THE FAMILY LAWYER

Receiving Stolen Property

Myrtle bought a transistor radio from the "nice young man" who came knocking at her door. He said he was the salesman for a local distributor. But in truth, he was a thief who had stolen a dozen radios from a warehouse the night before.

On these facts, could Myrtle be found guilty of "receiving stolen property"?

Hardly. One key element of guilt is missing: some reason for her to believe the radio was stolen. Generally speaking, it is no crime to buy stolen merchandise with an innocent mind.

However, a buyer's protestations of innocence may not always be convincing. Consider the case of a farmer who bought 24 chickens from a teenager who called at his farmhouse.

In this case, the youth approached the farmhouse furtively by way of a back road. The price he asked was less than one-third of what the farmer was used to paying. And the hour was shortly past midnight.

Although the farmer insisted afterward that he was "totally surprised" to learn the chickens had been stolen, a court chose not to believe him.

Result: he was found guilty of receiving stolen property. The court observed that the sale was made "at an hour unusual for honest transactions."

Of course, the major problem in this area is not the occasional purchaser but the professional "fence" who, by providing a regular outlet for stolen merchandise, encourages the thievery in the first place.

Accordingly, most states impose an extra responsibility on businessmen who regularly buy and sell merchandise to watch out for certain suspicious circumstances. Thus a junk dealer, when offered an unusual bargain, may be required to ask more questions about the merchandise than a one-time buyer.

"The duty of diligent inquiry before purchasing," said one court, "protects the junk dealers who buy in good faith and provides punishment for those who do not."

CULVER GRADS AT MSU

CULVER GRADS CONTINUE TO PLAY LARGE ROLE IN MSU FENCING

Three Culver Military Academy graduates, headed by the great Fred Royce, comprise a full third of Michigan State's starting fencing team.

The Spartan captain for the second straight year, senior Royce receives solid support from No. 1 foilist Jim Scieszka, a junior from Flint, Michigan and No. 3 sabre man, Mike Bradley, a Kirtland, Ohio, freshman.

The 1974 performance of No. 1 sabre artist Royce almost defies description. Starting in every meet except one, Fred compiled an unbelievable 35-4, the best Michigan State individual mark since 1950. The Spartan captain then topped the season off by defeating defending Big Ten sabre champion Al Acker of Illinois for the conference title.

The Douglas, Michigan native also is responsible for one of the most amazing performances in Spartan fencing annals. Earlier in the season, Royce awoke on the morning of a five-team meet with Ohio State, Notre Dame, Cleveland State and Indiana with the flu. Realizing the team needed him, Royce dragged himself out of bed and proceeded to an 8-0 record in the afternoon. More incredibly, he was touched only five times all day!

Although Royce will graduate after this season, MSU coach Charlie Schmitter has Scieszka and Bradley returning to provide a solid nucleus for next year's squad. Scieszka was the team's leading foilist on the season with a 23-14 mark and Bradley came through with a fine first-year record of 21-15.

All three Spartans are the product of Culver fencing mentor Captain M.K. Short.

TRI KAPPAS REPORT ON CLINIC PROGRESS

The March meeting of the Epsilon Nu chapter of Tri Kappa was conducted by the president, Mrs. Donald Davis. Following the opening service committee reports were given.

Mrs. Estey announced that the Blood Pressure Clinic had tabulated over thirty people on March 7th. The chapter appreciates the enthusiastic public response to this project.

It was voted to again sponsor a child to attend Camp Riley this summer. This may be a child from Culver, as it has been for several years, or one from the general area.

The South Bend Chamber Music Society has received a donation of $20.00 and the American Cancer Society $100.00.

A discussion of the Chapter's project, CHRISTMAS IN AUGUST, produced several new ideas and suggestions. Mrs. John Edgell and Mrs. Jerry Wyman are planning new additions to expand the overall "new look" of the Bazaar which will be held in the Epley Auditorium this year.

After the business meeting was concluded the members enjoyed a social hour. Hostess for the meeting was Mrs. Burton Curry assisted by Mrs. Addison Craig and Mrs. Alfred Donnelly.

STREAKER HITS CCHS

It had to happen, folks... Reliable sources reported to the Citizen this week that a lone male "streaked" a showing of a movie at Culver Community High School Tuesday.

Eyewitnesses tell us that the streaker's traveling suit consisted of a white towel wrapped around his head. Eschewing footwear, he preferred to carry his "streakin' sneakers" in hand as he dashed through the CCHS auditorium.

The incident caught most of the audience by surprise, and the goose-pimpled apparition had already departed before spectators fully realized what happened and gave the young hustler a round of applause for his efforts.

After questioning several students who were in attendance, we were unable to find anyone who remembered what the name of the movie was.

Green Thumb Tips

Certain varieties of vegetables are frost-hardy, which allows them to be planted early in the spring as soon as the soil can be worked, and they are usually the first to be harvested — even before some warm-weather crops can be safely planted. Examples of the fastest-growing hardy vegetables to plant early are: radish, turnips, spinach, and loose-leaf lettuce. Slower maturing cool weather vegetables include peas, beets, chard, head lettuce, parsley, broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower and Brussels sprouts.

A number of flowers are frost hardy and can be sown into the garden early as soon as the soil can be worked. These include alyssum, calendula, California poppies, cornflowers, dianthus, gloriosa daisies, gypsophila, hollyhock, larkspur, snapdragons, sweet peas and sweet william. Other popular flowers need starting early indoors in order to get good size transplants after the soil has warmed up. These include petunias, impatiens, dahlias, and salvia.

Quick-growing flowering vines are often needed for growing up trellis or fences. Morning glories are probably the most popular choice for this purpose, and they are available in a bold display of colors including blue, white, scarlet and pink. Other interesting vines are canary creeper (yellow flowers), cardinal climber (red flowers), cypress vine (red and white), moonflowers (white), ornamental gourds (multi-colored fruits), and thumbergia (yellow with black centers).

One of the most common tomato diseases is called blossom end-rot, and is recognized when the end of tomato fruits turn black. Contrary to popular belief, it is not a fungus disease, but is caused by inadequate or uneven watering. Mulching tomato plants to conserve moisture in the soil, and watering during dry spells will normally prevent this disease.

FLOWER OF THE YEAR

When America's leading seedsmen, meeting in Atlanta, Georgia, were asked to name a "Flower of the Year" based on popularity among homeowners across the country, American marigolds won the vote. The picture above shows a container planting on a patio.

One of the most popular flowers in American home gardens is the American (or African) marigold, and when leading seedsmen — meeting at Atlanta, Georgia — voted on naming a "Flower of the Year," the American marigold won the title. It won for several good reasons, apart from its popularity.

First, American marigolds are very easy to grow, and the large, easy-to-handle seeds can be directly sown straight into the garden after danger of frost. Alternatively, the seed can be started indoors for transplanting to get earlier blooms.

Second, the flowers last a long time in the garden starting to bloom in early August and continuing non-stop until hard frost.

Third, they make a spectacular cut flower, growing long stems easy to arrange, and they mix well with other good cut flowers such as celosias and zinnias.

Largest flowered of the American marigolds are the Jubilees, the Crackerjacks and the Climax series — all available in a beautiful mixture of colors, including primrose, yellow, gold and orange.

In India, American marigolds have a religious significance. They are used extensively at weddings, where marigold petals are used for decoration, and newly married couples wear garlands of marigold flowers.

The spicy odor in marigold flowers — while not objectionable to humans — has a definite repellent effect on rabbits and certain insect pests, which is why vegetable gardeners will plant a marigold "hedge" around their gardens. There are marigolds available without odor — notably a deep orange variety called "Hawaii," which is the kind fed to chickens to make their skin look healthy in the supermarket freezer.

PLANT RADISH FOR QUICK RESULTS

Radishes like an early start in the garden because they grow best in cool weather. This variety, called Cherry Belle, was an All-America winner, and will produce crisp red radishes within 22 days of sowing the seed directly into the garden.

One of the quickest vegetables to grow in your garden is radish. Many varieties take less than 30 days to reach good size from seed, and they can be planted straight into the garden as soon as the ground can be worked in the spring, since they resist frost.

For best results radish must be encouraged to grow quickly during the cool conditions of spring in a light, loose soil. They also need plenty of water during dry spells, and a rich fertile soil.

Not all radish are round and red. Some are white, some are half-and-half, and others are shaped like icicles with long tapering roots. It's all a matter of taste as to which to choose for your own garden. Most people prefer to use them raw in salads, but an interesting variation is to steam them in thick slices for 10 minutes and serve with butter. The steaming gives them a milder taste, but they stay crisp and delicious.

Left in the garden, radishes will reach an enormous size, but then they become pithy and unuseable. Recommended varieties are Cherry Belle, an All-America award winner, Champion, Crimson Giant, French Breakfast and Sparkles.

When planting radish it is best not to sow the entire packet in one go, but to make sowings at regular intervals until the weather turns too hot. Radishes also make a good fall crop. Sow seeds 1 in. deep, and thin them to 1 inch apart when they are still small. When planted in straight lines leave 12 inches between rows.

LETTERS

To the People of Culver.

Write to your Congressman, the Postmaster General - both in Washington, D.C. and object to what has and is happening to the postal service in our town.

Do you realize the letters you drop into a box on the corner does not get post marked in Culver? They go to South Bend.

Thus making more jobs available for people of a large city. At the same time the people in our town, that has served us is being cut back more and more.

Will we have another empty store in a year or two.

South Bend Postmaster calls this progress. I say it's unfair to take jobs from one person to give it to another.

We have a good town, and this is only one of the facilities we do not want to do without.

Therefore we must all do our best and be heard where it should be heard.

Don't sit back and think it won't help. You must try - this is your town.

VEGETABLE OF THE YEAR

America's leading seedsmen, meeting at Atlanta, Georgia, voted looseleaf lettuce "Vegetable of the Year." Easy-to-grow and early-to-mature are some reasons for its popularity among homeowners.

When seedsmen meeting at Atlanta, Georgia, were asked to name a "Vegetable of the Year," the voting was almost equally divided between Swiss chard and looseleaf lettuce, but looseleaf lettuce finally gained the vote, taking the title away from the hybrid tomato, which won the previous year.

The seedsmen decided on looseleaf lettuce for three main reasons:

1—It's so easy to grow even a beginner gardener can expect good success with it. The seeds can be direct sown straight into the garden, and the mature lettuce leaves will be ready to pick in just 50 days.

2—Heads of lettuce in the store are never cheap, yet a 35c packet will produce hundreds of plants if a gardener has the space for them all—and this will help him save substantially on food bills.

3—No garden should be without lettuce—even a flower garden, since the frilly-leaved looseleaf kinds can be planted among flowers to look decorative.

A seed display, seed catalog or garden center will offer a wide assortment of looseleaf lettuce to choose from, and selection is purely a matter of personal taste. Some reliable varieties include Black Seeded Simpson, an old-fashioned kind that shows no sign of diminishing in popularity, and Oak Leaf, which is a useful variety because it withstands heat better than most other varieties of lettuce. Also, you can pick the outer leaves of several plants, and more inner leaves will grow to take their place. Another interesting variety is Ruby, an All-America winner. It is tinged red on the outer edges, while the inner part of the leaves is a bright green.

Sow all varieties of lettuce in early spring. They tolerate light frosts and do best in cool weather. Plant again in mid-summer for another crop in the fall.

Byfield's Bands Take Firsts

CONTINUES PAST RECORD

The Culver Junior and Middle Bands, under the baton of Mr. Charles Byfield, scored another major success last weekend as both groups returned from the regional band competition with First Division ratings.

Many of the other bands which actually failed to receive the highest rating, and several Third Division ratings were handed down by the group of judges who listened to and graded the competitors.

This year's success continues the almost perfect string of "Firsts" earned by bands under the direction of Mr. Byfield over the past several years.

A former official of a major musical instrument manufacturer has termed this consistent production of high quality bands "quite remarkable," and "something Culver parents and the school administration should remember with pride."

The three judges who rated each organization also had many good things to say about the Culver bands, as the score sheets show almost perfect scores in many cases. The bands were rated in seven categories: intonation, tone quality, technique, rhythmic accuracy, interpretation and general musicianship, balance, and other factors such as stage presence, posture, selection of music and appearance.

Here are some of the comments written by the judges during the Culver band performances:

"Fine job, in general. Good technique. This is a BLOWING band."

(About Mr. Byfield) "Best detail work of the day. Fine directions.

You really follow the score. Students are fortunate in having a fine teacher."

"One of the outstanding jobs in the state in teaching. Congratulations on a fine band. I hope the community appreciates your work. Best band of the day, so far."

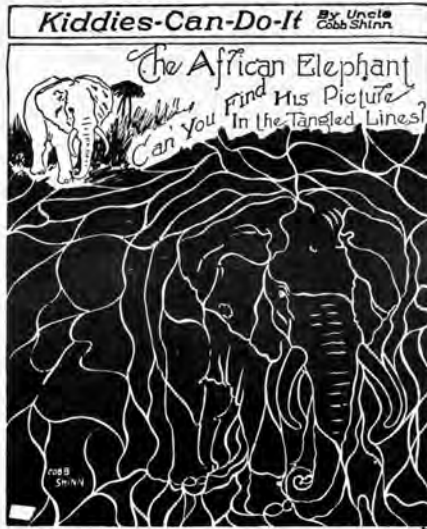

"A fine band. ... General good sound and indication of a fine group of players. I hope you continue working hard because you should be GREAT in a couple of years. Enjoyed your performance."

"Your band looks good - posture, alertness, hand positions, uniforms. You have a fine director—good musician and pays close attention to the many fine details of band performance. You are fortunate. ... Fine job, Well disciplined group."

"Fine appearing group. General musicianship is very impressive! A VERY FLEXIBLE YOUNG BAND showing marvelous training. Keep up this fine work through high school and you will experience tremendous musical rewards. Very fine band style. Congratulations to a FINE BAND and FINE DIRECTOR!!!"

Do you notice any difference between this elephant and the ones you have seen at the circus? The African elephant is much larger than those of India. Also the African elephant has very large ears you will notice by the picture. The reason we never see the African elephant in our zoos is that he is very hard to tame. Now take your pencil and see if you can blot out all the unnecessary lines and have just the picture of the elephant.
