Festival Plans

Despite the usual coordination problems, the many events planned by individual community groups and individuals for this year's Maxinkuckee Festival are shaping up admirably well.

From information gathered at several separate meetings during the past week and a half, the following sequence of events will comprise the annual Culver weekend.

SKI SHOW

On Friday, July 27th, a Ski Show will be presented near the city beach starting at approximately 5:30 p.m. The later hour will allow the water to calm and give families time to get to the beach after work. The Culver Lions Club is co-sponsoring this event.

Bob Babcock is coordinating the water ski program this year, and he has promised a show composed of possibly 15 acts, an increase over the 8 to 9 acts seen last year. This year's Ski Show will include individual and group skiing, barefoot skiing, a kite act, and several expert jumpers. Mr. Babcock mentioned that he expected a performer to arrive from Indianapolis and another from Georgia to please the local crowd.

Problems to be worked out for the Ski Show include obtaining final permission from the Academy to use their new professional ski jump, locating tow boats in proper repair, and obtaining the permit from the State Department of Natural Resources.

Mr. Norm R. Baker, of Culver, who is employed as the area agent for the Standard Oil Company, has agreed to see that proper fuels are available without charge to the participants in the Ski Show.

Individuals interested in skiing in the show are urged to contact Bob Babcock as soon as possible, by telephone at 842-3372.

Hayes Resigns

John R. Hayes, former Principal at the Culver Community high school, resigned his position on June 30th to assume duties with the Shelbyville Central Schools, in Shelbyville, Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, and their son, Ricky, moved to Shelbyville late in June so that Mr. Hayes could assume his duties on July 2nd.

Hayes will have the title of Assistant Superintendent of Schools. In this capacity, he will be responsible in the areas of personnel, instructional budget, federal programs, and labor negotiation.

MISS MAXINKUCKEE BEAUTY CONTEST

Following the Ski Show, the annual contest for the title of Miss Maxinkuckee will begin. The preliminary events will be held Friday evening at the high school auditorium, with the crowning to be held at the Town pier on Saturday night.

The Beauty Contest will be sponsored by the Culver Chamber of Commerce, with assistance from other groups. By unanimous motion at their regular meeting last Wednesday, the Culver Lions will share in paying for the trophies for this event. Names of other sponsor groups were not available at press time, but there is no doubt that there are groups other than the Culver Lions who will help share the overhead of this community event.

CORN ROAST

At 5:00 p.m. on Saturday afternoon, July 28th, the Culver Lions Club will begin their 25th Annual Corn Roast at the Culver City Park. The all-you-can-eat event will cost $2.00 for adults and $1.25 for children, and will run to approximately 8:00 p.m.

The Lions have ordered 500 dozen ears of corn this year for the event, which is one of the ways money is raised for their many civic projects.

The Corn Roast is a Culver tradition that started in 1948 when the first one was organized by Louis Welch, past president of the Club.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CARNIVAL

After some indecision on the part of the sponsors, the Citizen has learned that the Culver-Union Township Fire Department will again sponsor its annual Carnival.

This popular attraction will begin at 7:00 p.m. Saturday at the Fire Station, and will run until everyone goes home. This program will feature many games for the entire family.

STREET DANCE

The weekend festivities will conclude with a street dance on Saturday night, in the form of a "Barefoot Ball." After the Lions' Corn Roast, Lakeshore drive will be blocked off by the fire station for the dance. In addition to the good music and open air fun, there will be prizes awarded for the best decorated toes.

DETAILED SCHEDULE

The next issue of the Citizen will contain a complete schedule of the Maxinkuckee Festival. Corrections or additions should be forwarded to the Citizen office before Monday Noon, July 23rd.

Beginning with this issue of July 19th, most area residents will have an opportunity to see the change in quality and expanded coverage of local news without charge. Regular subscribers will receive their usual copies in their Thursday mail.

This schedule of special issues should be of interest to both readers and advertisers, because the size of the printing will be expanded during this period.

On July 26th, a special issue will detail the activities and values available in Culver for the Sidewalk Days and the Maxinkuckee Festival. For this issue, 3,000 copies will be printed and distributed.

On August 2nd, a special issue will preview the Marshall County Fair, which begins this year on August 6th. The issue will contain maps of the Fair and a full schedule. Because the Citizen will have a display at the Fair, a printing of 3,000 copies is planned for this week, so that free copies will be available to all Fair visitors. Coverage of the Miss Maxinkuckee contest will also be included in this issue.

On August 9th, the issue will be devoted to Fair winners, and also local Culver news which will include the end of the regular summer session at the Culver Military Academy. Because this issue will be distributed throughout the Culver community and also to the heavy final weekend crowd at the County Fair, a printing of 4,000 copies is planned.

Reeds Attend Convention

Mr. and Mrs. Ora Reed of Culver attended the 55th Department Convention of the Indiana American Legion in Evansville last weekend.

The Reeds are active in local American Legion Post 103 in Culver. Mr. Reed is 3rd District Commander, and is the executive responsible for Marshall, Elkhart, St. Joseph, and LaPorte Counties. He is also a member of the Executive Board of the Indiana American Legion.

The convention was held this year in Evansville, the fifth time that city has seen a gathering of this type. The American Legion has come a long way since the first gathering there in 1924. During that convention, the 11 District Commanders were asked to ride balky mules. That experiment fizzled—either the mules refused to budge or the District Commanders refused to ride. This year the 11 Commanders, including Ora Reed, marched with their Districts on Saturday afternoon, July 14, in a "Salute to Southern Indiana," the convention theme for this year.

Keynote speaker for the convention was Past National Commander William E. Galbraith of Beemer, Nebraska. Galbraith, after serving as National Commander, was an undersecretary of Agriculture in President Nixon's first term. National Vice Commander Donald L. Gruenbaum of Marysville, Ohio, addressed the convention on Sunday morning. National Adjutant William F. Hauck, a native of Garrett, Indiana, also spoke to the convention this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed returned to Culver early Monday.

MIRACLE RECOVERY?

No, this is not a miracle recovery. It's just a visual demonstration that Joe Anderlohr, mistakenly reported as having a broken leg in last week's issue, only suffered a sprain and is again on his feet.

Lions Meet

At its regular meeting last Wednesday, July 11th, the Lions Club devoted its meeting primarily to consideration of its plans for the upcoming Maxinkuckee Festival.

Before that discussion, however, several other matters were considered by the members in attendance. The President, Wayne Kline, discussed the results of the recently concluded broom sale.

Announcing the results of the Lions' International Millionth Member project, award banners and cards were given to two local members who had contributed to the national membership drive by sponsoring new members. Receiving the awards were Earl R. Eckman and Homer Kemple.

A short discussion was also had on maintenance efforts by members of the Culver Lions at the Culver City Park. Many benches in disrepair have been fixed and painted by the members in recent weeks, and the large slide is presently being repaired. Some concern was expressed by the membership over the holes in the beach fence, which have not been repaired.

Turning to consideration of plans for the Maxinkuckee Festival, the group assigned members to their duties for the 25th annual Corn Roast to be sponsored on Saturday afternoon, July 28th. A list of the members who will work on this project follows these minutes:

The Lions then talked with Mr. Robert Babcock regarding plans for the Ski Show to be held during the Festival, and it was decided that Friday afternoon would be the best time to hold the Show, since Saturday is the date of a state tournament, and many skiers would not be able to participate if the Show were held on Saturday, July 28th.

Norm Baker, the Marshall County agent for the Standard Oil Company, then offered to supply the gasoline for the boats in the Ski Show, an offer that was warmly received by all, since this item was one of the main expenses of the first Ski Show last year.

Jesse Overmyer then mentioned that he had been contacted about a contribution by the Lions Club towards the expense of trophies for the Miss Maxinkuckee Contest. After some discussion and parliamentary maneuvering, the group voted to participate in providing funds for the trophies with other Culver civic groups, for this year's Festival.

Helpers for this year's Corn Roast are as follows:

FREE INFO NUMBER FOR CULVER VETERANS

As of July 9th, the Indiana Veterans Administration has instituted a special telephone service to assist area veterans and their beneficiaries calling for information and assistance.

By dialing a special number, individuals can talk with the Indianapolis Regional VA office on a WATS (Wide Area Telephone Service) line.

BE IN THE "IN" CROWD OF BAKERS

Add a new section to your home baking files entitled—Nutritious Breads, and begin by trying this nutritious-packed yeast bread, Wheat Germ Yogurt Braid. There are many reasons why Wheat Germ Yogurt Braid would be a great first in your new section. Aside from its exciting braided design, it also contains more nutrients than most breads because non-fat dry milk solids, yogurt, honey and wheat germ are added. Since it is better to obtain nutrients the natural way by our food intake, it is important to eat the most nutritious breads and other food groups daily.

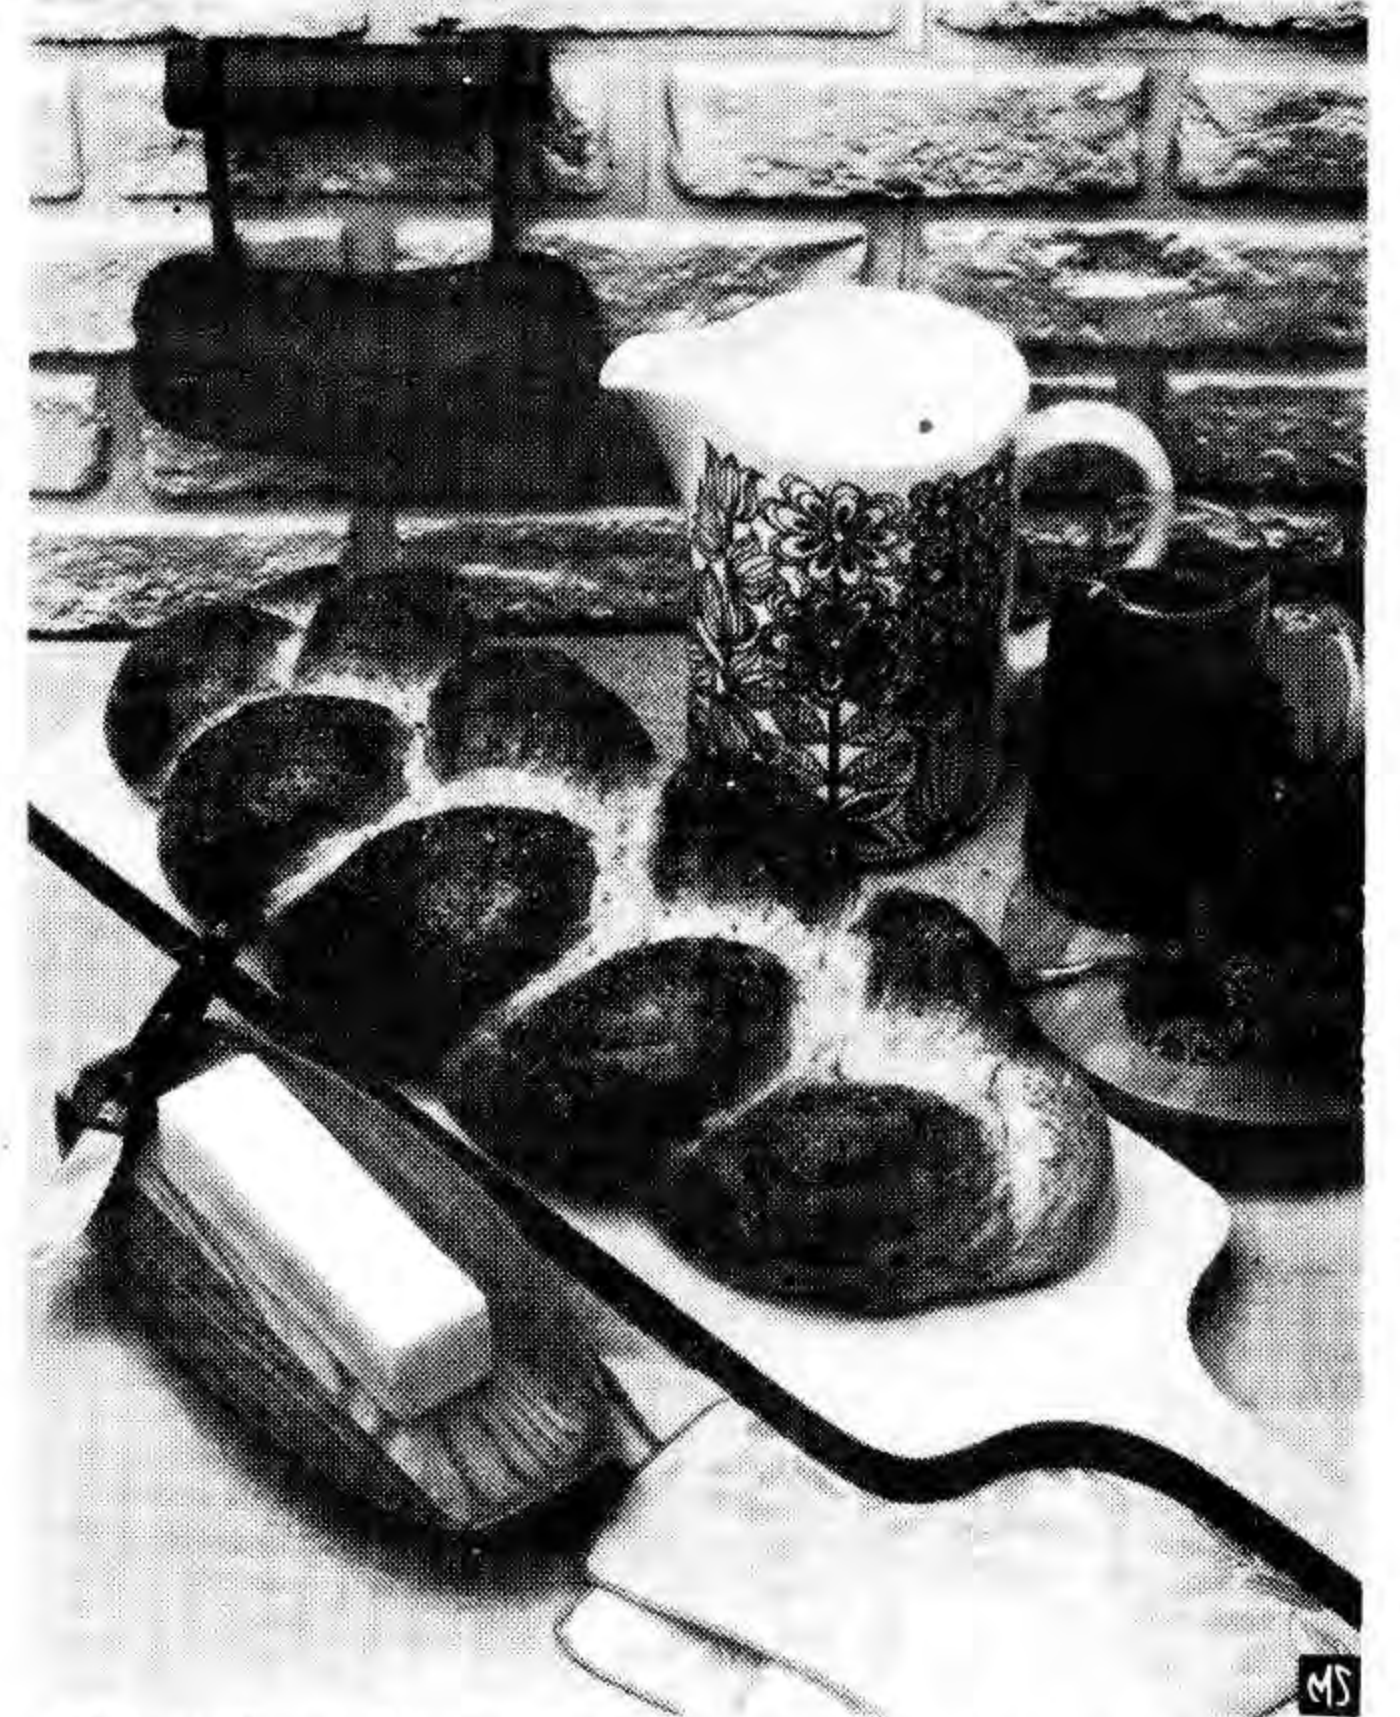

This loaf would be a great bread to begin the day. With this nutritious start towards a better diet, you may find that you and your new recipe section will be more fit.

WHEAT GERM YOGURT BRAID

- 8 to 9 cups unsifted flour
- 3/4 cup instant nonfat dry milk solids
- 5 teaspoons salt
- 1 package Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast
- 2-3/4 cups water
- 1 cup yogurt
- 1/4 cup honey
- 2 tablespoons Fleischmann's Margarine
- 1 cup wheat germ
- 1 egg, beaten
- Wheat germ

In a large bowl thoroughly mix 3-1/2 cups flour, dry milk solids, salt and undissolved Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast.

Combine water, yogurt, honey and Fleischmann's Margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are very warm (120°F-130°F).

Wheat Germ Yogurt Braid, a hearty yeast-raised bread, is made by the convenient Rapidmix Method. Yogurt, wheat germ, honey and nonfat dry milk add extra nutrients as well as flavor.

Margarine does not need to melt. Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add 1 cup flour. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in 1 cup wheat germ and enough additional flour to make a stiff dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Punch dough down; divide in half. Divide each half into 3 equal pieces. Shape each into a 16-inch rope. Braid 3 ropes together; pinch ends to seal. Place on greased baking sheet. Repeat with remaining ropes. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Brush with beaten egg and sprinkle with wheat germ. Bake at 350°F, for 35 minutes, or until done. Remove from baking sheets and cool on wire racks. Makes 2 loaves.

COL. MOORE ANNOUNCES LEGISLATION

Col. Elzie Kemp Moore, of Culver, has announced the passage of the National Cemetary Act of 1973 by Congress in its current session. The Act will materially improve the burial benefits of United States veterans.

Col. Moore is Service Officer of the W.A. Fleet Post of the American Legion, and also the Marshall County representative of the Senate Veteran's Affairs Committee. Indiana Senator Vance Hartke is the Chairman of that committee.

As described by Col. Moore, the legislation transfers the responsibility for administration of most National Cemeteries from the Department of the Army to the Veterans Administration. Exempted are the cemeteries at Arlington and the service academies.

The Act also allows a plot allowance of $150 in addition to the present allowance for funeral expenses of $250 when the veteran is not buried in a national or other Federal cemetery.

Other provisions offer markers for unmarked graves in national cemeteries or post cemeteries, a death benefit of $800 for veterans who die of service-connected disabilities, and provide for the burial of an unknown Viet Nam soldier in the Arlington National Cemetery.

The new provisions will become effective on or about September 1, 1973.

Weekend Traveler

Historic Amish Acres in Nappanee, Indiana, will present the 11th Annual Pletcher Village Art Festival, Thursday through Sunday, August 9-12, 9 till dusk daily.

The four day weekend was originated by the Pletcher Furniture Village in Nappanee as a local sidewalk art exhibit. The event expanded each year and has now grown into a full fledged festival of art, entertainment, food, and attractions for the whole family. This is the fourth year the festival has been held at the farm, an 80 acre tourist attraction developed around a restored Amish house and farm, which now includes a family style restaurant, gift shop, meat and cheese shop, and bakery.

The festival will take place in the tree lined orchard and clover fields surrounding the Greeting Barn, and revolves around the art competition and the Art and Craft Marketplace.

Application packets have been mailed to more than 2,000 midwestern artists; other interested artists and craftsmen are invited to write for entry information.

Mr. Harold Zisla, professor of art at Indiana University South Bend, and Mr. Douglas Kinsey, assistant professor of art at the University of Notre Dame, have been selected to jury this year's competition. Mr. Zisla, former head of the South Bend Art Center, judged the first competition in the Village Art Festival eight years ago; Mr. Kinsey received his M.F.A. degree from the University of Minnesota.

The judges will present over 80 cash awards in adult, student, and children's divisions, totaling nearly $1,000.00 to artists in the competition, featuring a $200 Best of Show purchase prize. Richard Pletcher, originator and director of the festival, stated that nearly 1,000 paintings are expected this year, representing the work of over 300 artists.

Nearly 200 artists and craftsmen are expected to establish booths offering their wares and works for sale in a market atmosphere, many of the most popular craftsmen are returning for their ninth year including several portrait painters, glass blowers, leather craftsmen, doll makers, silhouette cutters, and sculptures. The entire Marketplace shopping area will be lighted for night shopping and sun umbrellas and tents will be available for artists to rent. For the first time awards will be presented to marketplace participants as chosen by the Festival visitors. A $50 cash award goes to the winning booth, and an equal merchandise certificate will be presented to a winning voter by drawing.

Many attractions which have made the Village Art Festival widely popular are again planned, and music and entertainment will fill the summer air. Summer playhouses with presentations scattered throughout the weekend, will again please Festival visitors.

The famous Stevens Puppets will periodically present the classic Punch and Judy for the young people. After a year's absence the Michiana Jazz Band will return to the festival stage entertaining the young at heart with their broad spectrum of music. Their performance is being provided by the music performers Trust Funds of the American Federation of Musicians.

The Elkhart Sports Car Club will present its fifth Village Art Festival rally. This year the club seeks 200 cars from the midwest to participate. As in the past, two classes—novice and expert—make the rally open to everyone.

The Heart City Harmonizers, a chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet singing in America will present Chorus Concerts each evening, and afternoon strolling quartets will add gaiety to the festival scene.

Invited back for their 9th year is the Star Eight Square Dance Club of Mishawaka. The popular group will be performing on the outdoor deck of Amish Acres Greeting Barn. Recently booked entertainment includes a folk rock team, country and western group, and bluegrass string band.

Expanded food facilities are again planned to accommodate the large crowd. Amish Acres air-conditioned restaurant will be serving family style meals from 11 till 9 each day of the Festival.

In addition to the restaurant, visitors will be able to satisfy their appetite with smoked sausage and sauerkraut, charcoaled chicken, apple cider, popcorn from an antique wagon, home style fudge, roasting ears, shoo fly pie, and the seven sweets and seven sours of the traditional Dutch table.

The Country Store in the stone foundation of Amish Acres Greeting Barn will be the center for the festival gifts and strolling ladies fashion House Across the Street, Pletchers dress shop subsidiary.

Four additional buildings in various stages of completion will be available to visitors for the first time this year. A second log house and a second reconstructed bank barn, eventually housing an ice cream soda parlor and new gift shop, will be used during festival time.

In the midst of all the festival activities Amish Acres will be close at hand. The historic restoration provides a living example of the simple farm life of the old order Amish family.

The Amish are descendents of a sect of Swiss Brethren founded by Jacob Ammann in the 17th century. Invited to America by William Penn to escape religious persecution, the Amish have prospered in their new land. Religious beliefs and customs prevent them from using automobiles, television sets, electricity, central heat and plumbing. Today the Amish way of life, their picturesque dress, folk customs, and religious beliefs, make them a source of historical and social interest.

Festival visitors will have the opportunity to visit this authentic 12 room house and farm. Tour guides describe and demonstrate the pioneer skills of food drying, brick oven baking, meat smoking, and apple butter cooking, and blacksmithing in the restored Chauncy Thomas blacksmith shop recently relocated at Amish Acres.

Black Amish buggy rides will again be given down Amish Acres lane and through the woods.

CULVER STUDENTS AT CHORAL CLINIC

Two Culver students were among the 116 musically talented high school students who were accepted for and participated in the recent Summer Choral Music Clinic at the Indiana University School of Music in Bloomington.

Attending were Elizabeth Pinder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pinder, Culver, and also Diane Lee Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Thomas, Culver.

The Choral Clinic and the associated Instrumental Clinic are held on the Bloomington campus each summer to provide qualifying students with a preview of university-level musical instruction and participation. Participants were members of large and small ensembles, theory classes, and individualized techniques classes. Prof. Allan Ross of the I.U. faculty led the Choral Clinic.

PRICE FREEZE HURTING?

The Indiana State Chamber of Commerce has asked Hoosiers to sound the alarm on any harmful effects of the 60-day price freeze announced June 13 by President Nixon.

The State Chamber asked more than 300 local chambers of commerce and statewide trade associations to pinpoint local impact of the "Phase 3 1/2" freeze on producers and consumers. The aim is to expose distortions in the economy and thus help lead to corrective action.

Local chamber and trade association executives were requested to send any such information to a collection point in Washington established by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The National Chamber has set up a nationwide reporting system under the title of Price Freeze Impact Data Exchange. The goal is to receive and transmit data to the Cost of Living Council, which in turn can use such information to assist the shaping of administration policies.

"Corrective action can be taken to help adversely affected businesses and consumers," said John V. Barnett, State Chamber executive vice president. "But a reporting system is needed to gather and transmit the needed information."

The questions to which local answers are needed are as follows:

1. Which companies have curtailed, altered or terminated production because of the price freeze?
2. What marketing distortions have resulted from the price freeze, such as postponement of shipments, cancellation of orders, rationing, or special allocations to certain customers?
3. What distortions have been created in agricultural output?
4. What shortages of raw materials, foodstuffs or manufactured goods are attributable to the freeze?
5. Are any other specific distortions anticipated if the price freeze continues until the 60-day deadline?

LOCAL OPTION TAX AFFECTS CULVER RESIDENTS

Culver residents who are employed in Marshall or other counties will have noticed yet another deduction from their paychecks beginning with July 1st checks. The deduction is the result of the adoption by the Marshall County Council of a 1 percent local option tax, as allowed by the tax reorganization plan passed in the 1973 Indiana Legislative session.

More than $20-million in County Adjusted Gross Income Tax will be collected by the State Department of Revenue during the next twelve months and distributed to the counties adopting the optional withholding tax, based upon revenue estimates available to the State Department of Revenue.

Revenue Commissioner Donald H. Clark is certifying the amounts which will be distributed during 1974 to the 31 Indiana counties which have adopted the tax which became effective July 1, 1973.

Estimates of certified distributions for those counties which adopted a local option tax to become effective January 1, 1974 will be made as soon as possible after the Department receives notification of such action, Commissioner Clark added. County councils had until July 1, 1973 to vote to adopt a local option tax to become effective January 1, 1974. Next year's distribution to those counties adopting the local option tax beginning January 1, 1974, will be based upon six months' collections.

The certified distribution represents an estimate of the amount of local option tax which the State Revenue Department will collect from July 1, 1973 until June 30, 1974 which will be deposited in the County Adjusted Gross Income Tax Fund. Distribution from the fund to the counties will be made in two equal installments, in May and November 1974.

The counties, their local option tax rates, and 1974 certified distribution are as follows:

Under Public Law 50 of the 1973 Indiana General Assembly, County Auditors in adopting counties must determine by August 1, 1973 the amount of their respective county's distribution which will be set aside and allocated among the taxing units as property tax replacement funds and the amount which will go to the participating taxing units as "Certified Shares."

The law provides the percentages of the distribution which must be set aside for property tax replacement credits, depending upon the rate of tax adopted and the number of years the tax has been distributed.

For the first year of local option distribution the percentages which must be set aside for property tax replacement credits are 50 percent for counties with a 1/2 percent rate, 66 2-3 percent for counties with a 3/4 percent rate, and 75 percent for counties with a 1 percent rate.

CHURCH CHANGES

ST. LOUIS—The United Church of Christ last month became the first major denomination to remove sexist language from its Constitution and By-laws.

The 728 delegates to the United Church Ninth General Synod, biennial policy-making meeting of the denomination, voted to change "chairman" to "chairperson" and "he" to "he or she" throughout the 38-page document.

Although there are 300 ordained women in the United Church, more than in any other denomination, the Constitution now refers only to the minister and "his academic preparation," "his local church," "his qualifications" and "his residence." Job descriptions for all national church officers speak of "his office" and "his duties."

The revised Constitution will also eliminate the generic use of "man" and "brethren." The preamble used to read, "The United Church of Christ acknowledges as its sole Head, Jesus Christ, the son of God and the Saviour of men. It acknowledges as brethren in Christ all who share in this confession."

The preamble as amended states, "The United Church of Christ acknowledges as its sole Head, Jesus Christ, son of God and Saviour. It acknowledges as kindred in Christ all who share in this confession."

KNOW YOUR INDIANA LAW

By JOHN J. DILLON
Attorney at Law

(This is a public service article explaining in general terms a provision of Indiana law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their private legal affairs should consult a private attorney.)

"FORE GOLFERS" The time honored cry of "fore" is being heard as spring gives way to summer and the golf courses become abundantly populated by chasers of the small white ball. Many a person has a good laugh driving by a golf course that borders a road and yelling "fore" and watching golfers duck for cover. While this may seem humorous to passersby it has great legal significance to golfers actually playing on the golf course. When a golfer strikes a golf ball with a well directed stroke, the golf ball leaves the club head at approximately 170 miles per hour and if struck by an expert golfer, at speeds up to 200 miles per hour. It is very obvious that the white ball traveling at this speed can become a very dangerous missile. It is also very obvious that if it strikes another golfer, serious injury can result.

While any person who plays golf knows the dangers involved and properly assumes the risk of injury resulting from being struck by a ball, the golfer does not assume that he will be injured because another golfer plays golf improperly. One of the customs, and as a matter of fact requirements, while playing golf is to forewarn a player that he might be struck by a golf ball. Therefore, if a golf ball is heading towards another player it is incumbent upon the person who struck the ball to yell "fore" thereby warning other players of the impending danger. It should also be remembered that it is not a defense that another player assumes the risk of being struck if he is struck outside the playing area or the person who strikes another player does so with recklessness. In other words, if a person standing a few feet away strikes a golf ball, hitting another player, it cannot be said that the other player assumes this type of risk on a golf course. The assumption of risk doctrine cannot be raised unless the incident happened while all the players are playing by the well recognized rules, are in their proper positions on the golf course, and taking care to warn other persons of the danger of being struck by a flying golf ball.

Since accidents on golf courses are inevitable and people are injured you should make certain that you are insured against the liability of injury to persons while playing golf. This is normally covered by the general liability provision of your homeowners policy. You should not, however, assume that you have this coverage but should take out your homeowners policy and read it and check with your insurance agent to make certain that you have the general liability provision in your homeowners to insure you against the liability arising from injury to others in athletic events. You should also ascertain that you have a reasonable amount of coverage providing insurance limits that will cover accidents that can happen on the golf course. Since it is not uncommon for a person to be struck in the head or in the eye by a flying golf ball, this should be considered in discussion with your insurance agent relating to the limits of your general liability. While checking this point with your insurance agent it is also the time to review other provisions of your liability coverage so that you are insured for any accidents which occur other than while driving your automobile which is, of course, covered by your automobile policy.
