SUPERVISORS WILL BE BUSY

But Forty Days Allowed Them to Put Highways in Repair.

Beginning May 1, road supervisors throughout the country will get busy and have forty days under the law in which to put the highways in repair. They will receive $1.50 per day and must keep the rural route roads in good condition or give up a year's salary in the payment of fines. Road tax work must be done before December 1, or be in cash, as on this date a list must be made of this work and sworn to. Only such persons whose names are upon this list can get credit for their work when they go to pay their taxes, as the county treasurer takes this list and gives credit on his tax duplicates. A supervisor who gives a receipt to the person who has not worked can be fined from $10 to $50.

The First Kiss.

The greatest surprise to a girl who gets kissed the first time is that there is no taste to it.—Pocatontos Times.

No taste to it? Well by the hen feathers on Cupid's dart, but the Times man must be color blind in the palate. They tell us, those who have tried it that it tastes like the double-distilled essence of honey spread thick on a piece of punkin pie. Away back in the dim and joyful years ago, when we lost all our teeth and our cinch on the beauty prize, the prettiest girl in all the world told us with her own eyes that it felt like a covey of quails flying out of each ear and ended up with a sensation like a flock of angles pouring molasses down one's back. No taste to the first kiss? Great Scott! It would make a wooden cigar Indian's hair curl and his toenails quiver in ecstasy. The Times man must be an ice house.

Drummond May Get Plum.

According to Indianapolis reports, the Hon. Charles P. Drummond, of this city, stands an excellent chance of being appointed state tax commissioner, in case Governor Hanly should conclude to dispense with the services of the present incumbent, Parks M. Martin. Under the law the two leading parties are entitled to representation on the board of tax commissioners. The position of tax commissioner is considered quite a desirable one. Therefore the applicants are numerous and in some instances quite active. Mr. Drummond has strong support from various parts of the state.—South Bend Times.

Mixed Pickles.

One of our exchanges made an unfortunate error in its "Answers to Correspondents" last week.

"Fond Mother" wrote to find out what she should do for her children who had the whooping cough. In the make up the compositor got some items transposed and the answer read: "If not to young, skin them thoroughly; immerse in scalding water, sprinkle plentifully with salt, and leave for a week in brine." Horrors! He misphased the answer to "Anxious Housekeeper's" query for a pickled onion recipe. Washington Life.

Build the Road.

Now that the Logansport and South Bend traction line promoters have been voted subsidies in practically all the townships along the line, they should proceed to build the road. There has been a good deal of doubt that they are as sure of their premises as they have led the public to believe, and it is now up to them to make good. They have already invested much money in the venture and the people have, with the exception of two townships along the line, voted them all they asked. Now if they are not already in touch with capital to put the line through in a business like way, they should do that at once. The people want this line, want it badly, and all who look at it say it is surely a most promising line as a money maker.

Therefore, let us hope that we will have no cheap John braggling done by the Wabash-Rochester company. Instead, now that we have voted all the subsidy asked, let us have the road in a business like way. Rochester and Fulton county is ready for the proposed railroads to do business. We have done our part, now they should do theirs and we'll all be happy and prosperous. Rochester Sentinel.

Poor, But Rich.

Once in New England, says a writer in the Outlook, I was driving with an old farmer, and some of the men of the neighborhood came under criticism. Speaking of a prominent man in the village, I asked, "Is he a man of means?" "Well, sir," the farmer replied, "he ain't got much money, but he's mighty rich."

"He has a great deal of land, then?" I asked.

"No, sir, he ain't got much land, neither, but still he is mighty rich."

The old farmer, with a pleased smile, observed my puzzled look for a moment, and then explained.

"You see, he ain't got any money, and he ain't got much land, but still he is rich, because he never went to bed owing any man a cent in all his life. He lives as well as he wants to live, and he pays as he goes; he doesn't owe anything and ain't afraid of anybody; he tells every man the truth, and does his duty to himself, his family, and his neighbors, his word is as good as a bond, and every man, woman and child in the town looks up to him and respects him. No sir, he ain't got much money, and he ain't got much land, but still he is a mighty rich man because he's got all he needs and all he wants."

I assented to the old farmer's deductions, for I thought him entirely correct. When a man has all he needs and all he wants he is certainly rich, and when he lacks these things he is certainly poor.

The city authorities at South Bend are making a raid upon saloons and questionable resorts of all kinds. The mayor wanted to be lenient with the saloon interests but as soon as he gave them a little latitude they endeavored to run the whole city. Culver should be on guard and see that violations of law are kept at the minimum. The summer season at the lake will soon open, and it is for our people to say what element of visitors they desire.

Arrested two weeks ago for stealing a beef-steak from a meat market in Climax, Don Force, age 418, Saturday pleaded guilty in the circuit court and was sentenced to one year in the state reformatory. South Bend Times. The boy ought to join the beef trust. He could then steal millions with out fear of punishment.

South Bend and Elkhart are having some difficulty in enforcing a strict observance of the liquor laws. Saloons were closed on Sunday, but there seems to be a clash between officials whose duty it is to enforce the law. The trouble is more pronounced in Elkhart.

It is rumored that Thomas Medbourn has disposed of his residence and will build a fine house on the island south of the elevator.

TO ATTACK NICHOLSON LAW

Saloonist Organization Says New Laws Conflict With Old.

From various sources it is learned that the saloon men, through their state organization, are preparing to make a new test of the Nicholson saloon law, looking its abrogation, the claim being made that the passage of the new liquor laws renders the Nicholson bill ineffective as to the liquor laws passed by the last legislature repeals conflicting liquor bill, and it is claimed the laws passed by the last assembly conflict with the Nicholson bill and vice versa. The knocking out of the Nicholson bill would be a big victory for saloon men.

To Much Spooning.

At Lucerne it is reported that the reason Harrison township this year does not have a larger list of common school graduates is because "the eighth year pupils during the past term were wholly given to spooning." There is a movement on foot at Lucerne to put a stop to the young people staying out late of nights.

After the Bill Passers.

The merchants of Greentown have petitioned the town board to pass an ordinance exacting a high license against outside firms scattering bills or advertising bills or advertisements over the town. Should this be done there will not be so many loose bills flying over the streets, as the real object of such an ordinance is to be prohibitory in character.—Greentown Gem.

Two strangers were in town for a few days soliciting subscribers for a county directory and it is said that they were quite successful. It is an old gag that has been worked for years. The subscriber is out his money without receiving anything of value in return. They gave the CITIZEN office a wide berth, in fact kept out of our way as much as possible. Publicity is not to their liking.

The commencement exercises of the graduates of Union township will be held at the Assembly Auditorium, Thursday evening, May 25th at eight o'clock.

Culver is having quite a boom this spring. There are about twelve buildings in the course of construction at present, and some are to be quite imposing.

Capt. Crook is building a float 40x70 feet, which he will anchor at some convenient place on the lake and use it for a dancing pavilion during the summer season.

An Argos young man has a girl that paints and powders her face. He says that a kiss from her tastes like the first bite in a biscuit. A "dough face" is quite a drawing card in Argos.

Medbourn & Dillon will lay out their addition to Culver, systematically, making streets and alleys conform with the old part of town where possible. They have some very fine building lots.

Mrs. Alfred Byrd visited her daughters, Mrs. Lula Dolohery of Rochester, and Mrs. J. L. Horner, of Leiters Ford, and her grand daughter Mrs. Frank Lowe, of Leiters Ford, last week.

The woman who can make good butter, darn socks, cook a meal that tickles her husband clear to the waistband and keeps the children's neck and ears clean seldom figures in a divorce case.

Every man between the age of 21 and 50 years must work on the roads two days. This work is for the benefit of the public and the interests of the man who does the work is not a consideration.

There are some back streets, alleys and vacant lots that need cleaning. The back yards of some of our business houses are in a very unsanitary condition. Wake up! Clean up! Cleanliness is next to Godliness.

Boom the rural telephone line. We need it. It will help the town and be of incalculable benefit to the farmers. After one year's trial of the system, there will not be a farmer who can possibly afford a phone but what will be supplied.

It is said that if we build a new school house this summer, I. S. Hahn will return and have charge of the work. If Mr. Hahn does not intend to return until the contract for a new building has been let, he had better make calculations for a long stay.

Mrs. Mary Buttler will give an entertainment Saturday evening for an opening of her Ladies Exchange which will continue every Saturday evening and Sunday for the season. Thanks to her friends for their patronage. I will give

WABASH HIGH WAS TOO EASY

Cadets Have Things About Their Own Way in Saturday's Game.

Saturday's game was so easy that it looked like a shame to take the money in the early part of the festivities. The high school lads were rattled and weak, weak infield and out. Their catcher and second baseman were ball players but the rest have some lessons coming.

In the first Campbell walked. Warden hit a little one and was thrown out at first and a wild throw scored Campbell. Loucks fanned. McKelvy hit safe but was caught off at second.

Rosebaum's grounder to Warden beat him out. Chase fanned. Mass to Moore and out at first.

The second was the prize inning. Richardson walked, stole second and third. Taylor dropped one in front of the plate and Rosebaum threw him out at first. Gmet got hit by a pitched ball. Sheller hit to right. Moore walked, filling the bases. Chase threw four bad ones to Campbell forcing a score. Warden hit one along first scoring Sheller. Loucks hit a little one scoring Moore. McKelvy's short one to Chase caught Campbell at the plate. Richardson hit safe scoring Warden. Taylor hit to short out off Richardson at second.

Moey walked. Moore got nud and Yarnelle, Hess and Blount fanned. In the third Chase got a hit scoring Lewis for the visitors. The fourth, fifth and sixth were eventless. McKelvy's pretty hit to deep center in the seventh scored Warden. Sheller hit safe in the eighth and second on Moore's hit. Moore drew a wild throw and jogged home. Madero fielded Rosebaum's long drive in time to cut Lewis off at home. Chase gave Whittington an error scoring Rosebaum.

The game ended with no score in the ninth. Saving the second inning it looked like very good ball. Culver was hitting well and paid strict attention to business. It is just as well as the visitors did some neat stunts and it might have—but it did not happen and there's the end of it.

Have Black Smallpox.

With eight houses at West Indianapolis in quarantine and one woman dead from black smallpox, the suburb, a new part of the city, faces a serious situation.

Contrary to the Interstate Commerce law, the body of a woman who died of black smallpox in St. Louis was shipped from that city to West Indianapolis for burial two weeks ago. Many persons attended the funeral as it was given out that the cause of death was tuberculosis. Later the mother of the dead woman, Mrs. Ellen Swalls, to whose home the body was brought developed the fatal disease and died.

Now eight houses in West Indianapolis are in strict quarantine and 200 persons have been forced to be vaccinated. The situation is serious. The schools in that part of the city are closed and free vaccination stands have been opened in drug stores. Black smallpox is a deadly and virulent disease, though rare. The body of the person attacked turns black.

It is rumored that there are a lot of professional fishermen engaged in seining the lake and selling the fish in neighboring towns. The fish commissioners usually look up the farmer and the man who catches a few fish for his own use, and if one is caught a heavy penalty is inflicted, while the professional, who is draining the lake with various kinds of nets, remains

FOOD VALUE OF FRUIT

Prejudice Against Its Liberal Use Is Result of Erroneous Notions.

There are many popular but unfounded prejudices against the dietetic use of fruits. It is generally supposed, for example, that fruits are conducive to bowel disorders, and that they are especially prone to produce indigestion if taken at the last meal. The truth is the very opposite of these notions. An exclusive diet of fruit is one of the best-known remedies for chronic bowel disorders. During the late war, large numbers of the soldiers suffering from chronic dysentery were in several instances rapidly cured when abundantly supplied with ripe peaches. Fruit juice may be advantageously used in both acute and chronic bowel disorders. Care must be taken, however, to avoid fruit juices which contain a large amount of cane sugar. Juices of sweet fruits should be employed, or a mixture of sour and sweet fruit juices, or acid fruit juice may be sweetened with malt honey or melrose, a natural sweet produced from cereals. Raisins, figs, prunes, sweet apples and pears may be mixed with sour fruits.

Indigestion sometimes results from the use of fruits in combination with a variety of other food substances; but fruits taken alone constitute the best possible menu for the last meal of the day. The combination of fruit, sugar, cream, bread, butter, cake and pie may well produce bad dreams and a bad taste in the mouth in the morning. The use of fresh or stewed fruit alone without any addition whatever will produce no disturbance, and will leave no unpleasant effects behind to be regretted in the morning. Very acid fruits sometimes disagree with persons who have an excess of acid and those who are suffering from chronic inflammation of the stomach; but with these exceptions, there is almost no case in which fruit may not be advantageously used.

The notion that acid fruits must be avoided by rheumatics is another error which is based on inaccurate observations. The fact is, rheumatics are greatly benefited by the use of fruit. At the same time they should abstain from the use of flesh foods of all sorts, beef tea and animal broths, and all meat preparations, also tea and coffee, as well as alcohol and tobacco. It is, of course, possible for one to take an excess of acids, as one may take an excess of starch or any other food substance. Vegetable acids differ from mineral acids in the fact that they do not accumulate in the body, but are assimilated or utilized in the same way as sugar and allied substances.

Diseased Cattle for Slaughter.

A deliberate attempt to send a carload of diseased cattle for slaughter in New York was recently foiled by the State Agricultural Department. Word was received of the shipping of the stock and the car was intercepted in the railroad yards in New York by the department's agents. Of twenty cows found in the car, three were in a dying condition, and soon expired. Eight others were suffering from advanced tuberculosis, and at least three from pneumonia. It was also learned that several others of the herd had died at Utica before they could be transferred to the car on the New York train. It is intended to prosecute the shipper of the cattle.

A Substitute for Leather.

An English inventor has devised a perfect substitute for leather which can be used for boots, shoes and for every other purpose for which leather is employed. The new tissue is called wolf. It is being extensively used in England, having been adopted by the London Shoe Company especially for walking shoes on account of its coolness and its lightness. Wolf is more durable than leather and is much more waterproof, while at the same time more porous, which makes it a nonconductor, and to a large degree obviates the necessity for wearing rubbers which are needed by one whose feet are clad with leather only when the slush and mud is so deep that the feet are half buried at every step.

Frances Willard and Fashionable Dress.

Said Frances Willard in one of her last addresses, speaking of the advancement and present status of women:

"But be it remembered that until woman comes to her kingdom physically she will never really come at all. Created to be well and strong and beautiful, she long ago sacrificed her constitution, and has ever since been living on her by-laws. She has made of herself an hourglass, whose sands of life passed quickly by. She has walked when she should have run, sat when she should have walked, reclined when she should have sat. She has allowed herself to become a mere lay figure upon which could be fastened any hump or hoop or farthingale that fashion-mongers show; and oftentimes her head is a mere rotary ball upon which milliners may perch whatever they please—be it a bird of paradise, or beast or creeping thing. She has bedraggled her senseless long skirts in whatever combination of silt the street presented, submitting to a motion the most awkward and degrading known to the entire animal kingdom, for Nature has endowed all others that carry trains and trails with the power of lifting them without turning in their tracks, but a fashionable woman pays lowliest obsequence to what follows in her own wake; and, as she does so, cuts the most grotesque figure outside a jumping jack. She is a creature born to the beauty and freedom of Diana, but she is swathed by her skirts, splintered by her stays, bandaged by her tight waist, and pinioned by her sleeves until—alas, that I should live to say it!—a trussed turkey or a spitted goose are her most appropriate emblems."

Food Value of Eggs.

Eggs are a very nourishing food and represent two important elements, fats and proteins, in an easily assimilated form. A single egg weighs about one and one-half ounces, of which one ounce is white, or pure albumin, and one-half ounce yolk. The nutritive value of the yolk is greater than that of the white, though its bulk and weight are smaller. Its solid constituents are about one-half of its fat. Fresh eggs, properly prepared, are readily digestible. The best mode of preparation is to whip raw, or cooked for twenty or thirty minutes at a temperature of about 160° (curdled). The yolks are more easily digested when boiled hard, and the whites are also easily digested when hard boiled, providing care is used to reduce the coagulated white to minute particles which may readily be dissolved by the gastric juice.

A single egg is equal in value to a dozen oysters.

Very Dissipated.

There are a good many persons who might be said to be dissipated and "all broke up" according to the Japanese use of the word, illustrated in the following anecdote:

"They are telling in Boston of two or three Japanese students of rank who have been in the habit of dining each Sunday at the residence of one of the prominent citizens of the Hub. On a recent Sunday one was absent, and when the host asked why, one of the guests said solemnly: 'Oh, he cannot come. He very, very dissipated!' The host thought it best not to make any further inquiry at the time, but after the meal he ventured to ask the same young man in private, 'You say Mr. Nim Shi is not well?'"

"No, he not very well—he very dissipated."
"He hasn't been drinking?"
"Oh, no, no! he no drunk."
"Not gambling?"
"No, no gamble."
"May I ask what he has been doing, then?"
"Oh, he very dissipated. He eat sponge cake all day—he all broke up now."

RECIPES.

Mashed Peas With Nuts.—Soak a pint of Scotch peas overnight in cold water. In the morning drain and put them to cook in warm water. Cook slowly until perfectly tender, allowing them to simmer very gently toward the last until they become as dry as possible. Put through a colander to remove the skins. Cook the peanuts separately, drain from the juice, rub through a colander, and add to the peas. Beat well together, season with salt, turn into an earthen or granite-ware pudding dish, smooth the top, and bake in a moderate oven until dry and mealy. If preferred, one-third toasted bread crumbs may be used with the peas and a less proportion of nuts. Serve hot like mashed potato.

Graham Gems.—Place one pint of cold water in a crock, add one egg; beat water, egg and a pinch of salt together. Then add 1½ cups of white flour and ¾ cup of graham flour, beat thoroughly, and bake in a quick oven.

Irish Corn Soup.—Take one pint of sliced potato cooked until tender, add one pint of corn pulp obtained by rubbing cooked dried corn through a colander. Season with salt, add water to make a proper consistency, reheat, and serve.

Split-Pea Soup.—For each quart of soup desired, simmer one cup of split peas very slowly in three pints of boiling water for six hours or until thoroughly dissolved. When done, rub through a colander, add salt and a slice of onion to flavor. Reheat and season with one-half cup of thin cream or a spoonful of nut meal prepared as directed below. Remove the slice of onion with a fork. Serve hot with croutons.

Croutons.—Cut stale bread into small squares or cubes, and brown thoroughly in a moderate oven. Put a spoonful or two of the croutons in each plate, and turn the hot soup over them.

Baked Parsnips.—Wash, scrape and divide; drop into boiling water, a little more than sufficient to cook them, and boil gently till thoroughly tender. There should remain about one-half pint of the liquor when the parsnips are done. Arrange on an earthen plate or shallow pudding-dish, not more than one layer deep; cover with the juice and bake, basting frequently until the juice is all absorbed and the parsnips delicately browned. Serve at once.

Orange Nectar.—Extract the juice of six oranges and two lemons, being careful not to get the flavor of rind. Add enough water to make six glasses of nectar. Sweeten.

Double-Tracking the Santa Fe. It would be a colossal undertaking to double track the Santa Fe all the way from Chicago to California and the Gulf of Mexico.

To seriously suggest it now would provoke a smile from men who know the cost of such a project.

Yet it may happen some day, if business continues to increase as rapidly as in the last decade.

This plan of two tracks from the Great Lakes to Pacific Ocean does not necessarily imply that the tracks will be laid side by side. In many cases cut-offs will be used, thus saving in mileage as well as train operation.

Using the term in its restricted sense, by the end of 1905 the Santa Fe will have more than 300 miles of double track in operation. Second tracks are now being built as follows: To finish the gap between Chicago and Joliet; between several points in Missouri, aggregating 40 miles; to complete the Emporia cut-off; east, west and south of Newton, in Kansas, and on both sides of Raton Mountain, in Colorado and New Mexico.

Jan. 20th, 1904.

Immigration Branch, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, Canada:

Am sending you the return of two fields of wheat grown on my home farm last year. These returns are perfectly accurate, and not over-estimated.

I summer-fallow about one-third of my farm every year, and afterward take off two crops and summer-fallow again. The summer-fallow is ploughed twice during the summer, first shallow, afterwards deep and no weed allowed to grow. The stubble is left as long as possible when cutting the first crop, and is burned the following spring, drilled directly afterwards, and harrowed after drilling. This gives much better result than fall-ploughing.

Field No. 1. Quarter-section fallowed 1903, yield 37 bushels per acre. This wheat is netting at present time 88c per bushel.

For 37 bushels, per acre..... $32.56

Field No. 2.—Stubble field, 80 acres. Have sold the wheat at 88c per bushel.

Yield per acre 25 bushels, per acre.....$22.00

Every housekeeper should know that if they will buy Defiance Cold Water Starch for laundry use they will save not only time, because it never sticks to the iron, but because each package contains 16 oz.—one full pound—while all other Cold Water Starches are put up in ½-pound packages, and the price is the same, 19 cents. Then again because Defiance Starch is free from all injurious chemicals. If your grocer tries to sell you a 12-oz. package it is because he has a stock on hand which he wishes to dispose of before he puts in Defiance. He knows that Defiance Starch has printed on every package in large letters and figures "16 oz." Demand Defiance and save much time and money and the annoyance of the iron sticking. Defiance never sticks.

"The Adirondacks and How to Reach Them" is a nice folder with maps and references to localities, hotels, boarding houses, mountains and rivers in the great wilderness of Northern New York known as the Adirondack Mountains. If you visit this region once, you will be sure to go again. A copy of "The Adirondack Mountains and How to Reach Them" will be mailed free, postpaid, to any address, on receipt of a two-cent stamp, by George H. Daniels, General Passenger Agent, Grand Central Station, New York.

"Hecla Sandwith," the new novel by Edward Uffington Valentine, deals with life in central Pennsylvania where the author spent his youth. In deed, all the characters and the entire background of Quaker life, of coal mining and charcoal iron manufacture are taken from family records and personal knowledge. It is a work so intensely interesting we regret when the last page is finished. (Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

Don't you know that Defiance Starch besides being absolutely superior to any other, is put up in 16 ounces in packages and sells at same price as 12-ounce packages of other kinds?

PROFESSORS TO BE PENSIONED

Income of $500,000 Annually Is to be Used to Provide Annuities for College Teachers When They are Retired from Service.

New York dispatch: Andrew Carnegie, on the eve of his sailing for Europe, made his greatest single gift, in his long list, when he provided for the setting aside of $10,000,000 to provide annuities for worn out college professors.

The fact was announced by Frank A. Vanderlip, vice president of the National City bank of New York. Professors in the United States, Canada and Newfoundland will share in the distribution of the income of the fund.

United States Steel corporation 5 per cent first mortgage bonds for $10,000,000 have been transferred to a board of trustees, and steps will be taken at once to organize a corporation to receive the donation.

Announcement of Gift.

Dr. Pritchett, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Mr. Vanderlip have been selected by Mr. Carnegie to obtain data on the subject, to be presented at the first meeting of the board of trustees, which will be held Nov. 15.

Mr. Vanderlip sent the following letter to press:

"Mr. Andrew Carnegie has transferred to a board of trustees, consisting in the main of presidents of the most important colleges in the United States and Canada, $10,000,000 first mortgage 5 per cent Steel corporation bonds. The purpose of the trust fund thus created is to provide annuities for college professors in the United States, Canada, and Newfoundland, who, from old age or other physical disability, are no longer in a position to render the most efficient service.

Provides Dignified Pension.

"It is Mr. Carnegie's belief that this fund will not only provide a dignified pension system for a body of most self-sacrificing and poorly paid men, but that it will be of distinct value to the cause of education in offering an opportunity to the trustees of a college to retire members of the faculty who have faithfully served the institution for many years, and to replace such men with young, vigorous and efficient professors.

"I am taking the liberty of enclosing Mr. Carnegie's letter outlining the nature of his bequest. This letter was written to the members of the board of trustees. The list of trustees is also enclosed. All have accepted.

Names Corporation.

"Steps will be taken at once to organize a corporation to formally receive the bequest. The first meeting of the board of trustees has been called for Nov. 15. In the meantime it is Mr. Carnegie's desire that Dr. Pritchett, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and myself proceed to obtain data from all the institutions concerned for use at the meeting of the trustees.

"The bonds which Mr. Carnegie has so generously donated have a market value of $11,000,000, and will produce an annual income of $500,000.

"The corporation which is being formed will be styled 'The Carnegie Foundation.'

"Yours truly, F. A. Vanderlip."

Pearsons Aids Colleges.

Among the colleges to be benefited is the famous Guilford college of Greensboro, N. C. It gets $25,000 on condition that the directors raise a sum to bring the total to $100,000.

The other colleges to receive gifts are: Piedmont college, Demorest, Ga., $25,000; Washington college, Tennessee, $25,000; Grant university, Chattanooga, Tenn., $50,000; West Virginia seminary, Morgantown, W. Va., $10,000.

After announcing these gifts Dr. Pearson declared that his donations were ended for six months.

INJUNCTION STARTS THE CARS

Kenosha Mayor Refrained From Interfering With Street Railway.

Kenosha, Wis. special: The street cars of the Kenosha electric street railway are running again. Court Commissioner Jas. Cavanaugh granted an injunction against the city of Kenosha, Mayor James Gorman and Chief of Police Fred Reynolds, preventing them from interfering with the running of cars. The injunction is based on a suit for $5,000 claimed for damages caused by the action of the mayor in stopping the cars. President B. J. Heliographing a Butterfly.

Collectors that would succeed must be masters in resource. There was a Morpho becuta at the mouth of the Amazon river that had long baffled capture till one day an ingenious huntsman used a mirror that sent flashes of the sun in every direction, and the insect became inquisitive about being heliographed, and came within striking distance of the net. Jacob Doll, the famous old collector for the Brooklyn Natural History museum, told the writer how a certain caterpillar had long dodged him. He knew its haunts in a general way, but could not locate its exact hiding place, until he saw a bird fly by twice, each time with the green thing in its beak. So he followed the bird and found the worm. Showing that the collector must act quickly, Mr. Doll tells how he saw a rare female well up on a tree, turned to call his companion's attention and saw a pair of wings lying at the foot of the tree. A bird had darted in and clipped the wings, eating the body. Of a certain species males were lacking, so he hung a captured female on a Texas tree and males, a hundred strong, rallied round, though they had been invisible to the collectors for the preceding month.

A Great Discovery.

Clayton, Tex., May 1st.—(Special)—That a genuine cure for Diabetes has been discovered is the opinion of Mr. J. H. Bailey of this place. Speaking of the matter, Mr. Bailey says: "I believe Dodd's Kidney Pills is the best remedy for Diabetes and the only one that has ever been discovered that will cure Diabetes."

"I have a genuine case of Diabetes. I have taken seven boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and am still taking them. They have helped me so much that I am now up and able to work some. I believe that if I had conformed strictly to a Diabetes diet I would now have been completely cured."

Dodd's Kidney Pills have cured hundreds of cases of Diabetes and never once failed. It is an old saying that what will cure Diabetes will cure any form of Kidney Disease and that's just exactly what Dodd's Kidney Pills do. They cure all kidney diseases from Backache to Bright's Disease.

bers increase with health or decrease with illness or malnutrition. The best tonic for increasing the red blood corpuscles and building up healthy tissue is no doubt Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This medicine has been on the market for over a third of a century and numbers its cures by the thousand.

A tonic made up largely of alcohol will shrink the corpuscles of the blood and make them weaker for resistance. A cod liver oil makes the stomach groan because it is irritating. What is needed is an alternative extract made of roots and herbs, without the use of alcohol, that will assist the stomach in assimilating or taking up from the food such elements as are required for the blood, also an alternative that will assist the activity of the liver and cause it to throw off the poisons in the blood. When we have accomplished this we have put the system in a fortified condition so strong that it can repel the germs of disease which we find everywhere—in the street-cars, the shops, the factories, the bedrooms, wherever many people congregate, or where sunlight and good air does not penetrate.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.: "Dear Sir—Your 'Golden Medical Discovery' is a sick man's friend. For the past seven years my health gradually failed. I lost my appetite, became nervous and debilitated, very despondent and unable to sleep. No medicine helped me until I tried Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It put new life into my veins and increased vitality until I could once more enjoy life and attend to my business. Eight bottles effected a complete cure and gladly do I recommend it. Very sincerely yours, R. V. Pierce."

THE END OF THE GRIP

REACHED AFTER EIGHT YEARS OF COMPLICATED TROUBLES.

Deafness, Hissing Sounds in Head, Stomach Disorder, Palpitation of Heart and Debility Overcome at Last.

Mr. Newman certainly had a very tough time with the grip, and it is no wonder that he thinks that the remedy that cured him can't be beat. His case shows how profoundly grip poisons the system and how obstinately it resists all ordinary efforts to eradicate it.

Few cases can be worse than Mr. Newman's for he had head, heart and stomach troubles combined with great weakness. He recently said:

"The attack of grip which I had eight years ago left me in a very bad fix. I became nearly deaf and my head ached continually and was filled with hissing and roaring sounds. My heart fluttered and had regular running-away spells. My stomach was so sore that I could hardly bear a touch on that part of my body. I had a great deal of pain in the region of my liver and the doctor said that organ was enlarged. My kidneys ached so at times that I could hardly stand."

"Didn't you give up and go to bed?" he was asked.

"No, I simply wouldn't. My head and my back ached dreadfully, but I obstinately dragged myself about, kept growing worse and finally ran down to almost nothing."

"What did you do to get relief?"
"First I tried a doctor, but he did me no good. Then I took all kinds of advertised preparations but nothing proved helpful until I began to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. As soon as I got them I knew that I had at last hit the right remedy for my case. The very first box did more for me than anything else I had ever taken. They gave me relief right away and in three months they positively cured me. I think I was scarcely ever in better health in my life than I am at present."

Mr. William A. Newman is a well-known Camden county farmer, living at Sagrada, Missouri. His case was a severe test for any remedy, but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills met every requirement. Other remedies merely drive the poison of the grip into hiding, but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills drive it out of the system. They are sold by every druggist.

FAMOUS ATHLETES PAY GLOWING TRIBUTE TO PE-RU-NA

As a Spring Tonic to Get the System In Good Shape.

"I advise all athletes who are about to go in training to try a bottle of Pe-Ru-NA."
—J. W. Glenister.

John Glenister, Champion Swimmer and Only Athlete to Successfully Swim Through the Michigan Whirlpool Rapids.

PE-RU-NA Renovates, Regulates, Restores a System Depleted by Catarrh.

John W. Glenister, of Providence, R. I., champion long distance swimmer of America, has performed notable feats in this country and England. He has used Peruna as a tonic and gives his opinion of it in the following letter:

New York.
The Peruna Medicine Company,
Columbus, Ohio:
Gentlemen—"This spring for the first time I have taken two bottles of Peruna, and, as it has done me a great deal of good, I feel as if I ought to say a good word for its worth."

"During the springtime for the last few years, I have taken several kinds of spring tonics, and have never received any benefit whatever. This year, through the advice of a friend, I have tried Peruna and it has given satisfaction."

"I advise all athletes who are about to go in training to try a bottle, for it certainly gets the system in good shape."
Yours truly,
JOHN W. GLENISTER.

ATHLETES realize the importance of keeping in good bodily trim.

The digestion must be good, the circulation perfect, sleep regular and enough of it.

If the slightest catarrhal condition of lungs or stomach is allowed to remain, neither digestion nor sleep will be strength-sustaining.

Those who lead very active lives, like athletes, with good muscular development, find the spring months especially trying.

Athletes everywhere praise Peruna, because they, of all men, appreciate the value of a tonic that dispels physical depression.

The vocation of some men may allow them to endure the depressing feelings incident to spring weather, but the athlete must never allow himself to get "under the weather."

He must keep in the "pink of condition" all the time.

In order to do this he must avail himself of a spring tonic upon which he can rely.

Therefore athletes are especially friendly toward Peruna. Peruna never fails them.

OWES $100,000 TO BIG ESTATE

Banker Bigelow Admits That He Has Been Derelict as Trustee.

WOMAN TRUSTEEDIDN'T DOUBT

Miss Julia L. Chaffee Had Complete Confidence in the Financier and Allowed Him to Manage Affairs to His Own Liking.

Milwaukee, Wis., dispatch: Indications are that the defalcation of Frank G. Bigelow will involve a much larger figure than the $1,200,000 which he stole from the First National bank. Evidence is coming to light that a number of trust funds and estates which he had in charge have been looted, and it is now believed that people who trusted the financier have lost between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000.

Bigelow is known to have exhausted every dollar of credit he had in the world before he began his looting of the bank surplus, and during the next few weeks a large amount of worthless personal security probably will turn up.

Two estates for which Bigelow was trustee are being investigated. One is that of the late Henry C. Payne, postmaster general, and the other that of the late John C. Brodhead. Each estate is valued at $1,000,000. Bigelow already has admitted that he is short in the Brodhead estate. This is believed to be merely the beginning of a long list yet to follow.

Admits He Is Short.
John C. Brodhead of Kingston, N. Y., arrived in Milwaukee and said that an immediate investigation of his father's estate would be commenced. Another trustee of the estate was Miss Julia L. Chaffee, but she had trusted entirely the affairs of the estate to Bigelow, and knows nothing of the condition of the funds.

"Yes, it is true that I am short in the Brodhead estate," said Bigelow when asked regarding the condition of the estate. "The report that I owe it a million, however, is greatly exaggerated. I believe I owe the estate about $100,000. I intend to resign as trustee and make some arrangement with Mr. Brodhead to pay what I owe."

"I have resigned as director of the Wisconsin Telephone company and severed my connection with the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company and the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company."

Payne Estate Is Involved.
F. T. Whitney, former private secretary of Henry C. Payne, arrived in Milwaukee and began investigation of the Payne estate. With Bigelow as trustee is George P. Miller. They acted jointly, and Miller says that so far as he knows the estate is intact, because Bigelow could not have taken the funds without his signature. In both estates Bigelow acted without funds, so that the heirs will be the sole losers. Bigelow was a warm personal friend of both Payne and Brodhead, and the wills expressly provided that Bigelow should not be bonded.

Some of the Creditors.
Sensational developments are sure to follow Bigelow's personal debts, because he has made the statement that he did not keep any books on the transactions. Among the creditors are known to be the First National bank of Chicago, which he owes $50,000. He also owes the Wisconsin National bank of this city $50,000, the Second Ward bank $75,000, and the German American $40,000. Besides these he owes the Mercantile Trust of St. Louis $50,000 and the National Park of New York $50,000. All are secured and will not lose. Among unsecured claims are a number of his friends in amounts ranging from $100,000 to $5,000. His friends' claims are not secured.

Turns Over Assets.
The story in circulation that Bigelow had turned $1,000,000 in stocks over to his wife is unfounded. Every dollar of property that Bigelow possessed has been turned over to his creditors.

A lawyer's clerk called at Bigelow's home and his property was transferred to his creditors. Bigelow received him with his usual politeness. His wife and he sat in the library during the transaction. The banker was composed and when he had affixed his signature to the paper he handed it back. He had deprived himself of his home, fixtures, furniture, his carriage, and in fact everything, but there was not the slightest expression of feeling on his face.

Protesting Against Rate Reduction.
Atlanta, Ga.—The recent proposition of J. Pope Brown, Chairman of the Georgia Railroad commission, to reduce the passenger rate in Georgia from three to two cents per mile was protested against by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Order of Railway Conductors, and unions of the blacksmiths, machinists and telegraphers, boiler-makers, railway trainmen, carpenters and joiners, clerks and car men. These organizations employed an attorney especially to represent them, who urged that such a reduction would work against the prosperity of the state and lead to a reduction in the number of railroad employees, as well as of their wages. The Travelers' Protective Association also protested that a reduction, as proposed, would result in fewer trains and poorer service.

A TRAINED NURSE

After Years of Experience, Advises Women in Regard to Their Health.

Mrs. Martha Pohlman of 55 Chester Avenue, Newark, N. J., who is a graduate Nurse from the Blockley Training School, at Philadelphia, and for six years Chief Clinic Nurse at the Philadelphia Hospital, writes the letter printed below. She has the advantage of personal experience, besides her professional education, and what she has to say may be absolutely relied upon.

Many other women are afflicted as she was. They can regain health in the same way. It is prudent to heed such advice from such a source.

Mrs. Pohlman writes: "I am firmly persuaded, after eight years of experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that it is the safest and best medicine for any suffering woman to use."

"Immediately after my marriage I found that my health began to fail me. I became weak and pale, with severe bearing-down pains, fearful backaches and frequent dizzy spells. The doctors prescribed for me, yet I did not improve. I would lose my appetite and frequently become nauseated. I had an acrid discharge and pains down through my limbs so I could hardly walk. It was as bad as a case of female trouble as I have ever known. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, however, cured me within four months. Since that time I have had occasion to recommend it to a number of patients suffering from all forms of female difficulties, and I find that while it is considered unprofessional to recommend a patent medicine, I can honestly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I have found that it cures female ills, where all other medicine fails. It is a grand medicine for sick women."

Money cannot buy such testimony as this—merit alone can produce such results, and the ablest specialists now agree that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most universally successful remedy for all female diseases known to medicine.

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation (or flatulence), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles.

The needless suffering of women from diseases peculiar to their sex is terrible to see. The money which they pay to doctors who do not help them is an enormous waste. The pain is cured and the money is saved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Experience has proved this.

It is well for women who are ill to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. In her great experience, which covers many years, she has probably had to deal with dozens of cases just like yours. Her advice is free and confidential.

Dr. N. B. Sizer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what ingredients are put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use."

CHAPTER XIV.

My Rose.

I found that night had fallen during my talk with his Majesty. I had brought with me no linkman, and I immediately set about getting that most necessary attendant. Not a difficult task, for numbers of them came clamoring about me as soon as I set foot outside of Whitehall. There crowds of linkmen oft awaited the belated petitioner at court.

My high spirits were in the ascendant. I felt gay. Was not good fortune kissing me?

I was apt to halloo before I was out of the woods, in other words, to be too sanguine in the affairs of life. That day I let my gaiety be seen; it ran away with me.

I engaged all the linkmen, who presented themselves for hire. As we went down the streets doors were opened, maids threw up windows and questions were asked as to the reason for such an illumination—whether it was a wedding or a funeral, or some great man's entrance into town. The men entered into the fun and treaded with a military step, keeping rank, without a smile upon their grimy faces. And so we marched along with the solemnity befitting a state funeral, which no doubt was the grandest event these fellows had ever been called up to participate in.

When I reached the house where Mistress Rosemary Allyn stayed, I threw a handful of coins among the men—they dissipated every trace of solemnity. Such a scampering, pushing, and pommeling as ensued—it was amusing—I could not help laughing till my sides ached. The man who came off victorious, most of the coins in his brawny fist, was a sturdy fellow and worthy of his hire. Him I engaged to attend me. The rest I paid and dismissed.

I was told by the lackey upon being admitted that Mistress Allyn was alone and would see me. I was ushered at once into her presence. She was lovelier than ever! I thought what could be the beauty of Lady Felton—although the toast of the town—as compared with Mistress Allyn—as like one rose to another. She received me none too graciously, but sire at Mistress Rosemary Allyn. The color flouted itself in her face. "I understand not your similes," she murmured.

"No?" I questioned. "I will put it plainer. In all this garden of beautiful women there is only one I desire—my queen rose—sweet Rosemary Allyn."

"Would you not better, sir, be off with the old love first?" she asked. "I think you know the story—love played no part in it," I said severely. "The part we men played was not admirable—I assure you I would have returned the paper to Lord Felton that night, had I not been so incensed at Raoul Dwight's remarks. Will you not listen to my love, Rosemary?" I pleaded.

"I would wait, sir," she said, "until that little paper is no more—women are fickle. Lady Felton may refuse to give you your freedom."

"Set your mind at rest on that point," said I. "I have not even seen her—she may know nothing of the paper—I assure you she wants no such unworthy a lover as I am. She has all London to choose from."

"Who shall say what a woman wants?" she muttered. Then: "I am fastidious enough, sir, to wish to wait until you are free: until that paper is out of your hands into the hands of the lady mentioned in it—given up freely by the man who won it."

"Then shall you wait but twenty minutes, ere I am back again," I cried starting up.

"Ah, you are in a hurry," she said. "At last your appetite is whetted by a desire to see the fair Lady Felton," and she sighed.

Men have many pockets in their clothes where they store away numerous little articles of small value or use, while women without one manage to secrete and successfully, too, anything they wish among the frills of their bodice. Out of such a hiding place Rosemary took the paper I had lost at Castle Grout and handed it to me.

"You know it is not so—I would fain linger," I said, and I looked longingly at her lips. "Still," I straightened myself. "Disagreeable things are sooner over for being done quickly. Au revoir."

to have had that encounter, and only hoped the light had been too dim for him to see who his antagonist was.

I walked off so hurriedly in my surprise and wish not to be recognized that no doubt he thought I was running away. I desired neither an encounter with swords to the death, nor yet was I ready for explanations; and I knew if his sharp eyes detected who had bested him, it must mean one or the other. I did not look back until I was far down the street; then I saw that the light of the linkman still flitted about like a will-o'-wisp as he made search for his master's sword.

It was hardly the time for explanations, and under the circumstances I did not think my newly found brother would take kindly to them. I would call upon his mother to-morrow before the hour set for the duel, and request his presence, when I should tell her and I prayed heaven to give me in the telling a fluent tongue—the reason why Lord Waters had deserted and then divorced her. How she would take it I let myself not dwell upon that, only I hoped for my father's sake in the gentle spirit of forgiveness. As for Sir Raoul Dwight, he no doubt would find the pill hard to swallow, but I trusted that after I had seen Lady Felton she would notify him of her release, and it would pave the way for an easier interview.

I rang the knocker of this most pretentious mansion, which I had oft looked at with interest, and wondered whether I should ever have a nearer acquaintance with it or its occupants. A lackey ushered me into a drawing room of magnificent proportions. Then he retired to see if milady would receive me.

The lady was capricious and kept me waiting. At first my thoughts dwelling as they did upon my encounter with Sir Raoul Dwight and my prospective meeting, were not pleasant ones. I had not yet gotten into the way of thinking of him as a brother; fate had given me a hard rub there, but I should do my level best to extend to him all the good will I was capable of. How he would receive it—well.

The time dragged whilst my thoughts were with him, it seemed as if Lady Felton were keeping me hours, so I turned my attention to more attractive thoughts, sweet Rosemary and her bewitching ways! At last the lackey entered and said I was to follow him. He led me up a flight of stairs I surmised to my lady's bower, and so it proved. The room was dimly lighted with wax candles and the air was heavy with perfume. Lady Felton sat in state at the far end of the boudoir, as became a great lady and great beauty. She held a hand screen before her face.

I smiled and thought, milady fears her beauty will overcome me; no doubt she will gradually unfold its splendor to my profane eyes.

She was small, dainty, and most sumptuously attired in a shimmering gown, reckless of the many yards of lace with which it was covered. This I noticed as I bowed low before her.

I expected but a cold greeting; I got none. So I spoke:

"I have to make a most humble apology to you, Lady Felton, and ask that you will accept of this bit of paper."

I held out to her the paper won from her father.

"Sir, you are late in both your apology and in the yielding up of that paper," she said scornfully.

I like a woman to be low-keyed. There was as much difference in the voices of the two women, the one I loved and the one fortune intended I should marry, as in the scent of two flowers.

The Man Who Loves Words. "Other folks, of course, have their poor pleasures," says Richard Le Gallienne in Harper's, "but for a man who loves words no joy the world can give equals for him the happiness of having achieved a fine passage or a perfect line. When Thackeray struck his fist on the table, as the story goes, when he had finished the scene of Col. Newcome's death, and exclaimed, 'By God, this is genius,' there was no empire he would have accepted in exchange for that moment. We often hear that your true artist is never satisfied with his work. His ideal escapes him, the words seem poor and lifeless, etc., compared with the dream. Whoever started that story knew very little about the literary temperament or he would have known that—the words are the dream. The dream does not exist even as a dream, or only very imperfectly, till it is set down in words. Yes, the words are the dream."

CHAPTER XV.

Lady Felton.

that was ever my mistress' way. "You come in grand state, sir," she said.

"Could I come to see you in state too grand?" I inquired.

"Why not come in cap and bells?" she asked.

"That part would not suit my complexion," I retorted with a shrug.

Her eyes twinkled, and I saw the dimples play hide and seek about her mouth.

"I like not bawling in front of the house," she demurred. Evidently the window facing the street had not been without its occupant.

"I beg your pardon for that," said I. "The boy will out sometimes in spite of me."

I seated myself beside her on the couch, saying, "With your permission?"

"Mistress Gwyn informs me that you have in your keeping a slip of paper that belongs to me," I said.

"And if I say yes?" she questioned.

"I would request it of you," I replied.

"Ah! you would make use of it to force the lady?" she asked jealously.

"Not so," I answered quickly. "I would present it to her with my best wishes, and advise her to give it and herself at the same time to 'Cousin Raoul.'"

I smiled as I mimicked the lady of my heart.

She queried softly: "You give her to him? Do you not know she is an heiress, besides being the toast of London? And that little paper won from her fortune would hold good?"

"I know all that and yet I say, may I be happy," I went on. "It seems I must settle a difficult question for him. He hangs with equal amorosness over two roses undecided which one to pluck, poor fellow!" I let a little sarcasm ring in my voice.

"Now I am not so constructed. I know my own sweet rose? She has thorns! I have felt them! But what care I as she give herself into my keeping, she may prick my heart's blood and it please my lady," I looked with de-

I bent over her hand and kissed it although her ruby lips were so near. I was sorely tempted, but I overcame myself and hurried from her presence.

I walked down the street which separated the fronts of the two estates; Lady Dwight's and Lord Felton's. A narrow alley divided the kitchen gardens in the rear. A few houses faced the intervening streets. It had been dark when I entered the Bow street mansion, it was darker now. My linkman, who rejoiced in the symphonic name of Pat, walked ahead. I hugged the wall and kept my eyes open.

We met a dandy coming from or going to some grand function he was so gorgeously attired and bewigged. His servant accompanied him lighting the way. The usual tussle took place between the men as soon as they met, each trying to jostle the other from the wall. If the fellows were quarrelsome their masters were not less so. The top came at me with his sword. He was quick, but I was quicker, and ere I had parried his two thrusts I sent his sword spinning.

When he felt it leave his hand much against his wish, he lashed forward to regain it, uneffectually, however. In doing so, he slipped upon the slimy street, and came cheek by jowl to an undesired acquaintance with it. Pale blue satin with much suture on knee and sleeve was much soiled on knee and sleeve as he lay there, a pleasant sight to contemplate, nor was the derisive hissing of the victorious linkman, a pleasant sound to hear.

The man's impotency overpowered him, and he burst out swearing like a buccaneer; swearing alike at his servant and at me.

From the voice I recognized, "Cousin Raoul." Never again "Cousin Raoul," but brother Raoul, I thought bitterly. There was nothing in my possession I would not have parted with cheerfully at that moment not Fashions in New York.

The new waist admits of an endless variety of trimming, but no amount of ornament can conceal a single false line. The lining must be correctly cut and boned and fitted to perfection. The material may be put on either severely plain or softly draped. The simple surplice effects adapt themselves readily to the 1905 bodice, and by studied draping they can be made becoming to the full figure as well as to the slender one.

Sleeves continue full at the top. The shirring down the center or along the inner seam is varied by gathering, cording or smocking or by the newest device to secure the butterfly effect. This is a series of little tucks two inches long, and taken crosswise in the center of the upper sleeve, much like the rungs of a ladder. Ruffles and puffs of lingerie, falling over the lower arm, add a graceful finish.

Very dainty and pretty are the little tuckers and chemisettes worn with the open throated surplice and draped bodice.

The demand for a graceful spring at the hip-line has revived the circular and umbrella skirts, modified to meet the present fashion for exaggerated fullness about the feet. Most of them are plain at the top, but plaits, tiny tucks and gauging in front and above the hips are used for thin women.

Separate coats of linen are exceedingly smart.—From The Delineator.

Summer Headgear.

Several of the summer hats look as if they might have been fashioned for Marie Antoinette when she walked about the gardens of the little Trianon and visited her Swiss dairy. One shape that suggests the period in which this fair woman set the modes of France is almost crownless. About the top is a wreath of fine pink flowers, the hat set in a very high band, which is trimmed with a sash-like bow of shaded pink and blue silk and a bunch of pink roses. Hats are twisted, bent into every conceivable shape, and frills, flowers, velvet and ribbon in as many different colors are found composing one hat. Blue in a steady-blue is very fashionable, and the shaded hats are extremely lovely. One worn the other night at a dinner given in a restaurant was quite large and of deep rose chip bound with a deeper rose velvet. The feathers, of which there were several, falling over the back, shaded variously from light pink to American beauty crimson. In the same assemblage was seen a turban of jet, cup-shaped, with a long, dull, light blue plume at the left side.—Chicago Tribune.

Taffeta Frocks for Tots.

Taffeta seems to find its chief favor this season for children's dresses. In black and in colors for street and for house these frocks are made for children from 8 to 18 years old.

Crimson will be one of the favorite colors and all shades of brown and blue will be popular.

This is the regular dressed taffeta. The different weaves of soft taffeta will still be used for gorgeous gowns. They are too expensive for everyday garments.

Gown May Be "Smartened."

Another smart touch for the woman who is tired of her early spring cloth skirt and jacket is to make a set of deep turnover collar and cuffs of butchers' linen to wear on her coat. These sets may be of pure white linen or of colonial buff. The collar is shawl-shaped, rolls well down over the bust, and is braided or embroidered at the edge. The cuffs are deep and round and finished, of course, like the collar, with braid or embroidery.

For the Street.

Gown of ruby-red cloth. The bell-shaped tunic skirt is finished at the bottom with a wide band. The fitted jacket has a double basque at the waist, which forms a giraffe. The front, which may be turned back to form revers, are faced with white silk, bordered with a narrow black embroidery. The collar and cuffs are of black velvet. The sleeves are full at the shoulder and shirred below or the inside seam in mousquetaire effect. The waist coat is of black and white taffeta.

Popularity of Taffeta.

Ever since fashion decreed that light-weight stuffs should be modish, fabrics that could be shirred and draped and tucked, manufacturers the world over have been working to turn heavy fabrics into light, stiff materials into supple, without losing the characteristics of each material.

Nobody thought it could be done with taffeta, yet soft finish taffeta has been achieved, and has leaped into popularity with a single bound.

Among the spring suits none are prettier than those in which taffeta plays an important part. Volle skirts—perhaps one of the new little checked voiles, or one that is plain—are trimmed with taffeta just the "least touch of a shade" darker in color, and the jacket—a rather short, jaunty little affair—is of the taffeta, tucked in the prettiest of ways.

For Evening Wear.

For young girls who dress their hair low a pretty fancy for evening is a classic fillet or the more girlish Juliet net. The fillet now in favor shows a very fine gold chain, plain or studded with diminutive gems, drawn across the front of the hair, which should be parted in the center and rolled simply above the ears. The Juliet net covers the crown of the head between the low-dressed pompadour and the knot on the neck. It looks not unlike a spider web of fine gold or silver, and wherever the chains cross there is set a small jewel, such as pearl, rhinestone, turquoise, emerald, etc. Barrettes are used only when the hair is dressed high.

Complete and Catchy.

This costume is of blue cloth. The

For The Linen Frocks.

A sheer lingerie blouse adds a contrasting note of piquancy and daintiness to a linen frock and the general effect is better than that of many more elaborate but less knowing costumes.

Short-sleeved boleros are features of other linen frocks and these, too, may be severely tailored, but are more often trimmed with embroidery and have fanciful short slashed sleeves showing the sheer sleeve of the blouse worn under the coat. The embroidery collar and cuffs bordered with stitched linen bands were an excellent trimming idea for such a coat.

Boot Laces.

For walking boots, the best lace is of mohair, and it comes in two widths, an eighth of an inch and a half an inch. It takes more pains to use the wider laces, and the girl who must dress in haste should give the preference to the narrower.

A simple device for fastening laces at the top is to draw the loops the same length as the ends and then knot them tightly.

Quaint Silks Are Here.

The quaintest of silks are back-checked and flowered and pin-striped—but in the softest, most "chiffony" of qualities, and with curious distinctions of weave and design. Some of them have the changeable effects so soft, in some cases, as to be subtle to lose the actual sense of an extra color, and instead to give nothing but a light and a life to the silk.

The Dressing Table.

An invaluable help to a woman in dressing her hair is the very short invisible hair pin. These she has on her dressing table in large numbers, for they disappear with amazing rapidity. They are used to supplement the combs, and come in two styles, black and gold. The gold should be used only by the girl who has pure blonde or golden hair.

The Button Craze.

Parisian women are having coins set as buttons set for their dressy blouses. Old dices, some of them cast for famous occasions, are used, and the fresh new coins obtained from these relics of past are most effective. Four in a set are sufficient, and although the coins are different, those of about the same size are chosen.

Gowns Done in White.

White pongee and white taffeta are made up this year for reception and calling gowns. Made with some sort of fancy blouse jacket (complete in itself and yet to be worn over a lace waist if desired) the skirt with bands of braid or rows of lace entre-deux, the gown is dainty and attractive.

Peanut Butter.

Pound or grind shelled and skinned and roasted peanuts to a powder. Add half as much butter as you have peanut powder and rub to a smooth paste. Add a little salt and spread on thin slices of crustless bread.

GREAT STRIKE CHECKS TRADE

Business in the Aggregate, However, Continues to Show Increase.

GRAIN RECEIPTS NOT SO LARGE

Spring Work on the Farms Is Held Responsible for the Decrease in Shipments to Market From First Hands.

Chicago dispatch: The weekly review of trade, published by R. G. Dun & Co., says:

"Dealings in leading retail lines suffered from the extension of the teamsters' strike, but the aggregate volume of trade has maintained increasing proportions. The general movement of commodities gained further momentum, and in both production and new demands the developments impart strength to business.

"Railroad freight is more largely made up of staple merchandise, factory products and raw material, and further activity is seen in lake traffic, mine and forest output furnishing large tonnage. Spring work on the farms is responsible for lessened marketing of grain, yet the receipts exceeded those of the corresponding week last year by fully 36 per cent and the shipments from this port almost doubled.

Breaking of Wheat Corner.

"Supplies of primary foodstuffs have been ample for requirements, and with the winding up of recent disastrous speculation in wheat market operations are now controlled by normal conditions. The severe decline stimulated fresh vigor in flour transactions for both domestic and foreign consumption.

"Agricultural advices affirm beneficial effect of the late rainfall upon growing crops. Spring seeding covers a greater acreage than last year, and reports from the ranges are good as to pasturage and stock.

"Car builders booked additional contracts for fall deliveries, structural material orders were largely augmented and factory needs expanded in the metals and wood. Lumber receipts were 58,042,000 feet, against 29,744,000 feet a year ago, and dealings at the yards were unusually urgent for building uses.

Hides and Leather Active.

Receipts of hides aggregated 7,131,619 pounds, against 7,421,630 pounds last week and 2,621,802 pounds a year ago. The market remained steady in dealings and values. Heavy shipments have been made to large leather interests and the shoe factories and other leather consumers have obtained fair orders for fall goods.

"Grain receipts were 3,280,253 bushels, against 3,320,721 bushels last week and 2,359,933 bushels a year ago. The shipments aggregated 3,203,514 bushels, against 1,647,418 bushels.

"Receipts of live stock were 317,187 head, compared with 320,477 head last week and 285,261 head a year ago, and the demand was insufficient to maintain prices. Compared with the closings a week ago declines are seen in wheat 22 cents a bushel, corn 1 1/2 cents, oats 1 cent, pork 45 cents, choice hogs 5 cents, hogs 10 cents and sheep 35 cents.

The board recommends formal acceptance of the offer by the city of Boston.

DISEASED CATTLE ARE SLAIN

Herd on Wisconsin Farm Afflicted with Tuberculosis Ordered Killed.

Beloit, Wis., dispatch: Thirty or forty high-grade cows on the W. B. Strong farm near Beloit are affected with tuberculosis and have been ordered killed by State Veterinarian Roberts. The milk from the herd of seventy-five or eighty of the cows has been peddled about town and the discovery has created consternation among the dairy and stock men of the community. There are rumors that the state veterinary department is watching other sick cattle.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Best.

"I have been using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and want to say it is the best cough medicine I have ever taken," says George L. Chubb, a merchant of Harlan, Mich. There is no question about its being the best, as it will cure a cough or cold in less time than any other treatment. It should always be kept in the house ready for instant use, for a cold can be cured in much less time when promptly treated. For sale by T. E. Slattery.

Why Suffer from Rheumatism?

Why suffer from rheumatism when one application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm will relieve the pain? The quick relief which this liniment affords makes rest and sleep possible, and that alone is worth many times the cost. Many who have used it hoping only for a short relief from suffering have been happily surprised to find that after awhile the relief became permanent. Mrs. V. H. Leggett, of Yum Yum, Tennessee, U. S. A., writes: "I am a great sufferer from rheumatism, all over from head to foot, and Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the only thing that will relieve the pain." For sale by T. E. Slattery.
