English lady collapsed. I think she ascribed it to a northeasterly gale that kicked up a slight sea. But I knew better.

When she reappeared at table she had an appetite, but nothing like her old one. Some of the glutinous and oleaginous dishes she passed unheeded by. One day she refused frankfurter sausage and sauerkraut.—San Francisco Argonaut.

NEVER SEE HEARSE AT NIGHT.

New York Undertaker Explains Why They Are Not Sent Out.

"Nobody gives us fellows credit for having a large bump of sensitiveness," said a west side undertaker, "but the fact is, we go to a good deal of trouble to safeguard the feelings of the general public. For one thing, we try never to keep our hearses in the street after dark.

"Of course, in the case of afternoon funerals and long distances we cannot avoid getting home late, but, even so, we make it a point to get under cover as soon as possible after night-fall. And we do that absolutely out of consideration for the public. By nine people out of ten the sight of a hearse on the street at night is taken as a sure sign of impending death and disaster.

"Even in the daytime a hearse is a gloomy affair, but to run up against one at night is pretty sure to give the most jovial fellow alive a depressing turn. I know how it is myself. Accustomed as I am to handling hearses, I don't like to bump into one unexpectedly at a dark corner.

"Most men in the business feel the same way, therefore we strive to be considerate. That we succeed remarkably well is apparent to anybody who will take the trouble to count the hearses he has seen out at night. These are so few that I'll wager the most confirmed gadabout cannot recall more than three or four of them."—New York Times.

Odell and the Inventor.

When Gov. Odell goes to Newburg now he is just as familiar with his old friends as he was before he became governor of the Empire State. He has a smile and a handshake for every one, and usually asks some questions apropos of his listener's family, occupation or prospects. Last spring the governor met an old friend of his up in Newburg and immediately asked how he was getting along on the airship he had been working on for years. The inventor had become disgusted with his mechanical progress, and when the governor asked if the machine was a complete success he replied: "Well, not quite yet. I have two things to accomplish before I can say it is."

"What are they?" asked the governor.

"I have to find how to get my machine up in the air and how to keep it there."—New York Herald.

John Wesley's Ideas on "Ailing."

It is pretty generally known that John Wesley, during his unparalleled apostolate of half a century, traveled 250,000 miles and preached 40,000 sermons, but comparatively few are aware of the prodigious amount of literary work he managed to accomplish. His most curious and eccentric book was entitled "Primitive Physic; or, An Easy and Natural Method of Curing Most Diseases." It was published in London by Harr & Co. in the year 1743.

The preface is characteristic of the author. "When man came first out of the hands of the Creator there was no place for physic or the art of healing. But when man rebelled against the Sovereign of heaven and earth the incorruptible frame put on corruption, and the immortal put on immortality."

To Preserve Old Capitol.

A movement has been started at Colorado Springs, Colo., to preserve the old territorial Capitol building, in that city, which is now occupied by a Chinese laundry. The El Paso County Historical Society is considering plans for keeping the old log building intact and suitably marking the structure.

LIVER TROUBLES

"I find Thedford's Black-Draught a good medicine for liver disease. It cured my son after he had spent $100 with doctors. It is all the medicine I take."—MRS. CAROLINE MARTIN, Parkersburg, W. Va.

If your liver does not act regularly go to your druggist and secure a package of Thedford's Black-Draught and take a dose tonight. This great family medicine frees the constipated bowels, stirs up the torpid liver and causes a healthy secretion of bile.

Thedford's Black-Draught will cleanse the bowels of impurities and strengthen the kidneys. A torpid liver invites colds, biliousness, chills and fever and all manner of sickness and contagion. Weak kidneys result in Bright's disease which claims as many victims as consumption. A 25-cent package of Thedford's Black-Draught should always be kept in the house.

"I used Thedford's Black-Draught for liver and kidney complaints and found nothing to equal it."—WILLIAM COFFMAN, Marblehead, Ill.

WILLIAMS AS A JOKER.

Democratic Leader Had Fun With Unsophisticated Reporter.

It was in February last that John Sharp Williams' leadership of the minority in the House of Representatives had so spread his fame that he was widely talked about as of Presidential caliber. An enterprising but unsophisticated young newspaper man sought the Mississippian for information as to any movement in his favor. Mr. Williams, with well dissembled gravity, assured the reporter that everything was auspicious for his boom. Recent reports from Mississippi especially, were highly encouraging.

"Toombs, O'Connell, Noxon, Nanachew, Toccepoli, Tablville and Grubbs Springs, I am told," he said, "are already for me, while I shall have every reason to believe that I shall have the undivided support of such places as Nittayuma, Wahalak, Bolatasha, Hushpukena, Pelahatchie, Mitayuma, Estabuchee, Itabena, Seutch, Cinquipli, Pawticklaw, Octoe, Leggo, Yellow Rabbit, Chumkey Station, Hamhono, Deovolente, and Whynot."

When the reporter had sufficiently recovered to scrutinize the countenance of the Mississippi statesman, he then asked:

WHERE NERVE WON OUT.

Writer Took Forceful Possession of "Sit" and Retained It.

Prof. W. G. Bowdoin, author of "Book Plates" and other special art volumes, did not always enjoy the success he now has. He tells a nervy incident in connection with his first magazine appointment.

"It was this way," he said, "I tried to get on the staff as art editor, critic and contributor, but neither owner nor editor took much notice of me. One day I got my dander up. I went into the office, saw an empty desk and ordered the office boy to clean it for me. I dictated to the stenographer nearly all day. The rest of the staff listened and seemed interested. The next day they appealed to me for orders. I gave them. The editor sent me out on the third day for an art essay. Near the end of the week the owner happened in.

"Say, Bowdoin, how do you like your job?" said he with a twinkle in his eye.

"First class," I replied, "all but the salary."

"Don't worry about that," he answered; "I'll give you the same as the last man we had."

"And he did."—New York Times.

How Our Gold Was Landed.

Probably the largest cargo of gold specie ever shipped across the Atlantic has been unloaded from the Kaiser Wilhelm II at Cherbourg, says the Paris correspondent of the London Telegraph. The amount, constituting an installment of the Panama Canal indemnity from the United States, was 42,592,648 francs. The money had been kept on board in an armored store room, before which an armed sailor was on guard day and night. The door was closed by three locks, the keys being in the possession of three ship's officers respectively. On the store room being opened an inventory was taken of the treasure, which was contained in 155 small oak casks, clamped with iron, each weighing about 180 pounds, and purposely finished and polished in such a way that the surface offered no grip to the hand, and that the only means of moving them was to roll them along. The precious freight was conveyed ashore in a government tug, and brought to Paris by special train, contained in two iron-protected vans, under the care of two police commissaries. Customs duty was levied on the gold at the rate of 10 francs per 100 kilos, amounting to about £60.

Destiny.

Soul and body, follow me;
Cold and free the mountains gleam,
Leave the vale of laughing ease
Where the trees o'erhang the stream.

Come, my body, joy of sense
Shall not henceforth be thy spoil,
Leave my soul, thy fellow-fires;
Who aspires alone must toil.

Festal riot, lure of love,
Up above ye shall not find,
Pine trees toss their spears of black
O'er our track beneath the wind.

Whispering their music dies
As we rise, and now I seek
Lonely wastes of silent snow
Spread below the windy peak.

Moat-like in the vale one stands
Lifting hands to wave me back,
Sighs that kindle, eyes that burn
Shall not turn me from my track.

On the ridge the mounded stones
Hide his bones who tried the fight,
Though the daylight wane and fall,
I must scale the peak to-night.

Soul and body, can ye fear
When so near my battle ground?
Fear the darkness, ye would die
Could ye see where I am bound.
—Philip P. Graves, in the Spectator.

THREE JURORS CURED

Of Cholera Morbus with One Small Bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy.

Mr. G. W. Fowler of Hightower, Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, the county seat of Cleburne county, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some soused meat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in all my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the fix I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured the three of us." For sale by T. E. Slattery.

Smart-Set Diversions.

Races all day and bridge half the night make a combination that not the most magnificent physique in England could long resist without showing signs of wear and tear. And yet that is the life program of most of the young married women of the smart set.—Mrs. Humphry Ward in the Boudoir.

Cured of Lame Back After Fifteen Years of Suffering.

"I had been troubled with lame back for fifteen years and I found a complete recovery in the use of Chamberlain's Pain Balm," says John G. Bisher, Gilliam, Ind. This liniment is also without an equal for sprains and bruises. It is for sale by T. E. Slattery.

De Reszke's School Popular.

Jean De Reszke has set to work on his Paris singing school with such enthusiasm that he is not likely to be tempted to return to the stage by any salary that may be offered him. As a matter of fact, his new enterprise promises to be a source of great income to him. The rates are $40 an hour, and that is not for a private lesson. The pupils are taken in classes of four and each pays $10. M. De Reszke gives a lesson to each pupil alternately and the other three listen. As he has as many pupils as he can receive now, it will be seen that his school will soon be as much a source of profit to him as his singing, even at the rates he used to be paid.

Fearful Odds Against Him.

Bedridden, alone and destitute. Such, in brief, was the condition of an old soldier by the name of J. J. Havens, Versailles, Ohio. For years he was troubled with kidney disease and neither doctors nor medicines gave him relief. At length he tried Electric Bitters. It put him on his feet in short order and now he testifies: "I'm on the road to complete recovery." Best on earth for liver and kidney troubles and all forms of stomach and bowel complaints. Only 50 cents. Guaranteed by T. E. Slattery.

Mystery Solved at Last.

"I lost my notebook one day," said the novelist, Will Levington Comfort. "I searched the house over for it. From room to room I went, examining every corner, and at the end of a two hours' hunt I found the book."

"By Jove!" I exclaimed, "I wonder why it is that one always finds a thing in the very last place one looks for it?"

"Maybe," said a cousin of mine, "it is because after we find what we are hunting for, we end our search."

A Remedy Without a Peer.

"I find Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets more beneficial than any other remedy I ever used for stomach trouble," says Mrs. J. P. Klotz, of Edina, Mo. For any disorder of the stomach, biliousness or constipation, these Tablets are without a peer. For sale by T. E. Slattery.

Fashionable Shoes.

Pale grey or fawn suede shoes will be much worn this season, both by women and men. They are very light, cool and pliable, and look remarkably smart. Although they soil easily, they are readily cleaned with grey or fawn pipe-clap.

Cause of Insomnia.

Indigestion always disturbs the sleep more or less and is often the cause of insomnia. Many cases have been permanently cured by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by T. E. Slattery.

Suffering

Will Not Help Your Disease, but Will Weaken Your Nerves.

Folks who think it is better to bear pain than soothe it—are wrong. Old-fashioned doctors used to say it was better, because they had nothing with which to ease pain but dangerous, heart-paralyzing drugs.

But now, that a safe remedy has been found, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, it is wrong to suffer, for nothing can be gained but weakened nerves.

A safe rule to remember is: When in pain, take an Anti-Pain Pill.

This will soothe your quivering nerves. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills relieve pain by restoring the natural secretions, in which they differ from opium and similar narcotic drugs, which relieve pain by checking the action of the glands.

They are sure and harmless, and are the latest medical treatment for the cure of Headache, Neuralgia, Backache, Rheumatism, Dizziness, Toothache, Stomachache, Menstrual (Monthly) Pains, Also nerve irritations like Sea-Sickness, Car-Sickness, Sleeplessness, Indigestion, etc.

Pleasant to take, quick in results.

"I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for sick, nervous headache, and have received the best results. I heartily recommend their curative properties, for they are successful."—REV. RAY A. WATKINS, D. D., Iowa City, Ia.

Sold by druggists, at 25c. Money back if first box does not help. Never sold in bulk.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Aids Nature.

Medicines that aid nature are always the most effectual. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It allays the cough, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by T. E. Slattery.

Lipton's Double Honors.

Sir Thomas Lipton has an Italian knighthood as well as his English baronetcy.

What Is Life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law, even slightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in constipation, headache or liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly readjust this. Gentle, yet thorough. Only 25c at Slattery's Drug Store.

Printers' Home Library.

The International Typographical union will build a library at the Printers' home, at Colorado Springs, Colo., to accommodate a large number of books presented to the home by the late Congressman Amos J. Cummings. The library presented to the institution by Mr. Cummings has 20,000 volumes.

A Boy's Wild Ride for Life.

With family around expecting him to die, and a son riding for life 18 miles to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Colds and Coughs, W. H. Brown, of Leesville, Ind., endured death's agonies from asthma; but this wonderful medicine gave instant relief and soon cured him. He writes: "I now sleep soundly every night." Like marvelous cures of Consumption, Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Colds, Coughs and Grip prove its matchless merit for all Throat and Lung troubles. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. TWO ARE KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

Watchman and Negro Are Victims of Sunday Racing at St. Louis.

BARNEY OLDFIELD IS INJURED

Noted Chauffeur Loses Control of His Machine During a Speed Contest and It Crashes Through the Fence With Fatal Results.

St. Louis, Mo., dispatch: Barney Oldfield, the racing chauffeur of Cleveland, O., lost control of his automobile in the fifth event of the World's Fair speed contest Sunday. The big machine crashed through the outer fence of the course, killing John Scott, a watchman, and injuring Nathan Montgomery, a negro so that he died a few hours later. Oldfield was injured and the auto demolished.

At the clubhouse, after the accident, Oldfield declared that the race was his last. He said he never would drive in competition again on an inclosed track, declaring the sport too hazardous. He said he might take part in exhibitions, but not in contests.

Runs Into the Fence.

The accident occurred at the start of the fifth event, a ten mile race for racing machines. At the start A. C. Webb of Toledo, Webb Jay, G. P. Dorris, and Barney Oldfield went to the paddock. The start was bad, Oldfield and Webb being the only drivers to get their machines in motion. They sped under the wire and away without heeding the gong. When the three-quarters pole was reached the machines were going at the rate of a mile a minute.

Webb led by twenty yards. He held the middle of the track, and as he mounted a bank at the turn his machine threw a cloud of dust in the air that caused both machines to be lost to the sight of the 25,000 spectators in the grand stand.

Oldfield tried to pass Webb at the three-eighths pole. He was getting the dust and was completely blinded. He turned his machine to the rail and allowed it to run directly into the fence.

Two Men Are Killed.

About thirty feet of the railing was torn out. Scott and Montgomery, the only two spectators at that spot, were directly in the path of the huge 24 horsepower machine and were ground down in a twinkling. Oldfield in the automobile hardly realized what had happened until the machine struck a tree. He was thrown out violently and his head and face were scratched, but he was not seriously injured. The machine was wrecked.

Oldfield was taken to the clubhouse. Scott's body was picked up, and Montgomery, the negro, was attended by a physician until the city ambulance took him to the hospital, where he succumbed to his injuries.

This is the second serious accident that Oldfield has figured in. While racing at Grosse Pointe, Detroit, several days ago the steering gear of his famous car, "999," became deranged and he ran into a man, killing him. Oldfield had three ribs broken then.

NEW SUSPECT IN BEDFORD CASE

Detective Thinks He Has Solved the Schafer Murder Mystery.

Bedford, Ind., dispatch: The arrest of a man suspected of having murdered Sarah Schafer in Bedford on the night of Jan. 21 is expected within a few days, according to the declaration of a detective who has been working on the case since the adjournment of the last special grand jury. The detective declares that he has discovered conclusive evidence against the man whom he is about to accuse of the murder. The detective declares his belief that the murderer of Sarah Schafer was employed by a citizen of Bedford to put the young schoolteacher out of the way and that the murder was deliberately planned and carried out. He scoffs at the theory that the crime involved a motive other than murder.

PRAYS UNTIL DEATH STOPS HIM

Antonio Giorgio Is Electrocuted at the Auburn (N. Y.) Prison.

Auburn, N. Y., dispatch: Antonio Giorgio was put to death Tuesday in the electric chair at the Auburn prison for the murder of John Van Gorder and his half-sister, Miss Farnham, at West Almond, Alleghany county, May 4 last. Robbery was the motive for the crime. Giorgio went to the death chair reciting prayers in a high voice, and his invocation only ceased when the electric current was turned on. Giorgio's companion in the murder, Giuseppe Vrsacia, is to be electrocuted next week.

NUN PERISHES IN THE FLAMES

While Saving a Patient After Oil Stove Explosion Sister Meets Death.

Springfield, Mass., dispatch: Sister Gohn of the Little Franciscan Sisters of the Sacred Heart was burned to death while trying to save a patient, Mrs. Fred Passino. An oil stove exploded in the Passino home, where the sister was acting as a nurse. Instead of saving herself Sister Gohn ran to the aid of the sick woman. The fire department rescued Mrs. Passino and her baby, but Sister Gohn was dead when found. She came to Springfield eleven months ago from France.

DAVID BENNETT HILL TO ABANDON POLITICS

Former Senator From New York Will Devote His Time to Private Affairs After Present Campaign.

Albany, N. Y., dispatch: David B. Hill declared Sunday that he intended to retire from politics Jan. 1 next and that no matter what the result of the coming campaign might be, either state or national, he would relinquish the leadership of the democratic party in New York.

He added that in the event of democratic success this fall he would not accept any position under the national or state democratic administration or again become a candidate for election to any office whatever.

Former Senator Hill made these statements on the eve of his birthday anniversary. He was born Aug. 29, 1843.

In partial explanation he said that he had intended to take such action a year ago, but was persuaded by some close personal friends to defer doing so until after the presidential election this year. Having been engaged in active politics since his youth and having served as city attorney, alderman and mayor of Elmira, member of the legislature, lieutenant governor, governor for seven years and United States senator for six years, he feels that he has been sufficiently honored by his party and that he has rendered political service during a period of years sufficient to entitle him to be relieved of further active political effort. He desires to devote more time to his personal affairs and professional duties than he has in the past.

Mr. Hill will continue his work in the present campaign, and to his friends said that he would always maintain his interest in democratic success, but only as a private citizen.

OUTWITS SON-IN-LAW TO REGAIN DAUGHTER

Wife's Father Proves Too Clever for Young Husband, Who Loses His Wife in Odd Manner.

Tiffin, O., dispatch: A sensational story was related to the police by Charles Smoyer of Sycamore, O., who alleges that his father-in-law, B. Burger, of Wooster, kidnapped Mrs. Smoyer somewhere between Tiffin and Sycamore.

Smoyer and his wife are both said to be under age. While he was a student in Wooster university a year ago he met Miss Burger. They were married soon after, although her parents, it is said, did not approve of the match. They went to Cleveland, where Smoyer was employed in a wholesale drug house. Several weeks ago he lost his position and they then came to Tiffin. Here they stopped at the home of Marcino Briner.

According to Smoyer's story, Mr. Burger and Marcino Briner drove to Sycamore. The father visited his daughter and told her, it is said, that her mother, while en route to Sycamore, had been taken violently ill in Tiffin. The daughter consented to accompany him to Tiffin, her husband also going.

When they had proceeded a short distance they met Briner and he was taken into the carriage. When they had proceeded several miles, Smoyer says, he was thrown out into the road.

The woman was then brought to Tiffin, placed on a train and taken to Wooster. Smoyer reached Tiffin, but was refused admission to the Briner home. The police advised Smoyer to consult a lawyer.

COREAN PRINCE IS ENGAGED

Heir to the Throne Will Wed a Pretty Ohio School Miss.

Cincinnati, Ohio, dispatch: Prince Penkell Euiwha, known as Prince Yee, heir to the Korean throne, has another affair of the heart. This time it is pretty 16-year-old Mary Buttles of Columbus, O., who is not yet out of high school. Prince Yee now lives at Salem, Md., where he is studying under a private tutor, and it was while Miss Buttles and her mother were spending the summer at a near-by resort that the attachment began. The formal engagement will soon be announced. Last summer Prince Yee was in love with Miss Clara Bull, a pretty Cincinnati milliner, whom he met at Delaware, O., where he was attending college. Miss Bull displayed a diamond engagement ring, but a few weeks later it was declared off.

CRASH CATCHES 100 PUPILS

Rural Graduates Tumble Before the Camera When Platform Breaks.

Springfield, Ill., dispatch: While 100 graduates of the rural schools of Sangamon county were posing for a class picture in the courthouse square the platform on which they were seated gave way and all fell to the stone walk. In the wild scramble that followed several of the pupils were slightly injured. The graduating exercises were held in Chatterton's opera house. Charles Knudson of Berlin was the valedictorian and Bertha Meyer and Mary Noe divided second honors. Judge Owen P. Thompson delivered the principal address.

Russia Will Not Change Law.

St. Petersburg cable: While Russia has not yet rejected the proposal of the United States government for negotiations looking to the unrestricted recognition of American passports, it is practically certain that she will decline on the ground that it entails a complete change in the laws in so far as they affect the Jews.

FROM MISERY TO HEALTH.

A Society Leader and Club Woman of Kansas City Writes to Thank Doan's Kidney Pills for a Quick Cure.

Miss Nellie Davis, of 1216 Michigan Ave., Kansas City, Mo., society leader and club woman, writes: "I cannot say too much in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills, for they effected a complete cure in a very short time when I was suffering from kidney troubles brought on by a cold. I had severe pains in the back and sick headaches, and felt miserable all over. A few boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills made me a well woman, without an ache or pain, and I feel compelled to recommend this reliable remedy."

Opening for Canadian Fruit.

A report from Commercial Agent Jackson, at Leeds, says there is a good opening for Canadian fruit in England. The apple and plum crops have been a failure. Last year England imported 60,000 tons of apples and pears. Of this amount Canada sent 200 tons.—Detroit News.

ARE YOU GOING TO ST. LOUIS?

The Hamilton Hotel is located but a few blocks from World's Fair. It is fireproof and moderate in charges. Good rooms with bath, $2.00 per day and up. European plan. Breakfast 50c. Write for Booklet. Address F. Williamson, manager.

To the housewife who has not yet become acquainted with the new things of everyday use in the market and who is reasonably satisfied with the old, we would suggest that a trial of Defiance Cold Water Starch be made at once. Not alone because it is guaranteed by the manufacturers to be superior to any other brand, but because each 10c package contains 16 ozs., while all the other kinds contain but 12 ozs. It is safe to say that the lady who once uses Defiance Starch will use no other. Quality and quantity must win.

Gen. Jackson's Chaplain Dying.

Rev. M. A. Wilson, the veteran pastor of the Baptist church at Norton, Va., is reported to be dying. He was chaplain of "Stonewall" Jackson's brigade in the civil war, and throughout the years has maintained an undying devotion for the greatest Christian character, as he believed, of history. He said to a newspaper correspondent in the beginning of his illness: "Well, it doesn't matter how it goes with me. It is time to go. I am willing and waiting. It is literally true, as Jackson said, 'that there is a passing over the river to rest under the shade of the trees.'"

Americans in the Making.

The new humorist in the house of representatives, J. Adam Bede of Minnesota, has discovered a new description of the process a foreigner undergoes in attaining citizenship rights in this country.

He says he was out in the west not long ago. He met a group of men who were talking of their different nationalities. There were representatives of a half dozen different countries. Among them were a Scotchman, a German, an Italian, a Swede, a Frenchman, and finally, says Bede, one fellow signed for his skin in the mountains of the Nordland and announced that he was a Norwegian, but had been "neutralized!"—Pittsburg dispatch.

BUILDING FOOD

To Bring the Babies Around.

When a little human machine (or large one) goes wrong, nothing is so important as the selection of food which will always bring it around again.

"My little baby boy fifteen months old had pneumonia, then came brain fever, and no sooner had he got over these than he began to cut teeth and, being so weak, he was frequently thrown into convulsions," says a Colorado mother.

"I decided a change might help, so took him to Kansas City for a visit. When we got there he was so very weak when he would cry he would sink away and seemed like he would die."

"When I reached my sister's home she said immediately that we must feed him Grape-Nuts and, although I had never used the food, we got some and for a few days gave him just the juice of Grape-Nuts and milk. He got stronger so quickly we were soon feeding him the Grape-Nuts itself and in a wonderfully short time he fattened right up and became strong and well."

"That showed me something worth knowing and, when later on my girl came, I raised her on Grape-Nuts and she is a strong healthy baby and has been. You will see from the little photograph I send you what a strong, chubby youngster the boy is now, but he didn't look anything like that before we found this nourishing food. Grape-Nuts nourished him back to strength when he was so weak he couldn't keep any other food on his stomach." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

All children can be built to a more sturdy and healthy condition upon Grape-Nuts and cream. The food contains the elements nature demands, from which to make the soft gray filling in the nerve centers and brain. A well fed brain and strong, sturdy nerves absolutely insure a healthy body.

WYOMING MOB HANGS NEGRO

Colored Man Is Lynched for Murderous Attack on a White Girl.

TAKE KEYS FROM THE SHERIFF

Official Is Compelled to Obey Demand by Committee, Who Search Him While Guns Are Levelled at His Head—Job Is Soon Over.

Laramie, Wyo., dispatch: Joe Martin, colored, was lynched by a mob of 300 men in front of Judge Carpenter's house at 8 o'clock Monday night. Martin was a trusty in the county jail. He attacked a white girl, Della Krause, in the jail kitchen and slashed her face and arms with a razor. One man was injured by Martin when they were entering the jail to drag out the prisoner.

The first intimation that Sheriff Cook had of the contemplated lynching was when two masked men appeared in the kitchen of the jail house, and, with guns leveled at him, told him that there were 200 men waiting outside for the negro and that he had better not attempt to make any trouble for them.

Take Keys From Sheriff.

In the meantime another masked man had entered, and while the first two held the sheriff the third man took the keys of the jail from his pockets. Then the three started for the negro's cell. On the way they met Dr. Miller, who had been summoned.

He and a jail attendant were compelled to stand against the cage of the cells with their faces turned away from the mob. The negro was then taken from his cell and hurriedly marched through the courthouse into the street.

Arriving at the lamppost a short distance away, the black was quickly strung up.

Streets Are Soon Deserted.

During the entire proceeding he did not speak nor attempt to resist. The lynching occurred at about 8 o'clock, and within an hour the streets were deserted.

Acting Coroner Grant took charge of the body of the negro and turned it over to an undertaker.

Miss Krause would undoubtedly have been killed by Martin had not the wife of Sheriff Cook held him in her arms until his rage had cooled and until he could be taken from the kitchen. On the way out he slashed Frank Frazer, a bystander, with a butcher-knife which he had grabbed from the kitchen table. The wound is not serious. Miss Krause, who comes from Chillicothe, Mo., is not seriously hurt.

MURDER A NEGRO.

Man Is Said to Have Been Taken From His Home and Whipped to Death.

Statesboro, Ga., special: Sebastian McBride, a negro, living near Portal, in the upper part of Bulloch county, was taken out of his house Saturday night by five men, carried to the woods, whipped severely, and then shot. He died soon afterward.

Before death came, however, he related to a number of white men and colored people the manner in which he was handled and told the names of three of his assailants.

He said the men came to his house and hailed him at the door. When it was opened they came in with guns and held his wife at bay while they carried him away. After they had been gone some time his wife heard several guns fired.

Some time in the night McBride returned to his home, badly beaten, and shot in the back in several places.

Several white neighbors were notified, and went to see the negro and took his testimony. After his death Coroner D. Q. Stanford held an inquest.

Negro Murders Policeman.

Danville, Va., special: Police Officer J. J. Hall was shot by Jack Dillard, a desperate negro, outlawed in this state and North Carolina. Officers have been on his track for a week. A mob estimated at 1,000 are now looking for the murderer, and if he is captured a lynching may result. Hall will probably die.

SNOW BREAKS UP THE SUMMER

Crops, Flowers and Produce Suffer in Northern Minnesota.

Duluth, Minn., dispatch: A fall of snow, the first of the fall, occurred at Virginia early Monday morning. It lasted but a short time after the sun rose, but was sufficient to convince one that summer in the range country is a thing of the past. Crops, flowers and garden produce were damaged in the country immediately surrounding Virginia and heavy frosts are reported from other Western Mesaba range points.

Board of Arbitration.

Springfield, Ill., dispatch: B. F. Shapleigh of Galesburg, Ill., has been appointed by Gov. Yates a member of the state board of arbitration, vice Walter A. Mathis of Clinton, who resigned, giving as his reason that his duties as railroad engineer prevented him from giving the office the time that was necessary.

Fibroid Tumors Cured.

A distressing case of Fibroid Tumor, which baffled the skill of Boston doctors. Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, Mass., in the following letter tells how she was cured, after everything else failed, by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Hayes' First Letter Appealing to Mrs. Pinkham for Help:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been under Boston doctors' treatment for a long time without any relief. They tell me I have a fibroid tumor. I cannot sit down without great pain, and the soreness extends up my spine. I have bearing-down pains both back and front. My abdomen is swollen, and I have had flowing spells for three years. My appetite is not good. I cannot walk or be on my feet for any length of time. 'The symptoms of Fibroid Tumor given in your little book accurately describe my case, so I write to you for advice.'—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Note the result of Mrs. Pinkham's advice—although she advised Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, to take her medicine—which she knew would help her—her letter contained a mass of additional instructions as to treatment, all of which helped to bring about the happy result.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Sometime ago I wrote to you describing my symptoms and asked your advice. You replied, and I followed all your directions carefully, and to-day I am a well woman."

"The use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound entirely expelled the tumor and strengthened my whole system. I can walk miles now."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth five dollars a drop. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female trouble of any kind to give it a faithful trial."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Mountains of gold could not purchase such testimony—or take the place of the health and happiness which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought to Mrs. Hayes.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands without a peer as a remedy for all the distressing ills of women; all ovarian troubles; tumors; inflammations; ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb; backache; irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation. Surely the volume and character of the testimonial letters we are daily printing in the newspapers can leave no room for doubt.

Mrs. Hayes at her above address will gladly answer any letters which sick women may write for fuller information about her illness. Her gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so genuine and heartfelt that she thinks no trouble is too great for her to take in return for her health and happiness.

Truly it is said that it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is curing so many women, and no other medicine; don't forget this when some druggist wants to sell you something else.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

New Rates for Taxation.

Under existing law, township trustees are required to publish estimates of the rate of taxation for the coming year. In the same notice appears the date of the meeting of the township advisory board. At this meeting the trustee will set out how much money he needs for the next year and the advisory board will make whatever tax levy it may deem proper. It is the privilege of any taxpayer to attend this meeting and see what the money is wanted for.

If you have any objection to the rate fixed, the time to file your objection is at the meeting of the advisory board. After action by the board the tax rate is established beyond appeal.
