Developers Present Petitions

The Culver Town Hall was filled with approximately 35 citizens Tuesday night for a special meeting of the Culver Board of Zoning Appeals. Robert Osborn, Sr., Ray Mannis, and Don Hamilton, members of the board, conducted a public hearing on two petitions for variance of zoning restrictions.

The first petition was presented by Charles Rhodes of Osceola. Mr. Rhodes owns several rental houses in town and the Park 'n Shop grocery. He stated that he had had several recent requests by potential housing renters that could not be filled because of the shortage in housing in Culver. He proposed to build a duplex unit to house two families on a lot which is zoned for single-family dwellings. Discussion from the floor followed Rhodes' presentation of pictures and building plans. Some discussion with Culver Zoning Commissioner Bill Allen revealed that the lot was probably smaller than the 7500 square foot minimum for multiple family dwellings, although a survey had not been made and no one was sure of the exact size of the lot. A group of adjacent property owners presented the board members with a petition against the proposed variance.

The second petition was presented by Charles Arch, who represented Heartland Homes of Bremen. This company proposes to erect two buildings measuring 40 feet by 32 feet, each housing four one-bedroom apartments. The building is funded by the Farm and Home Administration (FHA) and would involve an investment by the developer of about $100,000. FHA approval has already been granted, and state offices have approved the plans. If approved, construction of the units would take approximately two months.

NATIONAL POLITICS AND OTHER THINGS

I have been thinking about Nelson Rockefeller and his nomination by our new president to fill the post of vice president.

Well, there has been a lot of talk about this man and his wealth, and it got me thinking. To judge a man by his wealth is about as superficial as judging him by his religion, sex or skin color. If we have to base our opinions of any man or woman on these external indicators, surely we have too little information upon which to make any informed judgment at all.

Luckily, I think we have much more information about "Rocky."

First, we know that one of our largest states saw fit to trust him for fifteen years as their governor. From what I heard here in Indiana, he did pretty well at that post, too. I know he was chosen for special tasks by all of the last five or more presidents, from both parties.

I know that some people call him too liberal, some too conservative. The truth is probably somewhere in between, meaning that he is not doctrinaire, but chooses different positions according to the situation, and not in ignorance of the facts or perspective.

Of course the man is wealthy. Very wealthy. Of course the upbringing in a wealthy environment changes the outlook of a person. But I'm not at all sure that has anything to do with this man's ability to serve the country, or understand the problems of others.

Besides, can anyone honestly believe that that man could be bribed?

From a tactical point of view, President Ford may have been most astute in choosing Rockefeller to be vice president. This eliminates one, perhaps THE, front-runner for the nomination for Republican candidate for president in 1976.

Whatever the criticisms of Mr. Rockefeller, I think he is as qualified as any vice president we will have had for years and years, and he was a good choice. And I'm not even a republican!

CHANGING THE SUBJECT, Dominicus Hatten, of Hatten Motors, is very ill, and I was thinking about his contribution to our community the other day as I looked over old bound volumes of The Citizen. Known as "Min" to his friends, Mr. Hatten began his long career in motor vehicles as a dealer of the Maxwell automobile, like Jack Benny drives. Later he became a Chrysler dealer, in half of the present Ford garage on Lake Shore Drive. Many local families have traded exclusively through Hatten Motors, and helped finance

JUNIOR WOMEN TO HOLD BIKE RODEO

The Makinukkee Junior Women's Club, with the assistance of VFW Post 6919, will hold a Bike Rodeo, Registration and Inspection Saturday, September 7th, starting at 10:00 a.m. in the Culver Community High School parking lot.

Culver police chief Richard Woodward will inspect and register the bikes, which will have to meet certain requirements to pass the inspection. Among other requirements, all bicycles are required to have a front light, brakes in good working order, and a bell or horn. V.F.W. members will then apply special reflector tape to the bicycles to make them more easily visible at night, and the Junior Women will give triangular reflectors for use on the backs of bicycle seats.

The cyclists will then be divided into Junior and Senior divisions, and rodeo competition in each class will begin. Two tracks, one for each division, will be laid out, with competition in several bicycle maneuvers taking place. Prizes will be awarded to first and second place winners in each division.

The purpose of the yearly inspection and competition is to increase cyclists' awareness of the importance of observing bicycle safety rules. These will be emphasized during Saturday's events.

Residential Area?

Culver has a housing shortage. There is an especially critical need of housing for the young and the old, both of which groups require economical housing, and are often on fixed or limited budgets.

Continuing national inflation of the economy, and the related high interest rates for mortgage and home loan money, keep families from building their "dream house" at this time.

Strident opposition was voiced at a meeting of the Culver Board of Zoning Appeals Tuesday evening to two petitions for variance from Culver's Zoning Ordinance.

Those petitions concerned a request that would allow the erection of multiple family housing units on presently vacant property on the north side of town.

One petitioner was a landowner who has several other rental properties in town, and his idea is to erect a duplex rental unit on a vacant lot at the corner of College Avenue and Lakeview Street.

The second petition was presented by a company wishing to erect two buildings, each with four one-bedroom apartments, at a location on College Avenue between Lake Shore Drive and Forest Place. This location is also vacant.

Petitions from adjoining property holders were also presented at the meeting in opposition to the requested variances.

In serious, although sometimes unnecessarily hostile, discussion, those opposed explained why such housing would not equal or enhance the value of their own property.

The consensus among those opposed seemed to be that there was nothing wrong with multiple unit housing, but not in their neighborhood. One person present stated she was in favor of apartments, certainly, but "out of the residential area."

Building activity in Culver has been stagnant for months, with the exception of lake property renovations. Now, with some people interested in providing housing for citizens who want to stay in Culver, but can't find housing, we are in danger of scouring this money away.

We need this housing. We need the increased assessments that will help finance our government. We need quality developers, such as these seem to be, to look upon Culver with the favor they have shown other area cities, such as Plymouth and Bremen.

Either Culver grows, or it dies. It may be that the two locations discussed at Tuesday's meeting are not the best. The decision, however, should be based upon a higher standard than the quality of welcome to be expected from adjoining property owners.

We suggest the good of Culver transcends the need to preserve vacant lots.

Through The Eyes Of A - WHAT?!
(Oh, Thank Goodness! I Thought You Said A TEENAGER!)

WELL, SCHOOL'S UNDER WAY again, and I thought that this was as good a time as any to give all you school kids a short newspaper course in the art of teacher-bugging, entitled "Blub-a-dub-a-bub-b." This is what the teachers should be saying after just three short weeks, if you use this Handy Dandy Ding-a-ling Plan. This plan is now going to be related to you for the small sum of a promise to use it on at least two teachers. In this plan, first of all, you must begin correctly. You must make an impression when you first walk in the door. This can be done satisfactorily by grabbing the teacher's favorite vase, throwing it over your left shoulder, bouncing it off the heel of your foot and up onto your neck. From here you let it slide off onto the rim of the wastebasket, letting it teeter tediously. Snatch it off at the last moment with a piece of freshly chewed gum on the end of a piece of raveled thread. From this you fling it across the room and skillfully land it on a tilypad in the middle of the fish tank (right side up, of course). After this exhibition, you calmly sit down and drop off to sleep.

The next step would be to interrupt the teacher's reading of the play "The Tempest" by saying, "...and they lived happily ever after." Then spit a wad of gum into the air, bounce it off two walls, and land it so as to dot the "i" on your friend's test paper. Lastly you use four triple negatives in a row, and call one of the parts of the body by a four letter word in biology. This plan, used all over the world, is guaranteed to work. If you need further proof of this, look at how all the so-treasured teachers end up - as college professors!!

A tennis tournament will begin at Centennial Park on Saturday at 9:00 a.m. Competition will include men's singles, women's singles, men's doubles, and mixed doubles. There is an entry fee.

the nature of potential renters. Questions were asked repeatedly whether the rent of tenants would be subsidized. Mr. Arch stated that this particular FHA plan did not involve subsidies, but did limit access to the apartments to families with a maximum adjusted salary level of $14,400.

Arch also stated that the design was intended to save most of the trees on the property, and the developer would install sidewalks.

Mr. Osborn, speaking for the board, thanked those present for coming and contributing ideas. He stated that their feelings would be given "good consideration." He pointed out that these are vacant lots and Culver needed more housing.

Bob Rust, one of the interested landowners, commended the board for its fair hearing of all sides, and urged the board to make a decision based upon not just a general need in Culver for housing, but upon the question of whether this was the proper location to fill that need.

The board then adjourned to "executive session" to discuss this situation. In doing so, Mr. Osborn pointed out that this was the first time in his memory where the board had failed to make a decision during the same meeting a petition was presented. He promised the final decision would be released to the public as soon as possible.

the expansion in 1937 to the larger building behind our house and across from the grade school. "Min" and his wonderful wife Mary have also kept up a garden in recent years that is larger than some truck farms I know. They are wonderful people, and I hope that he clears this latest medical hurdle in fine style. He was moved Tuesday from Parkview Hospital to Miller's Merry Manor in Plymouth, which I hope is a sign that he is well on the road to recovery.

TWO MEN were driving down the road when the driver asked the passenger to look out of the window to check if the turn signals were working.

He stuck his head out. The other asked if they were working. He answered, "Yep, nope, yep, nope, yep, nope...."

SCHOOL started this week and the town looks strange. You can walk around downtown without tripping over bicycles. You can sit down at Mr. T's to have a two dip indiscretion. The school buses run in the morning and park afterwards on the streets while drivers drink coffee. Pretty soon the band will be marching around making noise with the birds in the dew drops. No school bells, school slates, book straps or lunch pails that look like pails, but school goes on.

Be sure to look out for students leaving and going to school. Our town is small enough - preserve our population.

FANTASTIC CONSTRUCTION continues in Culver this season despite the gloomy national economy and the related inflation of money. A new lumber yard and supply house at Edgington's, a new facade and treatment of Bennett's Plumbing and Heating, new houses at several points in town, new brick work and paint on Paul Snyder, Sr.'s building housing the Culver Auto Supply Corporation and the Culver News Agency, renovation of the apartments over the Quality Grocery and Mr. T's Rexall, and the possibility of some multiple unit housing on the north side of town are all examples.

Be seeing you.

PASSES RESOLUTION TO JOIN MACOG

The Culver Town Board passed a resolution at its meeting on Monday, August 26th, to join the Michiana Area Council of Governments (MACOG). At the meeting, the board also approved the 1975 Salary and Appropriations Ordinances as published. The board will seek further approval from the County and State Boards of Tax Commissioners.

In other business, the board received another proposal for painting the town water tower. It was noted that funds are available from the water depreciation fund for this purpose.

The Town and Township received approval for additional appropriations to make use of federal revenue sharing fund monies for a new fire truck. Public advertisements for bids will soon be placed.

The annual Actual Use Report was published last week in the Citizen, and is on file at the Clerk's Office for inspection. Everett Easterday explained the need for major repairs on several water pumps in the town system. The cost of the repairs is estimated at over $2,000. Money for the repairs is available from the water depreciation fund, and the board approved the repairs.

In closing, the board announced that, because of the Labor Day holiday, there would be no meeting on the first Monday in September. The board will meet at the regular time on September 16th.

Ebersole-Funk

Mr. and Mrs. Dexter E. Funk

The South View Church of Christ, South Bend, was the scene of the August 17th wedding which united Mary Ebersole, Route 7, Plymouth, and Dexter E. Funk, Route 2, Culver. The 10:30 a.m. ceremony was performed by Rev. Sherman Nichols, with Mr. Robert Knowlton assisting. Nuptial music was played by Mrs. Lloyd Hennen.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Walter R. Ebersole, the bride wore an a-line gown made of lace brocade trimmed in contrasting lace. Her bouquet was a white orchid surrounded by baby's breath.

Miss Elaine Mendenhall of Chillicothe, Ohio, served as maid of honor. She was attired in a blue whipped cream dress with white dots.

Bob Knowlton performed the duties of best man, and Jim Holderread and Bill McCarty were ushers.

A reception in the church basement followed the ceremony, with approximately 100 guests in attendance.

The new Mrs. Funk is a graduate of John Glenn High School, Walkerton, and attended Great Lakes Bible College in Lansing, Michigan. Her husband is a graduate of Culver Community High School. They are at home at Route 7, Plymouth. Both are employed in Bremen.

LOCAL VFW AUXILIARY
"FILLS THE HIVE"

As the Ladies Auxiliary, VFW 6919, Culver met last Monday evening at the Post Home with Mrs. Roger Wise, President, in charge, the Membership Chairman, Carol Surber, outlined the program for 1975 membership. The theme will be "Fill the Hive in '75," and was prompted by the name of the State President, "Jimmy" SWEET. The State Membership Chairman, Mrs. John Etsinger of Lawrence, will use the honeybee motif in her program, with the northern area of the state being known as the "Buckwheats," the central area the "Sweet Clovers," and the south the "Orange Blossoms." Contest awards will be available to the "earlybird" dues-payers in the local unit as was outlined by the Chairman.

Cancer Aid and Research Chairman Mrs. Clyde Hickman stated that the "W.O.C." (Wipe Out Cancer) buttons are available now. Proceeds from the sales will be sent to the National Ladies Auxiliary Cancer Aid and Research Fund for aid to Auxiliary members through cancer grants and through grants to research centers, made by the National organization. The National Cancer Aid and Research Director for the coming year is Mrs. Thurman Maurer, a Past State of Indiana Ladies Auxiliary President.

Community Activity Chairman

Mrs. Ted Strang stated that Marshall County Bloodmobile visits would be held as follows: October 4th-Bourbon, November 25th-Bremen, December 30th-Plymouth and March 24, 1975-Culver.

Rehabilitation Chairman Mrs. Luke Liette reported sending birthday cards to several members having August birthdays, and get-well cards to Mrs. Joe Morrison, Tina Shepard, and Leroy Davis.

In the absence of the Youth Activity Chairman, President Wise reported that the Post will hold its annual Lite-A-Bike promotion in the near future. Bikes are taped with luminescent tape to enable motorists to more readily see the cyclists.

President Wise also stated a need for hospital gowns for the Indiana Soldiers and Sailors Home at Lafayette. These can be made from discarded men's white shirts. Anyone wishing to donate these items may contact Mrs. Wise.

Several ideas for projects to aid voters in the coming election in November were discussed, and Chairman Mrs. Jack Washburn will outline these at subsequent meetings.

VFW National Home Chairman Mrs. Daniel Norwick stated that the Auxiliaries of the Third District will furnish home-made cookies for Indiana Day at the Home on September 8th. All cookies are to be brought to the Post Home in Culver by 9:00 p.m. on Friday, September 6th. They should be packed in airtight cans, or wrapped well in cellophane wrap and aluminum foil.

Discussion was held on the need for volunteer workers at the Friday night suppers held by the Auxiliary. Anyone wishing to donate a few hours each month is asked to call either President Wise or Mrs. Ted Strang.

The membership drawing was won by Mrs. Leonard Repp and the Mystery Prize by Mrs. George Lemar.

The next meeting will be held on September 16th with Mrs. Lemar, Mrs. Washburn, Mrs. Philip Scruggs, Mrs. Kenneth Kemple, and Mrs. Kenneth Tasch serving on the social committee.

Members were reminded that there will be no meeting on the first Monday of September due to the Labor Day holiday.

THEY MAKE MUSIC FOR US...

SBSO IS AREA SYMPHONY

Using as its theme "Grow To Metro," the South Bend Symphony Orchestra this year is conducting an awareness campaign to make the entire north-central region of the state aware of the group's activities.

The fund drive for the symphony's 42nd season has recently begun.

Since its founding, the South Bend Symphony has enjoyed continuous growth and increasing support from this area. Known as a professional orchestra that produces a consistently excellent season, the group has been responsible for the presentation of nationally known musicians as guest artists.

Recent changes in the funding sources for arts organizations have proven to be a barrier for the growing symphony. Funding is most available for orchestras which qualify as "Metropolitan Orchestras." To fall into that class a group must have an annual budget over $100,000. The South Bend-based group has remained in the $75,000 to $90,000 area in recent seasons. So, despite many of the financial problems faced by the larger orchestras, the symphony is classed by funding groups with the smaller community orchestras which do not employ professional musicians and often have smaller schedules.

This season's goal is to encourage growth of the symphony by acquainting other surrounding communities with the fact that the South Bend Symphony is "their orchestra, too."

This season will open on October 26th, when the guest artist will be Joan Browning, pianist. The concert will include Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 17, and the fiery Symphony No. 5, by Shostakovich.

Later concerts will mark appearances by Richard and John Contiguglia, duo-pianists, the Cantilena Trio, Betty Allen, Mezzo-Soprano, and the South Bend Symphonic Choir.

Financial support of the South Bend Symphony Orchestra will earn contributors a pair or more of tickets, in addition to the satisfaction of supporting the arts in our area.

Categories for contributions include:

Patron $65 to $79, Sponsor $80 to $139, Sustainer $140 to $499, Benefactor $500 to $1,499, Special Contributor $1,500 to $2,999, and Major Contributor $3,000 and above.

A contribution under $140 will include two season tickets, and over that amount will include four season tickets.

All contributors will be listed in the six concert programs, unless requested by the contributor.

More information and symphony brochures can be obtained by calling Tom Zoss at 842-2598, or by stopping at the Culver Citizen office at 114 South Main Street in Culver. Contributions can also be

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions - horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a circle around each letter of a word found in the puzzle then strike it off list. Circling it will show a letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over. They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.

Scholarship, which pays the complete fees and expenses for a graduate of a Marshall County high school for a nurse's education. The present recipient of the scholarship is Glenda Sue Ames of Bourbon, who will complete her work this winter. She will receive both her bachelor's degree and her nurse's certificate from Indiana University.

This fall the counselors of the various Marshall County high schools will be notified that a new recipient will be chosen in the spring. The candidates for this scholarship must present a transcript of their grades, a recommendation from their principal or counselor, an essay treating of their reasons for undertaking a nurse's career, and appear before a board composed of a professional nurses' educator, a school educator, and a member of the medical profession.

Col. E. Kemp Moore, Director of Nurses' Education of the Marshall County Forty and Eight, says that senior girls interested in nurses' education should consult with their counselors concerning the scholarship.

Weekend Traveler

Visit Conner Prairie Settlement

The Conner Prairie Pioneer Settlement near Noblesville offers travelers a peaceful and serene atmosphere of unhurried rural life as well as an abundance of historical artifacts, restorations and replicas of Indiana's earliest pioneer days.

The 19th century mansion and settlement of fur trader William Conner, after whom the settlement was named, is located six miles north of Interstate 465 and Allisonville Road, three miles south of Noblesville.

The Conner Prairie Pioneer Settlement is a totally authentic living museum area featuring both original and restored buildings of the early 19th century when William Conner lived and worked in the fur trading business. The 1810 trading post, Conner's 1823 mansion that once overlooked the prairies of grain, and the 1850 schoolhouse built by the community have been restored in such a way that the frontier way of life as well as structural appearances have been preserved.

Visitors enter the Conner Prairie Settlement through the Museum. Among the various artifacts housed here is a 150-year-old dugout canoe that was excavated in 1964 near the present Conner Settlement. Also on display are exhibits depicting frontier farming, the life of William Conner and a collection of historic farm implements that was a gift presented to the Museum by the Purdue Agricultural Alumni Association.

Guided tours of the entire settlement begin departing from the Museum at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday through Saturday and 1:00 p.m. Sundays. The tour winds along the visitor's trail that leads to the Pioneer Barn with its covered wagon and other implements of the period. The adjoining Pioneer Cabin is typical of the dwelling in which Conner and his Indian wife lived.

Further down the visitor's trail is the Trading Post very similar to trading posts of pioneer days that carried on thriving trade in fur and household goods in the early 1800's.

From the Trading Post the tour continues on to the Still House where corn grown on the 200 acre horseshoe prairie was once distilled into whiskey.

The next two stops are the Spring House where cold water flowing through troughs cooled perishable foods, and the Loom House, equipped as it would have been in Conner's day.

The visitor's tour ends in the William Conner home. Built in 1823, the elegantly decorated Conner mansion was the first brick building to be constructed in the New Purchase territory.

Throughout the tour the Conner Prairie guides (all dressed in clothing of the period) explain how the early settlers made do with the materials available to them.

While sitting in the old schoolhouse where books were few, the guides teach visitors to chant the sing-song lessons youngsters used to recite in days past.

On the special Pioneer Craft Days, conducted each year during the second week of June, visitors may watch the old arts of dyeing, candlemaking, basket weaving, and dulcimer playing.

In addition to the Pioneer Craft Days, Conner Prairie offers an authentic old fashioned July 4th celebration and traditional Christmas festivities (held three week-ends prior to Christmas).

Dedicated to recreating early Hoosier life, the Conner Prairie Pioneer Settlement is currently making arrangements to add a working village area, to the settlement.

The working village will include a blacksmith, leatherworker, a potter, a woodworker, and a doctor. Visitors will marvel at the total self-sufficiency of frontier life reflected by these workers plying their trades.

For a truly enjoyable and educational vacation trip, pack a picnic lunch and travel to Conner Prairie. The Settlement is open to the public from the first Tuesday in April through the last Sunday in October.

Guided tours of the building begin at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday through Saturday; 1:00 p.m. Sundays. The last tour leaves the Museum at 3:00 p.m. and the Settlement closes daily at 5:00 p.m.

GOV. BOWEN DECLARES SAFETY WEEK IN INDIANA

During the next few weeks, nearly a million Indiana children will be starting school, many of them for the first time.

To promote the safety of the youngsters, the Chicago Motor Club-AAA is conducting its 27th annual School's Open Safety Campaign. The program is designed primarily to remind motorists that children soon will be walking to and from school again.

Governor Otis Bowen has joined the Club's safety campaign by designating the week of September 3rd through 9th as "School's Open Safety Week" in Indiana.

In his proclamation, Governor Bowen noted that the first week of school is a particularly dangerous period for those school children who will be starting to school for the first time and for those who might have forgotten their safety lessons over the summer months.

Governor Bowen said, "During the school year all citizens are urged to assist the 40,000 School Safety Patrol Boys and Girls in Indiana to help protect our greatest asset, the children of our state, in going to and from school."

Motor Club President Gerald W. Cavanagh welcomed the support of Governor Bowen and urged all motorists to be extremely cautious when children are near the street or road not only during the first few back-to-school days, but throughout the entire year.

Cavanagh emphasized that this cooperation by motorists has been a vital factor in reducing by 50 per cent the accident rate for school children since the Chicago Motor Club first founded the lifesaving School Safety Patrol in 1920.

Noting the Patrol's outstanding record of more than 19,000 lives saved in the Motor Club's Indiana and Illinois territory during the first half century of service, Cavanagh urged parental responsibility for child pedestrian safety.

"Parents must educate their children in the ways of traffic safety especially in the fall when many of the youngsters are attending school for the first time," he said.

As part of this year's School's Open Safety Week campaign, the Club is again mailing thousands of traffic safety posters to school and municipal officials.

PEEPS INTO PEOPLE

Correspondence between Thomas A. Hendricks and Cole Porter indicate that the 95-page Forward, evidently for an enlarged manuscript which probably never was written, was finished in the Fall of 1944. Tom left sports writing and radio broadcasting and was secretary of the Indiana State Medical Association for many years, and Cole was living in the Waldorf-Astoria Towers in New York City. Both letters seemed quite formal considering their close association as youths.

CHAPTER XII - MOONLIGHT, A PIANO, AND DES

Although Cole had desecrated the sacred piano stool of the "Peerless" by sitting on it in his wet bathing trunks, only a few years later he found himself elected to occupy that throne by unanimous plebiscite. No longer did Captain Crook menace him, for he had become Cole's most ardent admirer, in fact his chief clique.

"When that kid plays the piano everyone rides on the steamer just like it didn't cost them ten cents an hour. But they don't look at the scenery no longer - they just listen to him play and sing. At least, they call it singin', but to me it ain't no more than just talkin' to music. But some of the songs are awfully funny, and sometimes awfully pretty."

This did the master of the "Peerless" voice his deep appreciation of Cole's virtuosity.

In remarkably few summers we found ourselves not just kids any longer, but really grown-up. Cole was sixteen; I was fifteen. Cole had been sent East to prep school, and my family had moved to Indianapolis. We continued to go to the lake each summer and usually Cole was there, either visiting me, or some of his Peru friends. Suddenly and most surprisingly we found that turtle-hunting wasn't the greatest thing in life. Fishing was just as much fun as ever, but somehow girls became sort of essential for a good time - even for a good sail - that is, of course, excepting a heavy wind when we were out to give my boat, the "Araby, the works.

Soon, too, we found that the Academy dances were sort of fun - and I guess it was because the girls were there, too. The sense of rivalry for the attention of girls grew keener each summer. I could hold my own with Cole pretty well during the daytime; I could swim faster than Cole and I played winning tennis. Cole didn't care for tennis at all. I was one of the best "kid" sailors, having been taught how to jibe a catboat almost as soon as I knew how to swim the crawl. So during the daytime I could compete with Cole. But when night came it was different - at moonlight sailing I performed okay, but sooner or later Cole would get in the vicinity of a piano and it was all over for the rest of us. Gone were my "gals," gone were all gals - Cole had them all under their skin.

"Oh, Cole, sing us 'The Spaniard Who Blighted My Life' just once more," was their fervent plea.

Cole ran through the whole field of popular songs, starting with the song hits of the current season and working back to Gilbert and Sullivan and sometimes to the old English ballad drinking songs.

As the roads were sandy and the motor cars of those days uncertain and temperamental, we went to the dances in boats, most often the faithful old "Peerless." Going to the dances Cole played the piano just to pass the time, but it was on the trip back that he REALLY played. Everything was still except the piano and the pounding of the engine, and Cole's one-toned voice. Captain Crook was right - Cole's voice was terrible - merely a toneless talking affair; but the entire energy of his slight frame, his keen eyes, his changing facial expression and his sly, humorous asides made his act. After the first song the crowd and the rest of the evening was his.

These open-air recitals took stamina, but if anyone had told me that they took more energy than a five-set tennis match, or a mile swim, I would have said he was crazy. How all that power was generated in his one-hundred twenty pound frame is a wonder.

As he played he had to get his rhythm paced so it could compete above the pounding and throbbing of the engine. Thus he played steadily from the time we left the Academy pier until we circled the lake and landed at our home dock, often at two o'clock in the morning. By that time not only did the youngsters crowd around the piano as they do now when some favorite does a special solo hit at a jam session, but the older folks had boarded the boat at the various landings just to hear Cole play. There's always plenty of good musicians at any summer resort - many of them at Maxinkuckee - some who played the piano better than Cole, but Cole was a natural showman, and he should have been, for he had seen the best there was in showmanship from his earliest days in Peru. And although showmanship may take on a form for the New York stage different from that of the circus ring, basically and fundamentally it's all one and the same - and Cole had never forgotten, never underestimated and never neglected that fine art.

Unconsciously, Cole learned to accommodate his piano playing to the steady, lunging rhythm of the "Peerless" as it drove full speed ahead, reversed, or slow-timed according to the proficient directions of Captain Crook.

Plenty has been written about the unusual timing of Cole Porter tunes. But there isn't anything unusual or mysterious about them at all to us who heard Cole play on the old "Peerless" piano. Critics may say Cole's music was influenced by the New York traffic roar, or by the ballet of the opera in Paris. But don't forget that night after night, summer after summer, Cole hammered out his rhythm by the tempo which that master

Captain Crook set for the "Peerless" engine. That is where Cole got the heavy accented phrasing and that powerful punch in his music which is hard to associate with a person of such slight physique.

Ralph DePalma (the 500-mile race driver) once said of Cole Porter, "If he could drive an automobile with the same heavy foot that he plays the piano, what a race driver he'd be!"

As long as I can remember, that Cole Porter fellow always had a high achievement aptitude rating with the gals.

But from the day we sat eating our petit dejeuner under Ben Wallace's iron deer until his last year at Yale, Des Bears was the only girl for whom he really cared.

No matter how beautiful and charming women applauded him, no matter how many hero-worshipped, and made over him, it was always Des, that Cole looked whenever he said, "Come, Come, I Love You Only," or whatever happened to have been the sentimental song of the day. As Des grew from a fun-loving, round-faced kid into a young lady, she not only had looks, she had intelligence. Although Cole was always an individualist and a non-conformist, even at one time appearing in downtown Peru, with an Indian body-servant who followed him wherever he went, bowed and addressed him as "Sahib," Des usually was able to keep him within the bounds of decorous behavior as marked out by Miami County custom.

©1974 by Robert Kyle
Continued Next Week

LAST WEEK BEFORE dusk a hot air balloon hovered over Lake Maxinkuckee. Coming from the south it skimmed trees near the John Burkhardt residence on the south, finally dipped down off the W.O. Osborn residence, bounced several times and took off for the north. Many boats saw it close-up but none got its number to trace it through the Federal Aviation Authority.

The free balloon came from Peru, piloted by Dave Bobbe, a salesman for the balloon under charter of Bob Listenberger, proprietor of the Holiday Inn at Plymouth, who hopes to learn to operate it and buy it. More will be described next week by Lake Water, who once upon a hoax created coverage in 1923 of an International Balloon race that started from the center field of the Indianapolis Speedway and both entertained and terrorized people over five states.
