DEATH OF ALFRED N. BOGARDUS

Prominent Citizen of Culver Passes Away Friday—Large and Impressive Funeral Under the Auspices of Plymouth Commandery, Knights Templar, and Masonic and K. of P. Lodges.

The funeral of Alfred N. Bogardus was held Monday under the direction of the Plymouth Commandery, No. 26 K. T., assisted by the Henry H. Culver Lodge No. 617 F. and A. M. and Marmont Lodge No. 231 K. of P. A slow, drizzling rain began directly after the procession left the house, and continued during the entire day. The procession was led by the Plymouth Band followed by the Plymouth Commandery K. T., the inger, McCoy, Everly, Astley, H. C. Peters, W. C. Peters, Gould, Schoonover, Lee and Smith.

Henry H. Culver Lodge F. and A. M. was represented by twenty members and seven visitors. Those from a distance were: Messrs. Brown and Johnson, of Knox; Henry Haag, of Kewanna; Hon. Daniel McDonald, E. Price, Harry Armstrong and Frank Behmer, of Plymouth. The Knights of Pythias had thirty-eight in attend-which he was borne to his last resting place.

As a useful and honored citizen Mr. Bogardus was frequently honored by his friends and fellow citizens. Many years he was Justice of the Peace, Notary Public and in 1900 was elected trustee of Union township. He was a foremost man in his business. The work of his hand may be seen in many modern and stately structures in this township, nearby towns and in the city of Indianapolis. The deceased was a member of the Scottish Rites Masons of Indianapolis, besides being a Sir Knight of the Plymouth Commandery, No. 26, and a member of the Henry H. Culver Lodge of Masons of Culver. He was also a member of Knights of Pythias, having his membership in this order at Argos. For the period of fifteen years our brother was a member of the Christian church at Maxinkuckee. Alfred Newell Bogardus departed this life April 7th, 1905, aged 47 years, 11 months and 16 days.

In the presence of such an active and useful life, little can be said that would add to the eloquence of the record, and the tongue is silent in the hush of eternity. An attempt, however, to pay a just and loving tribute to the memory of our brother, to the consolation of his bereaved companion and children can be best made in the language of the Scotch Highlanders as they were wont to repeat when bearing some especially cherished one to the tomb:

Neighbor, accept our parting song,
The road is short, the rest is long;
The Lord brought here, the Lord takes home,
This is no house of permanence.
On bread of birth and bread of tears
The pilgrim fed these checkered years;
Now, landlord world, shut to the door,
Thy guest is gone for evermore.
Gone to the land of sweet repose,
His comrades bless him as he goes;
Of toil and toil the day was full—
A good sleep now, the night is cool.
Yea, village bells, ring softly, ring,
And in the blessed Sabbath bring;
Which, from this weary work-day tryst,
Awaits God's folk through Jesus Christ.

OBITUARY.

Alfred Newell Bogardus, son of Edwin and Mary Ann Bogardus, was born in Minnesota, April 21st, 1857. Alfred was the eighth child in a family of nine children. Most of this family has already gone the way of all the earth. Henry Bogardus, of Wabash, Ind., was present to represent the aged mother, now 85 years of age, and the remainder of this quite numerous family, at the bier of the son and brother.

Alfred, at the age of six years, came with his parents from Minnesota to Indiana. The family home was established in Wabash county, and here the boy spent his youthful years, was educated and learned his trade. He adopted the trade of builder and architect. Mr. Bogardus was united in marriage to Miss Evangeline Calliat, of Argos, in 1878. They were the parents of five children, three boys and two girls. Lulu Agnes Carmony, Milaine Irene, Ralph Eugene, Garland Webster, Clark Dennet. There are two grandchildren, Dorothy and Ernest Carmony. At the first Mr. and Mrs. Bogardus made their home at Maxinkuckee, moving from there to Argos in 1893, where they made their home until 1899 when they came to Culver, building the beautiful residence overlooking the lake, which he always regarded with so much pleasure and from Rural Telephones.

The convenience of having a Bell telephone in your home is not fully appreciated until you have tried it. Once tried you would not be without it for double the cost. Inquire of your neighbors who have had telephones. The Central Union Telephone Company (Bell) is extending its lines out among the farmers within a radius of five to seven miles of Culver. Some thirty-five or forty farmers are to be connected up with Culver Exchange within the next two weeks and those farmers that have not signed contracts, desiring telephone service at their homes are requested to call at the Company's Exchange at Culver on Saturday, April 15th and consult with a representative of the Central Union Telephone Company, who will be pleased to answer all questions in connection with rural telephone service.

The estimate for the construction and building of the farmer lines will close Saturday night and those desiring telephone service this summer had better make arrangements by Saturday next.

CLAIM LEADER DIVERTS FUNDS

Mormons File Petition to Restrain Smith From Continuing Practice.

DECLARE TITHES ARE $1,000,000

Allege That Head of Church Uses Half of This Immense Sum to Smother Competition in Public and Private Enterprises.

Salt Lake City, Utah, special: Alleging that President Joseph F. Smith unlawfully diverts $500,000 annually of the Mormon church funds, C. A. Smurthwaite and Don Carlos W. Musser, members of the quorum of seventy of the church, have filed in the Third district court a petition asking for an injunction to prevent continuation of the practice.

The petition alleges that Smith annually receives not less than $1,000,000 in tithes, bequests and donations from members of the church to be used exclusively for church purposes, and that instead of so applying the money he invests half of it in commercial enterprises in Utah and elsewhere.

Policy Is Attacked.

During the last year various members of the church have expressed dissatisfaction with the commercial policy of the church under Smith's leadership, charging that competition in various lines, notably in the production of salt, sugar and in the handling of public utilities, has been smothered by Smith.

Former Senator Cannon and Smurthwaite have been excommunicated by the high council of Weber Stake for publicly criticizing Smith's commercialism. Smurthwaite has appealed his case, so that technically he is a member of the church and therefore qualified to appear as complainant.

Musser, the other petitioner, is one of the men who voted against sustaining the church authorities during the conference Thursday. He issued a statement Friday in which he says he voted against Joseph F. Smith and Apostle Lyman because at Washington they admitted they were living in open violation of the laws of the state and the church.

Invests in Many Concerns?

The petition alleges that Smith has invested the funds of the church "to establish estates and residences for the church leaders and their families," and in the following concerns: Idaho Sugar company, Salt Lake Knitting company, Utah National bank, Lewiston Sugar company, Utah Light and Railway company; First National bank of Logan, Home Fire Insurance company of Utah, Consolidated Wagon and Machine company, Ogden Woolen mills, Provo Knitting factory, Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone company, State Bank of Utah, Zion's Savings Bank and Trust company, Salt Lake & Los Angeles Railway company, Salt Air Beach company, Inland Crystal Salt company, Salt Lake Dramatic association, Union Pacific railway, Deseret News book store.

CASHIER SPEAR AGAIN INDICTED

Charged With Making False Affidavits About Oberlin Bank Funds.

Cleveland, Ohio, dispatch: The United States grand jury has returned an additional indictment against A. E. Spear, cashier of the closed Citizens' National bank of Oberlin, which failed because of Mrs. Chadwick's operations. The additional indictment was returned on account of alleged new facts in connection with the manner in which Spear is said to have made false entries and affidavits about the bank funds. This indictment, it is thought, will enable the government to make a clearer case against Spear. United States District Attorney Sullivan said that Spear's case would be the first to come up at this term of court. The grand jury also returned a joint indictment against Spear and Mrs. Chadwick, in which the latter is charged with aiding and abetting Spear in making false entries. The specific charge against Spear is in making false oath to a report sent to the comptroller of the currency.

JACK THE RIPPER CASE FOR NEW YORK POLICE

Woman Dies in Hospital From Wound Similar to Those Inflicted on Whitechapel District Victims.

New York dispatch: Elements of mystery recalling the stories of "Jack the Ripper," who terrorized the Whitechapel district of London years ago, lead sensation to the stabbing, in a Thirteenth street hotel, of a young woman. She died in a hospital a few hours after the stabbing. A patron of the hotel whom the police put under arrest, although admitting he was in the woman's company a short time before she was injured, declared he did not know just how she received the wound that resulted in her death.

The woman, whose name was Mamie Wilson, was stabbed in the abdomen. The wound was made by a very long knife, for which the police are unable to account, and which the man under arrest protests did not belong to him. The character of the cut was similar to that made on the victims of the London "Jack the Ripper."

The man under arrest is James Boyne, a club steward. He told the police he had been with the woman, but said that she had left him and he did not know how she was stabbed. When he was arrested it was found that seven of Boyne's teeth had been knocked out and that one of his eyes had been blackened by a blow.

RAILWAY FATALITIES FOR QUARTER ARE 951

Report on Accidents for Last Three Months in 1904 Shows 14,978 Casualties—14,027 Injuries.

Washington dispatch: A report of the railroad accidents in the United States during October, November and December, 1904, has been compiled by the Interstate commerce commission. It shows that 53 passengers and 189 employes were killed, and 1,430 passengers and 1,868 employes injured in train accidents. Other accidents to passengers and employes, not the result of collisions or derailments, bring the total number of casualties up to 14,978—951 killed and 14,027 injured.

The report indicates a decrease of 175 killed and 624 injured as compared with the preceding quarter. Of the 53 passengers killed in train accidents 29 were killed in one collision between a passenger and a freight train.

The total number of collisions and derailments in the quarter was 2,950, the financial damage aggregating $2,405,201. The number of employes killed in coupling and uncoupling cars was 71—12 more than in the preceding three months.

OPERATORS ARE BLAMED FOR DISASTER IN MINE

Coroner's Jury Returns Verdict of Criminal Negligence in Connection With Fatal Explosion.

Birmingham, Ala., dispatch: The coroner's jury, which has been investigating the Virginia mine disaster, in which 111 persons lost their lives, returned a verdict which charges four mine operators with willful and criminal negligence. The verdict says the men were killed in a dust explosion caused by the collection of dust that was allowed to accumulate in said mines of Alabama Steel and Wire company and their agents, although the state mine inspector and his assistants had repeatedly warned them of the dangerous condition of the mines for over a year prior to the explosion. It then declares each victim "came to his death in an unlawful manner by the willful and criminal negligence of Everett T. Schuler, George Schuler, Amos W. Reed and Sam Hartly, operators, managers and mine foremen of said mine."

EXPLAIN MEMORIAL FUND USE

Daughters of the American Revolution Correct a Misunderstanding.

Washington dispatch: A statement has been issued by order of the board of management of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution. "So much publicity has been given to the fact that the board of management has appropriated $5,500 for putting Memorial Continental hall into condition for the fourteenth continental congress and such a general misunderstanding seems to exist that the board of management has reluctantly felt obliged to issue a public statement," says the report. It explains that the money is to be used to place the hall in a proper condition, to complete many other permanent features not included in the $95,000 contract, which nearly exhausted the fund at the disposal of the building committee.

GREAT SEA BATTLE IMMINENT

Russian and Japanese Warships Are Reported to Be Moving Toward Each Other, With Latter Guarding Entrance to China Sea.

A dispatch from Singapore to a London news agency says that the British steamer Tara reports having passed forty-seven Russian vessels off One Fathom bank in the Straits of Malacca at noon Friday, steaming southward.

A Batavia, Java, dispatch to the London Daily Express says Chinese junk reports that Japanese warships are patrolling all the straits available to Admiral Rojestvensky in an attempt to reach the China sea.

Move for Peace.

A new and powerful effort is being made to bring about peace between Russia and Japan. French and English financial interests, with strong connections in the empires of the belligerents, are the movers. It appears now that Japan's insistence on an indemnity rather than her indisposition to conclude peace wrecked the former attempt to open negotiations. The present movement is conducted on different lines than the previous one.

Force Japs to Retire.

Chief of Staff Karkevitch in a dispatch to the general staff says: "Thursday our sharpshooters forced the Japanese cavalry to retire from Er-lahese to Tsulushu."

"One of our detachments on arriving on the morning of April 4 at Tsin-tsatun engaged the enemy, who had 6,000 Chinese bandits with him. I have not received a report of the result."

Justifies Indemnity Demand.

Baron Suymatsu, formerly Japanese minister of the interior, has written a significant article for the Outlook under the heading, "War and Indemnity—the Japanese Claim." The whole trend of the article is intended to show that Japan will carry on the war until Russia consents to pay indemnity, this because Russia provoked the war in caprice.

"A canon of the Japanese Bushido," says the baron, "is 'One should not unsheathe the sword unless in case of absolute necessity nor restore it to its sheath unless one is totally overcome or has secured equitable satisfaction for one's cause.' This is our ideal in international intercourse. The sword of Japan is drawn and the aim for which it was unsheathed has scarcely been attained. We want a peace which will secure tranquility in the far east for at least a generation or two."

"Japan has not formulated definite terms of peace because she might be accused of skinning the bear before it is shot. We have, however, outlined our idea."

"Some say that Japan might be induced to forego a claim for indemnity provided England and America gave good assurance for future peace. We appreciate, of course, the general sentiments of England and America. We are anxious to maintain the best friendship with these two countries. We should, therefore, be very sorry if we were to be told that we should forego on account of that friendship any claim to what we deem justice to demand."

Russians Rerteat.

The main force of the Russians, which was recently defeated in the neighborhood of Chinchiatun, has retreated toward Shumiencheng, and a part of it has retreated along the Fenghua road.

Engine Crew Is Weary.

By a collision of military trains west of Harbin eight soldiers were killed and twenty-six men wounded. The accident was due to the engine crew, who were worn out with excessive hours of continuous work, falling asleep and running past signals.

Physicians Under Arrest.

On account of their radical agitation several members of the national medical congress in session in Moscow have been arrested.

A congress of doctors from all parts of Russia was held in Moscow, ostensibly to consider means for combating an expected epidemic of cholera, but its proceedings assumed considerable of the character of a political assemblage.

Resolutions were adopted declaring that under existing political and economic conditions it would be practically impossible to fight an epidemic of disease, as doctors and inspectors would not be safe from attack by ignorant peasants angered by the prevalent distress. The resolutions proceeded to demand changes in the system of allotment of lands, reform in taxation, the convoking of an elective constituent assembly and other articles of the advanced liberal programme.

Demonstration at Funeral.

The workmen of the village of Smolensk made a demonstration Friday, the occasion being the burial of an employe of the Pahl factory, who was killed by policemen. Six thousand persons assembled early in the morning in a heavy snowstorm and awaited the funeral procession. There were red flags everywhere, and a wreath deposited by socialists on the coffin was inscribed, "Died an innocent victim in the struggle for liberty."

After the interment revolutionary

a banner inscribed "Death to the Czar, the Assassin."

At this juncture a large force of military and police interfered, dispersed the mob and seized the wreaths and banners. The workmen did not attempt serious opposition and none was seriously injured.

The efforts of the police to smother the political agitation have led them even to invade the cemeteries in their search for evidence of treason. It has become the practice of students to place on the graves of comrades who were active or who suffered in the cause of freedom wreaths bound with ribbons on which political sentiments are inscribed. The police now make nocturnal visits to the cemeteries in search for these treasonable mottoes, which are promptly confiscated.

The stories of sufferings on the part of the widows, wives and families of soldiers at the front are attracting general attention. The provincial papers are filled with pathetic accounts of starving mothers and children begging in the streets. At Nizhni Novgorod the palace of the governor was besieged by a crowd of hungry women with babes in their arms asking for bread.

JOHN PAUL JONES' BODY LIES IN SCOTTISH SOIL

Editor of Pioneer Press Claims to Have Information of Whereabouts of Naval Hero's Remains.

St. Paul special: Joseph A. Wheelock, editor of the Pioneer Press, has discovered where the bones of John Paul Jones repose. In a dispatch from Redlands, Cal., Mr. Wheelock says the grave of the former famous sea fighter is not in Paris, as believed by Ambassador Porter, but in his birth place, Dumfries, Scotland. A Mrs. Preston, who is a native of Dumfries, asserts that Jones' mother caused the remains to be transported from Paris and buried in the Dumfries cemetery.

The grudge his countrymen bore him on account of his exploits in the capture and destruction of British ships is expressed in the stone over his grave, which, Mrs. Preston says, bears the inscription: "John Paul Jones, the Black Pirate."

SPARROW SETS HOUSE ON FIRE

Bird Ignites Match in Building Its Summer Home.

Newark, N. J., dispatch: A family of industrious sparrows is blamed for having caused a fire at the residence of Edgar Hartforce. The birds were busily engaged constructing a summer home in the cornice of an enclosed porch and seized upon a match for part of their material. In cutting the stick to the proper size with its bill one of the sparrows ignited the match. The flames communicated with the nest and then with the woodwork of the building. The fire department was summoned, but $200 damage was done before the blaze was extinguished.

GIRL DROWNS IN MUD PUDDLE

Falls From Plank in Shallow Water and Head Sticks in Mud.

New York special: Annie Schmidt, 10 years old, was drowned in a mud puddle at the shore of the Harlem river at 149th street. The girl fell from a plank into the water, which was only a foot and a half deep. Her head, however, was driven into the muddy bottom. The police of the Alexander avenue station are looking for an Italian who refused to listen to the cries of the girls with the Schmidt girl. They were heard by a negro who was rowing down the river. He pulled the body out.

Law's Mercy to Convicts.

The prison gates, massive and sad, opened, and there stepped forth furtively a pale man.

"A discharged convict?" said the first cabman.

"That's right. A discharged convict," said the second. "It is Jake Tolan. He served ten years for robbing his uncle."

"How is it his hair ain't short?" said the first cabman. "I thought you could tell all released convicts by their shaved heads. But this fellow's hair is longer than yours or mine."

"Every released convict has long hair," was the reply. "The books and novels tell you different, but that is owing to ignorance. The law, as a matter of fact, provides that for three months before his release the hair of every convict shall be allowed to grow. That is a kindly law. It permits the convict to leave prison without any prison marks on him to tell the world where he came from."

in the Spring.

Lowndes, Mo., April 10th.—Mrs. H. C. Hartly of this place, says:—

"For years I was in very bad health. Every spring I would get so low that I was unable to do my own work. I seemed to be worse in the spring than any other time of the year. I was very weak and miserable and had much pain in my back and head. I saw Dodd's Kidney Pills advertised last spring and began treatment of them and they have certainly done me more good than anything I have ever used."

"I was all right last spring and felt better than I have for over ten years. I am fifty years of age and am stronger to-day than I have been for many years and I give Dodd's Kidney Pills credit for the wonderful improvement."

The statement of Mrs. Hartly is only one of a great many where Dodd's Kidney Pills have proven themselves to be the very best spring medicine. They are unsurpassed as a tonic and are the only medicine used in thousands of families.

Nicholas Was Swindled.

When the autocrat of all the Russians sent Queen Draga of Servia an emerald and diamond bracelet as a token of good will report had it that his imperial majesty has paid a very large sum for this ornament, yet when it sold in London the price given did not reach $2,500. Nicholas II, was probably charged a much higher amount and may have considered his present worth a small fortune.

Simple Life Led by Pope.

Pope Pius goes on as he began, preaching and practicing the simple life. He has been reducing display on the one hand and salaries on the other. This, as may be imagined, is not quite satisfactory to the hosts of persons employed about the Vatican. While thus discouraging luxury, the pontiff remains as affable and accessible as ever to friends of former days.

Insist on Getting It.

Some grocers say they don't keep Defiance Starch because they have a stock in hand of 12 oz. brands, which they know cannot be sold to a customer who has once used the 16 oz. pkg. Defiance Starch for same money.

Mistress Rosemary Allyn

CHAPTER XI.

I Meet One I Have Met Before.

I descended the flight of stone steps belonging to the Bow Street mansion more sedately than I had ascended them. I held myself in check, for the joy of the anticipated encounter was stirring within me. "Three days from now," seemed ages away; "three days," in which I must wait before I should meet this braggard, and after him the others. Happily, by that time the King's business would be over.

I gave myself up to thought. Sir Raoul Dwight was the cousin of the woman I loved. If I put a dot to his life by a slaccado, what then? Would Mistress Rosemary Allyn think with amiability of the man who had given a coup de grace to "Cousin Raoul"? Such an event would be putting an end to my own existence, for an existence without my lady would be blank indeed to me. I would give him a slight pink, I decided, yet enough to lay him up for a time, since I owed him malice.

It is true that women either love or hate; I would have her love. It is equally true that women are to be won; I would win her. As a man puts his hand to the plow and sows, so shall he reap. Should I some day pluck sweet fruit in that fair garden? It was worth striving for, and my Waters did not bear the motto, "Sic Volo," for naught.

I turned into Drury Lane. I passed a sodan chair and inadvertently I looked up. Surprised, I looked again. Then I stopped, for in that elegant conveyance who should sit quite at her ease but Mistress Rosemary Allyn's maid—the red-headed maid of Castle Drouit—Oh, ye gods! think of it—a waiting maid in a sodan chair and most gorgeous attendants! It had not taken her long to use my letter of credit, as I had called the sharply. "Where is the paper?" "Paper," she reiterated, still good humoredly; "I know not of what you speak—but come, man, wouldst stop the traffic of the street with your bulk?"

A crowd made up of gentlemen of fashion, apprentices, street gamins, charwomen, etcetera, had collected about us. They blocked the way in their desire to ogle the pretty maid, my bulk had naught to do with it. I heard such exclamations as: "Tis she—His Majesty likes them bold and brown"—"They fall like ripe plums in his mouth"—"The pretty darlin's."

"Let me pass, good people," she said saucily; "why obstruct the street?"

And she alighted with all the airs of a grande dame—the jade! She swept past the crowd disdainfully, paying no heed to their nudgings or loud whispers, as they commented upon her form and features, even as farmers at a country fair upon their prize stock.

She beckoned me to follow. We went up a narrow stairway and entered a room on the second story. She threw herself into a chair, while she motioned me to another.

"Now, my one gentleman," quoth she, "what complaint have you to make of Nell Gwyn?"

"Nell Gwyn!" I echoed.

"Yes, Nell Gwyn," she mimicked, and made a moue at me.

My face, no doubt, was expressive of many things, and she burst into laughter—a laughter of Drury Lane, not Westminster.

"Nell Gwyn, the actress," I meditated; "that explains all." I took off my hat and swept her a bow. "I must crave your pardon—you will grant it, since I can pay you no higher compliment than by saying your acting was to the life."

"Do not trifle with me, sweet Mistress Nell," I begged.

"Well, first let me know what you intend doing with it?" she asked.

"Dear Mistress Nell, you would not have me lightly throw away a paper containing a promise of marriage with so renowned a beauty as my Lady Felton?" I returned.

"Um—" she smiled and her hands played with the tassels of her gown coquettishly; "have you ever seen her?" she asked.

"No," I replied. "You see there is something in store for me, since all the sparks of town are mad for love of her."

"The town seems divided between the two beauties—Mistress Rosemary Allyn and Lady Felton." She spoke sarcastically.

"Not divided," I corrected her. "They seem to serve with equal loyalty both Mistresses."

"The man from Long Haut, however, swears allegiance only to a fair lady with big blue eyes—is it not so?" she asked.

"If I plead guilty to the charge, can I rely upon the discretion and help of another fair lady with glowing black eyes?" I inquired.

She answered my question with a question: "Does not all the world love a lover?" Then: "I will help you, since I like you, and also because I do not think Rosemary is suited to Raoul Dwight. But you will do well to remember that he is her cousin."

"I shall not forget it," I said grimly, "nor that I found him both literally and figuratively at her feet while his lips were yet hot from swearing love for Lady Felton."

"I see I shall have to tell you who has the paper, since you are so dense you cannot guess it," she said. "Mistress Rosemary Allyn."

"Ah!" I cried, "it could not be in better keeping. Tell her to guard it closely until such time as I shall ask it of her to return to the lady named within it. Bid her cherish the secret so the bloods about town, especially Raoul Dwight, get not hold of it. Give her also assurances of my affection, and whisper a good word for me into her dulcify ear."

"Have I not promised to speed your wooing? Is not Nell Gwyn's word worth something?"

"Indeed, yes—and I thank you," I hastened to say.

Before I left she gave me as much encouragement as this: that my lady was a wayward creature (as if I did not know), but if I would persevere—she would not say, but I was vastly heartened; so much so that as I bent over her hand, saying my adieu, her saucy cheeks tempted me, remembering the time I had not hesitated. I take virtue to myself in my self-denial, still I believe in showing a good pair of heels at such a time, and I waited only to ask:

"Who was in the coach with you when it stopped at the White Swan Inn?"

"It was, of course, Mistress Rosemary Allyn," she answered.

MANILA TO BE REBUILT.

Work Begun to Make It Model City of the Orient.

Plans have been perfected and the work begun of rebuilding Manila and making it the beautiful city of the Orient. It will not only be clean and healthful, with wide streets and attractive plazas, but it will be a capital of art as well. It is seldom that such an opportunity has presented itself in the Orient to make a model city, says the World's Work, and the insular government, with the active co-operation of the United States government, is taking every advantage of it.

For example, for years open ditches throughout the city have been used for sewage purposes, so that the public health has been put in jeopardy. These ditches will be made into clean canals, spanned by numerous bridges. Pleasure boats will ply on them. A complete sanitary sewerage system will replace the present ditches.

But the most interesting feature of the reconstruction of the city is the preservation of the famous Walled City, which was erected 200 years ago to repel the Spanish and Dutch invaders. This Walled City has a distinctly historical as well as a picturesque value.

The work of filling in 155 acres adjoining Malaco will give Manila an ideal pleasure ground for all the people. This drive is a favorite resort, and the view is said to be one of the most beautiful in all the Philippine islands. Bandstands will be erected for popular concerts. Another important step is the construction of a complete waterworks system, for which there has been a bond issue of $4,000,000. The water will be piped from the Marquina valley, fifteen miles away.

Necessity Knows No Law.

"It's a remarkable thing," said Simon Ford the other day, "how some men never find out that they can make a speech until they just have to do it. They remind me of a dog that belonged to a Western friend of mine. He was a good dog, and my friend never tired of bragging about what he had done and could do.

"Well, one day he was telling a crowd that that dog could tree anything. 'Why, he even treed a coyote one day,' said my friend.

"Oh, come now," said a cowboy who was listening; "that's a little too steep for us. Your dog might have outrun the coyote, but everybody knows that a coyote can't climb a tree."

"Of course a coyote can't climb a tree," my friend replied, "but that coyote just had to."

Variety in Styles of Shoes.

The variety of new styles for spring and summer covers a broader range than ever before, and the introduction of new leathers and new colors has made possible new combinations and artistic effects never before attempted in footwear.

The choicest goatskins of Morocco have been tanned in beautiful shades of the fashionable colors and made up in very attractive afternoon shoes for women.

Pumps of patent leather and doll kid, with stiff leather bows to match, will be used for dress occasions.

Tan Russia calfskin and Russia goatskin and white shoes of duck and buckskin will divide popular favor for outdoor affairs in the summer.

Gun kid and gun metal calf, in light weights, are the newest features of men's and women's shoes, and both appear to be rapidly gaining in popularity. These leathers have a dull, rich luster, and are easily kept in condition. They are shown in oxfords and evening pumps.—Shoe Retailer.

Their Little Trick.

Canny summer girls are anticipating the season in which they shine most effulgently, and are getting in their stocks of shirt waists. A little trick that some smart young women are working may be worth money to others who don't possess the knowledge.

As every girl knows, embroidered linen shirt waists are extremely chic and no wardrobe is complete without them this year. But they are generally pretty expensive. Here is the way a smart linen waist may be secured at a comparatively small cost.

Linen pillow cases, hand embroidered, can be bought at a linen store for a very reasonable sum. Two of these will make a shirt waist.

Generally there is a strip of broad embroidery on top and a narrow pattern beneath. The broad bands are used for the fronts and the narrow for the collars and cuffs. In this way an exceedingly handsome waist may be obtained for considerably less than if a regular pattern were used.

Short Veils Return to Favor.

With the new styles of hats the tulle veil comes in triumphant. There can be no question of lace veils floating down at the back when so much of the trimming of the hat is arranged cache-peigne fashion, nor of long scarfs twisted about the neck and falling to the foot, such as were worn by some fashionables last year, says the Paris correspondent of the Millinery Trade Review.

Short veils being therefore once more reinstated in favor, much ingenuity has been displayed in the production of fresh lines of tulle, novelty being obtained for these both by varying the design of the gossamer itself as well as of the decoration put upon it.

For the Coming Summer.

Black and white checks are stunning, with the little black taffeta jackets, although the license as to color—and even as to style—is great. Pongee is sharing honors with taffeta—perhaps doing even more than that. For it will be worn in every conceivable way, from short waists and shirt waist suits to stunning loose coats to wear over fluffy summer gowns. The natural color will be most worn, and, next to it, the blue that comes in such a good shade in pongee.

An Attractive Small Wrap.

A stylish wrap useful for spring days and cool evenings in the summer is shown in the illustration. The entire jacket is laid in side plaits from a shallow yoke that is concealed by the pointed collar. The front and sleeves are also pointed, the sleeves being elbow length. Mohair, henrietta, drap d'ete, serge or cloth will develop this model nicely.

Brocaded Silks.

The fancy flowered and brocaded silks are myriad, and description of it is hopeless, for they run all the scale of intricacy and gorgeousness in color and design. One almond green and white silk, like other silks in the same category, is proving very successful.

The silk is exceedingly soft and has a luster, yet seems hardly like a taffeis or a mossaline. It has a ground of almond green, soft, light, cool, and is barred off in an irregular plaid by heavy lines of white, while over the plaided surface, or rather through it, are white blurred figures, indefinite in outline. The description is inadequate, though as exact as possible, but the silk achieves originality and charm without being in any way conspicuous or bizarre.

Child's Dress of Cashmere.

The skirt is plaited all around except just in front, leaving a narrow tablier. The full blouse is covered with a plain plastron, which is bordered with a ruffle of the material

This is cut out over a gump of coarse gumpure, of which the cuffs are also made, the latter finished at the wrists with a band of cloth or taffeta. The belt is of light leather.

Making Trimmings Effective.

The really smart gown nowadays is the one which reveals the distinction of thought. By this is meant that the arrangement of trimmings and garnitures is such as to show that the designer has striven to put materials together in a most intricate and unusual manner to give a beautiful effect without being unduly striking or conspicuous.

Laces are cut and fitted into different parts of a corsage or skirt, braid is wound in and out, showing the greatest skill in designing, and every atom of trimming of any sort is so laid upon the gown as to show that an immense amount of hand work had to be done to accomplish the effect.

Bridal Gowns That Are Smart.

White mousseline, embroidered with silver or pearl, is one of the most popular materials for bridal gowns.

The smartest wedding gowns are cut perfectly plain, with full skirts and long and stately trains.

The bodices are made in soft effects, without being either fluffy or billowy. Harsh and sharp lines are rigorously avoided. The necks are cut high and are finished with very transparent lace.

The sleeves are made after the same styles as those of popular smart sleeves, without any fixed rule as to their length, but there is a decided preference for elbow sleeves.

Modiste's Effective Design.

An effective suit of gray broadcloth has a skirt that is very full over the hips and falls down to above the knees, where there are two rows of cording gathered in, from which it falls down into a deep puff, with two rows of cording bobbing it in and also heading a deep plaited flounce. The jacket, which ends at the waist line, is belted in by a girdle, forming a point in the back, which is covered with an elaborate design in braid in the same shade. The sleeves are only moderately full and the revers and cuffs are also braided.

Velvets Match Color of Gowns.

Reception gowns of pale cloths are combined with velvet to match. One is exhibited in pale biscuit colored broadcloth, with a single flounce half the skirt's length of chiffon velvet to match. The bodice was of cloth, with a yoke of the velvet, heavily embroidered in gold and pearls. The cloth sleeves were very full, and the girdle was of cloth of gold, made very high.

Match the Stock and Belt.

It is quite the thing to wear matching collars and belts. A fashionable haberdasher is showing a very great variety of stocks and belts to wear with shirtwaists and shirtwaist suits. With white suits nothing could be better than white linen, plain or embroidered. These are exquisitely made, and, although anything but cheap, are so trim and stylish that they make the gown fine and well justify the price paid for them.

A novelty in these stock and belt sets comes in all colors as well as white. The material is a fine silk braid in a loose basket weave. The belt is wide at the back and is meant to crush. The fastening is a round buckle in brass or gun metal. The stockpiece is not a stock at all, accurately speaking, but a four-in-hand tie to wear with a linen collar.

promise of marriage, and it looked as if she had used it to some effect.

She motioned the man to set her down near where I waited. She had not seen me. I went up to her with a cynical smile upon my face and carelessly bending over her whispered:

"The sought is found without seeking, my pretty maid of Castle Drouit."

At my words she raised her eyelids haughtily lowered from the good-naturedly insolent gaze of the bystanders, and a faint smile crossed her lips. I answered her smile with: "Do all lady's maids ride in sodan chairs, and have the world gape at them in London town?"

"Why not?" Again she smiled and tossed her head. Her self-conceit was amazing. Then: "So—you have taken my advice and come to London."

"Yes," I nodded. "You expected me."

"Expected you?" she queried; "why so?"

"Since I said I would come," said I.

"Oh, yes, I remember you said you had a message for a lady," she returned.

This was rather too much—to be put on the level of a lady's maid like a lackey.

"You should know, since she is or was your mistress," I sneered.

"Mistress! Ah, yes," she muttered. "Have you met her yet?"

"I have seen her," I admitted, "but at your hands I expect a more auspicious meeting, although you have come up considerably in the world since I saw you last."

I glanced significantly at her retinue of servants. It had not taken her long to become so fait with the mannerisms of the London world, for she answered me with the audacity of that world:

"Yes, rather nice, isn't it? And you, my lord, too, are quite a figure—quite a figure."

She looked at me critically.

"Enough of persiflage," said I, shortly. "My business with you concerns a paper, stolen by deft fingers—fat, pink-palmed hands with tapering fingers, even as your own."

"Like mine?" she asked, and held them up. They were encased in embroidered gloves.

About Rheumatism.

There are few diseases that inflict more torture than rheumatism and there is probably no disease for which such a varied and useless lot of remedies have been suggested. To say that it can be cured, is, therefore, a bold statement to make, but Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which enjoys an extensive sale, has met with great success in the treatment of this disease. One application of Pain Balm will relieve the pain, and hundreds of sufferers have testified to permanent cures by its use. Why suffer when Pain Balm affords such quick relief and at costs but a trifle? For sale by T. E. Slattery.

If you are thinking of making a sale see Sellers and McFarland in regard to terms and dates. Effort, interest and enthusiasm are marked features of all sales conducted by them.

CULVER, INDIANA, APRIL 13, 1905.

The Bremen high school, which was inspected by a state school official about a month ago, has been recommissioned for another year.

The advice given by Booker T. Washington in a recent lecture in New York to the negroes, is equally applicable to the whites. He said they should not take $5 buggy rides on $6 week earnings, nor buy a $5 hat for a 5c head; to eschew cheap jewelry and to try to own a home.

Governor Hardy has issued a proclamation designating Friday, April 21, and Friday, October 20, as Arbor days. The observance of Arbor Day is confined for the most part to the schools of the state, and it is for the convenience of the schools that Friday was the designated day for both spring and fall celebrations.

On all subjects pertaining to Freemasonry, the Hon. Daniel McDonald, of Plymouth, is now generally regarded the highest authority. He has studied it from a to z. His writings on Masonic topics would fill a goodly number of very interesting and readable volumes. —South Bend Times.

The report of railroad accidents in the United States during the months of October, November and December, of 1904, as compiled by the Interstate Commerce commission shows a total of 242 persons killed and 3,298 injured in train accidents. Other accidents not result of collisions or derailments, bring the total to 951 killed and 14,027 injured.

Out of twenty-one pupils of the Bremen schools who took the examination for common school diplomas, the following eleven were successful: Jesse Burden, Opal Nafer, Leona Knoblock, Salesta Sarber, Cecil Schlosser, Lloyd Dietrich, Maud Seifert, Howard Beehler, Roy R. Laudeman and Oscar Knoblock. Twenty-one pupils of the township schools passed the examination.

The South Bend car stopped with a jerk and after a moment's pause started again in response to the conductor's signal. "Wait till I get me clothes on!" shouted a woman on the back platform. The women passengers looked steadfastly out of the front door. The men turned as one man toward the voice. After all it was only an old negro washerwoman dragging a big basket of soiled linen up the car steps.

The Ten Thousand club at Warsaw have drafted a letter which they are mailing extensively throughout Kosciusko county, calling attention to the fact that if the farmers persist in patronizing Chicago mail order houses, they will drive the local merchants out of business and effect the mutual interests of both city and country to a corresponding degree. This is very true and in every sense covers the situation in this county.

Among the other important laws passed by the recent legislature is one prohibiting roosters and hens running at large. The law, as passed provides that where chickens trespass on other property than that of their own they may be killed and appropriated by those on whom they trespass. The law will be in force within a month and then if your neighbor's chickens cross the line in to your domain just knock the feathers off them and work them up into pot pie, eat them and the law and public sentiment will put you on the back. Rochester Sentinel.

PILEs the sufferer who thinks this disease incurable has never tried this famous "Hermic" Salve. A trial will convince the most sceptical. 25 & 50 cents. All druggists. Hermic (Hemoid) Co., Chicago.

STUDY THE WAYS TO HEALTH

Knowledge of Hygiene to Basis of Needed Sanitary Education.

Public health is public wealth. This is a trite and true saying, often quoted, but little realized. The health of a community is the sum of the health of each individual in that community which is largely in the keeping of every person, or of the householder controlling an aggregate of persons. The productive period of human life has its pecuniary value, variable in proportion of its earning capacity, which grows greater by experience. If by care of one's health, life is prolonged a few more years, and there are less days of sickness with its attendant suffering; if there is less loss of time and less loss from expense, then the taking care of health has vast money consideration. But the knowledge of disease prevention has to be learned and practiced in order to be successful, the same as any other trade, profession or calling in life.

The study of hygiene and the natural laws of health as required in the public schools of Indiana, should be encouraged, as it lays the broad foundation of a much needed sanitary education among the people. No attempt will be made here to prescribe a regular course of study for such an education, or give the public a technical treatise on health preservation, with its thousand specific rules of living. I will present to the people of Marshall county in lieu thereof, the chief good of it all, embraced in a paraphrase of the curriculum laid down by Paul to the Phillipine church, which he exhorted them to study that they might attain the highest grade of moral education. Whatsoever constitutes pure air to breathe, and pure water to drink; whatsoever constitutes pure food to eat; whatsoever constitutes pure life—morally and physically clean; whatsoever constitutes comfortable living, in peace, contentment and industry; if there be any virtue, if any praise, think of and study these things.

A Case of Cowardice.

"Did you advertise for a boy?"
"Yes. Have you answered the advertisement?"
"I have. But I'd like to know what you mean by saying you want a boy who isn't afraid of work."
"It's plain enough, isn't it?"
"Maybe it is, but I should think you'd rather have a boy that was a little afraid of work. Just enough afraid of it to catch hold of it quick and wrestle with it, and down it and jump on it, and get the best of it, and show it that it won't get a chance to prove too much for him. That's the kind of a boy I should think you'd like instead of the kind that ain't afraid of work. Why, I knew a boy once who wasn't the least mite afraid of it, and he'd rub up against it and let it eat off of his hand, and at the same time never meddle with it enough to soil his finger tips."
"That's enough, young fellow. The job is yours." —Ex.

Not True to Nature.

Mark Twain was visiting H. H. Rogers, the standard oil magnate, recently, and after dinner Mr. Rogers led the humorist into his library. "There," he said, as he pointed to a bust of white marble, "what do you think of that?"
It was a bust of a young woman coiling her hair, a very graceful example of modern Italian sculpture. Mr. Clemens looked at it a moment and then he said:
"It isn't true to nature."
"Why not?" Mr. Rogers asked.
"She ought to have her mouth full of hairpins," said the humorist.

Cheated Death.

Kidney trouble often ends fatally but by choosing the right medicine E. H. Wolfe, of Bear Grove, Iowa, cheated death. He says: "Two years ago I had kidney trouble, which caused me great pain suffering and anxiety, but I took Electric Bitters, which effected a complete cure. I have also found them of great benefit in general debility and nerve trouble, and keep them constantly on hand, since, as I find they have no equal." T. E. Slattery, druggist, guarantees them at 50c.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Best and Most Popular.

There is no question but this medicine is the best that can be procured for coughs and colds, whether it be a child or an adult that is afflicted. It always cures and cures quickly. Sold by T. E. Slattery.

Frightful Suffering Relieved.

Suffering frightfully from the virulent poisons of undigested food C. G. Grayson, of Lulu, Miss., took Dr. King's New Life Pills, "with the result," he writes, "that I was cured." T. E. Slattery has installed a modern soda fountain which he had made to order at Decatur, Ill. It is a massive affair measuring 13 feet in length while the back ground or ornamental part reaches to the ceiling. The soda fountain proper is stored under the counter and is so constructed that every part can be easily cleaned and there is no possible chance for flies or ants to get to the syrup. It is thoroughly sanitary in every respect, most convenient in operation and highly ornamental. The cost is more than $1000. It is said that there is not a town in Indiana with a population of 5,000 that has a fountain the equal of this one.

The Elkhart Review tells some very plain truths in the following: "The contradictions in life make one wonder sometimes. Men laud virtue and practice vice, they counsel honor and practice dishonor, they often preach integrity and cheat their best friend. Yet some men pretend disregard for their fellows and are constantly doing little acts that cheer the way of some wanderer. They fret at improvisation and yet continually relieve the improvident. They rail at the defeated and yet continually put their hand under some poor fellow's foot and lift him up. Men are not to be judged by what they say, but what they do. They are not to be taken at their own estimate, but at the worth of what they accomplish. Men who wear the blandest smile often cheat their neighbors, and others who frown most often do the kindest acts. Sometimes, too, a smile hides a great heart-ache, and a kind word is an appeal for sympathy in deepest sorrow."

To Test Suspected Water. It is said that there is no better or simpler way of testing suspected water than the following: Fill a clean pint bottle nearly full of the water to be tested, and dissolve in it half a teaspoonful of loaf or granulated sugar. Cork the bottle and keep in a warm place two days. If the water becomes cloudy or milky within forty-eight hours it is unfit for domestic use.

Last Hope Vanished. When leading physicians said that W. M. Smithart, of Pekin, Ia. had incurable consumption, his last hope had vanished; but Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, coughs and colds kept him out of the grave. He says: "This great specific completely cured me, and saved my life. Since then, I have used it for 10 years, and consider it a marvelous throat and lung cure." Strictly scientific cure for coughs, sore throats, or colds; sure preventive of Pneumonia. Guaranteed, 50, and $1.00 bottles at T. E. Slattery's drug store. Trial bottle free.

A Trackless Car Company.

The Oliver Trackless Car company, an organization capitalized at $5,000,000, has filed an application with the board of St. Joseph county commissioners asking a franchise to operate in St. Joseph county. The petition says the company desires to operate its cars from Plymouth to South Bend, as a part of a line that the promoters expect to operate from Indianapolis to Buchanan, Mich. The idea is entirely new. The cars run without track. The track is provided by a compound wheel which was patented by Frederick William Oliver, president of the company, who is at present making his headquarters in Chicago.

Finds Letter By Davis.

A rephew of President Franklin Pierce has found an autograph letter written by Jefferson Davis to Pierce among documents inherited from his uncle. Davis wrote from the senate chamber under date of Jan. 30, 1860, saying:

"The prospect for our country is not less gloomy than when you left. I will stand by the flag and uphold the constitution while there is possibility of effecting anything to preserve and perpetuate the government we inherited. Beyond that my duty and my faith bind me to Mississippi and her fortunes as she may shape them."

"Mr. Editor," said a patron one day, "how is it you never call on me to pay for my paper?"

"Oh," said the man of types, "we never ask a gentleman for money."

"Indeed!" the patron replied. "How do you manage to get along when they don't pay?"

"Why," said Mr. Editor, "after a certain time we conclude he is not a gentleman, and we ask him."

Your Life Current.

The power that gives you life and motion is the nerve force, or nerve fluid, located in the nerve cells of the brain, and sent out through the nerves to the various organs.

If you are tired, nervous, irritable, cannot sleep; have headache, feel stuffy, dull and melancholy, or have neuralgia, rheumatism, backache, periodical pains, indigestion, dyspepsia, stomach trouble, or the kidneys and liver are inactive, your life-current is weak.

Power-producing fuel is needed; something to increase nerve energy—strengthen the nerves.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve is the fuel you need. It feeds the nerves, produces nerve force, and restores vitality.

"When I began taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve and Anti-Pain Pills I was confined to my bed. I had severe nervous spells, the result of two years illness with malaria. I gradually grew so weak that I was unable to sit up. The spells would commence with cold chills, and I would become weak and almost helpless. My circulation was poor. I had doctored right along but grew weaker and weaker. The Nerveine seemed to strengthen me right away and my circulation was better. I have taken in all seven bottles of the Nerveine, and I am entirely well."

ROSA E. WEAVER, Sturtevant, Ia.

Dr. Miles' Nerveine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

FRESH AIR FOR CONSUMPTIVES

Most Effective Weapon Available for Conflict With Dreaded "White Plague"

The following abstracts from an article by J. E. Shubert, M. D., in the Medical Record, should receive wide and careful attention. No doubt if these ideas could be carried out, the "white plague" would be robbed of much of its terror:

In ancient times it was highly improper to expose a tuberculous patient, especially one beyond the first stage, to a breath of fresh air except on the mildest days in summer, while the night air was dreaded and avoided as the plague. Then the more observant and thoughtful men noticed that those who lived more in the open air did not die as quickly as the hot-house patients, and they began to urge an outdoor life and moderate exercise as a prophylactic as well as a cure for those in the early stages of consumption. Those in the more advanced stages were allowed fresh air only when it was at summer temperature, but even this was better than being kept indoors in warm, ill-ventilated rooms the whole year.

There are several plans by which the victim of tuberculosis may continuously breathe pure, fresh air by night as well as by day. Sleeping out in the open air is not harmful to a large majority of tuberculous people.

Millet, of Brockton, Mass., reports the cases of five patients whom he recommended to sleep out of doors at night. They were allowed no roof over their heads except in rainy weather. They wore soft felt hats and cotton nightshirts, sleeping under ordinary bedclothes in beds arranged on the roofs of their houses. Improvement was noted in two weeks. Coughs disappeared, temperatures became normal, respirations were easier and weight increased rapidly. No attention was paid to dampness and drafts, and heavy dew was regarded as inconvenient simply because of the necessity of drying the bedclothes.

Sleeping in a small room with an open window does not appear to be nearly so beneficial to the patient as when the nights are passed on a veranda or in a tent where there is a free circulation of air on all sides. If a patient were fortunate enough to have a large room with a southern exposure and containing one or two open fireplaces, in addition to large windows on three sides, which might be opened at night, he might derive approximately the benefit incident to tent life.

McGraham, of South Carolina, prefers the circular to the army tent, and thinks it better to place it on a platform two feet from the ground, and to do without carpets and draperies. Draperies are not necessary, but rugs add greatly to the comfort and convenience of those in ill health, and their use can be made perfectly safe by exposing them to the sunlight for a few hours daily.

Special Hospitals for Consumptives. A hundred years ago the city of Naples, Italy, erected a large hospital for consumptives, and required the isolation of all persons suffering from this disease. It is only recently, however, that the authorities of modern cities have become awakened to the importance of this sanitary measure. Recently a number of cities have taken steps for the establishment of hospitals especially for the treatment of cases of consumption by the so-called "open-air method." Excellent results are reported from this method of treatment.

The German government has a large central committee numbering more than thirteen hundred persons, organized for the purpose of erecting hospitals for the treatment of tuberculous. This committee has under its supervision seventy-four such hospitals, and last year treated over thirty thousand patients, of whom eighty per cent were returned to their homes practically cured after remaining in the hospitals on an average of a little less than three months.

An Extra Good Appetite. A good appetite is a symptom of good health. An extra good appetite is sometimes a symptom of constitutional disturbance somewhere. A sample letter sent to the "Questions and Answers" column of a prominent health journal was something like this:

"I am troubled with pimples, not to a great extent, but still very annoying. They appear principally on the forehead, but occasionally on other places. I often feel languid, and tire easily, and cannot gain flesh, although I have an extra good appetite. Still I am not sick, and have not been in bed for a day in my life. Ago, nineteen years. Will you kindly advise me what you think would remove these pimples?"

There is little doubt but that the "extra good appetite" alluded to affords the key to the situation. The digestive organs have more than they can take care of, and consequently do not properly take care of anything furnished. There will be frequent headaches, skin disorders and alternate constipation and diarrhea with such persons. Pimples are a natural result of such depraved blood conditions.

With many people the habit of hearty eating is continued when the warm spring days come. Food which was appropriate when the thermometer was at zero is continued in the same quality and quantity when the thermometer rises to ninety degrees in the sun, and averages above sixty all day and night. The person who tion is on safe ground. The person with an extra good appetite will be placed to exercise self-control or be placed on the retired list to learn wisdom by experience.

Cigarettes.

Tobacco injures men and kills children. The Chicago school board has been having a medical examination of certain pupils before allowing them to take part in certain athletic sports. Boys and girls were subjected to the same examination. Not one girl was found unable to pass, while a large number of the boys, in almost every case smokers, were found to be in a physical condition which made violent exercise of any kind very dangerous. Twenty-one out of a hundred were found unfit, and all but three suffered from some form of heart trouble. Almost without exception the unfit ones were cigarette smokers.

How to Earn Sound Sleep.

All doctors are not so careful of the welfare of their patients as they might be. Here is a story of one who went to the limit. He is the proprietor of a famous health resort not far from ——. When he receives a patient for treatment he says:

"Now, I want it understood that unless you do exactly as I say, there is no use of your staying."

This rule sometimes requires him to be very harsh, but he never hesitates. He acts on the theory that he can better afford to offend a single patient and lose him than to have that patient go back home and tell his friends Dr. So-and-So had done him no good, relates the Washington Star.

Not long ago a well-known clergyman went to this resort for treatment. The doctor looked him over upon his arrival and said:

"While you are here you must take long walks every day."

"But I can't take walks," replied the parson. "I haven't done any walking for years. My heart won't stand it."

They argued the question quite warmly. As the clergyman and doctor were good friends, the latter was more lenient than usual. However, he bided his time. The next afternoon the physician said to the clergyman:

"It's a nice day. I would like you to go horseback riding with me."

Riding they went. When they were about eight miles from the sanitarium the physician said: "Oh, doctor, won't you get me that flower by the roadside? I don't like to leave this horse."

As soon as the clergyman was on the ground the doctor galloped off with both horses, and the clergyman was compelled to walk back to the sanitarium. Upon his arrival he was very angry, and was for packing up and leaving at once. There was no train that night, so he was forced to stay a few hours longer. The next morning he came down radiant and good natured.

"Doctor," said he, "I was pretty sore at you last night, but I forgive everything. I have had the first good sleep I have enjoyed in months. Hereafter I'll obey your order implicitly."

KAISER MOVES FOR ALLIANCE

Practically Invites the United States to Enter Political Field of Europe.

GERMANY NOW STANDS ALONE

Combinations and Agreements Among the Powers Leave the Berlin Government Without Allies—Meaning of Morocco Move.

Washington special: For the first time in American history a European power has sought to introduce the United States into politics directly affecting the situation of the old world.

Through his ambassador in Washington, Baron Speck von Sternburg, Emperor William has presented to this government an explanation of his position in Morocco in the same terms he described a few days ago personally to the sultan of the Moorish empire. He has stated that Germany's policy in the African empire, bordering on the Mediterranean sea, comprehends these three points:

1. Preserving of the status quo territorially.
2. Equality of treatment for the commerce of all nations.
3. Prohibition of preferential privileges for the citizens of any nation.

"Open Door" for World.

An explanation of the attitude of the German government in Morocco follows assurances which Baron Speck von Sternburg communicated to the president that Germany is in favor of the "open door" all over the world. These assurances were personally given, but in order that there might be no doubt of the attitude of his government in Morocco, Baron von Sternburg left with Secretary Taft a written memorandum, which explained it in a straightforward manner.

Baron von Sternburg has not asked the United States to take any action or make any declaration of policy. The memorandum was simply for the purpose of informing the president of the United States that its interests as well as those of Germany and other trading nations were in danger.

Action Is Important. Germany's action has its importance in opening the way to the introduction of the United States in European politics. In the past the attitude of the United States has been:

"We will not interfere in European affairs, and you must not interfere in American affairs." Germany recognizes this disposition on the part of the American people to meddle in the old world. But it finds that a solution has arisen which necessitates the attention of the United States.

A year ago Great Britain and France made an arrangement whereby in the German view the British government surrendered all its political and commercial rights in Morocco. Though German trade interests are large and Germany has a certain political interest in the disposition of Moorish territory, neither the London nor Paris government consulted Emperor William about their negotiations, and even failed to communicate officially the text of the convention to the Berlin foreign office. Germany then concluded that it must act to protect its own interests. When Emperor William went to Tangier it was believed convenient to make a declaration of the German policy, and this he did when he talked with the sultan.

Protects German Interests.

The moving cause of Emperor William's action is information which reached Berlin that France was on the point of deposing the sultan and placing another Moor on the throne who would be more pliant and disposed to carry out French hints. It also was learned that the purpose of France was to shut the trading door as it did in Madagascar. German commercial interests are large. The effect of such procedure would be to ruin them, for with the preferential treatment French trade would soon control the market. The effect on American trade, which has been slowly developing, also would be ruinous.

Relations of the Powers.

In turning to the United States Germany was actuated by the fact that it has not a single powerful friend in Europe at the present time save Russia, and Russia is too preoccupied in the war with Japan to give assistance to any other nation. The relations of Great Britain and Germany are bad. France is only waiting a good opportunity to attack the latter. Great Britain and France are heliwaived to be prepared to act together against Germany. Italy is more friendly to Great Britain than it is to Germany, and, besides, Italy has recognized the preeminence of French interests in Morocco.

In the absence of any word from the president it is impossible to say what the attitude of the United States will be.

DYSPEPSIA YIELDS A NINE YEARS' VICTIM FINDS A REMEDY THAT CURES.

For Two Years Too Weak to Work—A Dozen Doctors Had Tried to Check Disease. Treatment That Succeeded.

All sufferers from weakness or disorders of the digestive organs will read with lively interest the story of the complete recovery of Mrs. Nettie Darvoux from chronic dyspepsia which was thought to be incurable.

"To be unable for nine years is not a very pleasant experience," said Mrs. Darvoux, when asked for some account of her illness. "For two years I was critically ill and could not attend to my household duties, and at one time I was so weak and miserable that I could not even walk. My trouble was chronic dyspepsia. I became extremely thin and had a hollow complexion. I had no appetite and could not take any food without suffering great distress."

"Did you leave a physician?"

"Yes, I took medicines from a dozen different doctors, but without getting any benefit whatever."

"How did you get on the track of a cure?"

"A book about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills was thrown in our doorway one day. My husband picked it up and read it through carefully. He was so impressed by the statements of those who had been cured by that remedy that he immediately bought three boxes of the pills and insisted on my taking them."

"Did they help you at once?"

"I began to feel better the second day after I started to use the pills and by the time I had taken the three boxes I was entirely well. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can cure even when doctors fail, and they cure thoroughly, for a long time has passed since my restoration to health and I know it is complete and lasting."

The surest way to make sound digestion is to give strength to the organs concerned. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give vigor to the blood. No other remedy yields such radical results.

Mrs. Darvoux lives at No. 497 Sixth street, Detroit, Mich. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists in every part of the world. Dyspepsics should send to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for a new booklet entitled "What to Eat and How to Eat."

An American woman underwent an operation in Paris, but as her health did not improve she submitted to another operation in Germany. Still she was not well, and returned to Paris, where, at the third operation, the surgeon discovered in the depths of the operation wound a pair of eyeglasses.

The patient, who is fully recovered, does not know whether she should return the eyeglasses to the French or the German surgeon. The German surgeon, says the Medical Record, is in an embarrassing position, for either he lost the eyeglasses or he failed to find them when he operated.

How I Suffered with Itching and Bleeding Eczema Until Cured by Cuticura.

"No tongue can tell how I suffered for five years with a terribly painful, itching and bleeding eczema, my body and face being covered with sores. Never in my life did I experience such awful suffering, and I longed for death, which I felt was near. I had tried doctors and medicines without success, but my mother insisted that I try Cuticura. I felt better after the first bath with Cuticura Soap and one application of Cuticura Ointment, and was soon entirely well. (Signed) Mrs. A. Etton, Bellevue, Mich."

POINTS DANGER IN CORPORATIONS

Judge Grosscup Addresses Railway and Trust Representatives.

MUST SUBMIT TO SUPERVISION

Jurist Declares Concerns in Which Capital is Massed Must Consent to National Regulation and Control of Their Affairs.

Pittsburg, Pa., dispatch: Judge Peter S. Grosscup of Chicago was the guest of honor and principal speaker at the annual dinner of the Traffic club here Friday evening.

The Chicago jurist dealt in plain talk. He told his 475 hearers, most of whom were railway and trust representatives, that the tendency of the great corporations to-day was to defy the law and to claim full liberty of action unrestrained by law. This, he declared, the people ought not and would not consent to. He declared that the trusts must submit to national supervision, regulation, and control, just as do banks, trust and insurance companies. He said in part:

"Some Trusts Still Defiant. Some of them have voluntarily come back to the highways of the law. Some have never departed from these highways. Some are still at large. But none that I can recall have been destroyed.

"The reason of this is not far to see. A corporation is only the individual multiplied. The so-called trust is nothing but the corporation enlarged. In these days when enterprises have grown so large that no single individual can launch them, or keep them going, the only industrial expedient that civilization has yet found of massing and co-ordinating the wealth of the many in one management, unless we accept socialism as a workable means, is the corporation. Socialism has yet to prove itself; so that the corporation is civilization's sole and only way of wielding large masses of capital. As such, as I have many times said, the corporation is here to stay.

Tells of Over Capitalization. "But there is no need in all this, that we should conclude there is nothing wrong—that the public sense that there is something wrong is without foundation. The corporation is here to stay, but not to set aside all the industrial and commercial laws of the past.

"I know of one corporation that organized recently under the laws of New Jersey with an authorized capital of $40,000,000. For some reason this most have looked high even to the promoters, for only $10,000,000 were issued. After a little while these $10,000,000 were reduced to $2,000,000, whether from some scruple of the stockholders or some business expedient I do not know. All I do know is that a little while after that the corporation landed in bankruptcy court, with assets all told of $25,000.

No Right to Disdain Law.

"How long, I ask you, my fellow Americans, to-night, ought such a sham corporation policy to be tolerated? How long will we go on blindly setting upon practices, such as these, the great seals of our commonwealths? Are we willing, as a people, to go on indefinitely, aiders and abettors of iniquity?

"Men sometimes talk of corporate reforms as interference with industrial liberty. Who proposes to interfere with industrial liberty?

"Whence comes this claim of liberty unrestrained by law; this right to disdain law; this right to disdain the rights of others; to disdain decency; to entrap the honest corporate enterprise of this country into a seeming affiliation with dishonesty and fraud?

Defines Corporations.

"In these days the corporation is nothing less than the prevailing, the dominant medium of proprietorship of nearly the whole of the country's industries. Is not the nature and character of the proprietorship of the country's industries a matter of national concern? Already this proprietorship comprises nearly one-third of the country's wealth, and two-thirds of the wealth that by reason of its occupation is most constantly in the public eye. Has the nation no concern in determining whether this vast interest, rapidly growing vaster, and lying close to all the nerve centers of our political life, shall engage the interest and loyalty of the people generally, or only a limited number of people?

Advocates Supervision.

"But you ask me, How can the course of things as they are now going be changed? How can the individual man be brought back into proprietorship?

"My answer is: Take the corporation at once and forever out of the list of suspects. Put the corporation, as national banks and trust companies are put, under the supervision and control of the law.

"Make it impossible to capitalize corporations at figures that can have no purposes other than that of artificial and temporary inflation—an inflation that can collapse leaves the victims holding the bag."

WHO OWNS THE RAILROADS?

H. T. Newcomb of the District of Columbia Bar, has compiled statistics showing that 5,174,718 depositors in savings banks of six eastern states are directly interested in the joint ownership of $442,354,086 of steam railroad securities, that insurance companies doing business in Massachusetts hold $345,889,038 of steam railroad stocks and bonds and 74 educational institutions depend on $47,468,327 invested in similar securities for a portion of their income. Other fiduciary institutions own enough railroad securities to bring such holding up to more than a billion and a half dollars, about one-sixth of the entire capital invested in railroad property. These investments represent the savings of the masses, there being twenty million holders of life insurance policies in the country, as many more of fire insurance policies, and an even greater number of depositors in banking and trust institutions, where investments are largely in railroad securities.

Agreement.

Mrs. N. Peck—"It isn't necessary—he always agrees."

OPERATION AVOIDED

EXPERIENCE OF MISS MERKLEY

She Was Told That an Operation Was Inevitable. How She Escaped It

When a physician tells a woman suffering with ovarian or womb trouble that an operation is necessary, the very thought of the knife and the operating table strikes terror to her heart, and our hospitals are full of women coming for ovarian or womb operations.

Miss Margaret Merkley

There are cases where an operation is the only resource, but when one considers the great number of cases of ovarian and womb trouble cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after physicians have advised operations, no woman should submit to one without first trying the Vegetable Compound and writing Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice, which is free.

Miss Margaret Merkley of 375 Third Street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "Loss of strength, extreme nervousness, shooting pains through the pelvic organs, bearing down pains, and cramps compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor, after making an examination, said I had ovarian trouble and ulceration and advised an operation. To this I strongly objected and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The ulceration quickly healed, all the bad symptoms disappeared and I am once more strong, vigorous and well."

Ovarian and womb troubles are steadily on the increase among women. If the monthly periods are very painful, or too frequent and excessive—if you have pain or swelling low down in the left side, bearing down pains, leucorrhoea, don't neglect yourself—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Alabastine Your Walls

Just ask the doctor if there isn't danger of disease in your walls. Don't take our word for it—ask him. Make him tell you.

There is only one perfectly sanitary and hygienic wall covering. That is Alabastine—made from Alabaster rock—then colored with mineral colorings.

ALABASTINE is cleanly, because it is made from pure rock—Alabaster rock and pure water. It is not stuck on with sour paste nor smelly glue.

When your walls need covering, you don't need to wash ALABASTINE off. Just add another coat, for ALABASTINE is antiseptic as well as beautiful. The most beautiful decorations are possible with Alabastine.

Any decorator or painter can put it on. You could do it yourself. Just use Alabastine. It is sold in the original packages. It is your only safeguard against substitution of worthless imitations. Write for beautiful list card and free sample.

If your dealer won't supply you, send us his name and we will see that you have Alabastine.
